

Who's Behind Propaganda from Box 27103?

By BEN ZINSER

From Post Office Box 27103, Hollywood 27, comes a flood of inflammatory leaflets dealing with local, state and national issues. Some of the mail is anti-Semitic.

Much of it is unsigned.

Pamphlets from Box 27103 have been received in Long Beach by members of the City Council, civic leaders and the citizens at large at times when controversial issues have been under discussion.

Such propaganda made its most recent appearance here when the council was considering establishment of mental health services under the Short-Doyle Act. Eight pages of arguments carried this message: A mental health program means Communist domination.

Who is behind P. O. Box 27103?

THE PERSON WHO SIGNED for the box is Mrs. Phyllis M. Seldon, a gray-haired woman who lives in a tiny apartment at the rear of 4936 Marathon St.—near the corner of Melrose and Vermont in Los Angeles.

Occupation: writer. Politics: registered member of the Constitution Party, an extreme rightist group. Registration number: M299667.

Mrs. Seldon also is a member of the Committee for the Preservation of the Constitution. This group uses P. O. Box 27103 as its mailing address.

Last August the Committee for the Preservation of the Constitution distributed a reprint of an article entitled "How Will the Right Wing Win?" Its author: Lt. Gen. Pedro A. Del Valle, USMC (ret.), an officer of the Defenders of the American Constitution.

Del Valle is extremely active in the anti-Semitism movement. Among other things he contends that the Marshall Plan was written by a Zionist.

Also last year P. O. Box 27103 distributed a piece of paper known as the Goff affidavit. It said in part:

"While a member of the Communist Party I attended a Communist underground training school. . . . We discussed thoroughly the fluoridation of water supplies and how we were using it in Russia as a tranquilizer in prison camps. . . . The leaders of our school felt that if it could be introduced into the American water supply it would bring about lethargy and keep the public docile during the encroachment of communism."

The anti-mental health literature currently going out of P. O. Box 27103 also quotes liberally from Goff.

And who is Goff?

He is Kenneth Goff, who distributes a booklet on "Brainwashing" from a box number in Englewood, Colo. In a recent column Drew Pearson had this to say about him:

"Goff is a joiner of extreme causes who jumped from the Communist Party to Gerald L. K. Smith's rabble-rousing 'Christian Party.'"

Mrs. Seldon says P. O. Box 27103's campaign against mental health programs is her own and has nothing to do with the Committee for the Preservation of the Constitution.

Reporter: "Mrs. Seldon, who did the research for your pamphlet on mental health?"

Mrs. Seldon: "I and someone else."

Reporter: "Who is the other person?"

Mrs. Seldon: "I'm sorry, but I can't say."

She says she has mailed out about 20,000 pamphlets assailing mental health programs. The literature has been distributed throughout the nation, she adds. She and "friends" are footing the bill.

"We have no funds," she says.

"People write in for our literature," she continues. "I don't have a mailing list."

Reporter: "Do you feel that the Short-Doyle Act is Communist-inspired?"

Mrs. Seldon: "I didn't say that."

ZSA ZSA AND GIFT . . . but the giver's just a 'wonderful friend.'

KIM NOVAK Can Afford Own Car

RAFAEL TRUJILLO JR. He Likes Hamburgers

ACTRESSES GIVEN CARS WORTH $28,300

Kim Admits Dating Trujillo, Finds He Has Wife; 6 Tots

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—that she is fond of Trujillo. Wide-eyed Kim Novak told of a budding romance with the gift-giving son of Dominican strong man Rafael Trujillo Saturday, then learned that the young man has a wife and six children.

"I am surprised," she admitted, "but I am sure the marriage is over. Why else would a man date me in public? I've been out socially with his sister and I've talked to his family on the telephone."

"No man in his right mind would do such things if he had a wife and six children."

THE WHOLE THING started when a Hollywood car dealer reported 29-year-old Rafael Trujillo Jr. had shelled out $28,300 for fancy foreign cars for Miss Novak, Zsa Zsa Gabor and himself. The big-spending Dominican lieutenant general has recently been a figure in Hollywood elite society while on leave from the U. S. Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

In New York, Miss Gabor cheerfully confirmed that Trujillo had given her the car as a Christmas gift.

Asked about a possible romance, the talkative Hungarian replied: "He's a wonderful friend and I'm very, very fond of him."

IN SAN FRANCISCO for a movie premiere, lavender-tressed Miss Novak commented: "If it was a gift, I'll send it back."

She added: "I can afford my own car and I have a car—a Corvette. I don't have room in my garage; in fact, I don't even have a garage. I've got a carport and there's only room for my car and my maid's car."

But even though she'll return the $8,700 Mercedes Benz, she admitted to a press conference

Reuther Offers to Arbitrate

DETROIT (AP)—United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther Saturday offered to submit 1958 auto-industry-contract bargaining to arbitration.

Reuther said the 600,000 production workers at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler would work past the May 29 (GM) and June 1 (Ford-Chrysler) contract-termination dates.

HE SAID the union would subject to member approval take the present contract's annual wage improvement of 6 to 7 cents an hour on June 1 while the arbitrators were deciding a new contract.

There was no immediate reply from the Big Three on this offer.

Reuther made the offer in a letter sent to Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) and to the heads of the Big Three auto firms. Reuther charged the auto companies with waging "a cold war of propaganda."

10,000 Cheer Nixon at Quito Ball Game

QUITO, Ecuador (AP)—Vice President Nixon rode through the streets of Quito Saturday and men took off their hats and bowed. Later 10,000 persons cheered "Viva Nixon" as he kicked off the first ball for a soccer game.

This was Nixon's second day in Ecuador and it was a far cry from the Communist-led See Story, Picture on Page A-3 stone-throwing and spit riot that erupted last Thursday at Lima, Peru.

Rocks thrown by students at San Marcos University in Lima grazed the vice president. In the wake of that demonstration he called off a scheduled round-table conference with students and labor leaders here.

BUT NIXON visited National University Saturday afternoon and was received with applause.

The vice president went to San Francisco Church, the first he has visited in South America, and afterward directed the chauffeur to drive to the university. University Rector Alfredo Perez Guerrero welcomed him with a recital of the university's need for medical training facilities.

Then Nixon sat down to a round-table with 23 students. Gilberto Contreras, a law student, said they had been surprised to hear that Nixon had canceled the school conference because of the Peruvian unpleasantness.

During the soccer match, Nixon was heard to remark "this is the best of all." He left the game after 45 minutes of the match between Aucas and Deportivo, two Quito teams.

Lockheed Workers Vote for Contract

Douglas Jets Refuel Aloft, Fly Atlantic

ALCONBURY, England (AP)—Eight Douglas B66B twin-jet light bombers flew the Atlantic nonstop Saturday from Hurlburt Air Force Base, Fla., to this U. S. 3rd Air Force Base in the English Midlands.

The swept-wing aircraft will join the 47th Bombardment Wing with headquarters at the Royal Air Force Station in Southrop. Twenty more B66B Destroyers are to arrive today and Monday.

The eight jet bombers, capable of carrying nuclear weapons, were refueled twice over the Atlantic. They made the 4,500 miles in 10 hours and 20 minutes.

National Union Chiefs Opposed to Accepting

Brushing aside the pleas of their national union leaders, 8,000 Lockheed aircraft workers approved a new contract offer by the company Saturday and touched off a hot controversy among other negotiating union locals.

A count of secret ballots cast at a mass meeting of Lockheed employees in Hollywood Stadium showed 7,332 in favor of the two-year contract and 461 opposed.

A national representative of the International Association of Machinists immediately branded the contract as substandard and declared doubt that the offer will be accepted by aircraft workers at other companies now in negotiations.

IAM SPOKESMAN A. C. McGraw, who was greeted with loud boos when he urged Lockheed machinists to dump the company offer, said approval of this Lockheed California Division contract voted on Saturday won't be given by the national union until all Lockheed divisions are satisfied with it.

The same contract already has been rejected in Georgia, where 8,000 workers at the Marietta plant walked out on strike four days ago, McGraw said.

"We feel the negotiating committee was too anxious to take too little, too soon."

In addressing the crowd of union members before the vote, McGraw said:

"If you accept this proposal you will jeopardize our program to put maximum pressure on this industry, which is responsive only to pressure."

The stormy meeting raged for two hours before the vote was called, and several hundred angry members of the machinists' union walked out without casting ballots.

Knowland, Brown Argue Labor Issue

By MALCOLM EPLEY

OJAI—California's governorship candidates engaged in a dramatic debate on labor issues here Saturday night in their only primary campaign appearance on the same platform.

Although it merely reiterated previously expressed views, the warm exchange between Republican Sen. William F. Knowland and Democratic Atty. Gen. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown clearly demonstrated that labor reform is the hottest issue in disagreement in the governorship contest.

In their appearance before the Southern California United Press Editors group, Knowland again declared his firm support of "Right to Work" legislation proposed for the November ballot, and Brown opposed it.

ALTHOUGH NUMEROUS other issues were brought up in a question-and-answer session before the large group of editors, only labor questions struck fire.

Knowland told the editors he not only expects to serve four

Son of Red Skelton Dies From Leukemia

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Comedian Red Skelton's 9-year-old son Saturday night lost his valiant battle with leukemia.

The youngster, Richard, who would have been 10 on May 20, died at the UCLA medical center.

At his bedside were Skelton and his wife, Georgia. They had taken a room near their son's when the boy was admitted to the hospital last week.

Last summer Skelton took his wife, their daughter, Valentina, 11, and Richard on a world tour. Skelton said he wanted his son to see all the things he had read about.

RICHARD'S ILLNESS shook Skelton considerably. He curtailed many of his professional appearances to spend time with the boy.

Richard's illness was diagnosed as leukemia, sometimes called cancer of the blood, in January of 1957. At the time, doctors gave the lad but a few months to live.

"There is always hope," said Skelton, and he packed his family off on the world tour. The Skeltons traveled to New York where Red pointed out to Richard the wonders of the Empire State Building and the Statue of Liberty.

They visited Washington and then left for Europe. There Skelton said the highlight of the trip was a personal audience in Rome with Pope Pius XII.

L.A.C. Says: Whose Property?

The local school system has suggested to the city that some 20 acres of the 885-acre El Dorado Park lands be used for a new junior high school for the area. Immediately city park commissioners charged it was a "give-away" program. The school system suggested that it would pay the city what the city paid for the land plus interest on the money so invested. Park commissioners and some city councilmen cried out that the land was now worth $20,000 an acre and the inference was there was something wrong with its being used by another local public body.

It raises the question as to just whose property is this? It is not the property of the park commission or even the city councilmen. It is the property of the taxpayers of Long Beach and those are the same taxpayers who pay for all the city's school costs. It is estimated the school system will have to pay close to $300,000 for a site in that area—along the San Gabriel River south of Carson. If it cannot arrange to use presently owned public land it has no alternative but to go out and buy more land at present high prices.

This 20 acres from the El Dorado Park land would call for some redesigning of the new golf course and parking. But it would put to work land which is paid for and which otherwise is going to be developed into tax-costing park space of which there is an additional 865 acres available. This is more than twice as much as all other developed park lands in the city.

In the Landscaping Magazine is a featured article by the Long Beach director of parks. It is titled "Designing and Building El Dorado—A Park With a $5,000,000 Stake." It is a glowing picture of the development of this acreage—most of which is on the east side of the San Gabriel River bordering on Orange County. It verifies the estimate recently made that it would cost $500,000 a year for the next 10 years just to develop this park. That is equal to over 7 per cent of the total property tax now collected by Long Beach. From records of all parks operated by Los Angeles County the cost of maintaining such a park would be over $1 million a year. This is denied by park commissioners—they say it will be woodland park. But the over-all cost figures of the county have never been refuted—or even questioned.

It is unsound for one local government body to pay high prices for land when another local body has land in abundance. We realize no public body will ever admit it has anything in abundance. That refers to tax money, number of employees, equipment or power. But the fact is taxpayers are facing terrific increases in taxes for all levels of local government. Each subdivision of government goes merrily on its way buying property and incurring additional obligations without checking to see what the over-all total comes to.

Two facts are clear. The school system must have 20 acres in the South Lakewood area for the school. The city has this large acreage available, of which the school would need less than 3 per cent. If the land is not used for the school, taxpayers must pay out another $300,000 for more land. Since all this land belongs to the same taxpayers it seems only reasonable that some arrangement be made for its use and the saving to taxpayers of any more land purchases.—L.A.C.

Kim Tells Romance With Dictator's Son

enclosed in most of a top hotel floor last winter while the youthful general went to Army school at nearby Ft. Leavenworth.

Hearing the news, Miss Novak told The Associated Press she was "surprised but not shocked."

She added: "That won't affect our relationship together. I'm sure the marriage must be over. Besides, we have not gotten to a serious stage yet. So far we are just dating and having fun."

FROM TRUJILLO came nothing. He had retired to a Bel-Air mansion he is renting in Los Angeles, having just had his adenoids removed in a Santa Monica hospital.

His personal secretary, Victor Sued, said in Los Angeles that Trujillo "is rather surprised at all the commotion." He said Trujillo is one of the wealthiest young men in the world and think anyone "has the right to spend his money in any manner he sees fit."

Sued said, "it is ridiculous to believe that there is any connection whatsoever between money which he spends for his personal life and any foreign aid of any kind... given his country."

SUED SAID Trujillo had intended to surprise Miss Novak with the car and that she should not know it was a gift until he had returned to Kansas in a few days to continue his studies in Ft. Leavenworth.

He said Miss Gabor had received her car as a Christmas present and that she had been a friend of the Trujillo family for several years.

Sued asserted Trujillo had given money to many American charities and last year his country gave $100,000 to the American Red Cross and this sum was equalled by his father, Generalissimo Trujillo.

SUED SAID Trujillo had asked him to tell the press that he had enjoyed his stay in California and hopes to return in the summer "but he will continue to spend his money as he wishes."

Sued shed no light on the status of Trujillo's family. "He is one of the finest men I have ever met," Kim remarked. "I hope he is not hurt by any of this publicity."

The incident might have international repercussions, however. It has been charged in Congress that the United States is spending a million dollars a year to support Rafael Jr.'s military education. The Dominican Republic, long dominated by his father, recently received $1,300,000 in aid from the United States.

Besides the glamor girl gifts, it was reported that he had a fleet of chauffeured limousines for his family in Kansas City and leased an elaborate ranch house near Ft. Leavenworth.

Lockheed Contract Accepted

was approved tentatively Tuesday by the local after four months of negotiations, was looked on by most aircraft-industry workers as almost certain to be accepted.

John Snider, head of IAM's Lockheed Local 727, urged members to vote in favor of the contract, telling them:

"We don't think this is a good contract, but it's the best we can grind out at this time."

Earlier, the Lockheed contract had been suggested as the key to settlement of negotiations at both North American Aviation and Douglas Aircraft plants, where contracts expired Wednesday.

Lockheed's California Division officials said wage raises and benefits of the new contract will be effective Monday, and paychecks issued to workers on May 23 will be from $7.20 to $12 higher for a full week's work. Present wages range from $1.63 to $2.75 an hour.

Burt C. Monesmith, vice president and general manager of the division, said retroactive pay dating back to March 10 will be distributed as soon as checks can be processed. The new contract binds 15,000 workers at California Division plants.

The two-year contract provides wage increases ranging from 18 to 30 cents an hour, an additional three-per-cent raise next year, and a cost-of-living clause tied to the rise and fall of the price index.

Meanwhile, union negotiators representing 45,000 Douglas workers still are deadlocked with management.

Saturday's negotiating session, before federal conciliator Harry Maholm ended in Los Angeles at 8:30 p.m. with a report of "no progress." Management will meet again with machinists' union representatives—spokesmen for workers at the Santa Monica and El Segundo plants—at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday.

The company will meet with United Auto Workers union negotiators at 9:30 a.m. Monday in the Biltmore Hotel to argue over a contract for the 16,000 employees at Douglas' Long Beach plant.

No negotiating session is scheduled today.

A company statement released by Douglas Aircraft Co. following the Lockheed vote said:

"Today's action by the Lockheed Union rank-and-file membership speaks for itself. It serves to emphasize that our latest offer to Douglas workers, which is equal to, or even better than, the offer accepted by Lockheed employees, is fair and just and should lead to a speedy and satisfactory settlement. 'We believe our employees, as well as the community, will welcome industrial peace in the interest of the economic welfare of all concerned.'"

Douglas workers at an air frame plant in Bell called a wildcat strike of their own at midnight Friday, and 50 IAM pickets paraded in front of the building. The international union described the strike as "an unauthorized walkout."

"The men just got fed up and tired of waiting," union spokesman McGraw said. "Our members are getting difficult to control."

THE PICKETS, members of Lodge 1578 of the IAM, later cut their force to six. But at sunset they still were carrying placards in front of the company's gates. The plant is normally closed on Saturday. It employs 200.

North American Aviation workers continued negotiations at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles Saturday through UAW Local 887. The local represents 15,500 workers at five plants, including the North American Missile Division plant at Downey and the two Autometrics Division plants at Downey and Compton.

years as governor of the State of California, but he hopes to be re-elected at the end of his first term.

This was in answer to a question suggesting that he is running for governor as a prelude to a bid for the presidency of the United States.

Answering another question, Brown and Knowland flatly disagreed on the abolishment of cross filing in California primaries. Knowland says he favors retaining the system to give voters a freedom of choice, but Brown says he feels it requires unnecessarily costly campaigns.

Newsmen who covered the unique debate reluctant to attempt judging a winner. Both candidates were "fast on their feet" and drew repeated rounds of applause—and most observers called it a draw.

"I wholeheartedly oppose the proposed initiative to outlaw the union shop," Brown said. "I believe the rights and responsibilities of employees in a private economy like ours are best defined and protected by the give-and-take of collective bargaining."

KNOWLAND SAID he feels that unions, in order to grow, prosper and function effectively, must induce employees to become members voluntarily and not by compulsion.

Brown said, "I frankly believe the labor issue pales beside California's need for new and long-term leadership, the need for vastly increased educational effort, our urgent water problem, the state's gathering fiscal crisis, the need to assure job opportunities for all."

MADRAS, Ore. (UP)—A private four-engine plane with only the pilot and copilot aboard made a forced landing on a plateau on the Warm Springs Indian Reservation in rugged central Oregon rimrock country about 6:40 p.m. Saturday after a fire broke out in a lower compartment.

The two men were not injured, state police at Bend said. They were identified as Leo Wassenberg, Inglewood, Calif., pilot, and Al Brooks, Glendale, Calif., the copilot.

POLICE SAID the plane was en route to the Philippines via Hawaii for "conditional sale" to Wilbur Kelsey of Manila. They said the plane was owned by Leo Aimonette, Newcastle, Wyo.

The aircraft was destroyed by flames after landing.

900 Rioters Kill and Burn in Raid on U.S. Information Agency in Tripoli

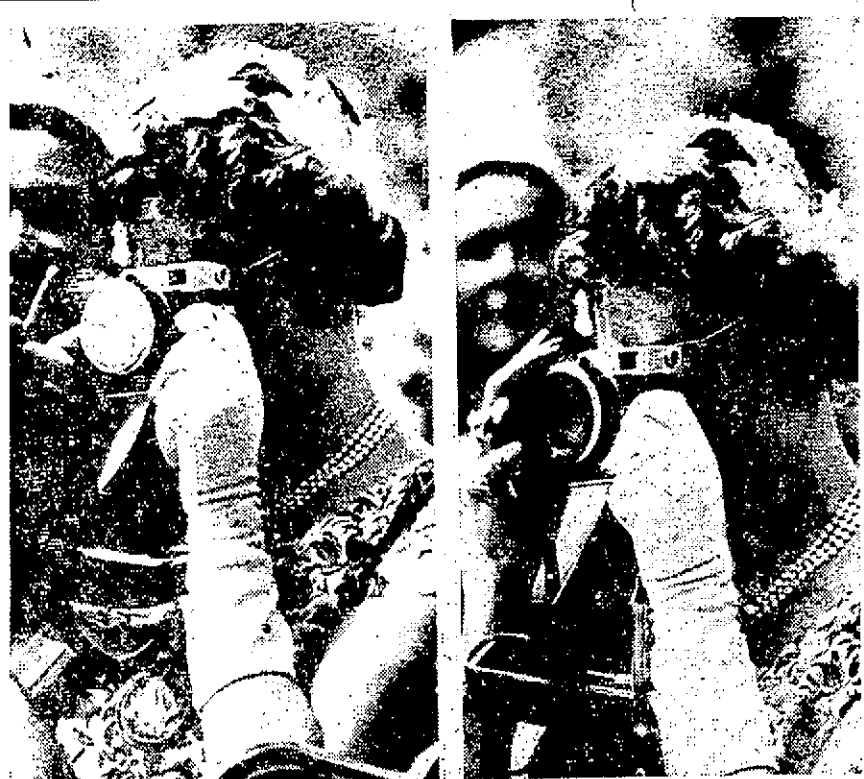

Western Foes Given Blame for Violence

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Rioters burned a U.S. information agency library in Tripoli—a seaport city in North Lebanon—Saturday in an outburst of violence that left several persons dead.

The rioters, said to number about 900, were stirred up by opponents of Lebanon's pro-western government. They turned stolen rifles on security forces when authorities rushed special units into the central district of the city to quell the disturbances.

Rioters and troops exchanged shots for an hour in a sharp street battle.

The number of persons killed was not announced officially. Reliable sources put the toll of 4 dead and 30 wounded. Other informants said more than a score of persons died and 100 were wounded, but there was no confirmation of that report.

POLICE DOUBLE GUARD

Photographer Hides in Jayne's Closet

CANNES, France (AP)—Shocked French police Saturday redoubled the guard at Jayne Mansfield's hotel after a man was found hiding in a clothes closet in her room.

The trespasser was discovered in his hiding place by Jayne's husband, professional strongman Mickey Hargitay. He was given the "bum's rush."

Police said the man was an Italian photographer who claimed he had invaded Miss Mansfield's suite in hopes of getting some "very exclusive" pictures of the bosomy Hollywood actress. He was not identified.

But police were no less alarmed than Hargitay, a former "Mr. America."

They doubled the guard around the hotel on a 24-hour basis and asked for one of France's tough Republican riot troopers to be stationed outside Miss Mansfield's door at all times.

"The reply is now being translated," State Department press office said, "and until it is translated and studied there will be no comment."

A woman with a peck of troubles, Mrs. Creel, 39, was crowned "Queen for a Day" on the television program of the same name last Thursday.

SHE WAS AWARDED a four-day trip to Myrtle Beach, S.C., a food freezer, a kitchen range, a mangle, watch, clothing, three portable television sets and 100 gallons of gasoline.

The gasoline she'll use to visit a 9-year-old mentally retarded daughter in a state hospital at Porterville. One of the TV sets goes to the daughter.

Another will go to Mrs. Creel's mother, who is in Camarillo State Hospital. The third will go to her husband, who is ill in Long Beach Veterans Administration Hospital.

SHE'S HOPING her husband will be released from the hospital before June 4 so they can take advantage of the Myrtle Beach trip.

Mrs. Creel, who also has a 14-year-old son and a 4-year-old daughter, says this is the first time she has ever won anything.

"Maybe our luck will change now," she said.

PROPAGANDA MILL ON JOB

Reporter: "What is your objection to mental health programs?"

Mrs. Seldon: "They are a long-range Communist plot to capture the American mind. There is a sinister power behind it all."

Reporter: "So?"

Mrs. Seldon: "Mental health means preparation for world citizenship. It is a changing of attitudes."

QUESTION: "Who is responsible for the Short-Doyle Act?"

Answer: "The Parent-Teachers Assn. and the State Department of Health. I don't want you to quote me but—"

Reporter: "I'd rather you'd not say anything you don't want to see in print."

Mrs. Seldon: "Well, I don't want you to quote me but you know, I'm sure, about all those foreign-born doctors in the Public Health Service."

Reporter: "You don't say."

Mrs. Seldon: "Yes, and as for the P.T.A., it's set up on an un-American and undemocratic plan. The members are forced to accept the P.T.A.'s national policy on any matter."

Reporter: "You said something about the Public Health Service."

Mrs. Seldon: "Yes, the public is led to believe that doctors favor mental health programs, but it is the Public Health Service that is pushing all this. Most doctors don't dare disagree, despite their personal convictions. Doctors are afraid to speak out unless they're retired or so famous that the AMA doesn't dare reprimand them."

Reporter: "Mrs. Seldon, were you responsible for much of the anti-fluoridation literature distributed in Long Beach last year?"

Mrs. Seldon: "Yes, I'm against the Salk vaccine, too. Any vaccine, for that matter. I've heard doctors say that vaccines are responsible for the big increase in heart trouble in the United States."

Question: "Who are the people working with you in distributing anti-mental health and anti-fluoridation literature?"

Mrs. Seldon: "I can't say. But it is a shifting and changing group, anyway."

IN HER PAMPHLET Mrs. Seldon attempts to link three mental-health advocates with subversive organizations. One of them is Dr. Wayne McMillen, professor in the University of Chicago School of Social Service Administration. McMillen, incidentally, will address the Long Beach Mental Health Assn. here Thursday.

A footnote in the pamphlet reads: "It is alleged that Wayne McMillen owes his appointment (to a mental health program) to Albert G. Feldman..."

Two other persons besides McMillen are attacked in the pamphlet. Both have Jewish names.

(McMillen has been the subject of a full field investigation and has been cleared by the U. S. Civil Service Commission regarding his loyalty. The clearance reads: "There is no reasonable doubt as to the loyalty of this person to the government of the United States.")

Reporter: "Are you distributing anti-Semitic literature?"

Mrs. Seldon: "I am not. If any anti-Semitic pamphlets are enclosed with my literature, I know nothing of it. Anti-Semitic literature is a Communist device to divide the public."

Reporter: "Anti-Semitic literature attacking Dr. Jonas Salk and others has been reported enclosed with your pamphlets. This literature is unsigned."

Mrs. Seldon: "I don't believe in not signing articles."

Tots Tattle on Their Moms

Mothers Rated as Tops in Picker-Upper Dept.

By RERT RESNIK

Mothers make the best vacuum cleaner picker-uppers.

It's a talent that particularly impresses Gregory C., 4, one of a group of Long Beach Day Nursery children questioned in a pre-Mother's Day interview.

The Nursery's three branches at 1548 Chestnut Ave., 2935 Spaulding St., and 495 E. Plymouth St., are primarily operated for the children of working mothers.

Her work in picking up the household vacuum cleaner is one of the things Gregory remembers best about his mother. "I can't pick it up," he said. "It's too heavy."

He also remembers a bird his mother used to have.

"My mommy left the bird cage open and... flew... she went," he said.

And a cat, Ming Toy, who got "run over" by a car.

"I look both ways when I cross the street and go to Cathy's house," he said. "Now they moved."

Ship Crews Flee in Fear of Bombing

SINGAPORE (AP)—The crews of two ships scheduled to sail for Java ports walked off their vessels Saturday for fear of being bombed by the Indonesian rebel air force.

The 42-man Chinese crew of the 3,300-ton Panama-registered Shona left the ship shortly before it was due to sail for Surabaya with 5,000 tons of rice.

A spokesman for the charterers, South Pacific and Trading Co., said the men were frightened by recent bombings and rebel warnings of more attacks against Java.

The other ship affected was the 533-ton Singapore-registered Giang Seng which was to sail with a general cargo from Europe and America for Java ports. The 30-man crew of Chinese and Malays demanded a danger allowance of 50 per cent of their wages and left the ship when the owners, the Heap Eng Moh Steamship Co., refused it.

mother works for the seals. Her mother actually is employed as a bookkeeper for a company near the harbor.

Sheryl planned to give her a birdie for Mother's Day to wake her up all the time.

"I'm going to buy some presents for Santa Claus and then he's going to buy some for mommy," Sheryl also is a great help around the house.

"I turn the stove on and stay away from it," she said. "I push the buttons on the toaster, but I don't touch it."

LACRIE B., 3, knows exactly what her mother does. "She makes money," says the child.

She added:

"In the morning, I went into my mommy's bed."

Randy H., 3, would like to buy his mother a trailer.

"What you got to do with a trailer is live in them," he said.

"I'm going to buy her a cation wagon and on the boat will be a trailer and there will be lots of keys—a treasure chest full of keys."

GREGORY D., 4, hadn't decided what his Mother's Day gift would be.

"A girl that I always like to play with, she's going to tell me what to buy cause she's a girl and I'm a boy," he said.

Paul C., 2, wanted to buy his mother two wristwatches.

"I want one, too," he said.

Paula M., 5, was going to get her mother a diamond ring.

Fiona D., 4, thought her mother would be happy with a box of chocolates.

"I call my mommy 'mommy'."

Fiona said. "She buys food, you know."

And the chances are she can pick up vacuum cleaners, too.

Japan Fetes Miss USA on 4-Day Visit

TOKYO (AP)—Miss USA, Charlotte Sheffield, fresh from the Fiji Islands and New Zealand, arrived in Japan Saturday for four days of churchgoing and sightseeing.

"This started as a trip to California for a temple dedication," said the stunning Utah beauty queen, "and now I'm promoting the tourist trade."

The Pacific-hopping trip is sponsored by Tourist Associations of the Mormon Church and Pan American Airways. Miss Sheffield, 21, leaves May 14 for Honolulu and Los Angeles, and then will criss-cross the U. S. crowning state beauty queens.

She was met at the airport by last year's Miss Japan, Kyoko Otani, an old pal from the Miss Universe contest in California, who mapped out a fast tourist schedule for Tokyo.

Robinson Says Club Bars Him

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — Former baseball star Jackie Robinson said Saturday he could not join a country club here because the wives of eight members objected to him.

The statement brought an immediate denial from the manager of High Ridge Country Club. He said the Negro, a Stamford resident, "never applied for membership."

Robinson's statement was given to the Stamford Advocate from the former Brooklyn Dodgers star's New York office. The paper quoted Robinson as saying only eight of the 135 members of the club objected to his membership but "the minority was allowed to rule."

Club Manager Irving Krassner said Robinson "never applied for membership, so therefore was never considered by the membership committee, which passes on applicants."

Spaceman Normal After 29-Hr. Test

NORFOLK, Va., (AP) — Lt. of the intended goal. Neiman Cmdr. Jack Neiman Jr. moved already has broken the record for such simulated space flights.

Neiman said he would "try to ride through the night."

Hall said both Neiman and his new space suit are holding up well and have shown themselves to be "ahead of the aeronautical engineers" in that they have withstood all tests the engineers have subjected them to.

At 7:10 p.m., 29 hours after he entered the sealed decompression chamber, Neiman was pronounced "perfectly capable of piloting a space vehicle for this length of time."

Cmdr. A. L. Hall, officer in charge, said Neiman "could make an efficient landing. His efficiency has not been reduced enough to make him a risk as a craft controller."

Earlier Saturday, Neiman experienced several spells of nausea, but Hall said the spells had subsided.

Just before 7 p.m., Neiman was asked whether he wanted to carry the test on through the night, or come out at 8:10 p.m., 30 hours after he entered the chamber but 18 hours short

Animal Fair Winner Has 12 Exhibits

400 Pets Go on Display in Big Event

Gene Harvey, 12, went to the animal fair here Saturday.

In fact, he brought along a small fact of his own from his home at 9413 Elizabeth Ave., South Gate. Accompanying him in a truck were a squirrel, turtle, chipmunk, guinea pig, hamster, mice, etc.

So, after they counted noses at the annual Bixby Park Pet Show, Gene was awarded the sweepstakes trophy for exhibiting 12 kinds of animals.

ALL TOLD, about 400 animals, birds, fish and insects attended. They not only competed for prizes but also participated in the staging of the show.

For example, Bonzo the Ape presented some of the prizes. In turn, he was given an award for being the animal most like a human, a questionable honor.

The show was sponsored by the Long Beach Humane Society, the Recreation Dept. and the Long Beach Unified School District.

AWARD FOR the best-dressed pet and owner went to Mark Newton, 8, of 2205 Cota Ave., and his dog. They were attired in Western garb.

Most magnificent bird was a parrot owned by Tommy Klein, 7, of 219 Roycroft Ave.

Bobby Johnson, 12, of 6780 Rose Ave., displayed the world's greatest lovers—a Dalmatian dog followed constantly by a duck.

Meanest looking animal at the show was the English bulldog brought by Greg Palmer, 12, of 351 Santa Ana Ave.

THERE WERE some late entries. One of them won an award. In the category of "pets just born today" the winner was a salamander, displayed by Douglas Transue, 49 Atlantic Ave.

The most unusual animal in the park was a fox, entered by Kay Keener, 9, of 2165 E. Pacific Coast Hwy.

Sometimes the show dragged: like when Eddie Reid, 10, of 7103 Metz St., presented his entry—a snail riding on a turtle's back.

One dog was given an award as "the dog that slept through it all."

"He's dog-tired," the owner apologized.

California Camp May Loft a Moon

By WALTER T. RIDDER, ROBERT E. LEE AND BILL BROOM
(Independent Press-Telegram Capital Bureau)

WASHINGTON—California will be the launching site for the United States' first moon vehicle—but only if a pair of knotty problems can be worked out.

As of the present, the armed services new missile training center at Camp Cooke is a possible site, not the probable launching point. Cape Canaveral, Fla., must still be considered front runner.

Technical problems are the comparative locations of the two bases and their relation to rotation of the earth, proximity to the equator and location of the 200-mile-per-hour jet stream winds, 35,000 to 50,000 feet overhead. Rotation, proximity and winds all affect the delicate mechanisms that aim the missile.

If, from the standpoint of location, Camp Cooke has advantages, it will get the call—despite the fact the California site lacks the comprehensive instrumentation which exists at Canaveral.

VICE PRESIDENT NIXON told a group of Bolivian students that in the United States, the office seeks the man rather than vice-versa. Maybe, but it's reminiscent of the late Vesp Alben Barkley's story about the man in Kentucky who ran for office several times and was continually defeated. Told his defeats were due to the fact that the office seeks the man, he replied:

"Waal, if that's the case, just tell the office there'll be a man walkin' slowly down the street about 4 this afternoon, and if it wants to seek him, I'll be available."

Ike Meets Latin Military Chiefs in Parley Monday

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will confer Monday with military chiefs from the 21 Latin-American republics who are planning a common defense for the Western Hemisphere.

The President will receive the chiefs and senior officers of the Interamerican Defense Board at the White House.

The Chief Executive began a quiet weekend in Washington Saturday by getting in 18 holes of golf at Burning Tree Club. He played in sunny, 70-degree weather. Mrs. Eisenhower was with her mother in Denver.

ley's other classic. Sen. Bob Taft of Ohio had written a book on his political philosophy. Barkley said he'd read the book, but didn't understand it. "It was like," said Barkley, "the old grandfather clock in Kentucky. He was the only one who could tell the time from it. The owner said it was really very simple. 'Why, when the hands show four and the clock strikes 10, you know it's 7 o'clock,' he said."

THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION is featuring a showing of Winston Churchill's paintings. Like his wartime friend, Ike, Winnie for years has found temporary succor from the problems of world politics in oils and canvas.

Many art critics think his paintings are considerably better than Ike's, prompting the jingle now current among Democrats:

"Winston paints good, like Eisenhower should."

Peru Battle Nixon's First in 7 Trips

By JOHN SCALI
WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Nixon has won far more cheers than boos during his seven far-ranging foreign tours as President Eisenhower's good will ambassador.

His rock-throwing reception in Peru marks the only serious incident that has bobbed up during his 108,000 miles of travel into 52 countries during the past 4½ years.

Nixon has weathered skirmishes with Communist-led agitators before, in touring Burma, Japan, Australia and the Sudan, he met a "go-home" sign anti-American demonstrations and pamphlets.

But he never faced anything like the shower of stones, fruit, bread and insults hurled at him by a taunting mob outside San Marcos University in Lima Thursday.

Secret Service bodyguards have long feared such trouble—and even worse. Nixon has seemed to be courting danger with his determination to meet, not only with foreign leaders, but to mingle with the crowds, shaking hands, swapping greetings and sometimes kissing babies.

The Secret Service men's big worry always comes when Nixon, as he frequently does, halts the official motorcade which is whisking him to his next stop, gets out and greets the crowd on foot.

IN TUNIS, his four bodyguards, assisted by local police, braced themselves in a semi-circle behind him, straining to keep back thousands of excited Tunisians who nearly swallowed him up during his impromptu strolls.

In sophisticated Rome, Nixon astounded his Italian police escort by weaving through a crowd of some 1,000 well-wishers packed on the sidewalk outside his hotel.

Nixon's policy of practicing informal, people-to-people diplomacy while visiting foreign lands has been thought out in advance by the vice president, risky though it may be. His motives are:

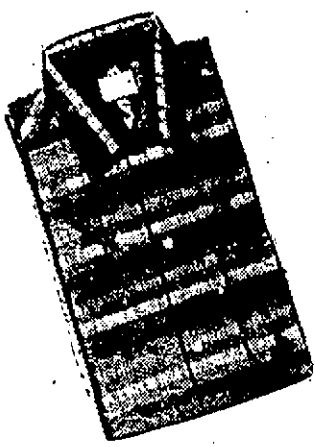

1. To dramatize the informal, unpretentious air of Americans generally, thereby winning good will for himself and the United States government from amazed spectators more used to seeing foreign visitors speed by in heavily guarded limousines.

2. To demonstrate in spectacular fashion both at home and abroad that he is a man of physical courage as well as an effective goodwill ambassador.

Nixon's explanation for his refusal to be cowed by the Peruvian student demonstrators matches almost word-for-word his reason for out-facing and out-talking a similar but lower-keyed Communist-led demonstration in Burma in 1955.

At that time, as he did in Lima, Nixon walked among the demonstrators, challenged them to a debate and turned it into a personal triumph of the kind he undoubtedly hoped to duplicate in Lima.

"I wanted to show them we are not afraid of them," Nixon told newsmen accompanying him after the Burma incident.

Sixth Fleet Boss Lauds Reservists

By JAMES A. ALLEN
(I-P-T Military Reporter)

VALENCIA, Spain (Delayed)
—The boss of the U. S. 6th
Fleet—salty Vice Adm. Charles
R. (Cat) Brown—warmly praised the work which a Los Alamos Naval Air Station fe-serve squadron is performing while on two weeks of active duty at Port Lyauvey, Morocco.

The squadron—VP-773—has been transporting some of the personnel and their mountains of cargo and mail going to the 50 ships under Adm. Brown's command in the Mediterranean.

"I have nothing but the highest praise for these reservists,"
he said.

THE ADMIRAL SAID there was no doubt in his mind of the ability of reserve squadrons to move half way around the world and start operating with the regulars in short order.

"I think this reserve concept is wonderful," he said.
Adm. Brown was interviewed aboard his flagship, the heavy cruiser USS Des Moines, in port here by this reporter and three fellow newsmen who have accompanied VP-773 from Los Alamos.

"My job is to be prepared for war," Adm. Brown said.
"But my primary mission is to preserve the peace. This great symbol of American power represented by the 6th Fleet encourages our friends and discourage our enemies."

HE QUOTED former Greek foreign minister Panagiotis Pip-inellis, who said: "In the powerful gray diplomats of the 6th
Fleet we see the guarantee of small peoples' independence."

Adm. Brown said he has another job—to win the respect and friendship of the peoples of the Mediterranean. He thinks the men under his command are doing well in this job.

"There is a tremendous affection for us by most Mediterranean countries," Adm. Brown said.

Newsmen said this demonstrated one evening at a reception aboard the Des Moines for 250 of the leading citizens of Valencia and their ladies.

There were hors d'oeuvres tastefully prepared by the Des Moines cooks and Adm. Brown nunch, noted throughout the Mediterranean.

ALTHOUGH THE PUNCH
contains no alcohol—Navy regulations forbid this—the tasty drink delighted the guests.

The ship's orchestra provided music for dancing. Later a Marine color guard conducted the ceremony of furling the American and Spanish flags as the national anthem of each country was played.

The people of Valencia were visibly impressed.

And we visiting newsmen shared their feelings as we saw our Navy extend this hand of friendship in a troubled world.

Working Man on a 'Rich Man's Weekend'

By BAXTER OMOHUNDRO

TORRANCE—How do a working man and his family spend a "rich man's weekend?" The George Davises of 2456 W. 236th St. get a long weekend off every month and they spend it about as they do a regular weekend—only more so.

Davis is a sheet metal leadman at the Longren Aircraft Co. here and benefits by a company plan instituted this year that gives him one three-day weekend off each month. He works the following Saturday to compensate for the extra day.

"We do about the same things on the long weekends as we do on the two-day weekends," Davis said. "We do more of them."

THIS MONTH'S long weekend was typical.

On Saturday, Davis, his attractive wife, Mary, and their three children, Janice, 12; Jeffery, 8, and Julie, 5, shopped in the morning and caught up on household chores such as mowing the lawn in the afternoon.

After church on Sunday, they climbed into the family station wagon for a fishing expedition to Bixby Slough. Then there was a game of croquet followed by a barbecue in the backyard.

On Monday, the "extra day," Davis puttered around the house and took care of personal business while the older children were in school and his wife did the housework. That afternoon, they left again for a trip to the Los Angeles County Museum.

THAT EXTRA WEEK-DAY OFF each month means a lot to the curly-haired native of Louisiana.

"I can get a lot of things done that aren't possible on weekends when the banks and some other businesses are closed," he commented.

The Davises figure that this summer there will be more play and less work on the long weekends than there has been thus far.

"We figure to take a lot of three-day camping trips to the mountains," Davis said.

The long weekend plan, devised by Longren Vice President Christina Wentworth, benefits most of the firm's nearly 300 employees.

Mrs. Wentworth said the workers have expressed satisfaction with the arrangement during the five months it has been in operation. Absenteeism has dropped noticeably since the plan was adopted, she noted.

VACATION EVERY MONTH

A three-day weekend once a month is enjoyed by the George Davises of Torrance under Longren Aircraft Co. policy. Papa George has plenty of time to polish the family car and share outdoor life with his wife, Mary, three children and the household pet. Youngsters lining up for barbecue are, from left, Jeffery, 8; Julie, 5, and Janice, 12. Long weekend enables Davises to "do more things."

young men of distinction

Maestro Fahrenruch (Bobby, that is), gifted young pianist-violinist of 5948 Clark, Lakewood, strongly believes in the restorative powers of a "milk break".

"In our music world, it's pretty generally known that during a particularly difficult session* (or anytime), time out for a tall, cool glass of Mountain View Vitamin D Milk gives you new ability to carry on. In fact, my Mom (and she's pretty smart) started me on Mountain View Milk even before I became a musician. Actually, I was only 6 months old at the time, and was more interested in vocalizing," says Bobby.

Now, Mom, we don't say Mountain View Vitamin D Milk will make virtuosos out of your young artists, but we do say, without hesitancy, YOU JUST CAN'T BUY BETTER MILK ANYWHERE!

Order Mountain View home delivered today! Or ask for it at your favorite market. *Practicing when you don't want to.

He Picked a Hobby That Builds Big Tower Out of Little Sticks

PHIL HARRIS... 24,000 Toothpicks

Question: When are toothpicks more than toothpicks?
Answer: When they're the Eiffel Tower.

"They may be toothpicks to you, but they're timber to me," says Phil Harris, retired cabinet maker of 1376-A Gaviota Ave., as he puts finishing touches on the last of over a dozen objects he is entering in the Hobby Show, May 16-19, at Municipal Auditorium.

From the tower, which stands seven feet high and took about 24,000 toothpicks, to the smallest, a ten-inch model, Phil says, "It's been good picking all the way!"

HE BUYS 100,000 toothpicks at a time and after much research at the Public Library, draws his careful plans and makes the models to exact scale. Also exhibited will be a five-foot bridge and a working duplicate of the double ferris wheel on the Pike.

According to Lois De Lano, manager of the event for the Recreation Department, this year's exhibits include exotic orchids, tropical fish, magic shows, puppet shows and dancing.

Hours will be from noon to 10 p.m. and there is no admission charge.

City Hostess Has Beauty With Brains

It's not really extreme. I like it. I don't know as I would design this style myself. I design dramatic but simple things."

She explained that the "dramatic effect comes from the fabric and fit. The simplicity from the lines—no buttons or bows."

She swims, rides, golfs, plays tennis, works out at a gymnasium to keep in trim, and writes a column for the college paper on television and books.

One of her columns on television, dealing with commercials points out that "free TV is not really free. You pay for it by watching commercials."

This doesn't mean she's against commercials. On the contrary, she says "there are an ever increasing number of commercials that are indeed enjoyable."

There is a hint of special pleading here, possibly, because Jacki is going into television advertising as a career.

SHE WRITES a readable column and has a flair for a phrase, for example "the pudgy insouciance of Alfred Hitchcock, the gracious snobbery of Julia Mead, the simple winsomeness of Dinah Shore (the farmer's daughter, Dior-dressed)."

About that "gracious snobbery" of Julia Mead, she thinks on second reading that the phrase is perhaps "literary license."

"I don't think I would say a thing like that in talking," she referred to Françoise Sagan's works as "... petulant pastiche of passion that Miss Sagan has now marketed under three different titles" and confessing to no experience in the matter is nevertheless certain her criticism is valid on the basis of imagination and learning.

Her favorite author is Christopher Morely. "I wish I had a whole library of his books." Her tastes in music run from the "favorite singer Frank Sinatra" to works by Richard Strauss.

Her current favorite is "My Fair Lady."

They were playing songs from "My Fair Lady" when she won the Miss Welcome title.

"I ALMOST DIDN'T get to the contest (finals). My aunt and I were driving to the contest and we had a flat tire. There was only 10 minutes to get there so we took a cab. When I sat down in the cab, I tore my formal. My aunt pinned it up for me."

"I won on a pin and a prayer."

"I couldn't say much when I won. I wasn't really speechless. I just thought, 'My goodness, who will I thank first. I just couldn't find the word. Then they took pictures and I guess I lost control of my smile. It was too broad. I was just happy.'"

Jacki says she feels at ease with people, finds them exciting and stimulating.

She looks on her role as Miss Welcome as a job of making the Miss Universe contestants feel comfortable. "I think I'll understand what they feel."

"HOUSE-OF-DISCOUNTS"

251 E. 4th St. LONG BEACH

Santa Ana 1707 S. MAIN ST. • 2111 N. LONG BEACH BLVD. COMPTON-LYNWOOD

Store Hours: 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Daily — Sunday, 10 a. m. to 9 p. m.

THE TREND toward pastel shades around the home seems to have caught the fancy of some local sparrows.

Betsy O'Hara, who lives in the 1600 block on 64th St. in Long Beach, discovered the liking of sparrows for sweet colors.

It seems that Mrs. O'Hara undertook to color a bunch of chicken feathers, to be used in some project at the school in which she is interested.

After dying the feathers pink and yellow, she put them behind the house to dry. The wind came up and blew them all over the yard. When she went out to sweep them up, she discovered several sparrows in the yard. The birds were picking up feathers, selecting the pink ones each time, and flying off with them.

Mrs. O'Hara presumes the pink feathers will be woven into nests, and she figures she has had a part in bringing to Long Beach the distinction of having the most colorful birds' nests in the country.

COUNCILMAN D. PATRICK AHERN has been a consistent plugger for a policy of putting traffic signals on "flash" during hours of light traffic. So has this dept.

Last week, the city traffic engineer announced that 36 signals will be put on flash from 12 midnight to 6 a.m.

This was hailed as something of a victory. In comment here, but Bro. Aherne isn't so enthusiastic. In fact, he voted no.

He points out that the order covers only a relatively few intersections, and it confines the flashing to a period when there is virtually no traffic. So, he says, it really doesn't help anybody.

Aherne contends the flash program should be applied more widely, and that the change to flash should come about 10 p.m. instead of midnight. He says you can drive all the way from downtown Los Angeles on flashing signals until you hit Long Beach, when you are held up at nearly every intersection by signals that run "stop and go" all the time.

I agree with D. Patrick that the order from the traffic engineer was a little reluctant and chintzy. Why not give this thing a chance to do some good?

AND while I'm in the crabby stage, here comes another blast about patched pavements.

Probably many other motorists, like me, have a pet peeve against a certain pavement bump. So when I describe mine, I'm carrying the flag for a lot of other people.

The bump that irritates me, and puts me in a bad mood when I get home at night, is on East Third St. at Winnipic. Somebody dug a hole in the paving there. It was later patched, but a lousy job was done, the patching has sunk, and an eastbound car passing over there gets a hasty whack on the left hand tires.

Does anybody ever go back to inspect those patches and fix them up when they don't hold?

A KEY to the City of Long Beach will be carried to Boston by Terry Timmins and Lee Anderson, the local youths who plan a cross-country bicycle jaunt this summer.

Mayor Ray Kealer gave the high school boys a symbolic key Friday and told them to give it to the mayor of Boston when they get back there.

Incidentally, Timmins and Anderson are still looking for a sponsor. They want somebody to provide them with bikes.

Their bike trip will be east-bound, only. They plan to catch an auto ride back home.

SOME BURGLARS who tried to break into a safe in a local church tripped a burglar alarm and were caught red-handed by the police.

The presence of the burglar alarm hook-up in the church implies, alas, a distrust of the universal goodness of man. And alas again, the distrust was obviously justified.

That doesn't mean, however, that the church has failed. It just means that it has to work harder.

Ban on Secret Sessions Defined

She's Beautiful, NOT Dumb That's Our New Miss Welcome

Jacki Carter's Quietly Poised for Her Duties

By GEORGE ERES

The new Miss Welcome to Long Beach, Jacqueline Rose Marie Carter not only has the necessary proportions for winning beauty contests, but her head is screwed on right, too.

The 20-year-old miss is a shattering experience in the fallacy of generalizations like "beauty contestants are beautiful but dumb."

Miss Carter, a State College junior, brings to her role a quiet poise and unaffected assurance that complements youthful, natural enthusiasm and excitement at the prospects of representing Long Beach at the forthcoming Miss Universe Pageant.

"I have no steady date. My friends at school tell me that now I'll have to be chaperoned when I go on dates. I only have to check with Mr. Oscar Meinhardt, Pageant director, on official things. My dates are my private life. I don't have to clear them with Mr. Meinhardt. He gave me a little black book with a list of engagements. My first one is Wednesday at a luncheon of the Belmont Shore Business Men's Association at Hoefly's."

MISS CARTER is used to winning contests.

She was a beautiful baby and won a contest at the age of 3. Part of the prize was a contract with Max Reinhardt.

"I was independent. I didn't want it," she recalled.

Her next recollection of prize winning was as "Miss Princess"—for selling the most mints as a member of the Camp Fire Girls.

She's proud of the contest she won when 8 years old for a speech on "How to be a good neighbor," a contest sponsored by the Juvenile Grange.

"I think I pointed out that selfishness is the basis for getting along. Look outside of yourself. When you share, there's a benefit from feeling good."

At City College she was queen of the Sweetheart Prom, valedictorian, winner of Five-Jewell and Viking awards for scholarship and school activity, and represented the school before other institutions.

She was the Independent Press-Telegram's Southland Magazine Valentine Cover girl last year.

AT STATE she is a junior majoring in English and planning a career as a girl in a "gray flannel chemise."

She's active in the Newman Club, is treasurer of the Associated Students and has been elected to serve as Associated Students secretary next semester.

She designs and makes her own clothes. The prizes of dresses awarded her as Miss Welcome appeared to excite her as she modelled them for a photographer.

"This is my first chemise."

WISH THAT CAME TRUE

State College Coed Jacki Carter, who wished for the title Miss Welcome to Long Beach and won it, is a striking "champagne blonde" who says her eyes are "usually blue." She doesn't feel that her measurements are pertinent to her job as Miss Welcome, but she ticks them off as 38-22-36. She's 125 pounds and is 5 feet 7 inches.—(Staff photo by Don Webster.)

Public Drive for YMCA Funds Opens This Week

Public solicitation in the YMCA's "million dollar plus" campaign to finance capital improvements is slated to begin this week with the opening of the Lakewood district drive, it was announced Saturday by Earl Fast, general campaign chairman.

The Lakewood kick-off will be Friday. John R. Hills, Lakewood district drive chairman, announced that he has a complete staff of volunteer workers ready for the campaign.

The Lakewood kick-off will be followed in order by the Downtown district solicitation, scheduled to begin May 20, and the North Long Beach district kick-off slated for May 22. Starting date for the Los Altos district campaign has not been announced.

DISTRICT CAMPAIGNS are part of a city-wide drive to finance the first YMCA capital improvements here since 1929. Fast said.

The Lakewood allocation is $132,447, which will meet the cost of a branch YMCA building which will be constructed at Centralia St. and Bellflower Blvd. The Lakewood facility will provide meeting, office and activity rooms as well as an outdoor swimming pool and recreation patio. Membership in the Lakewood branch totals 1,574.

Modernization and enlargement of the Downtown Y branch will cost $713,307. This includes addition of a wing, complete renovation of the existing structure and provision of a separate building to house a swimming pool.

NORTH LONG BEACH branch will be redecorated.

There will be additional locker rooms and a complete day camp to be located adjacent to the building. Cost of this improvement will be $54,155, bringing the total capital investment including the original structure to more than $125,000.

A new building is scheduled for Los Altos, to be located on a site donated by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd S. Whaley on the east side of Bellflower Blvd. south of Atherton St. The project will include an outdoor swimming pool with adjacent recreation patio. Total cost for the branch will be $271,169.

$2,000 'Campership' Fund Sought for L.B. Children

To enable underprivileged children in the Long Beach and Lakewood area to attend summer camp for a week, a campership fund drive seeks to raise $2,000.

The drive is sponsored by Community Welfare Council, David H. Larson, campership committee chairman, reports that 285 needy children already have been registered by health and welfare agencies.

Youngsters in the program will be sent to camps operated by Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Catholic Youth Organizations, Boys' Clubs, Girls' Clubs, YMCA, YWCA, Salvation Army or the Boy Scouts.

State Board Asks LBSC Firings Data

The State Board of Education Saturday ordered a full report on the firing of two Long Beach State College instructors.

The action came after a State College faculty committee made a precedent-setting visit to the board to protest "the unjust system . . . which has injured" the instructors.

Dr. George Korber, spokesman for the faculty group, hailed the board's order as "the first break we've had in this entire controversy."

William L. Blair, who presided at the board meeting at Fresno, called for the report after Roy E. Simpson, state supervisor of public instruction, had announced the matter was closed.

Dr. Simpson then announced Dr. J. Burton Vasche, chief of the division of state colleges, would meet with the faculty steering committee at 11 a.m. Wednesday.

VASCHE'S REPORT presumably will be made at the board's next regular meeting in July.

At issue are the dismissals of Frank Black and Dr. Clyde B. Martin, assistant professors in State's Division of Education and Psychology. And, in general, the faculty group charges there has been a breakdown in faculty-administration relations.

Dr. P. Victor Peterson, college president, has refused to cancel the dismissals. He maintains the issue is whether the college is to be run by "group rule or legal authority."

The delegation which called on the state board Saturday was headed by Dr. M. J. Garver. It was the first time in years faculty members had gone directly to the board to present an argument.

THE GROUP SUGGESTED the board set a policy on the role of faculty groups in administration of state colleges. Other studies in the past have been confined to management surveys, it said.

Dr. Peterson was present at the meeting. However, he did not make any statements on the case during the group's visit, Dr. Korber said.

Other members of the faculty group were V. A. Metzger and Drs. Richard Wilde, Henry Sehnem, George Appleton, Cramer Schultz, Kephias Kinsman, Robert Wylder and Blair Archer.

2,759 to March for City of Hope

A total of 2,759 volunteers will march June 8—Hope Sunday—in Long Beach and Signal Hill for contributions for the City of Hope Medical Center in Duarte.

Proceeds from the house-to-house canvass will go to help further the City of Hope's program of patient care, research and postgraduate medical education in catastrophic diseases. Maladies in the facility's scope are cancer, leukemia, blood, chest and heart diseases.

Jacobson's Opinion Cautions Officials

By GEORGE WEEKS

City Councilmen, harbor commissioners and water commissioners can get into trouble with the law if they hold secret meetings.

Without using that blunt wording, such is the substance of an opinion on the effect of the Brown Act, delivered to members of the three city agencies by City Atty. Walfred Jacobson.

It was that piece of state legislation, enacted in 1953, which resulted in the hasty erasure of the words "Executive Chamber" from the door to the Council's smaller meeting room and the substitution of "Committee Room."

Councilmen recently revived their custom of meeting informally every Tuesday prior to the official sessions—but all meetings are open to the public.

IN A DECLARATION of public policy incorporated in the act, the Legislature said:

"Public commissions, boards and councils and the other public agencies in this state exist to aid in the conduct of the people's business. It is the intent of the law that their actions be taken openly and that their deliberations be conducted openly."

"The people of this state do not yield their sovereignty to the agencies which serve them. The people, in delegating authority, do not give their public servants the right to decide what is good for them to know. The people insist on remaining informed so that they may retain control over the instruments they have created."

The act then provides: "All meetings of the legislative body of a local agency shall be open and public, and all persons shall be permitted to attend any meeting of the legislative body of a local agency, except as otherwise provided in this chapter."

"LOCAL AGENCY" is defined as "a county, city, city and county, town, school district, municipal corporation, district, political subdivision or any board, commission or agency thereof, or other local public agency."

"Legislative body" is given this definition: "The governing board, commission, directors or body of a local agency, or any board or commission thereof."

The only specified exception to the rule of open meetings is an executive session or sessions "to consider the appointment, employment or dismissal of a public officer or employee or to hear complaints or charges brought against such officer or employee by another public officer, person or employee unless such officer or employee requests a public hearing."

The legislative body also is authorized to exclude from any private or public meeting, during the examination of a witness, any or all other witnesses in the matter being investigated by the legislative body.

IN A SEVEN-PAGE OPINION, Deputy City Atty. Atlee S. Arnold noted there have been only a few court decisions from which to interpret the effect of the act. But he reached these conclusions:

The law is applicable to charter cities such as Long Beach.

If the City Council or any board or commission of the city meets as a group or entity, whether formally or informally, for the purpose of taking formal legislative action on city business or discussing or deliberating on public matters or business, the provisions of the statute would apply.

However, if the Council or other municipal body meets merely for the purpose of viewing a particular situation—for example, certain real property or a public improvement—it would not constitute a meeting within the purview of the law.

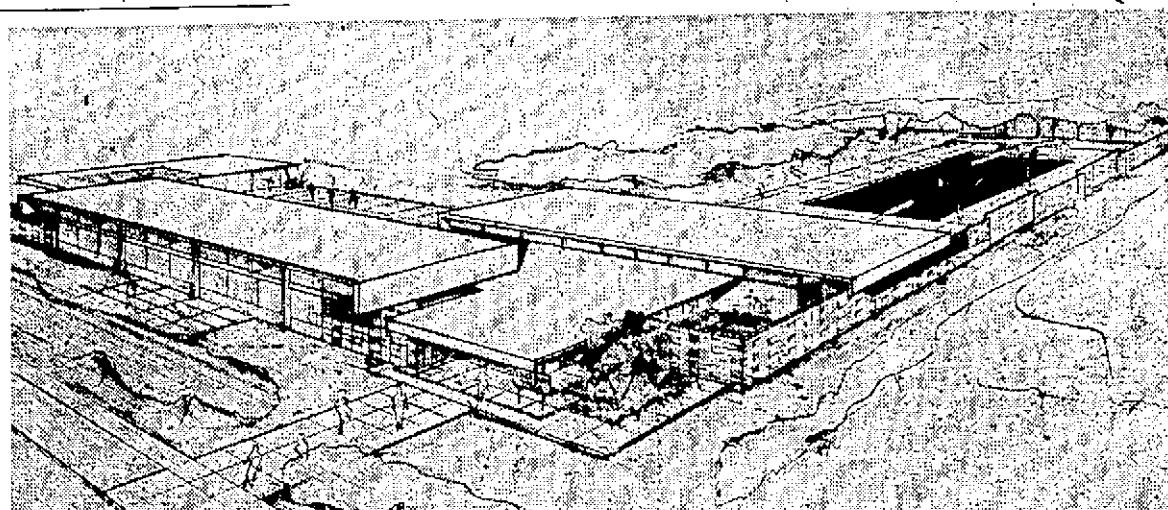

The opinion added this implied warning: "Admittedly . . . we incline to the conservative course. This is prompted in part by that provision of the State Government Code which states, in effect, that every willful omission to perform any duty enjoined by law upon any public officer, where no special provision is made for the punishment of such delinquency, is punishable as a misdemeanor."

THE ONLY KNOWN TEST of the Brown Act—one that was never carried to final adjudication—ended in a memorandum opinion by Superior Judge Leon T. David suggesting that the law does strongly restrain secret meetings.

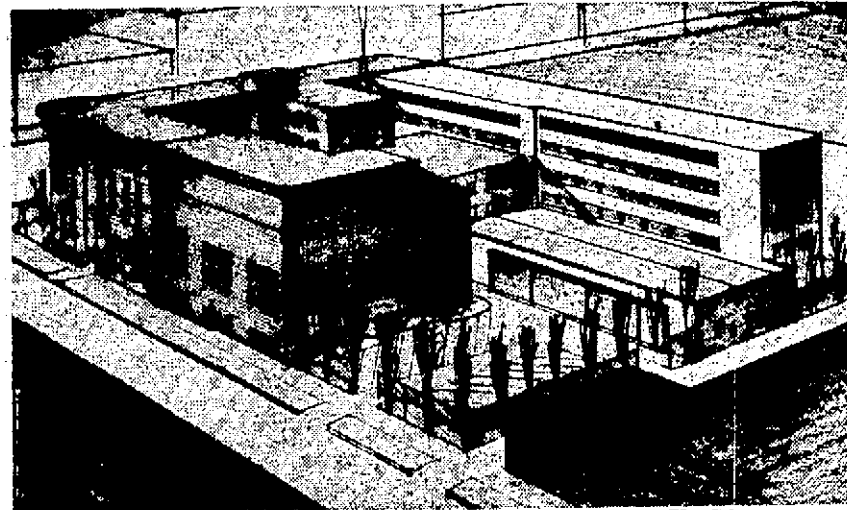

It occurred in Santa Monica, where a taxpayer alleged that the general public—but not the press—was excluded from four meetings attended by councilmen, one with the Chamber of Commerce at dinner, another with a representative of the League of California Cities, a third with the city manager to discuss budget requests and another to review the agenda.

In overruling the City Council's demurrer, Judge David expressed the view that all meetings of the Council or of the boards of the city at which public business is transacted or considered or deliberated are meetings at which all members of the public are entitled to hear and be heard.

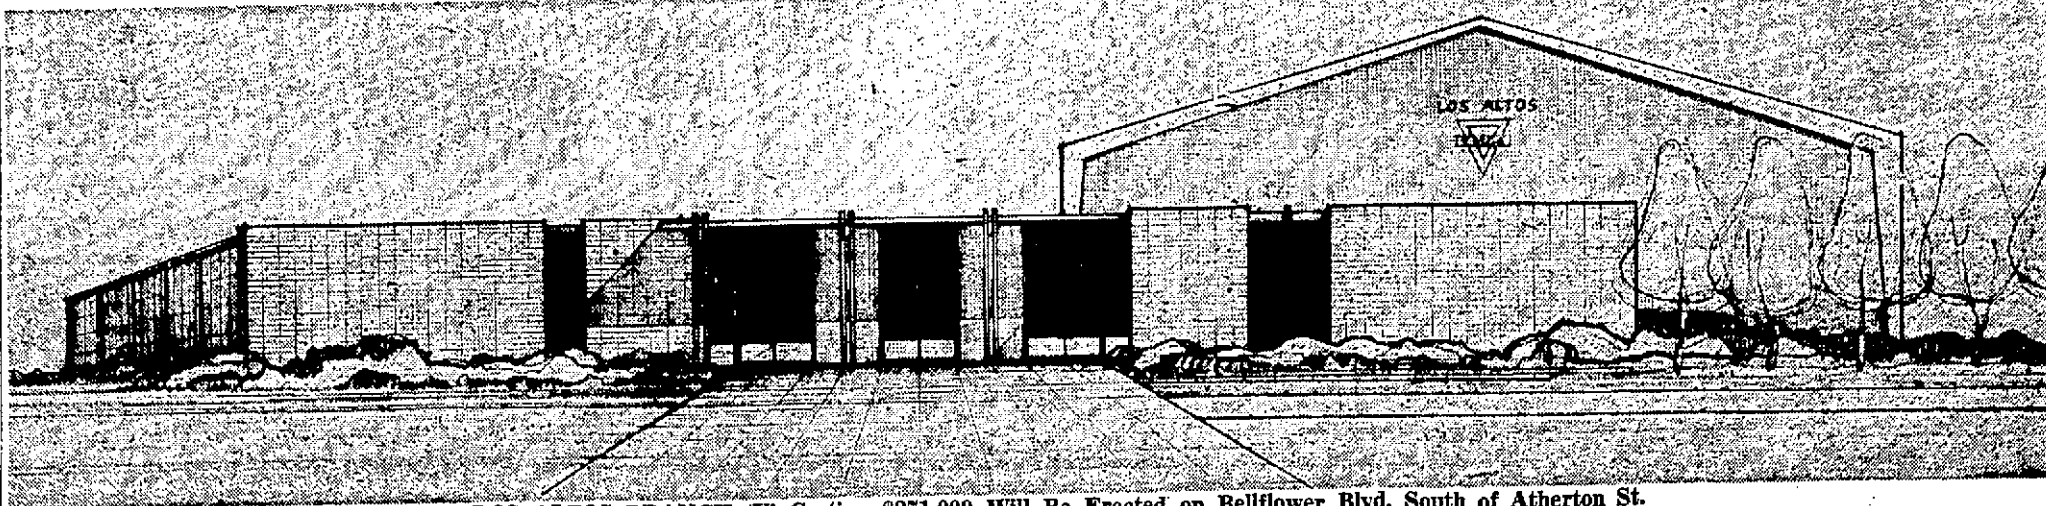

The court said this necessarily follows from our circumstances of government even without the declaration made in the Brown Act.

Russ Maids Greet Stringbean Pianist

MOSCOW (AP) — Van Cliburn, the stringbean Texas pianist, returned from a concert road tour in Russia Saturday and got an armload of flowers from a group of Moscow maidens who greeted him at the railroad station.

He said he was bushed but happy and headed straight for bed. Cliburn looked thinner than when he left here after his triumph at the international piano competition.

He enjoyed himself so on the trip, he said, he plans to return here in August or September for a combination vacation-concert trip.

Of his last few days in the Soviet Union, he said: "They've been rough and tough but lots of fun. I am so exhausted that sometimes on the trip I thought I would die — but it's a good way to die."

He leaves Moscow for New York Thursday. He will play a public concert here Wednesday and has a long recording session scheduled for today.

Cliburn said he was warmly received everywhere he went in Russia.

"They couldn't do enough for me," he said. "The only trouble was they wanted to know everything about me and about the United States."

Asked how much rest he expected to get when he comes back at the end of summer, he hugged one of the girl musicians and said:

"None at all. But when you have only one life you may as well burn it up."

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Major Crimes Up 10% in California

SACRAMENTO (CP) — Major crime in California increased by more than 10 per cent during 1957, a state law enforcement report showed Saturday.

The number of felony crimes reported increased by 12.8 per cent from 1956 to 1957, while the number of arrests on felony charges jumped 10.6 per cent, the number of felony complaints filed after arrest increased 11.9 per cent and the number of felonies prosecuted in court was up 13.7 per cent.

The report was a preliminary summary of the State Department of Justice's annual report on crime which will be issued sometime this summer.

Canada Pact Step Nearer

WASHINGTON (CP) — The State Department said Saturday the United States and Canada hope to announce "soon" formal joint plans for combating any Russian air attack on North America.

A spokesman said negotiations on formal arrangements for the North American Air Defense Command have been under way for some time and may be completed shortly.

Advisers Against Tax Cut

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Weeks said Saturday his business-advisers are opposed about 3-1 to tax reduction as a quick antidote to the recession.

Weeks also said a majority of the 100 major corporation heads serving on his Business Advisory Council favors the administration program for a five-year extension of the reciprocal trade agreements act. He predicted enactment of a "satisfactory" extension law despite strong opposition which has developed in Congress.

The commerce secretary said he made a personal, informal sampling of the BAC members conferring with him here.

No Comment from Mamie

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mamie Eisenhower ducked reporters' questions about the stoning of vice president Nixon in Peru as she passed through St. Louis Saturday with a "I wouldn't know anything about that."

She did say the President is in fine health. He and their grandchildren saw the first lady off on the train in Washington. Mrs. Eisenhower said it was the first time the grandchildren had ever been inside a train. She changed trains in St. Louis on her way to Denver, Colo., to visit her mother who will celebrate her 80th birthday Tuesday.

Navy Cancels L.B. Warship Missile Test

SURF, Calif. (AP) — Scheduled launching of a Navy Regulus I guided missile at ceremonies Saturday failed to come off because of suspected contamination, possibly from salt water.

The firing was to have been the lead-off highlight of formal commissioning ceremonies for the Point Arguello Naval Missile Facility. About 5,000 persons, including Sen. William Knowland (R-Calif.) attended.

The Regulus I was to have been launched from the fantail of the heavy cruiser Los Angeles, on hand from its Long Beach base.

THE SHIP'S skipper, Capt. Harold Payson, radioed that technical difficulties due to suspected fuel contamination would prevent the firing. Persons onshore, listening to the count-down on the ship over a loudspeaker, heard someone involved in the process mention "salt water contamination."

There was no further explanation. The cruiser headed back to Long Beach.

The rest of the show went on. Two surface-to-air Terrier missiles shot a drone plane down in flames. A fighter plane fired an air-to-sea Bullpup missile into the ocean at a dye marker.

Sen. Knowland, in a speech, called the new facility "a symbol of the nation's progressive programs to strengthen our world leadership and supremacy in military and peaceful applications of missile and space technology."

By the end of the next January the Navy hopes to be ready to handle launchings from the new training facility, located on 20,000 acres of green, rolling foothills near Santa Barbara, on a regular basis.

Faces Loss of Job on Documents

WASHINGTON (AP) — John W. Dukeminier, who said he walked out of the Library of Congress with 455 classified documents to show up weaknesses in the security system, has been recommended for dismissal from his library job for gross misconduct.

Dukeminier, 24-year-old microphotographer, said he took the papers from the Armed Services Technical Information Agency offices at the library. He gave the papers to Air Force agents.

"This man was not attempting to embarrass anyone or break any laws," said the attorney, John J. McBurney. "He acted as a citizen to try to show up security weaknesses that could endanger his country."

McBurney said the case will be taken to the courts if necessary.

ISLAND WHITE FOLK DENOUNCED

L.B. Fiji Visitors Rap Colonists

HONOLULU (AP) — Two young Californians returned from the Land of Never Never, Saturday, feeling just about that way about going back.

Bearded, like beachcombers, the pair, Kent Shelby, 23, of Long Beach, and Douglas Howard, 27, of Norwalk, have been on the island of Avava in the British-owned Fiji group since February.

Shelby won the island in a worldwide limerick contest. He also won free transportation for two to and from Fiji, a grass hut, an outboard motorboat, an outrigger canoe and food and drink for two weeks.

The two ran into financial trouble from the start. When their money ran low the Fijians and Madras Indians taught them to fish and eat like natives.

"The hospitality of the Fijians and Indians is unbeatable," said Shelby. "He made more friends among the islanders in two and a half months than the white colonists have in their whole lives there."

"It was the small number of Europeans who ostracized us because we associated with the Fijians," said Shelby upon arriving here on the Orient Lines' Orsova. "They wouldn't even let us dig ditches when we looked for work because of this association."

He added, "There is more prejudice there against associating with the natives than anywhere in the world. We couldn't accept all the invitations from the Fijians to come and live with them, whereas, in all the time we were there, we got only two invitations from the Europeans. Sure, we were broke, but not entirely. We got money from our families. Later we got more money by selling our boat, engine and other belongings."

Shelby was particularly incensed at the Fiji Times, which described their adventure as a flop. The newspaper said they left a nasty taste in a lot of mouths in Fiji and that their behavior there was no credit to either.

"It's not true," Shelby commented upon reading the article. "It's a lie."

Labor Council Honors Kennick

By BOB HOUSER
Joseph M. Kennick, Democratic candidate for State Assembly, 44th District (western Long Beach) has been presented the "Most Distinguished Citizen of 1958" award by the Long Beach Central Labor Council.

Michael R. (Mushy) Callahan made the presentation Friday night at Kennick's campaign headquarters opening at 2167 Pacific Ave. The award cited the Juvenile Bureau superintendent for "his work for and in behalf of Long Beach and organized labor and in recognition of his extraordinary efforts for his community."

On hand to greet Kennick and urge his election were State Sen. Richard Richards and Assemblymen Jesse Unruh, Carley Porter and William Munnell.

Said Richards: "I have known Joe for many years and admire him very much. I'm delighted he is a candidate for Assembly this year. I'm certain if the people of Long Beach see fit to elect him he'll be a great credit to this community and to our state."

Unruh, Porter and Munnell told Kennick supporters his election "will mean that Long Beach will no longer be voiceless in the 44th." Each of the three ascribed to Kennick's Republican opponent, Herbert R. Klockslem, what they called a typical rejoinder on the Assembly floor: "Mr. Chairman, I'm confused."

Pill to Help Sunbathers Tan Bared

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Times said Saturday a drug to protect against sunburn will be introduced commercially this summer by the Upjohn Co. of Kalamazoo.

Spokesmen for the Kalamazoo pharmaceutical firm declined comment. The Times said the drug, which will be marked under the trade name of "Meloxine," is methoxsalen or 8-methoxypsoralen. It is taken in capsule or tablet form and helps the skin build up rapid tolerance to sunlight.

The Times said the drug's effect is such that the skin tans more readily and retains the tan.

Jack Pickering, Times science writer, wrote that a couple of those who took the drug experimentally developed a tan from sunlight that filtered through window glass.

Dog Gives Fire Alarm, Dies

AUBURN, Maine (AP) — Three small children were rescued from a blazing farm home Saturday thanks to a dog's barking. The animal then scampered into the flaming building and perished.

The fire leveled the home and barn of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Oakes of North Auburn at a loss estimated by the owners at over $10,000. Cause of the blaze was undetermined.

The Oakes' daughter-in-law, Virginia, was alone in the house with her children sleeping upstairs when the one-year-old terrier drew her attention by barking wildly and scraping on a door.

Opening the door, she was met by a wall of flames which quickly spread to the entire house. She rushed upstairs through thick smoke and carried the children, 8 months to 5 years, to safety.

Nude Art Stirs Ire of Anita Ekberg

MADRID (UP)—Actress Anita Ekberg said Saturday that a "vulgar" nude painting of her being shown at the Cannes Film Festival "won't hang for long."

"I'm going to get my lawyers to do something right away," the voluptuous star said on learning that Italian painter Nino Guiffreda had included her in a series of "imaginative" nude paintings of film stars.

GUIFFRIDA, WHOSE paintings have set the never-loosened French film festival on its ear, pictured the bosomy Ekberg as the central figure in a 20th-Century imitation of Titian's "Propane Love."

"My husband will probably knock that man's teeth down his throat if he has the chance," she said.

"There must be laws against that sort of thing. I don't know why people think that just because a person is an actress she can have no privacy."

"It would be different if I were a strip-teaser, like some people I know. Then I might like the publicity. But that isn't my way of making a living."

COMMENTING ON the three-million-franc ($7,140) price Guiffreda has placed on a nude of French film lovely

ANITA EKBERG
She's Infuriated

Brigitte Bardot — her own is tagged at two million ($4,760) — the infuriated Swede said:

"That makes no difference to me. Bardot is probably delighted."

"After all, that's what she is known for in the profession."

"What makes me mad is that this artist will probably become famous for this. He must be lousy or he wouldn't have to pull a dirty stunt like this or copy other painters."

Sees Defense by 'Energy Rays'

BONN, Germany (UP)—German space scientist Dr. Eugen Saenger, wartime V2 missile expert who now heads his own missile research laboratory in Stuttgart, said in a speech that it would take only "a fraction of a second" to send the rays into the sky.

Burt Raush's Funeral Set for Tuesday

Funeral services for Burton Hugh Raush, veteran motorcycle racer who was killed Friday night in a spill at Cardona Stadium, will be at 11 a.m. Tuesday in Mottell's and Peck Chapel.

The 30-year-old daredevil was among the most highly-rated of Southern California's motorcycle racers. He was taking part in a race heat when he lost control of his bike.

A lifetime resident of Long Beach, Raush was a lead man at the Douglas Aircraft Co. plant here. He was a veteran of World War II.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Viola Glover, and grandmother, Mrs. Meta Kannaberg.

Nude Statue a Tribute to Motherhood

JALAPA, Mexico (UP)—A controversial nude statue to motherhood was unveiled here Saturday on Mexico's Mother's Day. The work was roundly applauded by those attending the ceremony.

A committee of the Mexican Catholic Women's Union had protested to state officials, saying they did not want such a statue to motherhood. They charged it was an offense to morals and culture.

The protest was ignored and Mrs. Lourdes Echeverria de Quirrasco, wife of the governor of Vera Cruz State, unveiled the statue.

Some of the protesting delegates even joined in the applause.

SCULPTOR SERGIO BESNIER had maintained the figure was not a vulgar nudity. He said he was fed up with the symbol of motherhood as something sad in which the woman appears ashamed. Motherhood, he declared, should represent happiness.

The figure shows a woman holding her child toward the sky. Besnier said it represented thankfulness for a strong child born of a healthy woman.

The state government commissioned Besnier to do the work.

DETROIT—Booming interest in compact and small cars nearly doubled Rambler production in the first three months of 1958 and moved Rambler from twelfth to seventh place among all automobile makes, it was announced today by Roy D. Chapin, Jr., executive vice-president of the Automotive Division of American Motors Corporation.

Production in the quarter totaled 41,183 Ramblers, compared with 22,332 in the comparable three months of 1957.

That level gave Rambler 3.33 per cent of total industry production for the quarter, compared with 1.25 per cent a year ago, Chapin said.

Rambler output so far in the 1958 model year is up 88.1 per cent over production in the same period of the 1957 model year—92,515, compared with 49,185.

Croaking Amphibians Set to Leap

ANGELS CAMP (U.P.)—Some 200 frogs from 20 countries, including two from the British Museum of Natural History, are being groomed today for the annual renewal of the legendary contest that helped American humorist Mark Twain launch his literary career.

Several hundred more frogs were expected here this week to compete in the international frog jumps held to commemorate the famous short story "The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County." The story was Mark Twain's first successful published effort.

NOW IN ITS 32nd year, the Jumping Frog Jubilee will be held at the Calaveras County Fair Grounds outside this Mother Lode town. Preliminaries are set for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with the finals on Sunday.

The amphibians are placed on the "launching pad," a piece of burlap cut in a circle and placed on a platform. The frogs make three jumps to record their official distance. The record is 16 feet, 10 inches, set in 1954 by a hometown frog named "Lucky."

More than $2,000 in prizes will be distributed, with $1,000 going to the frog that breaks the record set by "Lucky."

SOME OF THE entries already received include:

Rolli — brought here from Sweden by Eror W. Lander, but a doubtful starter in view of the discovery this week that it is about to lay its eggs.

O'Reilly I — substitute frog offered Lander by Turlock, Calif., restaurant man Frank McNeff.

Alas, Blonde Beauty Has Too Much Money

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Ever since Grace Kelly married her prince, Hollywood has been on the alert for another wealthy beauty who could act.

Twentieth Century-Fox has one under contract, but she can't get her bosses to take her career seriously—she's too rich.

Her name is Dina Merrill. She could buy 20th Century-

Fox and the princely of Monaco, too, if she got her family to help.

Look at this background. Dina's mother is Mrs. Meriwether Post, the cereal heiress; her father is E. F. Hutton, the Wall Street broker; her husband is Stanley Rumbough Jr., president of the American Totalisator Corp., which makes the pari-mutuel betting machines for racetracks.

And, for a little frosting, Rumbough is also the grandson of Gilbert Colgate, the toothpaste and soap magnate.

Dina might have made it by now if the family background hadn't become known. The studio had seen her on a television play and signed her for "The Desk Set" and "A Nice Little Bark That Should Be Robbed."

HER BLONDE BEAUTY is such that she turns heads when she walks into a Hollywood party. Directors rate her as a highly professional actress.

But when she asks the studio front office for a choice role she says they tell her: "You really can't be serious about an acting career—not with all that money."

But serious she is. And with her husband's approval. She lives in New York, where she made her Broadway debut at the age of 18. Then after a few years on the stage she married Rumbough, had three children and settled down as a young society matron.

DINA MERRILL

But once an actress, always an actress. She resumed her career on TV—and now movies.

It Happened Last Night

By Earl Wilson

FOOTLOOSE

NEW YORK Polly Bergen said in her cool, calm way, "I don't think being a star in pictures is any bigger than being a star in television."

The chick from Circleville who snared an Emmy is about to vacation in Europe and will probably only do six or eight TV shows of her own next year... but she'll go to the mat with you any time about television stars-vs.-movie stars.

It annoys her extremely that some of her TV sisters don't get gussed up for TV functions as much as Hollywood stars do for movie parties.

"There are so many who take the attitude that they're only in TV until Hollywood discovers them," Polly complained to me recently at Toots Shor's.

"The women at the Oscar party were in evening gowns looking gay and glamorous—but so many at the Emmy Awards wore cocktail dresses. You didn't feel it was as great an occasion. Well, it should be! I wore an evening gown because they want to see you as glamorous as they think you are."

FURTHERMORE, Polly thinks her every-other-Saturday-night TV show following Perry Como (soon going off) was pretty good.

"I think some of them have not been great—a few were only fair... but I don't think any of them have been bad or unentertaining," Polly declared.

"My sponsors have an option to renew which I hope they don't exercise. Following Perry Como was wonderful, yet I also don't think anybody can take that much music. That's why I leaned more on comedy. The last show I only did two songs."

Added Polly: "If they've got any brains they'll put an anthology or panel show in that spot next season."

You hate to ask any star about ratings but I was brave. "I never got the Caesar, Sinatra, Munsell ratings... was never in serious trouble."

"One show recently we had everything going for us. Bob Hope always gets a big rating. I had my Emmy going for us. If we should ever get a 25..."

"We got a 19. The answer? I don't know. Perry Como wasn't in front of us that week."

POLLY THINKS the alternate week setup hurt—"My producer's wife couldn't remember which week we were on"—still, she wouldn't want to work weekly or in another slot.

"It's bad enough to put your

POLLY BERGEN
A Circleville Chick

head on the bloc once a month. You have to be completely wedded to show business—and I'm not."

Polly says all girl TV singers suffer Dinah Shore trouble—"Unfortunately we're all compared to her."

"Gisele is not Dinah. Clooney is not, I'm not. Dinah spends 180,000 a show, has an hour, a big permanent staff. She's in color. The majority of the people don't have color TV but the majority of the critics do."

"We," she added gloomily, "have low budgets, whatever creative talent we can pick up, and find guest stars impossible to get." Polly laughed and added, "Blues."

HAVING TURNED DOWN a couple of fat offers for next year—including "Your Hit Parade"—Polly wants to do a musical series of her own creation: well-known songs woven into a modern story, done live from New York.

"I hope I have it sold to a sponsor—it would be similar to the arrangement that Bob Hope has."

Polly succeeded in breaking up Bob on the show they did together, flattering to any girl who aspires to comedy. While they were doing a dance, Bob said, "I hope Cyd Charisse is watching."

Just then the dance got badly fouled up, Polly looked at the audience and said, "I hope nobody's watching."

Polly thought the alternate week setup hurt—"My producer's wife couldn't remember which week we were on"—still, she wouldn't want to work weekly or in another slot.

Should Ike Name His Successor?

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER told reporters the other day that he feels he has no responsibility to groom a successor.

The Republican party, he asserted, has a lot of "darn good men."

This statement that the field is wide open disappointed supporters of Vice President Nixon. He has served well, and naturally they feel he deserves some special consideration from the popular President with whom he has served.

ACTUALLY NIXON HAS received consideration, beyond that given any other Vice President by his Chief, and in this sense he has, indeed, been groomed as a successor. He has borne significant responsibilities, and he has been accepted into the top executive circle as a respected advisor. All of this has kept Nixon in the public spotlight and offered him unique opportunities to build his prestige. Far from being the road to political oblivion, the vice presidency has carried Nixon to a high point of influence and popularity in his party.

But should the President deliberately seek to eliminate all the other potential candidates by formally designating Nixon as his choice of a successor?

Modestly, Ike points out that a Presidential endorsement is not an unmixed blessing and adds that Nixon hasn't, at this point, any strong opposition for the Republican nomination in 1960.

BUT WE LIKE HIS FIRST answer best. While Nixon is a dynamic, effective, and capable man, there are a lot of other darn good men in the party who deserve a chance to press their case on equal terms.

Let the potential candidates develop and make their bids. This is good advice for both parties. Vigorous intra-party competition, as well as strong competition between the parties, is a sign of political good health in a nation.

Family of 5 Paid $580 Property Tax Last Year

By EDWIN CAPPS

A FAMILY OF FIVE paid on the average of $580 in property taxes levied by cities, counties, school districts during 1957-58, the State Board of Equalization reported. Total levies amounted to $1,634,412,000, an increase of 15.4 per cent, or about $11 per person, over 1956-57. School district taxes, at $769,526,526, accounted for nearly half of the total.

CAPPS

THE CAPITOL annex, completed several years ago at a cost of more than $7 million, is about to have some more walls knocked down and new ones built to accommodate expanding operations of the State Assembly. The state Division of Architecture has opened a low bid of $72,469 to convert space now used by the State Controller into offices for chairmen of major interim committees. This will be the second major alteration project in the new wing, as one committee room recently was converted into an assembly lounge and the former lounge used to expand quarters of the assembly speaker.

BUSY dairy cattle in California produced an average of 8,880 pounds of milk each to provide Californians with a per capita average of 134.9 quarts of milk each, in addition to all of the other dairy products. The 868,000 cows produced 7,708,000,000 pounds of milk. Trends in modern tastes were reflected by huge gains in sale of sour cream and skim milk, with a drop in sales of sweet cream and only a slight gain in sales of flavored milk drink.

CALIFORNIA prisons are bulging at the seams with a record population total of 17,760, as many as were expected by May of next year. Richard A. McGee, state Director of Corrections, said the situation of overcrowding is not serious but "we're moving from a good position to a poorer one." Worst problem, McGee said, is that more than 1,500 able-bodied men are idle because there are no work assignments for them.

CALIFORNIA veterans purchasing homes under loans from the state Department of Veterans Affairs may not rent or lease their homes without express permission of the Department. The attorney general ruled the penalty for renting or leasing without consent could be forfeiture of the home or a requirement to pay off the loan balance at once.

MILLIONS of "casualties" resulted on paper May 5 as the 1958 version of "Operation Alert," the Office of Civil Defense mock nuclear attack, took place. The maneuver this year was marked by less participation in general, with no interruption of work by the public or interruption of radio broadcasting for Conelrad.

Communists Stepping Up Infiltration of Free World

WASHINGTON—The Communists are stepping up their infiltration in all the countries of the free world. They feel cocky about their successes inside France, Italy and Great Britain. They are still hopeful that they can force a change in American policy, drive out their arch-enemy, Secretary Dulles, and give themselves also a mastery of the military situation by stopping our nuclear tests.

LAWRENCE

To conquer or dominate the world without firing a shot—this is the objective which the Communists are confident they can attain because of various weaknesses in the free world countries.

Many Americans are still unconvinced that there is any Communist menace, and they are prone to believe that to stop nuclear testing, for instance, is merely a logical way to avoid a nuclear war. But the amount of organized propaganda behind this and other Communist drives indicates clearly that the agents and auxiliaries of the Moscow government are provocatively busy everywhere improving their own military position. To them the fight is on in earnest, and lately it has been going the Communists' way almost by default. This is largely because there is a tendency, principally in the United States, to pooh-pooh the Communist conspiracy.

MEANWHILE, internal subversion in America is progressing rapidly, and any efforts by congressional committees to expose what's happening are reported to have been effectively squelched by the Democratic leadership, which evidently must be theorizing that the public will not mind if the Democratic party is again accused of becoming "soft on communism." While the background of some of the men who are in the forefront of the movement to disarm America and weaken her position on nuclear weapons cries out for exposure, the congressional committees have been told to keep their hands off. For they have done nothing about exposing the phony petitions and the devious methods by which organized propaganda against nuclear testing has been thriving lately.

There isn't as yet a general awareness of what hurts this country abroad. Thus the other day Sen. Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico, Democrat, in a spur-of-the-moment comment on a television broadcast—which he probably regretted the moment he made it—said that the United States military men want "dirty" bombs and are making "dirtier" H-bombs. The Atomic Energy Commission denied this categorically, but for the last few days the Soviet radio has been exultantly repeating in many languages throughout the world the comment by the Chairman of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy of both houses of Congress.

Then there is a new drive on to compel our Strategic Air Command to stop training for interception of a surprise attack. This, plus a ban on further testing of nuclear weapons, would give a military advantage of tremendous value to the Soviets.

SMALL wonder the Communists think they can conquer or dominate the world without firing a shot—they still think Americans are gullible and naive. And, judging by the current attitude here toward Soviet infiltration in the United States, the Communist planners may feel they have some basis for their theories, though it would prove to be a tragic miscalculation if they ever forced the issue to a climax.

Probe Ended Just as It Began to Hit Pay Dirt

WASHINGTON—Disturbing evidence has leaked out that Congressman Oren Harris, Arkansas Democrat, shut off the investigation of Mamie Eisenhower's brother-in-law, Col. Gordon Moore, just as it started to hit pay dirt.

Investigators were already checking on Moore's activities when Harris took charge of the congressional probe into the regulatory agencies.

After a hasty hearing, he dismissed the case against Moore without issuing a single subpoena or following up the most promising leads.

What the public didn't know was that Moore received a telegram before the hearings from one of Harris' political rivals, T. C. Short of Louisville, Ark.

"I got Harris record and how he spent the $20,000 the government gave him for office here. Can't say more. If interested, see me," wired Short.

Whether out of gratitude or for some other reason, Harris suddenly lost his zeal for investigating Mamie's brother-in-law. Here is a sample of the facts which his investigators dug up but which Harris brushed aside:

Moore was paid $3,000 by New York brokers to promote a fly-by-night outfit called U.S. Airlines. A confidential investigator's report quotes William Hagerty of Tampa, Fla., a former director of the company, as claiming "Moore was brought in by the New York brokers to run up the value of the stock.

Moore was brought in to lend prestige to the company because of his relationship to President Eisenhower."

The company went bankrupt after the New York crowd made a killing by unloading their stock while the market price was at its peak. The investigators questioned Moore about the deal and reported: "Although he was reluctant to discuss the matter, he stated that he found out after he got into U.S. Airlines 'What they were trying to do' and he got out of it."

It will be interesting to see whether Moore will ever be investigated as thoroughly as the influence peddlers of the Truman era.

Lawyers' Tradition Violates Spirit of U.S. Constitution

CONTEMPT FOR PUBLIC mentality is the secret mainspring of many a politician and many a political group.

Conference, caucus and convention are the accustomed tools of this passion. They are the smoke-filled rooms which select candidates down to the "desirable" few and then allow the public to make the final choice.

This contempt, which, strangely, the public has divined, breeds counter-contempt registered in low voter turnout. Low turnouts reinforce the contempt of political manipulators in this cyclic tragedy of modern democracy.

Within the past few weeks we have witnessed a piece of manipulation which is unique because it lacks any overt villainy. All the characters are presumably good guys with only the best interests of the community at heart. But their labor has been undemocratic.

It was the quiet engineering of the legal fraternity, or parts of it, to eliminate Robert M. Devitt as a serious contender for a Long Beach Municipal Judgeship.

The office is held by Percy Hight. Both men filed at the 11th hour. A few weeks later Devitt announced he would not actively campaign for the office, explaining he understood at the time of his filing that Judge Hight intended to retire.

WHEN IT BECAME APPARENT that Attorney Devitt was not alone in the contest, the response of the local legal profession was swift, sure and hardly secret.

Nature of the response: "It just isn't done. One just doesn't challenge an incumbent judge." There were no aspersions against Devitt, only tradition.

These comments are neither brief for nor against either candidate. Nor do they impugn the motives of the tradition-minded attorneys. They do mourn the fall of the democratic process.

It is only fair to point out that the attorneys who issued strong advisories to Devitt probably thought the undemocratic angle was outweighed by a more hopeless eventualty—that of asking the electorate to make intelligent determination on 80 or 90 county judgeships.

IT SEEMS THE DESIRABLE alternative is that judgeships should not be elective offices at all, but should be appointive.

Recognizing the inability of achieving enlightened lay votes on legal qualifications, the legal profession has in most cases offered its best talent for consideration by the electorate. In this initiative the public has been well served.

Even the tradition of not challenging an incumbent—via the gentlemen's agreement—has merit. It gives a competent judge reasonable assurance that he may keep office and exercise his judgment from day to day without fear of electoral evulsion.

BUT SO LONG AS THE OFFICE is elective we feel there should be no arbitrary banishing of any candidate from the ballot. We must preserve the substance as well as the form of representative government.

The highly respected legal profession, singled for tribute this month by a presidentially-proclaimed Law Day, could use this respect as well as its powerful voice to promote the candidacy of an incumbent it favors.

Its tribalistic barrier against lay voters seems not only unattractive but completely at odds with the spirit of the American Constitution which Britain's 19th Century prime minister William Gladstone called "the most wonderful work ever struck off at a given time by the brain and purpose of man."

League Auxiliary Head 'Inaccurate'

TO THE EDITOR:

Views of the Alpine Court Memorial League membership were misrepresented in last Sunday's I-P-T, through no fault of the paper, I hasten to add.

Miss Effie Camell, president of the league auxiliary, issued a statement alleging that both the league and auxiliary opposed the plan for a shoreline drive connecting Long Beach Freeway with Alamitos Ave.

It is true the auxiliary adopted a resolution that the hookup with Alamitos Ave. would lead some motorists to wander north on Alamitos, possibly continuing on out of town back where they came from.

HOWEVER, I was presiding when Miss Camell moved that we make that position a joint resolution. A majority of league members were opposed and the resolution lost 14 to 13 on a show of hands. Miss Camell is a fine public-spirited citizen and I am sure she failed to understand me when I ruled that the resolution had lost. No doubt from where she sat she could not accurately assess the show of hands, which I can do quickly since I am a retired cattle auctioneer.

Personally, I say if the shoreline drive hookup with Alamitos Ave. leads some motorists back where they came from, then let them go and Godspeed. If there is anything we do not need, it is more Sunday drivers.

Rachel Morton Reviews Praised

TO THE EDITOR:

It has been my intention for quite some time to add my voice to the choir singing the praises of your music editor, Rachel Morton. In my opinion she is striving mightily in the behalf of culture in Southern California, and, in my opinion, she is succeeding.

The organization which I represent has recently completed a production of Cole Porter's "Kiss Me Kate," which she attended and reviewed as a part of her activity with your paper. Her comments about the show played a large part in its considerable success. Not that she found it perfect, which she did not, but that her opinions were expressed with professional knowledge, with enthusiasm, and most importantly, with honesty. I believe that people recognize and respect these qualities.

Pontoon Bridge Traffic Hazard

TO THE EDITOR:

As a subscriber to your popular paper, I feel I am entitled to say a word relative to something important to many of us. I refer to the new Pontoon Bridge, which, in my opinion, is a dangerous traffic hazard to anyone who might use it.

I have talked with several people who have crossed over this bridge, and they agreed with me. Some have ceased using it, as they would rather go via the Commodore Heim Bridge, even though it is a longer distance, than to risk an accident. I would certainly not be caught near this site, should it rain, as I know it might result in a serious accident. I might say as a taxpayer, now paying to the hilt, the amount of money spent since the first bridge in that area was installed could have given us one of the finest bridges and one which, in my sincere estimation, would be used with a feeling of safety.

Yours for better bridges.

Editorial Courage of I, P-T Lauded

TO THE EDITOR:

May I express my great pleasure at the sudden realization that after many years of being on both or neither side of most issues of great importance to our community and to society as a whole, the editorial pages of our local newspaper seem to have become aware that neutrality, or an attempt to be liked by everyone can be as destructive as outright opposition when public health issues such as fluoridation and mental health legislation are defeated by anonymous manipulations of fear and hatred.

Editorial courage makes a great newspaper out of a common one. More power to your editorial staff for their recent forthright challenge of the forces of ignorance and bigotry.

A Postman Apologizes

TO THE EDITOR:

Please accept the apologies of your postal workers for their failure to contribute to the "You Auto Buy Now" campaign. The approximately 1,500 postal people in the Long Beach-Lakewood area are acutely conscious that they have not lived up to their civic responsibilities by their inability to support this worthwhile campaign.

How could they?

BECAUSE WE HAVE HAD only one small raise in seven years and no cost of living increase, we have known for a long, dreary time what a recession means. Three of our last four pay bills have suffered the fate of a veto, because it would contribute to inflation. Now, with all danger of that in the past, we pray that there will be no obstacle to keep us from a desperately needed pay raise. Perhaps we could then do our part to help in the economic battle of the community.

Please do your part by writing to your congressmen on our behalf.

College Slates Talk on Travel

Only one public lecture is scheduled for this week by the Long Beach City College General Adult Division. Herbert Williams will talk on "The Vacation Coast—Oregon and Northern California" at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Jordan High School choral room.

Dr. Marion Durfee will resume the "Parent Problems" series on May 21.

Brejcha Quits Church Post

Frank W. Brejcha, city treasurer and tax collector, is losing one of his jobs.

Don't get excited. Not a city job.

What he is giving up is a job he has held for 20 years, treasurer of the Grace Methodist Church, 3rd St. and Junipero Ave.

His church term expires May 30, but when Brejcha announced he would not be a candidate again, Harold Yett, was elected by the board of trustees to succeed him.

NEW DISCOVERY FOR HARD OF HEARING

To all readers of the Independent Press-Telegram the Diagnostic Office will give the first treatment for only $3.00.

According to the Basic Diagnostic office it is now possible for many who are hard of hearing to regain all or part of their hearing loss.

So many have told us, "We have tried everything and we are so discouraged that we hesitate to try anything else." Once they try this new method, however, they are overjoyed. Just like magic, in many cases they are able to hear without their hearing aid after the first treatment.

The treatment is simple. It consists of three steps and takes about 45 minutes. If the hearing loss is due to a nerve condition a special treatment is given. If the loss is due to a different treatment is given. If it is a bone condition the Symphonic Oscillations treatment is given.

According to Basic Diagnostic, one of all hard of hearing people will be helped by this method. We believe it is as great a discovery as insulin was for diabetes.

We are so sure that we can help you that we will give you the first treatment, including an ear examination for only $3.00 providing you bring in this ad within 10 days from today.

Nieder, Parry in Coliseum Relays

World shot put champion Parry O'Brien, now in the banking business in Palm Springs, will try to rewrite some figures at the 18th annual Coliseum Relays Friday night.

O'Brien wants to smash the 60-foot, 10 1/4-inch Coliseum Relays record established last year by Bill Nieder. There is one basic joker in the deck—Bill Nieder himself, now in the Army, who will be on hand to defend his championship.

On the strength of his 62-foot 2-inch toss in the Kansas Relays when Nieder beat O'Brien earlier this year, the former Kansas athlete should be favored. However, O'Brien is a three-time Relays winner. O'Brien sat out the shot put competition last year, contenting himself with top laurels in the discus.

Other competitors in the shot put include Dave Davis of USC (if he is completely recovered from recent ailments), Bob Humphreys of the Striders, Duane Miller of UCLA, Glen Johnson of Occidental, Dick Bronson of USC and Bob Henry of Minnesota.

This will be the first major track and field meet held in the United States on grass. Turf running tracks, jumping pits and rings were necessitated when the Dodgers made the Coliseum a temporary home.

Upwards of 50,000 fans are expected to be on hand. Reserved tickets are priced at $2.50.

SC'S MORTENSEN SAYS:

'See No Limits to Track Records'

By JOHN DIXON

One after another, track and field barriers once thought impregnable have been hurdled.

Is there a limit to man's accomplishments against tape measure and stopwatch? Jess Mortensen of SC, who has coached five national championship squads, says no.

"I see no limits to the records that can be established. There may be some, but I certainly don't have any indication as to what they may be," Mortensen declared.

WHAT BROUGHT about the record onslaught in recent years?

"Major factor is the tough training schedules that athletes pursue nowadays," Mortensen explained. "Psychological factors and better field conditions have a part, too, of course."

"But the main factor is the near year-around training. We used to think it was all right to begin running in March. Now the boys are on the track three or four days a week in the fall."

Mortensen, who has coached four world record holders, was one of the first advocates of weight lifting, and believes it will be used in varying degrees by most champions of the future.

"It's an important part of our conditioning program at SC. It's proven to be of particular benefit to our pole vaulters, high jumpers and weight men. We plan to let our runners try it on a modified scale soon."

In 1941 a mathematically inclined track and field coach, Frank Hood of Rockhurst College, plotted all available records from 1876 through 1940 and extended the line with a slide rule to 1980 for a peek at the probable marks of that date. Already nine of his forecasts have fallen.

Following are world records in 1941 and 1980 together with predicted 1980 ceilings by Hood and Mortensen:

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

REDDING—Albert B. (Bert) McKee, of Arcadia, who admits that he is more interested in feathers than in fish, became California's outstanding sportsman here Friday night. He received the award from the Shasta-Cascade Wonderland Assn., a group that takes its water problems and fishing seriously.

Among the scores attending the banquet were 19 California newspaper and magazine outdoor writers, who named McKee for the honor.

McKee, a vice president of Ducks Unlimited in charge of the Pacific region, was the first Southern Californian to receive the award. It also was the first time that a man not primarily interested in fishing was called the state's greatest conservationist.

But 13-year-old Bobby Stathem, of Redding, almost stole the show when he accepted the first annual award as the state's junior sportsman. Bobby was named principally because of two accomplishments:

He showed the state how to protect some fishing resources by better screening of irrigation canals and he taught dozens of Redding boys the art of successful fishing.

McKee was the fourth person to be so honored. Previous winners were Henry Clineschmidt, Redding; Dr. Paul R. Needham, Berkeley, and Don F. (King) Hunter, San Francisco. All of those men were chosen because of their fish conservation projects.

Stewart L. MacKenzie, Shasta-Cascade president, acclaimed McKee's selection because of the emphasis placed upon preserving and sustaining the wetlands so badly needed for migratory waterfowl, both in the United States and Canada.

BERT MCKEE IS ONE OF DU's staunchest supporters. He was a right-hand man to the late Will J. Reid, of Long Beach, when Reid was vice president of the Pacific region and later when he served two years as president of the national organization.

As early as 1931 he was interested in fish and game conservation. He served for many years as a director of the fish and game research work of the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce. When DU was organized in 1937 he became an active member.

A great deal of credit for the DU fund-raising campaigns in Southern California each year must go to McKee. He works hard in all DU campaigns, particularly the annual Duck Hunters' Night at the Shrine Auditorium, at which thousands of dollars are donated to development of ducks and geese.

BOBBY STATHEM IS A FAVORITE in this area. Known for his neighborhood in helping other boys learn how to fish, Bobby, even at 13, knows that fish resources must be protected. It was his juvenile curiosity in investigating fish screens that led to the discovery that many young salmon and steelhead were being wasted in irrigation canals leading off northern rivers, particularly the Sacramento which flows through Redding.

Bobby is an honor student at a Redding elementary school, finds time to play basketball, baseball, football, in addition to fishing. He was selected on an all-star baseball team last year when he batted .450. He can catch, pitch or play second base (Dodger management, please note).

His father, Paul Stathem, supervisor of Shasta-Trinity National Forest, put a fishing rod in Bobby's hands when he was two years old, and the youngster has been angling ever since.

Certainly, the Shasta-Cascade Assn. members who live in the seven northern counties are to be congratulated for adding a junior award to the annual affair. Let's hope that there are more like Bobby who will start looking to future generations and thinking of others at such an early age.

FRIDAY NIGHT'S BANQUET was held at the Riverview Golf and Country Club with one of the north's witty and spirited legislators doing the MC chore. He was Sen. Edwin J. Regan of Weaverville.

Other representatives from the Legislature were there, as well as officials of the Fish and Game Commission, the Department of Fish and Game and the Wildlife Conservation Board.

Saturday was devoted to fishing, with most of the interest centered on Shasta Lake, 11 miles north of Redding, and this area's vacation wonderland. McKee, the outdoor scribe and dozens of local residents took part in a fishing party, scattering to the various arms of Shasta Lake and hoping for the big bass and kamloops trout which make it a fishing paradise.

JUST A FEW MILES from Redding are dozens of well-stocked streams and lakes, in addition to Shasta. Redding is the gateway to roads leading into the famed Trinity Alps, where pack-in trips take you away from the noise of traffic and give you a chance to fill your lungs with fresh, mountain air.

Almost every member of the Shasta Cascade group might well be called a preacher. Just stop one and ask questions about the northern wilderness and you'll find out what local residents think of a country that is blessed with high mountains, lots of water and scenery beyond comparison. "Just why do you think our mountains were named the Trinity Alps?" they'll ask.

As for Shasta Lake, it's a most delightful spot. If it could be a part of Los Angeles County, there probably would be a million fishermen, campers, picnickers, water-skiers and spectators lining its shores every weekend.

FISHIN FACTS

Fishing boats out of Pacific and Pierpoint Landings brought in 1,310 bull bass from the waters around San Clemente Island Saturday.

It was the year's first big catch of bull bass.

The day's total catch for all boats was 4,252—an average of five fish per fisherman.

Barracuda numbered 1,414, and bonito 869.

On a bright Sunday 50 years ago the sermons of almost every Philadelphia church concerned a single subject: motherhood.

It was the first formal, organized observance of Mothers Day, held on May 10, 1908. It now has grown into an important holiday, proclaimed annually by the President of the United States. It is an institution in more than 40 other countries as well.

Mothers Day is entirely the idea of a militant, sharp-tongued and sentimental spinster of 44, Anna M. Jarvis. Grieving extravagantly over the death of her own mother three years before, she was determined to establish a national holiday honoring the nation's mothers—particularly her own.

Paradoxically, the popular success of the idea turned Anna Jarvis into a bitter, eccentric recluse.

In the half century since

Mothers Day first was observed by a few churches, it has grown into a holiday which the National Retail Merchants Assn. calls a "powerful sales-producing event ranking second only to Christmas."

The National Committee on the Observance of Mothers Day estimates that, when the books are closed on today's observance, it will have produced more than $75 million dollars in gift sales, with 55 million families spending an average of $16 each honoring mothers, grandmothers and mothers-in-law.

TO ANNA JARVIS, however, the nation's merchants turned Mothers Day into a bonanza, and she spent her own modest fortune trying to keep the day within the religious and idealistic bounds which she had set for it. As a result, when she died in 1948, she had been living on the charity of acquaintances in a sanitarium outside of Philadelphia. She was 84, deaf, blind — and convinced her crusade was a failure.

Perhaps the germ of the idea came from Anna Jarvis' mother — the mother whose memory Anna was so determined to honor. When the family lived in West Virginia at the end of the Civil War, Mrs. Jarvis was distressed at the way the conflict had split families. She organized a "Mothers' Friendly Day," inviting both Union and Confederate veterans to gather their families in ceremonies in Pruntyville in an effort to heal the scars.

Beginnings of the modern Mothers Day followed Mrs. Jarvis' death in Philadelphia in 1905. On May 9, 1907—the second anniversary of her mother's death—Anna held memorial services in her own home. Then this devoted daughter was off on a single-minded, lifelong crusade for a national and international holiday.

She was a born crusader and, before she found the ideal cause, had campaigned for suffrage, temperance and had done some welfare work. But her new idea obsessed her to the exclusion of all else.

THE FIRST few years were happy, and success was easy beyond her dreams. She wrote to and buttonholed a legion—clergymen, officials, politicians, Congressmen, educators, editors and even the White House. Within a year, Philadelphia's churches had fallen into line. Soon governors of various states were agreeing to an annual observance. Then Congress approved the idea of an annual Mothers Day—on the second Sunday in May, Miss Jarvis' choice of a date. In 1914, President Woodrow Wilson proclaimed the first official Mothers Day.

For a while, Anna was in control. She chose the official floral emblem, the carnation. It was her mother's favorite flower. Typically, however, she ignored the fact that carnations bloom outdoors in late summer, and was furious when, in the face of demand, florists raised the price of the greenhouse-forced flowers early in the year.

She ignored carnations then, and turned to celluloid badges, paying for them herself and distributing them to schools and churches.

Resolutely turning away from the fact that the public enjoyed giving gifts on Mothers Day, Miss Jarvis began to fight commercialization, and tried to take on the jewelers, the florists, the confectioners and the greeting card people who, she felt, were sullyng her project.

She incorporated herself as "The Mothers Day International Assn." (Although no one ever could find another member, she always spoke thereafter of "we") and firmly staked out the second Sunday in May as the association's own day.

IN 1923 New York's Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Sen. Royal S. Copeland and others planned a big Mothers Day celebration. Miss Jarvis, sensing some merchants' interest in the project, threatened to bring suit on a claimed violation of her copyright. The New Yorkers called the whole thing off.

A few years later, she tangled with Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, who had become associated with another mothers' organization which Miss Jarvis considered a rival.

Once she turned her guns on adult children who, she found, were sending cards to

Nightingales Seat Officers

Nightingales, members of that active junior group of the Auxiliary to Children's Memorial Hospital, cast a backward glance, looked clearly at the present, and glimpsed the future at their installation luncheon in Captain's Inn.

Mrs. James Nagle, auxiliary president, conducted the induction ceremony, administering the oath of office to Mrs. Lawrence Bonzer, who succeeds Mrs. Frederick Jensen as Nightingale president.

To her new office, Mrs. Bonzer brings a rich background of varied civic and social experience. For two years she has been an active member of the Nightingale board, serving as auxiliary representative and president-elect. She is a member of Rick Rackers and Sigma Chi Wives, participates in Red Cross, Community Chest, cancer and heart drives and GOP campaign work. After graduation from UCLA, where she was a Chi Omega, she was a social worker for the County of Los Angeles.

Nightingales find particular pleasure at their annual luncheon in welcoming new provisionals. Mmes. Rodger Rittmiller, Burt Marter, J. Gordon Nickle, Lamont Davis, John Elder and William Dalessi are beginning a six-month training period in preparation for their duties as full-fledged members. They will visit the children's wing of Seaside Memorial Hospital and become acquainted with the purpose of the organization.

THEY WILL TAKE part in activities to provide funds for medication, hospitalization and general improvement of health of underprivileged Long Beach children. As one of their projects, Nightingales man the gift shelf at Seaside Memorial Hospital one day a week and each member donates a handmade article for the gift shelf each month.

At the luncheon, as substantial proof of the success of their activities, members presented to the auxiliary approximately $4,000 which they have raised this year.

To express their gratitude for her fine leadership Nightingales presented the retiring president, Mrs. Jensen, with an inscribed gavel, and board members gave her a pearl-encrusted heart for her charm bracelet.

SILVER CHARM bracelets, inscribed with "N," were taken "thank you's" given to graduating members, Mmes. Loether Buck, Montie Magree, William Todd and Alfred Williams.

Provisionals and members are looking forward to their Cotton Dance at the Petroleum Club in June, a swimming party at the Bernard Wishney home in July, a luau at the J. Tyson Ellis home in August, and the fifth annual Nightingale Ball in October which will raise funds for their philanthropy.

National Girls Week Has Special Significance Here

The observance of National Girls Week May 11 to 17 takes on special significance this year in Long Beach through the recent opening of new club facilities for Assistance League of Long Beach-sponsored West Long Beach Girls Club.

Open house is slated from 3 to 5 p. m. each day this week for persons interested in visiting the club, 2640 Santa Fe Ave. A special birthday party is planned at 4:30 p. m. Wednesday. At that time members of Girls Clubs around the nation also will be lighting candles. Miss Althea Maynihan, field director for National Girls Clubs of America, will attend.

DURING THE first week following opening of the new clubhouse, attendance increased 100 per cent, and averaged 150 girls a day. Classes are conducted in crafts, sewing, charm, grooming, and cooking. Members of the Assistance League Girls Club committee are working diligently to plan additional activities to take care of the large increase in membership.

Assisting Mrs. William Eastman, committee chairman, and Mrs. Maxedine Goldsmith, Girls Club director, are Mmes. Harold G. Appleton, William Macrate, Gus A. Walker, Robert J. Rittner, Calvert Strong, Lyman G. Berg, Carl Ward, Chris Conway, Homer Grant, Collins Cameron, Richard Browning, Marvin Clark, George Barker, Irving Smith Jr., Julius C. Molina, William Rhorer, Raymond Cary and Chester S. Yunker, incoming League president.

Mrs. Worden President of Ebell Juniors

Mrs. U. S. Worden, membership chairman of Ebell Juniors for the past club year, stepped up to the presidency at an election during the May luncheon meeting in the clubhouse. She succeeds Mrs. Roland L. Coltrane.

Other new officers are Mmes. John McCutcheon, first vice president; Thomas H. Epperson, second vice president; James J. Gardner, third vice president, and J. Malcolm Johnson, fourth vice president.

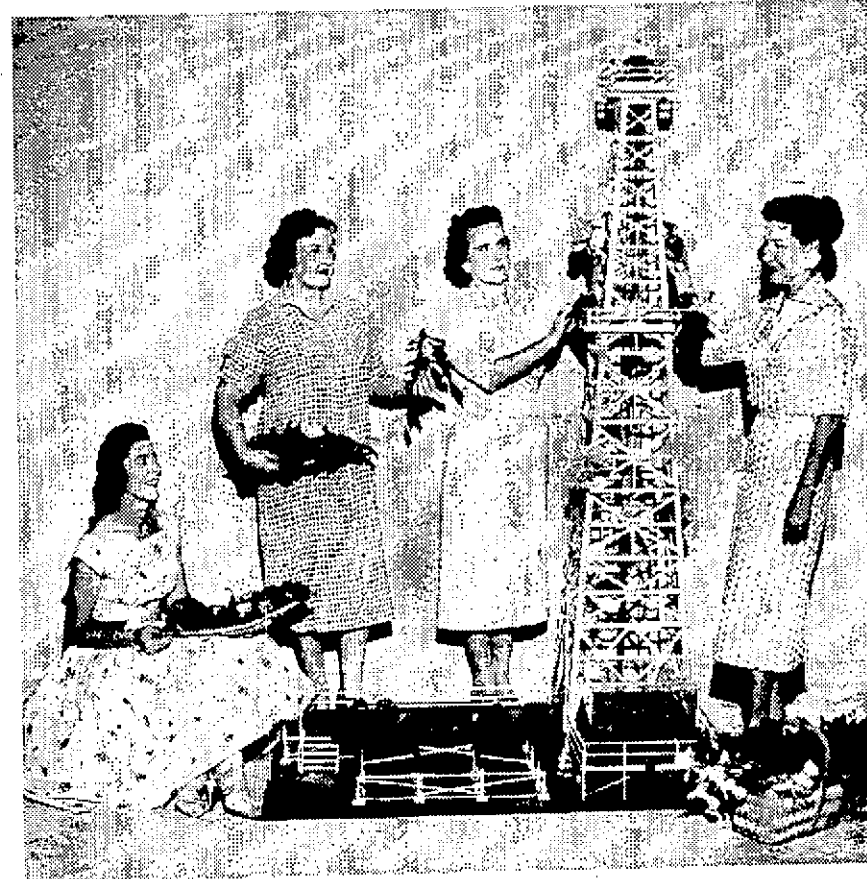

Also Mmes. Eugene J. Long, financial secretary; I. S. Runolfsson, treasurer; Fred D. Hesley, recording secretary; and Glen Anderson, corresponding secretary.

INSTALLATION will take place May 28 at a luncheon gathering in Disneyland Hotel.

During the meeting the pleasant assignment of presenting a corsage to each provisional member, thus welcoming them into the club as an active member, was taken by Mrs. Worden, who had guided their activities their first year.

Paula Chace to Wed

Of special interest today to their many friends in the Southland is the formal announcement by Supervisor and Mrs. Burton W. Chace of the betrothal of their daughter, Paula Cathleen, to Ralph W. Irwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Irwin, 3830 Myrtle Ave. The prominent young people, both seniors at USC, plan to marry Sept. 7.

A Maytime tea was given last Sunday in the Chace home, 4160 Country Club Dr., when asked to call were girlhood friends and schoolmates of Paula and her sister, Coni (Mrs. V. Ray Townsend Jr.), and their mothers. This past week Paula told the romantic news to her Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority sisters on campus. As guests arrived at the tea they were greeted and presented with a pair of silver wedding rings tied with white satin ribbon on which were inscribed "Ralph and Paula—Sept. 7, 1958." Passing out the announcements were Misses Susan Irwin, Pamela Chace, Susan Ward and Jeanne Graham.

MRS. RALPH IRWIN was presented to each guest by the hostess. Assisting hostesses during the afternoon were Misses T. R. Swenson, George Calderwood, E. J. Ballantyne, Edward F. Baker, William Dovey, Karl Ward, Morgan Stivers, Eugene Chace, Marjorie Solace and C. Kenyon Wells.

A beautiful antique silver service which belonged to the bride-elect's great-great grandmother, was placed at one end of the long dining room table. Covering the table was a four-layered white nylon net cloth gathered at the hem with blue satin ribbon; each bow was centered with a white blossom. The crystal chandelier above the table was wound with freesia and lilac and one of the sideboards held a bouquet of white peach blossoms from the Chace's garden, interspersed with syringa. Two Italian cherub statues in white and gold flanked another sideboard and the round mirror above it was framed with white nylon net encircled with white carnations.

A huge silver punchbowl in the luncheon room centered a round table covered with deeply ruffled pale yellow organdy cloth. Presiding there were Mrs. Don K. Wells, Misses Mary Calderwood, Judy Rupert, Lois Baker, Patsy Ziegler of Los Angeles and Barbara Tuohy of LaCanada.

Guests entered the garden from wide glass doors of this room and were seated at tables covered with yellow organdy and centered by ceramic gondolas and cupid gondoliers. Inside each was a miniature bride and bridegroom. One gilded bird cage in the garden hid a loud speaker which carried soft music throughout the tea hours. On its top perched two doves. Other cages were interwoven with fresh green ivy on which bright birds, butterflies and bees rested.

OTHER DECOR throughout the home included white lilacs and syringa laced through the stairway railing. A white heart frame of tulle over the fireplace in the living room held the pictures of the young pair. White doves appeared to be holding the frame in their beaks from the white satin streamers.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Polytechnic High School where she was a member of Scholarship Society and Phi Gamma Chi. At USC she is affiliated also with Zeta Phi Eta, speech fraternity, and treasurer of the YWCA.

Her fiancé is a graduate of Wilson High School where he played on the golf team for three years and on the winning CIF title team. He was named to the All-City Golf Team at USC and was winner of the Fraternity Golf Tournament. He is affiliated with Delta Tau Delta and is a member of Trojan Knight.

bride's book, now ivory with age, preserves the clippings and portraits of her wedding as well as swatches of her wedding gown and trousseau. Along with treasured memories of their wedding day is the photograph of their golden wedding anniversary seven years ago.

THE COUPLE'S grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald C. Jackson, and great-grandchildren, Cheri Marie and Scott Edward Jackson, assisted the hosts.

Gold carnations decorated the tea table adorned with a wedding cake and punchbowl.

The Jacksons were among the first young couples to be married in 1901 in First Methodist Church, then located at 5th St. and Pine Ave. Except for a three-month trip east in 1929, they have not left Long Beach for any length of time.

Jackson was graduated in pharmacy from Purdue University, Ind., and had the second drug store in Long Beach. It was located at 139 Pine Ave. and he paid $15 a month rent. Later the same location rented for $1,000 a month.

HE WAS living in Long Beach when the town was reincorporated. At that time the population was about 500, he recalls.

Jackson is the only living charter member of the Sons of Veterans of the Civil War. He was commander here three years ago.

Mrs. Jackson is the only living charter member of Ebells of Long Beach. Her

LONG BEACH STATE COLLEGE EVENTS
by PLACER JUNE

Tuesday and Thursday seem to be the busiest days at Long Beach State College in the week ahead.

Tuesday noon, the El Camino JC Choir and Madrigal Singers will visit the campus for a concert in the Little Theater. An extremely varied program, ranging from an excerpt from Bach's "B-Minor Mass" to "Bye, Bye, Blues," is in the offing, and judging from the amount of interest exhibited so far, this concert will definitely hang out the SRO sign early.

At 2 p.m. Califias (women's honorary service group) will hold open house in the Soroptimist House. Invitations have been mailed to all LBSC organizations who have covecs among them, and the open house will serve to orientate these potential members on such items as grade points, service hours, and activities pertinent to the group.

Califias currently has 24 girls, according to President Pat Tully, and wants to add "quite a few new members" to the list. Aggie Krunic and Phyllis Hankins are in charge of Tuesday's program.

CALIFIAS RECENTLY finished a project, suggested by Carolyn Poyet who is a volunteer worker at the Veterans Hospital, of making cartoon books for the hospitalized veterans just across the fence from Long Beach State.

On the calendar are two items: an exchange and pot luck dinner with their male counterparts in the honorary service field—the Statesman, with time and place still undecided; and tapping new members at the AWS Brunch early in June.

Then, that same day at 6:30 p.m., the College Religious Council will host the several different religious clubs at State at a potluck dinner in the same Soroptimist House. About 60 persons are expected to be on hand, with the ensuing program centering around a "Panel of Americans" from UCLA. CRC moderator Bob Ennis, is handling the details.

THURSDAY NOON in Classroom 139 the last "This I Believe" lecture of the current school year will be given. The College Religious Council sponsors this series of talks wherein members of the faculty present their philosophy and beliefs. Dr. Arlene Roster of the educational staff is the speaker.

And a few hours later in the gymnasium, another last affair of the year: the final in the series of Co-Ree (Coeducational Recreation) Nights. Three hours of volleyball, badminton, ping-pong, and dancing will begin at 7:30 p.m. Admission is free, come stag or drag, and there will be free refreshments. Social Commissioners Nellie Bell (outgoing) and Bob Swansbrough (incoming) are handling the details of this one.

AND ON FRIDAY NIGHT, in the Recreation Park Clubhouse, there is the Associated Women Students' "Speak Easy Swing." Starts at 7:30, we are told in a little communique which goes on to say: "Be sure and wear a disguise in case of a raid."

Can't close without commenting on the seeming troubles of one of our coed readers. "If you ever write a column on advice to the lovelorn," she said, "make sure you tell girls not to try to plan a marriage and go to class at the same time."

Bullfighting Is Taboo Here

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: When that young girl wrote you and asked if she should become a lady bull-fighter, I am glad you discouraged her.

Doesn't this girl know that while bull-fighters appear to be brave and glamorous in their costumes, they are cowards, fighting animals who have been tortured until they are mad and vicious? There is no real "sport" involved. There are many careers that offer glamour, excitement and adventure without the cruelty of torturing animals for the amusement of on-lookers. If you share my viewpoint, I hope to see this in print.—B.F.S.

ABBY

DEAR B.F.S.: By American standards, bullfighting is considered inhumane, and is not permitted here. Of course I share your viewpoint, and I'm sure we have plenty of company.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with a man for three years. We aren't kids as I'm 46 and he's 50. He is the type who thinks everything over a long time and he doesn't like to be rushed. He told me he will marry me when the weather clears up. My friends tell me he is wasting my time. I am not getting any younger. How can I close this deal?—ANXIOUS

DEAR ANXIOUS: Don't stand on ceremonies. Tell him you have marriage in mind and ask him what's on his mind.

DEAR ABBY: We share a party line with the most inconsiderate people anyone could imagine. They interrupt our conversations with wise cracks and once the missus broke in on me saying they had to have the line for an "emergency" call and then she called up her grocer. Another time they left the phone off the hook and we could hear the whole "Playhouse 90" program which took an hour and a half. Do you think if we complained to the telephone company they would do anything about it? My friends say they won't.—IMPOSED UPON

DEAR IMPOSED: Your friends are misinformed. Notify the telephone company.

DEAR MISS VAN BUREN: The "vet" who told you that people do not get diseases from dogs, but dogs get diseases from people had better go back to school. Dogs are reservoirs of: Leptospira canicola, Leptospira icterohemorrhagiae, Leishmania Donovan, Echinococcus granulosum, Microsporium canis (lanosum), Ctenocephalides canis and Dipylidium caninum, all of which cause diseases which can be transmitted from dog to man. Very truly yours. — ANOTHER "VET"

CONFIDENTIAL TO "GOING PLACES": Be nice to people on your way up—you'll probably meet them again—on your way down!

DEAR ABBY: I want to know if it is proper for a girl to ask a fellow where he intends to take her when he calls her up and asks for a date? I feel embarrassed to ask and then I start worrying about what to wear. I usually guess wrong and dress

By VERA WILLIAMS
Independent Press-Telegram Art Editor

Art work of 18 motion pictures, most of which have not yet been released, may be seen in the exhibition "Arts of Southern California III—Art in Film" which opens today in the Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.

Also opening are paintings and prints by Bettina Brendel of Downey, prints by contemporary British artists, and recent acquisitions and art loan in the Museum collection.

Athena Hall, Mrs. H. O. Fox, Ruth Ellison, Fern Ison

tion picture industry, the new exhibition follows "Arts of Southern California I—Architecture" in the Museum last June and "II—Painting" last January.

Set designs, models, watercolors, drawings, costume sketches and plastic models show the work of illustrators, designers and sculptors at MGM, 20th Century Fox and UPA studios.

Included are David Hall illustrations for "Ben Hur"; 9-foot tall backings of Seurat's "La Grande Jatte" for "Lust for Life" and landscape for "The Swan"; watercolor scenes for "South Pacific"; set models for "A Certain Smile" and drawing sequences for the animated cartoon "Love Comes to Mr. Magoo."

"Art in Film" will tour leading museums and art galleries of the nation.

The Bettina Brendel exhibition represents the seventh in a series of one-man shows presented at the museum since last September. Other artists whose works have been seen are Ben Messick, Lucille Brown Greene, William McEnroe, Nels Y. Nelson, Frode Dann and J. Patrick MacLean.

Miss Brendel, trained in Hamburg and Munich, has exhibited in the Esther Robles Gallery, the National Orange Show, Chaffey Invitational Exhibition and in the Los Angeles County Museum. Her work is represented in the Long Beach Museum of Art collection.

The four exhibitions will be on display through June 1. The museum is open daily Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Friday evenings 7:30 to 10, and Sunday 1 to 5 p.m. Admission is free.

"METAMORPHOSIS," oil and encaustic by Fran Soldini, 5611 E. Ocean Blvd., has been accepted for the 1958 annual exhibition. Artists of Los Angeles and vicinity May 21-June 29 in the Los Angeles County Museum, Exposition Park, 900 Exposition Blvd., Los Angeles.

The painting is a horizontal panel in soft iridescent grays shading to brown. The free form suggests the evolution of fish. Museum critics said the painting reminds them of old Egyptian fresco.

LELA SARNOW-ADAMS has a one-man show in the Hacienda Hotel, 301 S. Westcott St., San Pedro, through May. The show is sponsored by the San Pedro Art Assn. Mrs. Adams has been a student of the Long Beach Academy of Art four years and has participated in numerous local exhibitions.

COMMUNITY ARTS ASSN. and the Palos Verdes Estates Public Library and Art Gallery will present the 12th Purchase Prize exhibit in oils until May 30 in Palos Verdes Art Gallery, 2400 Via Campesina, Palos Verdes. The public is invited to a reception and tea from 3 until 5 p.m. today to meet the artists.

HUANG CHU-PI, dean of the art department of Taiman University, and one of China's most important artists, has a one-man exhibition of watercolors in the Laguna Beach Art Gallery, 307 Cliff Dr., Laguna Beach. It is the same exhibition he recently had in Washington, D. C., when he was received by President and Mrs. Eisenhower. He is the author of the definitive "History of Chinese Painting."

Also shown in the Laguna Beach Art Assn. is the Laguna Beach Art Assn. "no jury" show, and a selection of murine paintings, both oils and watercolors.

A BLUE STAR SAPPHIRE Madonna presented to the Pasadena Art Museum last week, will remain on display during the May Festival at the museum, 46 N. Los Robles Ave., Pasadena. Receptions, lectures, art films, and music make up the festival program.

Dr. Harrison S. Brown, James Bonner and John Weir of the California Institute of Technology will conduct a round table at 2:30 p.m. May 18 on "The Next 100 Years." Vincent Price, actor, art collector, TV personality, will speak at 3 p.m. May 25.

THE ARTIST AND HIS WORK

Ron Adkins, 18-year-old Jordan High School senior, puts the finishing touches to his cubistic tempera painting of "The Last Supper," displayed in the Jordan art exhibit.

Major & Minor Notes

By RACHEL MORTON

Heretofore I have told of the great singers, conductors and instrumentalists I have met and known. Today I want to tell about a great composer with whom I spent a happy afternoon recently. His name is Dr. Richard Hageman and he lives in a charming home in Beverly Hills.

I suppose there is not a concert singer today who has not included on his program at least one Hageman song. The ones I love the best and have used the most are "Do Not Go My Love," "At the Well," "Music I Heard With You" and "Miranda."

They are beautiful songs and will live forever. Although Dr. Hageman is 76 years old he is still writing lovely songs. He showed me four just back from G. Schirmer, publisher. They are entitled "The City," "Beggars' Love," "At Heaven's Door" and "Oh, Lovely World."

IN WHO'S WHO, Dr. Hageman is listed as composer, conductor, pianist. This gifted gentleman was born in Holland on July 9, 1882. His father was the director of the Amsterdam Conservatory and when Richard was just a little boy of six the father would have him play the piano two hours every evening, reading everything available and oftentimes accompanying his father who was a fine violinist. In fact, his father as a young man in Amsterdam had won a first prize in piano and violin all in the same year at the Conservatory.

So, with such a background, it is not so astonishing to see young Richard a pupil at the Brussels Conservatory at the age of 10, where he remained for four years. And at 16 he was an assistant conductor at the Royal Opera of Amsterdam.

Most "oaks from little acorns grow," but with Richard Hageman the great oaks of success seem never to have needed any little acorns. For example, when he was but a young man of 16, and an accompanist at the opera, suddenly one night the conductor failed to appear. The opera was new to Amsterdam but not to Richard Hageman. It was Massenet's "Herodias."

"I know the score," he announced, "let me conduct the opera." There was no alternative. Young Richard conducted, and so well, that he became at once an assistant conductor. At 18 he became a first conductor.

HE WAS FOND of the French repertoire and he went to Paris for better acquaintance with it. One evening he met a fascinating young singer with red hair who complained that she was sailing for a tour in America with an accompanist so old and so grumpy that the prospects looked bleak.

"Why not let me come along as your accompanist," Mr. Hageman proffered. He played for her. She was delighted.

"You are engaged as my accompanist," she said. "When do we leave, Madame?"

"Tomorrow morning," she said.

But all unperturbed he went home, packed his things and sailed next day as the accompanist of Yvette Guilbert. That is how he first came to America.

(To be concluded next Sunday)

Music Lecture by Popper on Special Series

Dr. Jan Popper, professor of music at UCLA, will be presented by the Valerie Silver Theater Arts Foundation on May 18, at 3 p.m.

This presentation will be the third event of the Living Arts for Everyday Living Series, to be given at Miss Silver's Studio, 2740 E. Broadway. Dr. Popper is a noted musicologist, whose talent for making music live in his roles as conductor and raconteur has won him wide acclaim and admiration.

During 1955 and 1956 he wrote and supervised the TV productions of "Spotlight on Opera." With his wife Beta, he has appeared in a number of lecture-recitals based on opera, the German Art Song, and the folklore of Europe.

He has conducted a number of student Opera Productions and has been guest conductor at the Hollywood Bowl. Dr. Popper has chosen "Journey Into Melody" as his subject for the afternoon group.

Tickets may be obtained at the Valerie Silver Studio, 2740 E. Broadway.

Jordan High Mural Arousing Comment

"The Last Supper," painted in abstract, cubistic form by Ron Adkins, 18, Jordan senior, attracted considerable attention at the second annual art exhibit in the Jordan High School library.

Taking the advice of his mother to produce an abstract with a religious subject, Ron worked with the original Da Vinci masterpiece in mind. Ron has painted three "Last Supper" murals. The first was accidentally destroyed. The second won a $100 scholarship in competition at the California Federation of Women's Clubs convention in Sacramento. The third, in orange, gray, black and brown tempera tones appeared in the art show.

AWARE of the controversy concerning the mural, Ron explains: "The theme is sincere in its attempt to hold the spirit of God within its structure, while reaching into a vast new field of theories and form in art. The form combines with the dynamic subject matter to excite deep human emotions."

Ron, 5373 Rose Ave., intends to follow art as a career. He has been responsible for many decorations, sets and scenes used in Jordan presentations.

The Jordan art exhibit also included Jim Chandler's Swedish modern chair, which won fourth place in the Ford Motor Co. industrial arts competition in Detroit; miniature houses by Ken Short and Bill Royce; paintings, sketches, fashion illustrations, furniture interiors, photographs, cartoons, ceramics and tile portraits.

Club Rates to First-Timers

An introductory block ticket offer to clubs and organizations who plan to see their first production at The Magnolia Theatre, 2400 Magnolia Ave., is being made by the Little Theater group.

Generally the minimum number of tickets at reduced rates available to a group is 50; but for those clubs who have never used the interesting means of swelling the treasury, arrangements have been made for reserved blocks of 35 seats for any Thursday or Sunday evenings.

ORGANIZATIONS may resell the tickets at face value, thus realizing a profit for the group, or when no fund raising is in the offing, they may be used at the special rate by the members themselves.

Club reservations for the forthcoming "The Brass Ring," a comedy that romps in and out of the day dreams and nightmares of one man, may be made by calling Mrs. Hans Weil at the Magnolia Theater.

Arts Mingle in Festivities at Ojai

The first invitational festival exhibition of California painters opened May 6 in the Ojai Community Art Center, where it will remain through the month, focusing attention on the Ojai Music Festival May 23-25. William McEnroe, former Long Beach resident, now head of the art department of Ventura College, is a member of the host committee and will participate in a panel discussion at 2:30 p.m. May 18. A reception honoring the artists will be 1 to 4 p.m. May 25.

SOMETHING FOR THE BOYS

Mind Your Manners South of the Border!

By TED KREC

Vacation time is coming up fast, and soon John Q. Tourist and family will be hitting the road for the annual journey. Many will head south of the border, and I'd like to say a few words about this today.

Three years ago my wife and I drove to Mexico City. I came back with a new appreciation for our Latin neighbors and a rather painful opinion of American tourists.

To begin with, the Mexican people have certain taboos on clothing. They do not like to see women wearing shorts or slacks in public places. There is a certain formality about dress in Mexico, and our neighbors to the south are quite sensitive about it.

They will go all-out to be friendly and helpful, but they take a dim view of the proceedings when their social standards are violated.

BUT LET'S get down to cases. My wife and I found a charming little restaurant near Los Mochis and were enjoying our lunch thoroughly. The waiter was a wonderful little guy who knew just enough English to be delightful. He wore a wide smile beneath his full mustache, and we were having a fine time. Then disaster struck.

A bus pulled up outside—full of American tourists. In they came, bringing their astrology and comic books with them. The women were dressed sloppily — many in shorts and slacks — and I didn't see one man in a coat. They just took over the place — shouting at our little friend as though he were some sort of uncomprehending animal. One big fat slob with a flowered sport shirt outside of his trousers finally wound it up.

He started calling the waiter "Senor Spaghetti," and suddenly there was no more fun in the place for me. "Let's go," I said to my wife, "before I hit that big dumb clod right in the nose!" So we left.

Why do they do this? That's easy. Take a man going to Mexico with $200 spending money. When he gets there he finds that, due to the rate of exchange, his money has purchasing power of $2,400 in Mexico. The people in Mexico have very little — so our friend feels most superior. He looks with scorn on these "backward" people (who have been in America since before Columbus).

"After all," the American tourist will tell you, "we're AMERICANS! We do things differently." In other words, Americans are SUPERMEN (Adolf Hitler please note, wherever you may be.) Americans can do no wrong. That's why the women wear shorts and slacks and the men go coatless despite the Mexican taboos. That's why they go into fashionable Mexico City restaurants wearing garish attire and browbeat-

CHEF OF THE WEEK

Pat Horgan Lives a Very Busy Life!

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
Independent Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

His theory is that a man should look as if he had been assembled casually—not added up on purpose. For instance . . . Chef of the Week Patrick M. (Pat) Horgan can't be too bothered if there's a bit of a clash between the necktie and the sock. They're worn on opposite ends, says he.

This lapse in color does not apply to his brand new trailer, however. It was green and his car was blue, which jarred his esthetic taste a little. The trailer now is a soft, smooth, elegant blue.

Pat is a native Californian. He started out in Concord, moved to Oxnard at the age of 7, and to Wilmington in 1922. He attended Banning High School and USC School of Pharmacy, from which he was graduated with a degree. To make his four years at college even more interesting, he "slung" hash for his lunch—served as house manager for his lodging; and for incidentals, he worked in a drug store nights and Saturdays. He made it, though, and with flying colors.

FOLLOWING graduation he did his pharmacy apprenticeship with a local drug store before going on the road for a large drug firm. This venture was interrupted by World War II, and for the next four years he wore the Navy blues—serving with an underwater demolition outfit. His underwater experiences were many, varied and hazardous, but they merited him a Silver Star, presented to him by Adm. Nimitz.

With his discharge came the awareness that it was time to become his own boss. He bought his own store, and

Oswald Jacoby Percent Play Keeps Loss to Minimum

Written for NEA Service. In today's hand Marshall Miles covers an interesting duplicate situation.

You are South and have made a sound non-vulnerable overcall. You now find yourself in four spades doubled. You are sure from the bidding that the ace of diamonds is held by East so you count two diamond and three club losers. If you also lose a trump trick you will be down 500 for a very bad duplicate score.

You also note that East and West will play some heart contract at most other tables and will be unable to make four hearts if each one holds two spades. Hence, the only chance to get a decent duplicate score is to go down only two tricks against an unconv break in trumps.

If any one is going to hold three trumps it will be East. Then what is the best percentage play to keep from losing a trump trick?

The play is to get to dummy by ruffing a heart and to lead the spade jack. If this loses to a singleton queen you look like an idiot. If West's singleton is any one of the other three spades you lose no spade trick. You may have to go back to dummy again but there is another heart to ruff and you have plenty of time.

Instructor Will Speak

John Gartner, writer and journalism instructor at Long Beach City College, will discuss writing and marketing stories and articles as well as other problems confronting a writer at a meeting Wednesday of the Long Beach area group of Theta Sigma Phi, national fraternity for women in journalism.

The gathering will take place at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Glenn A. Wintemute, 5757 Deborah St. The hostess, a former pupil of Gartner's, will introduce him to members and their guests.

MOLLY MAYFIELD

Neighbor 'Annexes' Hubby

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have a neighbor, a close friend of mine (or was), who truly is getting under my skin. Late-ly her husband has been away quite often on business trips—so she virtually has annexed my husband.

She'll wait until she sees his car pull into the drive, then over she'll dash with some excuse that she wants his advice. Or will he come over and help her fix a fuse, or what would we say to a cozy threesome for the movies tonight?

If I say I don't have a babysitter, or it's too late to get one, then she'll chirp, "Well, what about your taking me, Charles?"

And Charles, being the typical male, falls for it and fawns on her. I told him the other day if he didn't start putting her in her place, I would, and right now I'm just spoiling for a fracas!

What do you advise me to do?

ANGRY ANNE

DEAR ANGRY ANNE: For one thing, I'd lay down the law to hubby that no movies alone with this neighbor gal is the order of the day. And, if he pays no heed, I'd lay down the law to her, and in front of her husband, too.

Secondly, I'd spoil this grasping female's blandishment by interrupting her act right in the middle. As often as seemed feasible I'd plead, "Sorry, you'll have to excuse us, WE'RE busy right now," or some such.

I've seen examples of what these fawning, overly-friendly females can do that would make your hair stand on end. There's certainly no point in letting this one take advantage of Charles' "typical maleness!"—M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

What would you do with a 16-year-old daughter who flirts with every elderly gentleman her father brings to the house?

We have scolded her repeatedly about this, and she just laughs and says she's practicing her "wiles" on the old codgers, and that it's simply to keep in practice, or polish her technique. You can imagine how embarrassing this is to her father and me, for some of these older gentlemen seem to take the child seriously.

I do hate to see them made such fools of.

LAVONA

DEAR LAVONA:

Why that little she-devil! She ought to be plunked across Papa's knee and paddled.

But maybe it would be better to make her feel ridiculous. If you remarked casually at intervals how atrociously silly she seems to the guests, and infer that this act brands her as a real stupid sweet 16, she might begin to feel that her tactics are not so smart, after all.

Sixteensters cannot stand to be ridiculed, you know. M.M.

Work To Start Soon On Big Harbor Building

Real Estate and BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Independent-Press-Telegram

SUNDAY, MAY 11, 1958 SECTION R

To Erect 7-Story Structure

Construction of the seven-story Long Beach Harbor Department administration building on the easterly extension of Pier A will get under way late this month, Noble Millie and Severson Contractors, announced Saturday. The firm will build the $3,000,000 office building as a joint venture with C. L. Peck, Los Angeles contractor.

Huge trucks are now making a fill in the area, hauling in tons of earth, and when completed the ground breaking ceremony will be staged and work will be launched.

Inadequate to house the huge growth in Harbor Department personnel necessitated by the expansion and big increase in business of the harbor, the familiar old Mediterranean style building at 1331 El Embarcadero will be abandoned for the towering new structure in efficient contemporary styling.

By late next year the country's most modern port will have its most modern administration building.

Months of collaboration with Harbor Department officials and commissioners enabled Architects Warren Dedrick and James R. Friend to prepare drawings to house all of the departments' requirements in a compact, highly workable structure.

OVER THE YEARS the harbor area has been host to many unusual and major construction projects. The erection of the Administration building will be no exception to that tradition in that it will be the largest office type building in the vicinity.

A 10-acre site was reserved for the project even though the building proper will occupy but a small area. Considerable space has been allocated for parking. A network of secondary, service-type roads will surround the lot for safe traffic patterns. Unpaved portions of the site will be landscaped, hundreds of trees and plants will add a green, park-like atmosphere to the otherwise stark, dock type surroundings.

APPROACH TO THE principal entrance will be across a broad esplanade more than 100 feet square, simply treated with colored, exposed pebble paving and a few benches and planting areas.

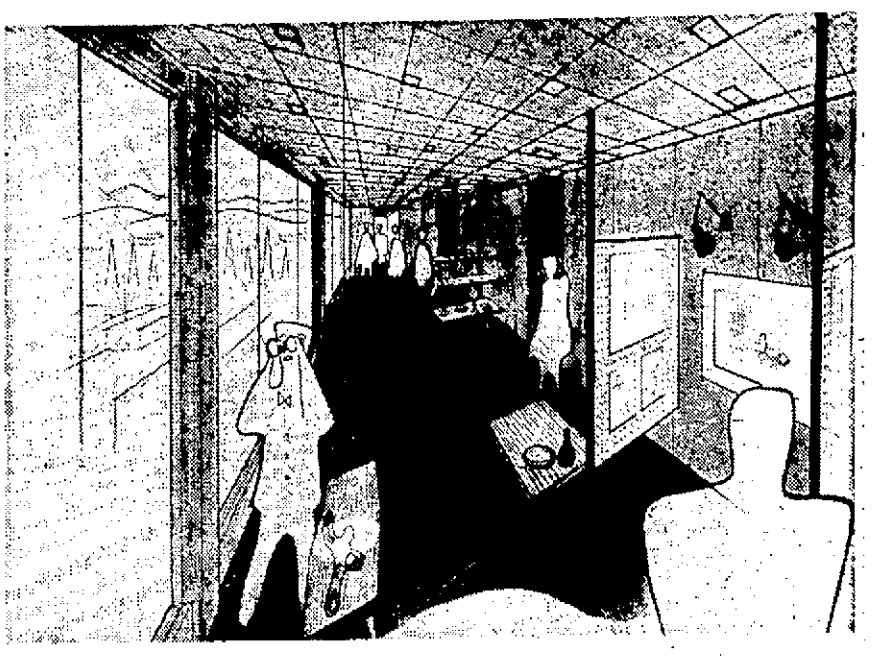

At the end of the esplanade will be a 17 feet by 75 feet mural, the image of which will be reflected in an adjacent shallow pool. Nearly 500 large size pieces of clay tile will be hand painted, then fired in ovens to permanently reproduce in brilliant color a mural that is intended to tell at a glance the major history of the Long Beach Harbor.

The mural wall will be illuminated at night by lights secreted in the bottom of the reflecting pool.

A SPLIT ENTRANCE will bring visitors around either side of the reflecting pool into the building lobby and directly to the elevators. Other portions of the ground floor will house the utility and service requirements as well as a garage.

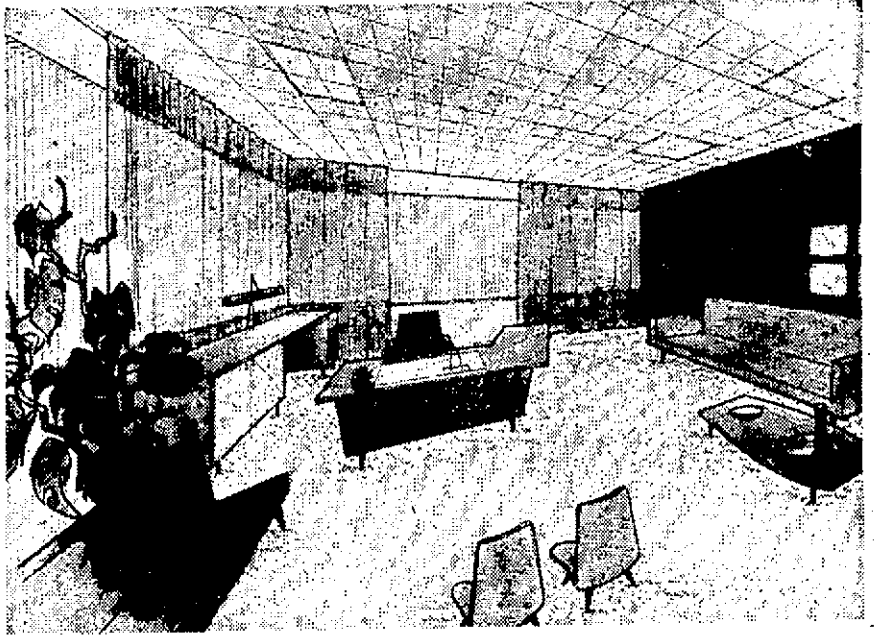

INCORPORATED WITHIN are facilities to suit the principal divisions of the Harbor Department including administrative, engineering, petroleum, and accounting sections. A single floor is given over to the Long Beach Oil Development Co. that directs much oil activity in the area. Three high speed elevators will whisk passengers to the various floors.

The sixth floor board room will be the scene of public func-

VIEWING GALLERY FEATURED

One outstanding feature of the new Harbor Department building will be the glass enclosed viewing gallery. From it visitors can see all over the harbor. There also will be displays of foreign imports in the gallery. It will be on the sixth floor.

GENERAL MANAGER'S OFFICE

Showing the spaciousness of the big building, this will be the office of the general manager of the port. It will be on the sixth floor of the seven-story structure.

lery will also be used to display various imports and exports together with other items of general interest.

THE BUILDING will be of steel frame construction. The exterior will have a skin of ceramic tile set on a pre-cast concrete backing. The smooth, tile face will give a colorful, faceted finish that will repel dust and grime. All windows can be opened only with a special device as the entire structure is fully air conditioned. High level artificial light will necessitate windows for psychological reasons only.

Quiz Program for Realtors

Larry Miller, president of the Long Beach Board of Realtors, announced that Lewis Hanscom, program chairman has engaged Norman Woest, community relations director for Title Insurance and Trust Co., Los Angeles, to present his Silver Dollar Quiz at the Tuesday "Early Bird" Breakfast meeting of Realtors.

The meeting is scheduled for 7:15 a.m. at the Lafayette Hotel in the Supper Room. Quizmaster Woest will award silver dollars to those who answer correctly his questions based on practical problems relating to real estate procedure.

Woest will be assisted in the program by Steve Birch, the company's customer relations representative for the Long Beach area.

Dorothy Annis Club Speaker

Dorothy Annis, executive secretary of the Long Beach Board of Realtors, will be the speaker Thursday morning at the breakfast meeting of the North Long Beach Real Estate Club. Her subject will be "Multiple Listings." The meeting will be at Mayo's Restaurant, 5925 Cherry Ave.

FHA Says Southland Economy Healthy as Home Sales Gain

By KEN CHILCOTE
Independent-Press-Telegram Business Editor

Stressing that home-owning and home-building activity indicate the economic health of a community, Director Norman Lyon of the Los Angeles insuring office of the Federal Housing Administration, says there has been no sign of falling or leveling off of such real estate activity in Southern Californians the past four months.

PROCESSING OF CASES also showed a healthy gain, as commitments were issued for 2708 cases in April 1958, as compared with 2570 in March 1958. Here again, Lyon noted, continues to lead the nation by a large margin in the applications received and still is ahead on the commitments issued.

There were 63,718 cases received by the FHA in all of its 65 offices in the United States in March 1958, he added. If this figure would hold substantially for April, with the Los Angeles office receipts of 4487, we would appear to be doing better than 7 per cent of the entire business of the FHA, as far as receipts are concerned. "This is a notable record and bespeaks the activity of this progressive area as regards real estate building and financing. As funds appear to be available for FHA insured loans, it now may be a good time for the homeowner or builder to make use of this service, either by financing new construction, refinancing present loans, or consolidating where there is more than one loan on a property. FHA is an insuring agency for loans made by financial institutions and therefore any inquiry on FHA insured loans should be made to a local lending institution participating in the FHA program," he said.

Due to the increase in the sale of 10 per cent second trust deeds, the Guiver Co. announced the opening of its second office located at 5518 Del Amo Blvd., Lakewood, at the corner of Bellflower Blvd.

One of the largest second trust deed organizations in Southern California, with over $1 million in sales the past year, the Guiver Co. was founded three years ago under the leadership of Russ and Harold Guiver.

The new office which will be the company's headquarters will occupy approximately 2500 square feet. In addition to its 10 per cent program, the Guiver Co. will provide services for real estate sales, collections and escrows.

Park Westminister Asking None Down From Veterans

"Veterans can avail themselves of the no down payment GI privilege at Park Westminister, convenient home development in Westminister, paying only $179 total costs and impounds to move right in on the new government-insured terms," it was announced by James Young, vice president of Brighton-Bilt Homes.

"These quality-built, moderately-priced homes are located in the heart of the Southland's resort area, offering both vets and non-vets real California living at prices they can afford," Young stated.

"The response to this opportunity has been more than encouraging, particularly as the summer season gets underway," Young concluded.

VETERANS NEED PAY only 4 1/2 per cent interest on their VA loans, and $66 per month (including principal and interest). Non-vets or vets who have used their GI privileges require only 3 per cent down (plus 1/2 per cent mortgage insurance), and 5 1/4 per cent interest on FHA terms. There are no hidden charges, no second trust deeds or balloon payments, and all buyers receive a grant deed.

The homes are priced as low as $12,495. The spacious floor plans feature three bedrooms and two baths. An imaginative range of exterior stylings is introduced, offering either two-car garages or car ports. Many quality "extras" have been added, including Roper built-in ranges and ovens, disposals, confetti kitchen flooring, large linen closets, weather-stripped exterior doors, all natural ma-

Veterans can purchase at 4 1/2 per cent interest on homes priced at $12,750, $12,950 and $13,000 with monthly payments as low as $66.88, including principal and interest, and no down payments except the usual costs and impounds."

ATTRACTIVELY STYLED homes are offered in a wide variety of flexible plans with 3 bedrooms or 2 bedrooms and a den. There is also a choice of front or rear living rooms. Convenience zoned kitchens are planned for work-saving efficiency and all have a separate service porch.

From Long Beach, drive east on Carson which becomes Lincoln. Turn left (north) on Pioneer to Centralia; then right to Norwalk Blvd.

Hunt Foods' Fullerton Plant Safest in Nation

Competing for the first time in the National Safety Council's contest, the Hunt Foods' Fullerton plant won the first place safety plaque for compiling the outstanding safety record among national food-packing firms during 1957.

At a special meeting of plant personnel in the Foreman's Club Room, Carl Kalbfleisch, Hunt executive vice president, presented C. E. Cassidy, Fullerton plant superintendent, with the National Safety Council plaque. Cassidy accepted the award in behalf of all personnel of the plant and paid tribute to the people who by their cooperation and safety-consciousness made the award-winning record possible.

Hunt's accident frequency rate was one-half an accident per million man-hours worked, in comparison with the canned food division's over-all accident frequency rate of 10.65 accidents per million man-hours.

Studebaker to Produce Small Cars

DETROIT UP—Studebaker-Packard Corp. will bid for deeper penetration of the new car market next year with what it calls a new and different type of car.

The corporation has not described the car nor its probable price. It can be said, however, that the new vehicle, to be built in South Bend, will be in the smaller wheelbase class—smaller than the present Scotsman economy model. It can be said, too, that its price tag will put it into competition with many of the smaller foreign-built cars and with American Motors' Rambler models.

Harold E. Churchill, Studebaker-Packard president, announced plans for the new car at a stockholders' meeting. He did not disclose styling details or possible price tags.

Tremendous response at the opening of X-Homes Castles of Charm last week resulted in continuing the grand opening through this week end, the Hintz Construction Co., builders, announced.

The homes are in Orange County at Chapman and Lewis Ave., just south of the Santa Ana freeway.

Exceptionally low terms are very appealing, salesmen say. Down payment of only $295 will permit either a veteran or non-veteran to move right in, they added.

PRICED FROM $13,495, the Castles of Charm are built on pool sized lots and have many features. There are ornamental fireplaces, Bel Air hardwood cabinets, brick and stone planters, only genuine lath and plaster construction is used and they are in an ideal location near shopping centers and schools.

A CASTLE OF CHARM

Grand opening of the X-Homes Castles of Charm will be continued through today. The Orange County homes are selling on a down payment of only $295 for vet or non-vet.

Secluded Homewood Park Big Appeal to Families

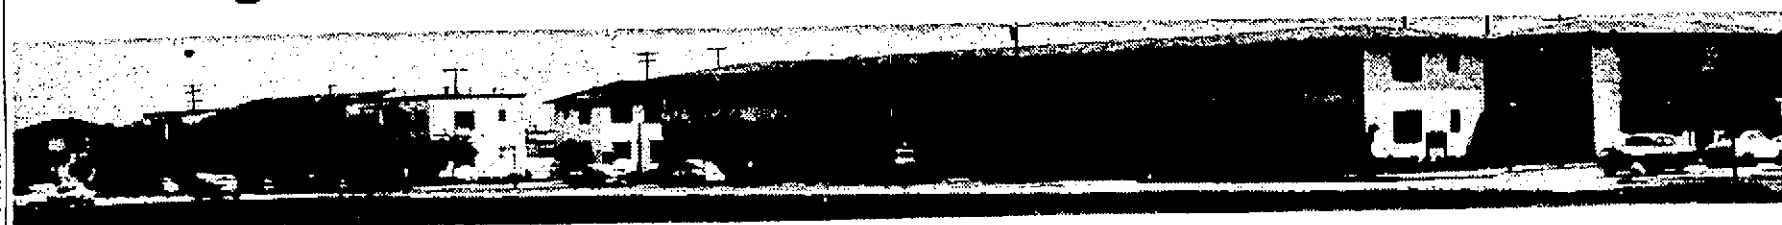

Mounting popularity of secluded Homewood Park is evidence that a great number of home buyers are seeking privacy and freedom from congested areas. A major attraction of these homes is the estate-like seclusion and high quality construction found available within average incomes, salesmen say these homes are off Seneca Dr. on Shawnee Road in Westminster.

IN WESTMINSTER

Homewood Park in Westminster is proving highly popular with homeseekers. Here is one of the models offered in the unit where prices range from $15,775.

56 Long Beach Apartments Sold for Over $500,000

SPECIALIZING IN SALES of income property, Harvey E. Miller, well known Long Beach Realtor for seven years, has continually encouraged income property ownership. He firmly believes that such property is the only real security against inflation and deflation. And, just to prove it, Miller, president of the Harvey Miller Co., 804 American Ave., last week purchased the Carleton Arms Apartments, above, for a sum in excess of $500,000. There are seven separate buildings with 56 one and two-bedroom units, some of them furnished. The buildings face California Ave., between Marcellus and 46th St., in the Bixby Knolls section. Mr. and Mrs. Harl Spilman have been appointed managers of the property and plans are under way for future improvements of the units. Mr. and Mrs. Truman Denny were the sellers of the property.

Iliff Honored

Bruce Iliff of Pro-cast Concrete Products, Long Beach, was elected treasurer of the Concrete Masonry Assn. at the annual convention held last week in Bakersfield, Calif.

New Terms on Windsor Greens

Windsor Greens, one of the last prestige home developments in the Long Beach area, has new terms enabling home seekers to own one of the dwellings for as little as $29,750.

Buyers have the opportunity to trade-in the equity in their old home on one of the new Windsor Greens models. Or, they may choose to make a down payment as low as $4,475. Financing terms are readily arranged to suit the buyer's needs.

Surrounded by the beauty of the Lakewood golf course, this community offers a country-side setting. The ideal location combines the in-town conveniences of near-by shopping centers and schools with year-around resort facilities.

DISTINCTIVE estate-styled

Windsor Greens homes are available in varied 3-bedroom, family room or convertible den floor plans, all with 2½ baths. Private garden entry courts create an atmosphere of charm and relaxation.

Richly appointed interiors include massive stone or brick fireplace, full-paneled living room wall, stunning lighting fixtures, and marble pullmans in the bathrooms. Kitchens are

OUR COVER

If you haven't already had the pleasure, meet Marlene Willis, who at 16, is moving up fast on the Hollywood scene. Her marked talent for music, especially singing, since she was old enough to toddle, has made the difference. At 14, she toured the country with Horace Heidt's band and has since appeared in concerts and with various bands, has been on TV, radio and stage, and has made two pictures—"Rockabilly Baby" in which she sings the main part, and "Fantastic Puppet People" in which she turns into a puppet. While she can pick up and carry any tune, she is averse to noises. She cannot, for instance, eat lettuce; says its crunching hurts her ears! But Marlene never hurt anyone's eyes. She's pretty from her toes to the top of her head; especially so in a bathing suit, don't you think?

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the origin of the surname GRANT.—D.G., Long Beach.

D.G.: GRANT was the first spelling of the word "grand" meaning "large, stout man" over 900 years ago in France. This word was assimilated into the English language after the 11th century French conquest of Britain. The Grant family were first recorded in Warwickshire, England, but descendants migrated to Scotland where they became a famous clan. Their coat-of-arms has three gold crowns on a red shield, with the motto "Stand firm." Our famous President Ulysses Grant was a descendant of Matthew Grant who settled in Dorchester, Mass., in 1630.

DEAR MISS RULE: I would appreciate information on the name THAYER.—Mrs. H. H. Bellflower; Z. T., Westminster.

H. H., Z. T.: THAYER, an English name, was taken from the early German given-name Theodoric meaning "ruler of the people." Theodoric was changed to Thierry in France; then brought to England in the 1100s where it became Thiry and Thayer. The coat-of-arms of the Thayers of Essex, England, consists of three hunting dog heads on an ermine-covered shield. Thomas Thayer of Gloucestershire, England, was the 17th century ancestor of many of the Thayers of America.

DEAR MISS RULE: I would like information about MATTHIENSEN from Denmark.—J. M., Palos Verdes.

J. M.: The Biblical baptismal name Matthew was the source of many surnames in western European nations. The Danish surname MATTHIENSEN meaning "son of Matthew" is synonymous with the English names Matthewson and Matheson. Saint Matthew's name had the ancient Hebrew connotation "Gift of God." The Matthiessen lineage of Denmark were granted a coat-of-arms in the German city of Hamburg, two narrow silver stripes flanking a wide blue stripe across a red shield. On the blue stripe are three silver dog heads.

DEAR MISS RULE: Could you give genealogy on REEVES and REAVES.—N. M., P.T., Long Beach.

N. M., P.T.: A "Reeve" was bailiff or steward of an early English manorial estate. The surnames REEVES and REAVES represent "son of the reeve." William Le Reveson lived in Somerset, England, in 1327. The elaborate Reeves coat-of-arms has a portcullis (castle gate) between two silver crosses and three pelicans on a blue shield. Above and below these emblems are narrow gold chevrons.

DEAR MISS RULE: We would like brief history on our name BOOK.—MRS. L. B., Long Beach.

MRS. L. B.: BOOK is an American re-spelling of the German surname BUCH. The name began as Buche meaning beech-tree, which was an ancestral property landmark. In modern German "Buch" represents "book," but occupations such as book-seller or book-printer did not give rise to surnames, as printing was not invented until 1469 after the surname-adoption of the Buch lineage of (Continued on Page 30)

Where Winged Mercy Will Land

By Bob Whearley

UP OVER SIGNAL HILL comes a helicopter, the stubby blood-red cross of mercy painted on its thin, tapering fuselage.

Its blades chopping rhythmically, it slows as it descends over the south slope of the hill.

Down below, at the side of a huge, pale blue, cross-shaped building, white-jacketed attendants wheel a stretcher onto a concrete ramp.

A minute later, the 'copter settles down on the ramp with a gentle little bounce. Its engine dies, and it is still.

Quickly, the waiting attendants unstrap the man who lies in a lightweight, basket-shaped litter on the side of the helicopter. They transfer him to the stretcher and head for surgery.

It is a case when seconds can mean the difference between life and death.

The hospital, and the 800 persons who staff it, stand ready to tip the scales in favor of life. . . .

AT THE MOMENT, this is pure crystal gazing. But it's only a matter of a couple of years before this new Memorial Hospital—and its unique emergency ramp for aerial ambulances—will be in actual operation.

The heliport will be just one of the many features of the new hospital—a $10,800,000 monument to life itself.

Early in 1960, or possibly late in 1959, the staff of Seaside Memorial Hospital will move out of their present quarters at W. 14th St. and Chestnut Ave.—where some of the buildings date back almost a half-century—to the new 400-bed facility on a 21-acre site bounded by Columbia and E. 27th Sts. and Atlantic Ave. and Long Beach Blvd.

Ground-breaking for the building is set for May 18. Construction is being financed by a bond issue, with the City of Long Beach leasing the property to the hospital board. Equipment will be purchased with funds raised through public donations.

Let's skip ahead to 1960 and see what it will be like.

VISITORS WILL ENTER the hospital grounds on a tree-lined avenue which will be named Memorial Dr., which will run through the grounds from the southwest to the northeast.

Turning off Memorial Dr., you'll enter the main building directly from a portico over an entrance drive. Your chauffeur (a crystal gazer's license, you understand) can park your Cadillac at one of several parking lots which will provide space for more than 1,000 cars.

In time, the grounds will be lushly landscaped—muting traffic noises from nearby busy streets and blocking the ugly forest of oil rigs that jut skyward from Signal Hill.

The building itself will be in the shape of a cross. It will have a special type of porcelain facing, light blue in color, which is expected to retain its quality of newness through the years.

As you step inside the lobby, you'll see a spacious area featuring extensive use of glass and restful coordination of colors.

THIS IS WHERE the information desk will be located.

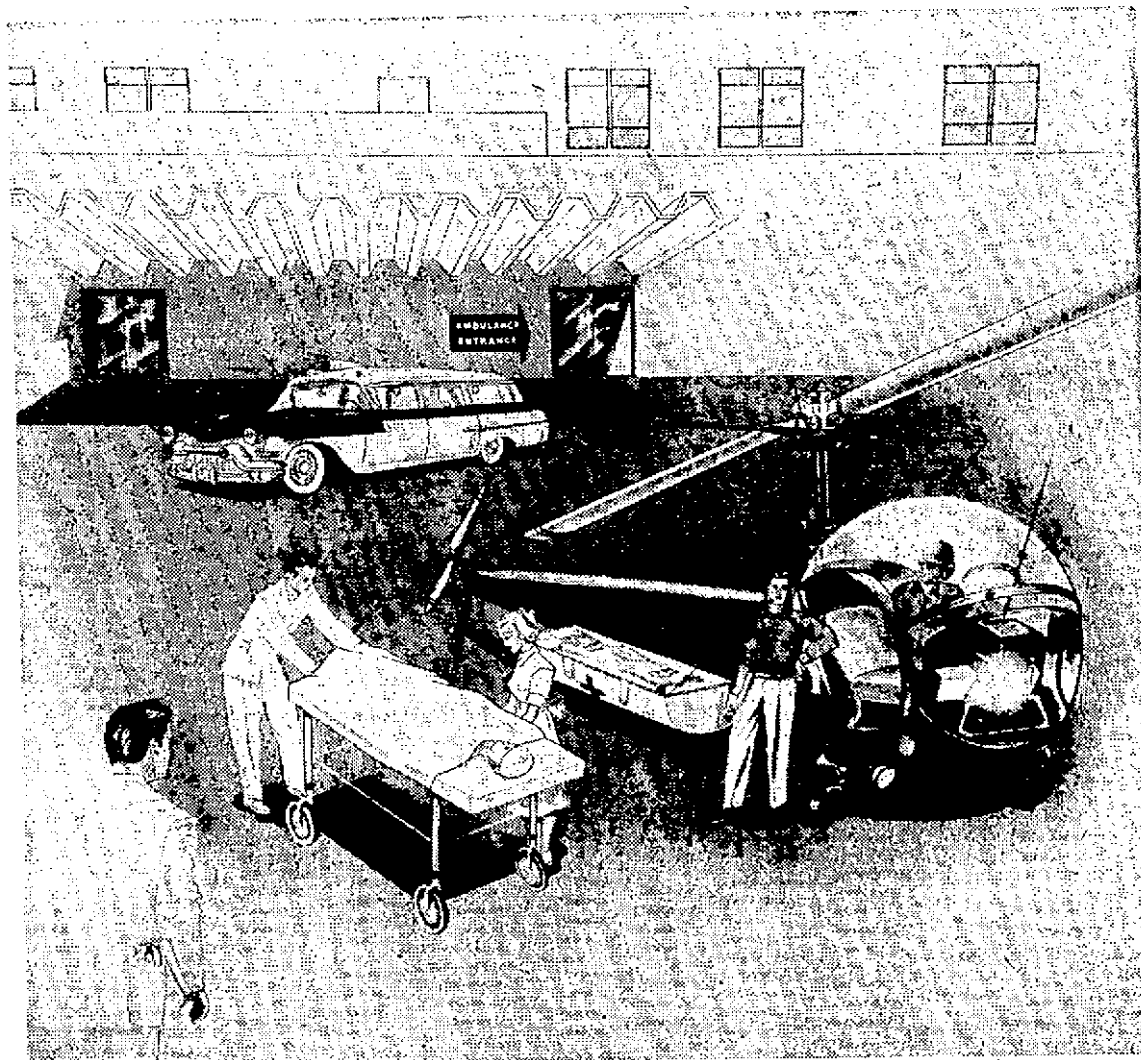

To the right will be a modernistic chapel, private rooms for families, personnel offices and the social service office.

On the left side of the lobby will be administrative offices, and snack bar, gift shop, medical library and medical records library. A doctors' lounge and admitting offices also will be located in this area.

The first floor also will have the emergency department, and beyond that will be X-ray facilities and 12 operating rooms.

Embodying a new concept, the hospital will group all supporting services for the surgeries and emergency

A heliport will be one of many 20th century innovations at Long Beach's new Memorial Hospital, for which groundbreaking ceremonies will be held May 18.

Patients' rooms will be comfortable, airy, decorated in pleasing colors.

Another unique feature will be a modernistic chapel. There will also be private rooms for families, a doctors' lounge. Hospital will open on Columbia St.

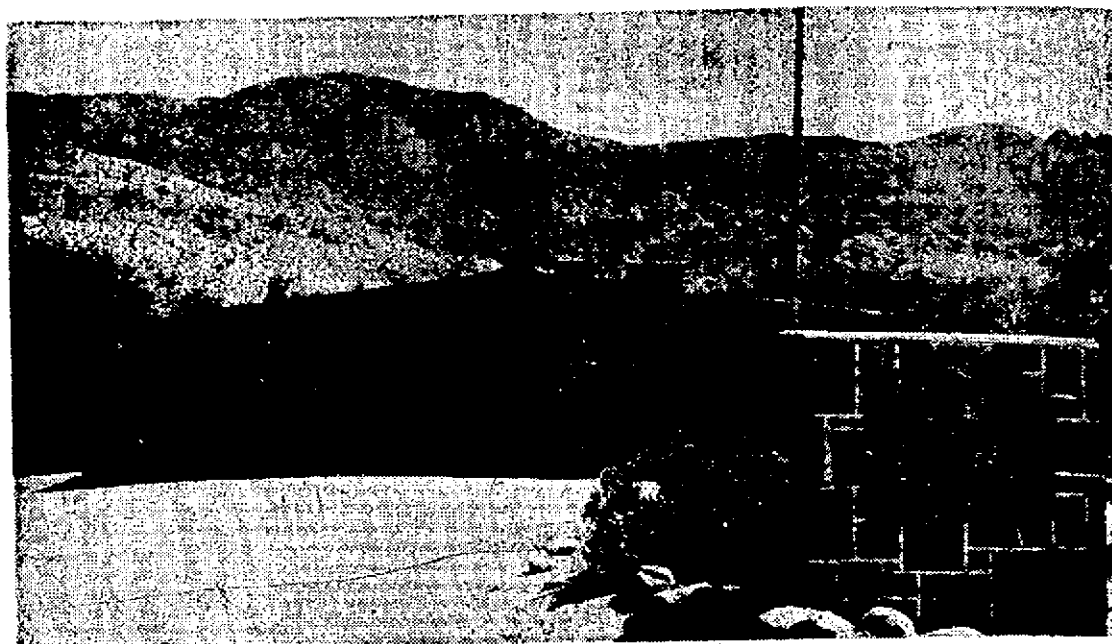

WHAT DID THAT SIGN SAY?

California's Historic Landmarks

Photos by the Author

Phineas Banning home in Wilmington now is a public park and open to visitors.

In the taming of the West, this Overland Mail stage station at Vallecito was a local point on southern immigrant trail. It's now one of California's interesting landmarks.

HOW MANY TIMES have you resolved that some day you would stop to read those Historical Landmarkers posted along most highways? Maybe you've had a passenger ask:

"What did that sign say? You went by so fast I didn't get a chance to read it."

If you are like most of us who whiz by these things, you are missing a lot of interesting facts about California's early days.

For instance, how many people know that gold was discovered here in Southern California six years before Marshall's famous discovery in 1849 at Sutter's Mill? Or that a fort near Bakersfield had a United States Army Camel Corps made up of 28 camels; that the California Star Oil Works was the forerunner of the Standard Oil Co., and that their first refinery still stands today, not far off a main highway?

Historical landmarks are put up by various museums and historical societies all over the world in the interest of preserving the memory of history-making events and the sites where they took place. In many cases the markers are erected to preserve an actual remnant of a by-gone day, or one that has been restored. A lot of study and research goes into establishing just what, where and when certain things happened. It might be an old house made of adobe left over from California's rancho days, or a battleground where the only casualties were a few mules. Battleground or adobe house, they all played a part in making the fascinating history of early California.

Many years and resolutions later, we decided that the day had finally come. With no other purpose in mind, we set out, determined to see what these Historical Landmarkers had to say.

The first marker we found led us to Placeritas Canyon near San Fernando, where in 1842, Francisco Lopez found gold under an old oak tree. Today the tree is called the Oak of the Golden Dream. Lopez was out rounding up stolen cattle when he sat down to rest under the tree and with his knife uprooted some wild onions. Attached to the roots of one was a nugget of gold. His find started a minor-scale gold rush which lasted for several years but ended before the great gold rush of forty-nine. Some of the diggings left by the miners can still be seen in Placeritas Canyon.

Not far away, another marker leads us to Pico Canyon, where the first oil was found in Southern

Site of the Battle of El Rio San Gabriel in 1847 when American forces engaged Californians under Gen. Flores.

California. In 1875, the Star Oil Co., predecessor of the Standard Oil Co., drilled its first well in Pico Canyon. This first well had a capacity of 100 barrels a day. The following year, with the addition of more wells, California's first oil refinery was built in Railroad Canyon one-half mile from the town of Newhall. It was constructed in 1876 as the California Star Oil Works and was the scene of much activity in the early days.

The huge iron stills used in the refinery were brought around the Horn from Pennsylvania by sailing ship and hauled from the docks at San Pedro by horse and wagon. When the refinery was in operation, the crude oil from the wells in Pico Canyon was hauled to storage tanks on the hills behind the refinery and gravity-fed to the stills. The main products, benzine and kerosene, were sold locally in Ventura and Santa Barbara, any excess was sent to San Francisco by steam and sailing vessels.

This old refinery can be seen today, restored to its original condition as an historical landmark on Standard Oil Co. property in Newhall—an interesting contrast with the huge refineries found in Southern California today.

Most anywhere on our highways one can find history of some sort depicted on markers. On Hwy. 6, north of San Fernando, is a marker telling of Fremont Pass and Beale's Cut. The old pass is still there and so is the cut. If you stay in your car to read the marker, however, you'll not see either one. Just below the marker is an old wagon road used by Gen. Fremont and named in his honor. The trail was later used by the Butterfield Overland Mail on its run from St. Louis, Mo., to San Francisco, from 1858 to 1864.

At the top of Fremont Pass, but not visible from the marker, is Beale's Cut, named in honor of Gen. F. F. Beale who established Fort Tejon. The cut, about 30 feet deep, but not more than six feet wide, was made by soldiers from Fort Tejon to permit the stagecoaches and wagons to go through. Marks made by the men's picks can still be seen on the walls of the cut.

Once the main house on the vast Rancho San Pedro, the Dominguez home is another of the state's landmarks, now used by the Claretian Order.

Forerunner of California's huge refineries, the Star Oil Works near Newhall was a scene of activity in 1870s; now restored as landmark.

If your daughter acts like this, think (and say) nothing of it. Be kind to her and she'll be all right.

Don't laugh at a boy when he's going through this stage. His feelings can be hurt easily. Give him strong, wise and kind guidance and be sympathetic.

NO, HARRIED PARENTS—

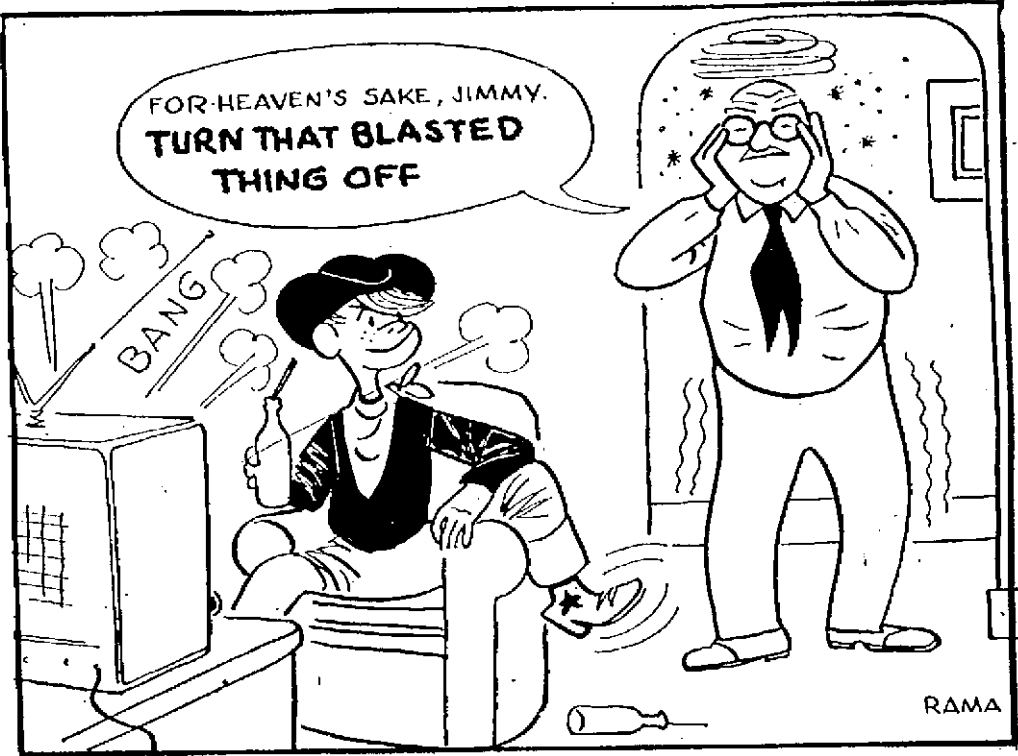

Teenagers Aren't Really Crazy!

TEENAGERS aren't "fetched." It's just that they are growing up and their development isn't all in the physical phase; there are emotional growing pains, too. One day a teenager is a docile, affectionate, constantly babbling son or daughter and the next he or she is an intractable, withdrawn, sullen adolescent.

Teenagers may be a challenge to their parents, but not the kind of problem that can be written off as being due to temporary mental unbalance; trusting that the passing of the years will give them back some sense. Parents must give their boys and girls kindness, respect and firmness during the difficult teen period. If the father and mother have some knowledge of what to expect, and how to cope with it (and how not, too!) the situation can be helped. Puzzled parents can get much assistance from teachers, clergymen and doctors.

Some teen situations and some hints as to what not to do about them are given in the accompanying cartoons and captions.

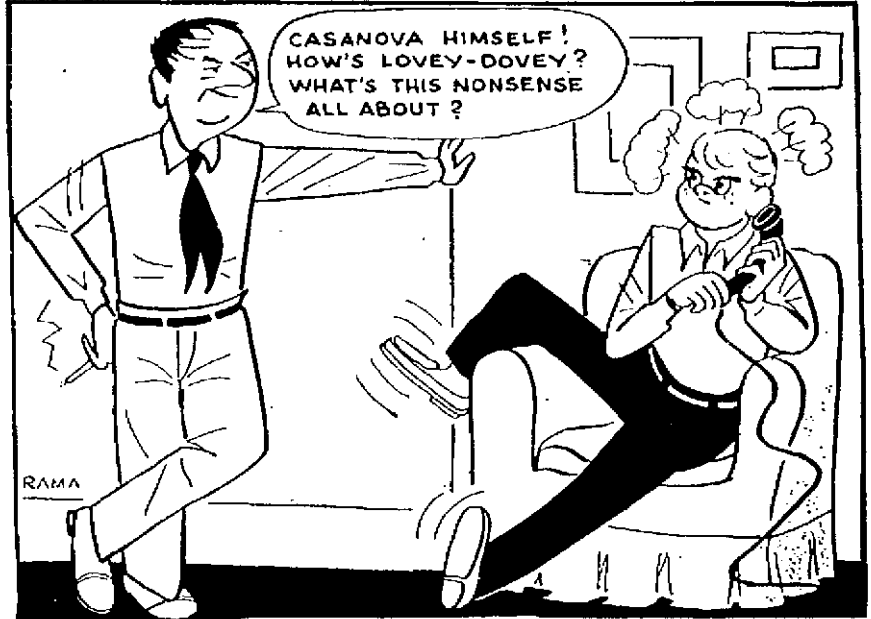

"Growing Pains," the booklet from which these drawings were taken, may be obtained free by writing to Dr. Henry B. Rollins, vice president and medical director, Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company, Hartford 15, Conn. The booklet was written by Ellis Gladwin.

Jimmy and Grandpa should respect each other, understanding irritating little habits. Needs at different ages vary; understanding makes happier homes.

Don't poke fun, this is a tragic moment. Teenagers feel deeply. Certainly she will go to more dances; even look back to this and smile.

Wait a minute, Dad, how can you forget so quickly? You're not so old you've forgotten your first date. Remember how you suffered in love?

Revolutionary New "DOUBLE ARC" Slats Make All the Difference

Now you can have vertical venetians that look and operate just like draw draperies . . . with all the advantages of venetians, besides! With the new double-arc slats, Eastern's Star has a flowing "one-piece" appearance when closed . . . looks for all the world like the luxurious folds of fine draperies. It opens and closes as a unit, too.

What's more, Eastern's Star verticals are so sturdy they don't need tapes or bottom tracks. And to add to their "drapery-like look," they feature a magnificent textured finish and are available in a galaxy of lovely colors.

Plus all these advantages!

★ Complete control of ventilation, light, view and privacy. Perfected mechanism of turn cord assures even turning of slats. When they are wide open, you have a far clearer view through fewer, wider, stronger slats.

★ Full closure of slats in either direction. The double arc slats don't just overlap . . . they interlock to lock out light, and to give wall-like privacy when used as room dividers.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

It's Personal and It's Practical

Photos by Joe Kisinger

Acting as room divider, this handsome walnut cabinet defines entry area of the Jack Crippens' home. The cabinet was designed and made by Crippen.

By Eileen Ball

EIGHT YEARS AGO the Jack Crippens moved into their highly individual, extremely livable, 2,000-square-foot house at 4014 Chestnut Ave. In every sense of the word this is their own very personal house. From the day they bought the lot until the time the blueprints were distributed to the sub-contractors, they injected ideas and superintended many details of the planning. Every feature of the architecture, floor plan and elevation was detailed by Mr. Crippen—an accountant by profession—who succeeded in surprising everyone (including himself) with his acumen in design.

The plan was envisioned to perform with the greatest possible practicality, flexible enough to accommodate the Crippens' son and daughter as they grow and presenting itself as an inviting place to entertain. Above all, the home is calculated to retain, through the years, its free and happy attitude on living.

Now, eight years later, the Crippens have completed re-decorating the home that they have grown to love so thoroughly. Thus, it emerges present-perfect in every detail and, in many ways, better than ever!

A shallow-pitched, white-rock roof defines the low lines of the house that are accentuated with the use of heavy horizontal red-wood siding. A flagstone walk curves through lawn and ivy beds to the covered porch.

AN ENTRY AREA, as such, is established just inside the front door by means of a long, low walnut cabinet that acts as a very handsome partition between the entry and the family room located ahead and to the right. To the immediate right of the entry is the living room.

All three areas are singularly carried out in a monochromatic champagne tone—a restful, neutral hue that certainly provides an ideal background for the contemporary furnishings.

A champagne-blend tweed carpet covers the entry, family and living room areas. The wall to the left of the entry is surfaced with an exquisite champagne silk-and-linen wallcloth. The entry's drop ceiling terminates over the walnut cabinet thereby effecting a sort of soffit in which have been installed flush lights. At this juncture, the family room ceiling pitches dramatically upward. The interesting interplay of planes and angles thus achieved is testimony to Crippen's surprising design technique. It demonstrates a far greater than average imagination—as well as ability to perceive on paper the exciting results that can be gained with a little daring.

A LONG CABINET of walnut takes the place of an obscure glass wall that was part of the original interior scheme. When the wall was removed and the cabinet put in its stead, the family room "grew" the width of the former hall. From the family room, the cabinet's sliding, cane-paneled doors open to reveal Hi-Fi components, a television, record and periodical storage. The cabinet is beautifully scaled and elegantly crafted for this spot. And when Mrs.

Crippen tells with pride that her husband designed, made and finished it himself, it draws nothing but praise. Jack Crippen, accountant, thus is revealed to be an accomplished "jack of all trades!"

An extensive contemporary sofa, standing against the far wall, turns into the room at a right angle. Designed along simple, contemporary lines, the multi-sectioned sofa is backed with nine foam pillows upholstered in a handsome black and cinnamon striped wool fabric.

The wall against which the sofa stands achieves the dramatic—not only for its spectacular height—but for its unusual block paneling of natural Philippine mahogany.

THE WALL OPPOSITE separates the family and living areas. Preponderantly composed of masonry, it presents a raised barbecue-fireplace to the family area and an interesting corner fireplace to the living room. In both rooms, open bookshelves flank the fireplaces.

Furniture in the family room includes a handsome natural walnut chair imported from Denmark, its upholstery a bright blue wool patterned with small geometric squares of turquoise. In the barbecue area is space designated for dining and furnished with a round contemporary table and four cane-back chairs, their seats upholstered in turquoise. Glass doors extend across one side of the room and slide open to a spacious outdoor lanai when desired.

In the living room, that merges with the family area through a soffit-arch (extending from the fireplace wall) the tempo is slightly less relaxed, somewhat more formal; yet, the composition, for all its exquisite beauty, is one of deep comfort. Walls, carpet and upholstery are of pale champagne tone. Two handsome lounge chairs and a curved sofa are covered in off-white silk and rayon damask woven in an interesting "quilted" effect. Case furniture is hand-oiled walnut embellished with beautiful pewter hardware. The bland color scheme is carried out in draperies for the back wall of glass; here, fabric is thin, opaque white daeron patterned delicately with a wheat motif in gold. The same fabric has been used in an interesting treatment for the front window. It has been installed with small, hinged, shoji-like panels in which the fabric has been stretched taut.

FOR A SUBTLE TOUCH of color, the ceiling, between the beams, is turquoise insulating material. Brought down to the level of the room, the same color is employed for velvet pads used for the low benches that stand before the fireplace's raised hearth on two sides.

The kitchen, large enough to accommodate a spacious dinette area at one end, is attractively composed of matched golden birch cabinets, gold-and-butter-scotch contemporary paper and a modern birch breakfast set. Turquoise cafe curtains installed on brass rings dress wide windows that overlook the lanai and the back garden. Work counters are of golden plastic flecked with cocoa; cocoa vinyl tile, and a wall-type refrigerator are other features of note.

John Crippen, aged 12, has a room paneled in birch and carried out in a husky red and hunter's green combination. Christie, aged 9, enjoys the same hunter's green carpet; but her room color is predominantly ice turquoise. Her ornately scrolled brass bed is spread with a snowy white heirloom coverlet.

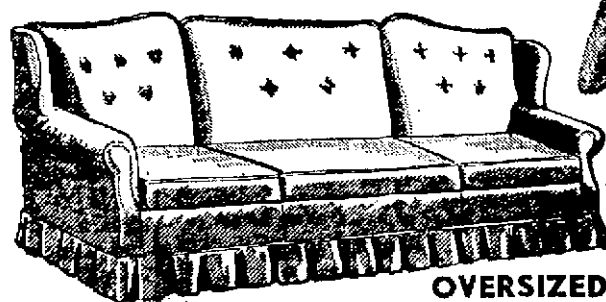

The master bedroom, dressing area and bath is all to itself, located toward the front of the house. Here is the same soft wheat-and-oyster white carpet used throughout the living areas. Champagne colored walls form the background for a king-sized bed of walnut with quilted spread and duster of pale turquoise antique satin. Champagne, persimmon and brown throw pillows accessorize the bed and contribute sparkling notes of color to the room.

Plantings now soften the exterior of the Crippen home which has low lines accented with horizontal siding.

Fat Boy of the Silent Films

By Rhuna Emery

SOLID CITIZENS from young menials grow.

Substantial proof of this is Dale C. Southwick of Long Beach whose "rascal" days go way back to when he was "Fatty" in Hal Roach's "Our Gang" comedies, now popular reruns on TV.

"One of the Fatties," corrects Southwick, who now lectures for Cambridge Institute International which expounds the educational method of learning while you sleep. "So many people think I'm every Fatty they see. But the first 'Our Gang' comedy was made in 1900, the last about 1937, so there were several fat boys and I was about the third in the silent versions."

Getting into "Our Gang" was accidental, recalls Kansas-born Southwick. "I was visiting Hollywood relatives who lived next door to the late Ben Turpin, the goofy-eyed comedian. My 'baby sitting' propensities led him to introduce me to Roach, who needed another Fatty for the series."

"We had a lot of fun making those short comedies. Roach called us 'his rascals' but we referred to ourselves as 'Our Gang' and that name stuck. Sometimes the director would get us to think up ideas for the movie by giving us a quarter for every idea he could use."

TODAY, SOUTHWICK, a bass-voiced, jovial big man 6' 2" (5' 10" lbs.) is still associated with a "gang," a very fine one made up of the boys and girls of the Lakewood Church of Religious Science where he is director of the "Youth In Truth" group and chairman of trustees. "Youth must learn that the right way to do things is more fun than the wrong," says Rev. Cy Stevens. "And Dale's amusing, cheerful approach to things have made him a great asset in our efforts to reach our young people."

Southwick frequently smokes or helps out otherwise at P.T.A. activities. "It's just as much the father's responsibility to take an interest in school and P.T.A. as the mother's," he believes. "The children after all belong to both parents."

Southwick has two special teenagers of his own—his two lovely daughters, Daline, president of Jordan High School Drama Club and winner of the "best actress" award in 1967 at Lindbergh Junior High, and Leslie Jean, who attends Lindbergh and at present plans to be a teacher. Of their father's performances on TV, they say, "We don't believe Dad was ever that young."

Fatty, 5-foot-two Abeline who married the only polly boy 17 years ago says, "We've acquired another 'Our Gang' alumnus. My niece just married Richard Southwick as he appears today. He's still associated with a "gang," boys and girls of church youth group.

Russell who's in the more recent series."

MOST OF OUR GANG turned out very well, Southwick says. Some, like Jackie Cooper, Nanette Fabray, Eddie Bracken, Milti Green and Darla Hood have climbed pretty high on the show-biz ladder. The last word from "Baby Jean" Darling was that she had the lead in a radio serial. Spanky McFarland is a salesman in Texas.

Didn't the lure of show business ever bother Southwick after his stint in "Our Gang"? It certainly did. He says:

Tree of Another Age

By Fanny Leasure

STANDING in the southern-most section of Bixby Park is one lone Torrey pine. This tree ranks beside the Sequoias and the Monterey pine as distinctively Californian. No where else in the world was Pinus Torreyana to be found when in 1850 Dr. Parry came upon a group of these "relics of a former age" at the mouth of the Soledad River near where La Jolla now stands.

To residents of Long Beach this representative of its species means more than just another native tree, for these pines have certain characteristics that make them unique in their field.

ON SEEING Torrey pines for the first time, the visitor is certain to exclaim over the enormous size of the five-in-a-bundle needles. On some trees they may reach a length of 13 inches.

Exceptionally coarse they were admirably suited to the use of the Indian basket maker. Local hobbyists today whose skill includes basketry also find them suited to their needs.

The Torrey pine also has the largest edible seed of any American pine. Seeds of this species are said to approach in size those of the pines of the Himalayan Mountains. This fact explains why Torrey is sometimes called the "nut pine" and why the Indians and Mexicans of early Southern California found it to be a source of food.

TORREY PINES seem reluctant to take up residence elsewhere, preferring the temperate atmosphere of the Southern California coast, although recently it has been grown as far north as San Francisco. Seeds have been sent to European countries but there is no record of their having been successfully grown in these regions. Others of California's "relic" trees are less restricted in their growth areas but Torrey clings tenaciously to the ancestral habit.

THIS TREE also has a trait that is characteristic of America. To a greater degree than other trees, the Torrey is an individualist, developing according to no preconceived plan. Some grow gnarled with a peculiar flat top, some are more like a vine as they cling to cliffs and others are erect in normal tree fashion, as the one in Bixby Park. Science knows the answer lies in wind, weather, site and soil.

Establishment recently of the Torrey Pines State Park near San Diego assures preservation of these trees which otherwise might have shared the fate of the dodo and the dinosaur.

"Really nothing to worry about—just a good case of nerves. Incidentally, how are your five daughters these days?"

They Guard Park-and-Shoppers

By Caroline Coleman

WITH the opening of large shopping centers comes the problem of protecting those who patronize them. The acres of parking lots provide a fertile field for car thefts, looting and stripping. While the bright lights, shops and restaurants attract people from all the surrounding communities, it is a sad fact that all of those attracted are not paying customers.

The large modern Lakewood Shopping Center in the city of Lakewood was one of those plagued with an influx of undesirable characters until two young veterans came up with a system of their own for patrolling the 154 acres with a small force of men.

Lee Chandler and Bill Richerson were buddies when they attended Wilson High School in Long Beach. Soon after graduation, they served with the Marine Corps in the Korean War. Upon returning to civilian life they worked as civilian employees at the Long Beach Air Force Base. But they saw the need for additional police protection in the city of Lakewood where they had bought homes.

LAKEWOOD WAS a very young city and had no police department. The county sheriff's office gave what protection it could, but the shopping center required more men than could be provided. Lee and Bill decided to organize a patrol.

They took a course in police science at Los Angeles Junior College in Wilmington on the GI plan. In 1954, a young lawyer, Don Jones, was taken into partnership, and they opened an office at Lakewood Center, offering their services to the merchants at a nominal fee.

Soon it became necessary to train and employ more men as more demands were made upon the patrol. Mrs. Chandler and Mrs. Richerson took over the office work, but with all the men the business could support, and all the men the sheriff's department could provide, it was impossible to have a patrolman where one was needed at all times. A better system was necessary, and Lee and Bill came up with one. They devised their Lookout System, which since has been adopted in many other localities.

equipment keeps watch from some high vantage point. All of the cars and three-wheeled cycles used for the patrol are equipped with two-way radio. When the lookout notices something that requires attention, he notifies the ground patrol. Lost children, car looters, rock throwing boys, fights, possible molesters, all are spotted and apprehended in a matter of minutes.

Another angle of the system is the element of surprise. The men on the Lakewood Parol wear uniforms and carry guns and nightsticks, but they drive unmarked cars, and they change cars as often as possible. No one ever knows where a patrolman will pop up next.

Statistics show that their system has reduced loss and disturbance materially.

Table With Two Legs

THREE LEGS used to be considered the absolute minimum in furniture making, for obvious reasons. But now comes Harvey L. Triggs of Santa Ana with a practical two-legged table.

equilibrium is a base rigidly attached to the legs to form a standard. The twin legs are mounted at right angles to each other and slant forward from the bottom to complete the gravity-defying illusion. Twiggs estimates the table can be built in about eight hours' spare time without power tools for a cost of about $3 if the materials used are fir plywood and white pine.

By Herb Shannon

DESIGNED TO FIT the corner of a room, the table top and base are the same triangular shape, and are of half-inch plywood. The base plate may be notched out or trimmed back in front if desired, as shown in the diagram.

The legs are cut from one-inch white pine and are attached with screws or dowels to the plywood parts as indicated. If screws are used on the top, they must be countersunk and filled.

One other piece shown in the photographs, a pegboard panel covering part of the base, is purely decorative and may be omitted if desired.

WITH ALL EDGES rounded off via the rasp and sandpaper route and a coat of sealer and paint applied, the table becomes a genuine conversation piece for that empty corner of the room.

But don't lean on it!

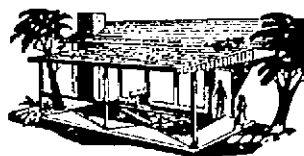

Here is the 2-legged table in use in corner of a room!

Smoky Links and Pineapple

Smoky sausage links and broiled pineapple are a tasty "side" for poached eggs, muffins for a Sunday brunch.

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

SPRING IS Nature's time for new things—green foliage and brilliant flowers. It's a good time to re-gear your menu planning, too; patio time is at hand with outdoor meals and entertaining. Like a brunch, for instance.

For the menu on the party side, for a leisurely brunch or breakfast, try this one: Begin with tall glasses of fruit juice or a fruit cup. To top it off, serve smoky links with golden pineapple slices, poached eggs on English muffins and slices of coffee cake, if desired.

Here are easy-to-follow directions for making the conversation piece of your brunch menu.

Smoky Links, Pineapple

1 pound smoky link sausages
6 English muffins
Butter
6 eggs
Salt, pepper, paprika

1 can (No. 2½) pineapple slices
2 tablespoons brown sugar

Cook smoky link sausages slowly in heavy frying pan until heated through and browned. Remove to warm platter. Meanwhile split and toast English muffins. Spread with butter. Poach eggs and sprinkle with salt, pepper and paprika.

Put about 1 tablespoon butter in sausage pan with a little of the drippings. Add pineapple; sprinkle with brown sugar. Brown lightly on both sides. Place pineapple on sausages. Add a tablespoon pineapple syrup to pan, let bubble up and thicken slightly; pour over the pineapple to glaze. Serve with the poached eggs on English muffins. Serve the extra toasted muffin tops in a napkin-lined basket. Serves 6.

Another tempting suggestion for special brunch is this:

Ham and Fruit Grill

1 thick slice of ham to serve 4
4 slices of canned pineapple, drained

2 firm bananas, cut in half, lengthwise
Melted butter or margarine

Slash ham at 2-inch intervals to prevent curling. Place ham on broiler rack. Broil about 6 inches from heat for 7 minutes or until lightly browned. Turn ham. Arrange pineapple slices and bananas, cut side up, around ham. Brush fruit with melted butter. Return to broiler and continue cooking for 3 to 6 minutes. Serves 4.

Accompany the Ham and Fruit Grill with scrambled eggs and toast or hot rolls.

Belgian Cookery

"A BELGIAN COOKBOOK"

by Juliette Elkion (Farrar, Straus & Cudahy, $3.95): Most people know little about Belgian cookery, often confusing it with that of the French. However, there is very little similarity. Belgian cookery has a delicious, distinctive flavor of its own and in this book are assembled scores of regional Belgian dishes, some now almost legend among the natives.

If you'd like to try true Belgian dishes — from mushroom canapés and cheese torte to Fontainebleau dessert and sweetbreads with Scotch whisky sauce — then this book is for you.

Hors D'Oeuvres

"THE COMPLETE HORS D'OEUVRES COOKBOOK"

by Alice Schryver and Francella Wallace (Howard-McCann, $3.95): Hors d'oeuvres are playing an increasingly important role in American living — served with fruit or vegetable juice at lunch, tea in the afternoon, soft drinks in evening — yet most general cookbooks contain only a small section on the appetizers. This one packs in 1,000 kitchen tested recipes for them, with variations. In addition, there is a section about them which tells how and when to serve what, what hors d'oeuvres are made of, equipment needed to make them, and tips on decorating and serving. Those who entertain will find the book a dream come true.

Small Lamb Chops

LAMB MAKES Spring News! It's abundant in quantity . . . excellent in quality . . . and priced the best in years. It's mighty good eating, too, so make the most of it in any of its many forms. They're all good, and each is best. Small Lamb Chops are especially nice broiled and garnished with one of the following:

Lay sprigs of crisp, tender garden mint or rosemary or parsley on the chop plate or platter. Very thin slices of pimiento laid over the parsley is very effective.

Slice small oranges. Place a ½-inch cube of mint jelly on each slice.

Drain canned sliced pineapple. Place on shallow pan and sprinkle with brown sugar. Insert 5 or 6 whole cloves in each slice. Place under broiler or in oven for 5 minutes or until lightly browned.

Drain canned peach halves. Place on shallow pan and add ½ teaspoon of currant or tart jelly to each center.

SERVE WITH: Minted Fruit Juice, Creamed New Potatoes, Asparagus Tips, Crusty Rolls, Hearts of Lettuce, Toasted Almond Sundae.

ONCE the habitat of flying marsupials—better known as pelicans—Alcatraz Island is now a focal point of interest to tens of thousands of tourists who visit the Redwood Empire annually.

On the island, only a mile or so off San Francisco but an insurmountable distance for inmates, is notorious Alcatraz Prison, a maximum security Federal penitentiary, known in some circles as "The Rock," for the nation's toughest criminals.

The first sea-going tourist to see the island jutting from San Francisco Bay to the east of the Golden Gate Bridge was Don Juan Manuel de Ayala. His sailing ship, the San Carlos, billowed through the Golden Gate on Aug. 5, 1775.

Situated in mid-stream, and washed by rushing tides, the island has been used as a prison

Grim old Alcatraz Prison is an object of never-ending awe to the throngs of California tourists.

site dating back to Spanish domination of California. Prisoners of Spain were confined to dungeons burrowed far into the earth. Later it became a place of incarceration for the apprehended "big shots" of the underworld.

HUNDREDS of thousands of tourists have viewed Alcatraz Island in the wake of the Spanish explorer. Vantage points for travelers are numerous. An excellent view may be obtained from the north shore of San Francisco Bay, from Fisherman's Wharf to the Golden Gate Bridge. In between these two points, on the Marina, there are permanently installed telescopes which provide a close-up of the prison. At the northern end of Golden Gate Bridge is another vantage point with accommodations for hundreds of automobiles.

No Wonder!

OUR YOUNG library patron was an avid western fan. He raced through all the Zane Grey books, eagerly seizing each new one that came out. (Although Grey died in 1939, he left a tremendous backlog of material which is still being published.) Apparently our patron had reached the saturation point without realizing it, because he became increasingly critical of the books he returned.

One day he started out: "Someone ought to tell that Zane Grey—"

"You can't," the librarian told him "Didn't you know he's been dead for almost 20 years?"

The young fellow thought this over. "Well," he said, "I'll tell you one thing. He sure wrote better when he was alive."—ROBERT LEAR.

Will your new home be electrically obsolete the day you move in?

Astonishingly enough, two out of three homes being built today do not provide the modern electric appliances people want most. Worse than that, in most cases no wiring provision is made for their eventual installation. These "new homes" are electrically obsolete the day you buy them. Yet it costs so very little to enjoy the enormous convenience these labor-saving appliances bring you—especially when they're provided for when the house is being planned.

Now—a new service has been inaugurated that tells you whether the home you're about to buy is truly modern. Electric utility experts work with leading builders when their homes are still in the planning stage—to assure you that you will be able to enjoy modern electric living the day you move in.

Then, and only then, are these homes awarded the nationally famous "Medallion Home" Award. Look for it when you buy your new home. It's your guide to better value.

Here's what the "Medallion Home" Award tells you about the home you're about to buy:

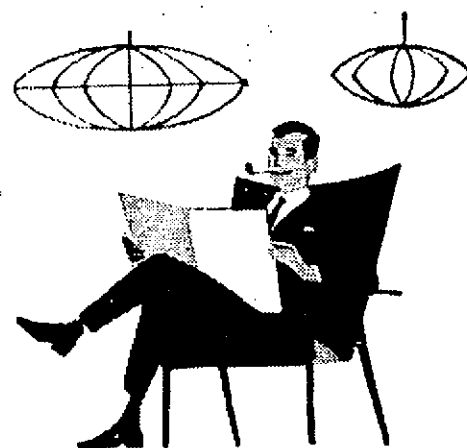

1. Your most-needed electric appliances will be already installed!

"Medallion Homes" come equipped with an ultra-modern electric range built-in—as well as at least three other major appliances. They are not after-thoughts—they go with the plan of the house, conveniently located to save you time and labor. What's more, wiring for future needs is in and paid for.

2. The home is properly wired for "Full Housepower"

Only one out of three new homes is equipped for modern electric living...but every "Medallion Home" is. It has plenty of outlets and switches in convenient locations. It has enough separate circuits for proper and efficient power distribution—and provision for the extra circuits you may need later on.

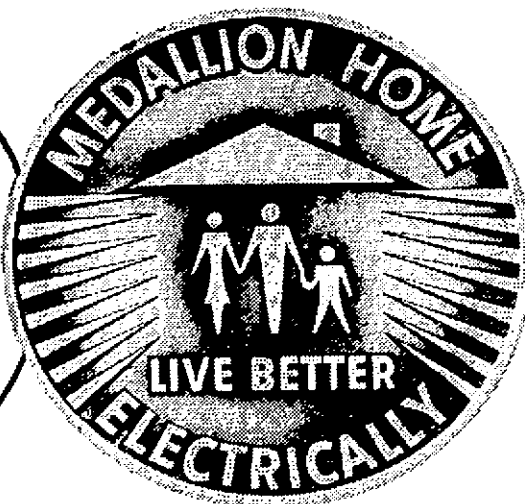

3. The home has "light for living"

Provisions have been made in every "Medallion Home" for proper lighting which will beautify and decorate as well as illuminate the home. Special fixtures light such important, but often neglected, areas as the kitchen sink, bathroom shower and mirror, and outside each entry to the home.

Look for the nationally known
"Medallion Home" Award

It's your guarantee that the home meets the rigid standards of the 1958 Live Better Electrically Medallion Home Program to let you live better electrically, today and tomorrow!

DELAPLANE

TOKYO

"We are planning a trip to Hawaii in August and our friends advise us we should have an air-conditioned room. We are staying at the Hawaiian Village."

YOUR friends have the wrong hot flash. The trade winds cool Hawaii naturally. I don't think the Hawaiian Village even has air-conditioned rooms. Low 70 is average, day and night. Best of all climates.

"I am a bachelor and hope to stop over in Tokyo this spring. Would like to visit the bathhouses. I am told the Green Dragon is best. What do you say?"

I AM IN SO MUCH hot water in my own hotel in Tokyo, I wouldn't go near a bathhouse. So I don't know the Green Dragon. But if you will look in the English-language newspapers, like Mainichi, you will find many ads.

"... a few of the best restaurants in Honolulu?"

I am partial to the Tahitian Lanai at the Waikikian. Open grass hut decor. Overlooks a lagoon. Excellent food. The Tahitian raw fish cocktail is great and does NOT taste raw.

The Gourmet on Kalakaua boulevard for French type. The Queen's surf is under the coco palms, outdoors beside the sea. Good music. Canis for the steaks and the house salad.

"With no knowledge of French, will we have difficulty traveling on French railroads?"

IF YOU HAVE many transfers, I think you will. On a straight run, no. Get your train tickets from one of the travel agencies where they speak English. Or just ask the concierge at your hotel to get them.

Get the name of the station — in Paris there are several. Find out what time the train gets to your town. They call it off at the last minute and the porters WON'T COME ABOARD FOR YOUR BAGGAGE. You have it ready and throw it through the window. Fast.

Mountain of Mystery

Typical of the towering formations that have made Zion National Park a long-time favorite of vacationers is the Mountain of Mystery, seen here through the Narrows. The placid appearing stream is the Virgin River whose relentless erosion carved Zion Canyon. Zion National Park is reached easily from Cedar City, Utah.

Destinations and train numbers and time of departure are listed on boards at the head of each track. There are two sides of the ramp. Be sure you get on the train on the correct side. Dining cars run in two shifts usually. You'll be asked en route which you want. No menu problem since meals are standard.

Your mailed questions will be answered (no phone calls). Send stamped and addressed envelope to Stan Delaplane, Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Landmarks

Another Historical Landmarker points to Fort Tejon, one of California's outstanding landmarks. In the official register it is known merely as No. 129. The old fort is the foremost remaining evidence in Southern California of the early American occupation period. Tejon is a Spanish and Indian word meaning budger, and was the name given to the original Mexican land grant on which the fort stands, by its owner, Ignacio del Valle.

Fort Tejon was established by the United States Army in 1854, not to protect the white man from the Indians, but to protect the friendly Indians of the southern San Joaquin Valley from the white man. Located in Grapevine Canyon, near Bakersfield, the fort was under the command of Gen. Beale. The area picked for the fort was also considered advantageous because it controlled an important pass through which stolen cattle and horses were driven from the San Joaquin Valley to markets in the southwest. It served for a time as a stage station for the Butterfield Overland Mail.

Although the fort was in operation only 10 years, it was the chief military, social and political center between Miller-ton and Los Angeles. It served also as the regimental headquarters for the First Dragoons, whose activities carried them over much of western America. In 1857, the U. S. Army Camel Corps was stationed at the fort at the direction of Secretary of War Jefferson Davis. The Army planned to use its 28 camels in transporting supplies to isolated outposts in the arid southwest, and for patrol use in controlling hostile Indians. With the outbreak of the Civil War and the subsequent construction of transcontinental railroads, the camels were discontinued by the Army, and in 1864, the fort itself was abandoned.

So the next time you're out Sunday driving and you see a sign beside the highway bearing the legend, "Historical Landmark 500 Feet Ahead," slow down. Around the next curve may be a new adventure in learning and a way to spend a pleasant Sunday afternoon.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the background of the names KERN and KERNS.—O. M., O. C., Long Beach; E. K., North Long Beach.

O. M., O. C., E. K.: KERN and KERNS have several origins. In Germany KERN was from "korn" meaning "grain," indicating grain-growing ancestors. The German Kern coat-of-arms has a gold cross and two gold stars on a blue shield. In England Kern may have the same meaning as in Germany, or it may be from the ancient Welsh word "karn," a landmark description for a mound of stones over a prehistoric burial mound. In Ireland, both Kerins and Kerns came from the Gaelic word "Ciar" meaning "dark one."

One Man's Year in Paradise

RALPH VARADAY got a break that many men dream of getting but which never comes their way: He spent a year in Paradise — in the South Seas, all expenses paid — and he tells what happened during that never-to-be-forgotten time in "Many Lagoons" (Morrow, $5).

Varaday's chance came when a friend asked him how he would like to go down to Moorea, an island 11 miles off Tahiti, to see what could be done to improve an 18-acre property — build a house, get the rats out of the coconut trees, declare war on the land crabs, keep an eye on the production of copra, and have fun.

The native Polynesians were friendly from the start and in no time at all they had helped him build his house. He eradicated the rats and reduced the population of land crabs, and then divided his attention on copra and having the time of his life.

Moorea, and all of French Oceania, for that matter, became Varaday's stomping ground. Roaming leisurely from island to island he became infatuated with the Polynesians and their easy-going life. The natives taught him how to take food from the sea and from the trees, the secrets of the pearl divers, their language and their customs. Before he knew it he had grown to love the breezes that blow only over these tropical islands, the cool, clear water of the lagoons, the remoteness and the quiet, and the companionship of the people (he had been on Moorea only a short time when an entire village conspired to supply him with a woman).

Varaday even grew to like the food and he says that raw fish, the Polynesians' main dish, is really not so bad as it sounds. And like he explains everything else, he tells the common method of preparing this food: "Filet the fish thoroughly and cut into dice-size pieces. Put these into a bowl and add the fresh juice of limes until covered. Leave this for two hours and then draw off whatever lime juice that has not soaked into the meat. Add a few slices of tomato, a few raw onion rings and maybe a dash of sliced bell pepper. Do not mash these into the marinated fish, but fold gently. To this, you add coconut cream, made of freshly grated coconut, of course. Now your raw fish is ready to be eaten."

In Tahiti, he learned the history of the islands, became acquainted with rugged schooner captains who by dead reckoning guide their ships through the dangerous coral reefs and remote atolls. Back on Moorea he got his woman. But, like all things too good to be true, his year in paradise was gone before he knew it.

Home again in Los Angeles, Varaday got caught in traffic snarls and the rush-rush of humanity in the big stores. He was unnerved. He drove through Skid Row and was revolted. The caress of the tradewinds was on his cheeks, the whiff of drying vanilla was in his nostrils, the roar of the breakers against beautiful Moorea was in his ears. So what happened? As he wrote the final paragraph of his book, Varaday was 2,000 miles from Southern California — aboard a ship carrying him back to his paradise in the tropics.

"THE NEW DOCTOR" by Elizabeth Seifert (Dodd, Mead, $3.50): Mrs. Seifert was thwarted in her ambition to become a doctor, but she did study some phases of medicine and the anatomy, and later worked as a clinical secretary in a hospital. From this background of training and experience she has written 30-odd novels portraying love and conflict among doctors and their families. The chief protagonist in this story is the son of a beloved man of medicine who comes to a small town as a practicing physician, falls in love with the pretty young administrator of a clinic. She marries him, only to discover he is not dedicated to his profession but a sadist who enjoys seeing his patients die. Suspense races to the dramatic conclusion of a story hard to forget.

"ALL ABOUT MEN" by Joseph H. Peck, M.D. (Prentice, Hall, $3.50): In the preface the author says, "The male child is born sightless, toothless, and with sore genital organs, and all he can do to express his displeasure is kick and yell. Seventy-five years later we find him in the same fix, sans eyes, teeth, and prostate gland, once again unhappy about his situation." Between these pages of

will be here as will be employees locker rooms, lounges and health service facilities.

The hospital is being so constructed that an additional 200 beds can be added at some future date by adding two additional floors at a fraction of the cost involved. If the foundations were not especially prepared for this. The service areas also will be capable of expansion to handle an additional 200 patients.

FROM THE GROUND floor or the main floor you may take one of the six elevators to the patient floors.

On the patient floors a new concept has been applied. The hospital will be built primarily with flexibility as its keynote to adapt itself to the many changing conditions.

Nurses stations are constructed with the realization that a hospital is radically different in the night from daytime patient needs.

In the daytime, nurses for each of the three wings on a patient floor will work from a central nursing station, under a director of the floor, with their principal working areas in the patient wings.

At night all nurses will be consolidated in one group working from the central nursing station.

New mothers will leave the elevator at the second floor where the fourth wing will be devoted to the delivery suite. Here there will be four delivery rooms and several labor rooms. However the labor rooms will be a part of the delivery suite, completely equipped so that they could be used for delivery rooms in an emergency.

ONE WING WILL be devoted to the new-born nursery. Gone are the days of the one big nursery with all babies in together. These nurseries will have no more than eight little newcomers in each one.

The remainder of the floor will be devoted to maternity. However, with private laboratories in each room, the flexibility is apparent and one wing might be maternity and one wing surgery cases if this were the need at the moment.

The third floor will be the medical floor with the fourth wing devoted to an intensive medical therapy unit where patients who are critical medical patients will receive the same special care for their illness as the post-operative surgery patient receives in the surgical recovery room. Patient wings will be devoted to medical cases.

THE FOURTH FLOOR will be the pediatric floor with one wing devoted to the pediatric nursery for small children. A gaily decorated playroom will be located here along with the most modern medical equipment for the care of children.

The top floor has three wings with one devoted to a unit to provide care for nervous and mental patients. Here they will have a special nurses' station in the wing, a special lounge and recreation room. However, there will be four rooms especially equipped so that disturbed patients cannot injure themselves.

The central core of all the patient floors will be identical. There will be approximately 100 patients to a floor, which will be staffed and equipped almost like a hospital of that size. The central core will include a medications room, treatment room, visitors lounge, classrooms, housekeeping station, social service facilities, clean and soiled utility areas and a pantry and serving area.

The walls and ceilings, say hospital officials, will be treated with special acoustic material to materially reduce noise and each room will be decorated in soft, pleasing colors.

Hummingbird Haven

By Dr. C. A. Hill

FORTY-FIVE miles due east of Long Beach winds historic Modjeska Canyon. Turning from Santiago Rd. past Cook's Corner, a tree-shaded road winds along the scenic beauty of the Saddleback mountains to one of the most fascinating bird sanctuaries in the United States. This bird refuge is a gift from one of Long Beach's citizens, B. F. Tucker, a former banker, merchant and a philanthropist.

Early in 1916, Tucker purchased a number of acres in Modjeska Canyon. He realized that this was ideal as a location for a bird sanctuary where his developed what is now known as "Tiny Tuckers," hummingbird feeders which are still used. At the end of the first year, one hummingbird and her two young remained. As time passed, hummingbird numbers increased and now, after 15 years, thousands of these birds are fed yearly.

SIX TYPES of these little creatures have been identified, the only permanent residents being the species known as the Anna. The Allan and the Callope are migrants. It is interesting to know that when a hummingbird is pausing for food, its wings beat from 55 to 75 times per second. Their average flight is 60 miles per hour. By a strange coincidence, the hummingbirds that are migrants come to the sanctuary on the same day that the swallows arrive at the Mission of Capistrano and leave at the same time the swallows do, arriving the second day of March and leaving in the second week in October.

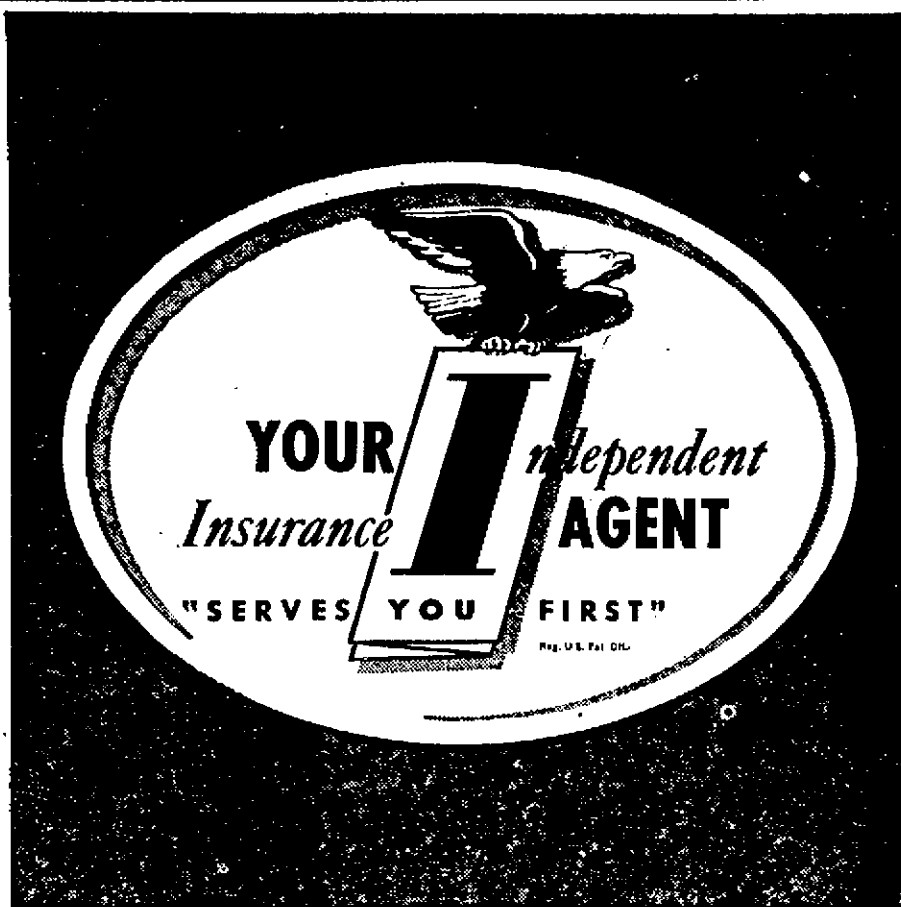

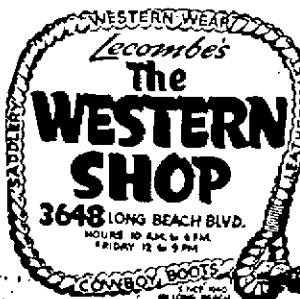

Just past the entrance gate, a rustic bridge crosses a clear mountain stream in the approach to the sanctuary. Growing along the stream are many types of protective vegetation, such as the flowering cacti and various types of bush berries, which serve as food for the many birds that make their home around the refuge. The patio adjacent to the house is shaded by numerous overhanging trees on which are attached bird houses of various beautiful designs. At the entrance to the house from a patio, a screened porch with benches offers a resting place where visitors may sit and watch the many bird activities outside the screen. Hanging high outside the porch are many Tiny Tuckers filled with colored water and sugar, and visitors may watch the hummingbirds feeding.

ON THE GROUND, in front of the Observation Porch as it is called, are many feed troughs containing seeds and foods of different varieties, sunflower seeds, barley, corn and mash, as food for the 140 different types of birds that have been identified there.

In the canyon which bears her name, Mme. Modjeska, the famous Polish actress, built her home in 1888, now located by an historical marker. There many famous guests, including Sienkiewicz, the author of Quo Vadis; Paderewski, Edwin Booth, Longfellow, and Sarah Bernhardt were entertained. Some of California's exciting early history centered around the Tucker Sanctuary. Modjeska Canyon has been called the "Canyon of Romance and Tragedy." Juan Flores, the bandit, used it as a hideout, silver was discovered nearby, the last grizzly bear killed in California is said to have been shot there.

Late Books

his life are many summits to climb, side trips and detours. This book deals with some of these pitfalls and how Mr. Average Man can avoid them, or make his fall less disastrous. It has its share of philosophy, coupled with good sense and welcome humor.

"BRIGHT HORIZONS" by Helen Lowrie Marshall ($1.50): This group of poems, authored by a niece of Rex B. Barr, pastor of the Temple of Christian Comradeship at 10th St. and Locust Ave. in Long Beach, are often religious, always inspirational, and they have grace and rhythm. In the basement of her home in Denver, with the help of a brother, Helen Marshall printed and bound the book—beautifully.

"THE WILL TO LIVE" by Arnold A. Hutchnacker, M.D. (Prentice, Hall, $4.95): Is life worthwhile? In this revised edition of an immensely popular work Dr. Hutchnacker points out that the mind and body are one, and then outlines a simple plan for greater health which, in turn, heightens the zest for life.

"JOURNEY TO JAVA" by Harold Nicolson (Doubleday, $5): On the eve of his 70th birthday friends presented Sir Harold, writer and BBC broadcaster, with a sizable check which he spent on a voyage to Java with his wife. This is an account of that happy time by a man who loves life with a great devotion, who believes like Montaigne that "I try to delay the velocity of its (life's) flight by the velocity with which I grasp it," and along the way finds time for some very worthwhile philosophy. It's a book that's hard to lay down.

"THE WHEEL OF EARTH" by Helga Sandburg (McDowell, Obolensky, $4.95): So deeply infused was Ellen Gaddy's love of farm ways that neither poverty nor the cruelty of nature could lead her to give in to the blandishments of a well-to-do uncle and an easy life in the big city. Her tyrannical father drove her at her chores. A fleeting love affair left her with an illegitimate son. Another love affair ended in death and destruction all about her. Yet her love of the soil and what it would grow and the animals it would nurture never grew dim. The daughter of the poet Carl Sandburg has written a novel about people whose lives are bound to the earth which will be read with excitement and remembered.

By Eleanor Avery Price

THEME OF the Hobby Show to be held in the Municipal Auditorium Thursday through Sunday is "Hobbies From All Over the World." Those who pause to look and to talk at the first booth inside the entrance—and that will include just about all visitors—will decide that, with such fine people as Mr. and Mrs. Leland Schenck, 35 Savona Walk, pressing for better understanding and care of canines, it's a pretty wonderful world for dogs.

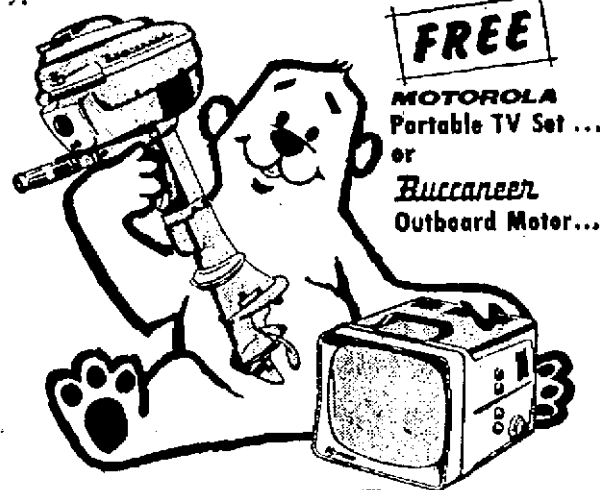

The Schencks have studied and worked for 12 years toward a goal of making and keeping Japanese spaniel a beautiful, sturdy and delightful toy dog. They have also searched constantly for new ideas in dog care, thus helping many hundreds of pet owners, here and abroad, with problems. For this reason they have been asked again to display their dogs and to answer questions on dog care at the hobby show. This will be their seventh year of participation in this even.

ONE VERY important point gleaned by the Schencks is that a little different approach is needed in obedience training of sensitive, yearning-to-please toy breeds, most of whom were originated in the first place to be pampered darlings of royalty. Too severe regimentation is not for them, and sometimes the toys, although anxious to make their owners proud of them, find that clipping along in a military-like manner is very foreign to their natural inclinations.

Also, being gentle as a rule and small, the toy dogs should be placed in the class only near mild-mannered canines. Observation has shown that toys sometimes tremble pitifully around dogs with aggressive tendencies, but, because they want only to please their owners, they seldom fight the lead. So, undoubtedly the Schencks know whereof they speak when they suggest that professional trainers or owner-trainers deal very cautiously with toy breeds and in no way break their merry, scampering inclinations.

ONE SHOULD never, however, think of toy dogs as sissies. Many of them have earned obedience points with as much ease as larger breeds. And they make excellent pals, even for the menfolk.

There is the case of two young men, Allan K. Ahlander and Richard DeLong, both of Portuguese Bend, who yearned for pets but felt that since no one was at home during the day they should forego this pleasure. The young bachelors met the Schencks at a Hobby Show and learned from them how to keep pets happy during their absence, and now they own not only Siamese cats but also Japanese spaniels which they enjoy entering in dog shows.

Colorful Bonus Shrub

By Gladys Diesing

POMEGRANATE, Punica granatum, is a flowering shrub with a bonus of fruit in the fall. During the summer it carries a continual display of orange-red flowers with petals like crinkled tissue paper. As summer wanes the bases of the flowers swell into fruit, each still retaining the flower calyx in a circle of leathery points. As fall comes, the fruits gradually take on a reddish hue and climax as scarlet globes hanging from the branches now covered with a golden cloak of leaves. They persist for some time on the tree; finally, if not picked, they break open to display juicy red seeds inside.

Brought indoors the fruits make a colorful centerpiece. The multitude of seeds inside the heavy rind are covered with a juicy pulp which is the edible portion of the fruit. This juice finds culinary use in drinks and sherbets and the seeds, picked from the fruit by small fingers, are beloved by children. In fact, the fruit makes something different for "Trick-or-Treat," ripening as it does just at Halloween.

The pomegranate grows as a many-stemmed shrub 10-15 feet

Tipping down the long branches, scarlet fruit appears on the pomegranate in autumn. Shrub blooms all summer.

Sturdy Geraniums

Geraniums are one of California's wonders that easterners can never get over.

Blooming profusely from April to November, these hardy perennials are available in all sorts of habits and many lovely colors.

Pinching back in early months and pruning top growth later will help to avoid the woody look some geraniums get if not cared for.

Tips on Gardening

GARDEN TIPS for the week . . . Chrysanthemum cuttings that are started now require an open exposure and lots of water. It is advisable to keep them pinched back until about July, thus preventing their becoming woody before flowering time.

Hawaiian tree ferns will add a cooling effect to your garden.

It is advisable, when watering African violets, to have the temperature of the water the same temperature as that of the room. Otherwise, the plant may be badly shocked.

high and 8-12 feet in diameter. It may be kept to a more tree-like form if the suckers spreading out from the base are removed, leaving only a few stems to form the plant.

SHOULD THERE NOT be room for such a large shrub, the pomegranate also comes in a dwarf form, P.g. nana, growing only to three feet. The flowers and fruit appear while the plant is still very young, often on a plant only 12 inches high. The fruit, though, is dry and cannot be eaten. This plant is almost evergreen in the Long Beach climate. It makes a trim little plant for container growing.

The pomegranate is not a temperamental plant, growing in almost any soil and with ordinary watering. Neither is it an especial prey for insects. Plenty of sunshine and summer heat are most conducive of abundant flowers and fruit.

Tip on Primroses

Primroses may be divided and replanted after they have bloomed. Many varieties of primroses are finishing their spring bloom now and others will do so in the next month.

Check local nurseries now for bedding plants of perennials for your garden. Carnations, geraniums and Shasta daisies are among the lovely flowers available.

DOROTHY DIGGS in the garden

Whenever you plant vegetables, remember the soil is important to the quality of the food. It's a good thing to disinfect the soil in which you plant them with a copper-ether material which doesn't sterilize the soil or injure the plants. Then a little later, fortify that soil with some good mineral elements which will add food value to the crop and make the plants sturdy all through the season. I have a bulletin on vegetables and a bulletin on tomatoes, both free on request. Write direct to Dorothy Johnson, 208 W. California St., Pasadena, Calif.

There is a material on the market in a beautiful handy dust gun that you can use to dust your vegetables all through the season without leaving a residue that spoils the flavor or without making the food unfit for human consumption.

One word of caution . . . Don't plant tomatoes too early. Wait until we have warm nights as well as warm days. They'll grow all the faster under proper growing conditions.

Bit of screen in bottom of pot acts as pest barrier.

HERE'S AN IDEA!

Plant Protection

INSECTS sometimes enter the drainage hole of flower pots, and damage plants. This is especially true if pots rest on the ground or on concrete.

Keep bugs out by putting a piece of screen over the hole before filling it with drainage material and soil. Pests will then have to go elsewhere for their dinners!—ALAN W. FARRANT.

Natives in the Garden

By Betty DeWeese

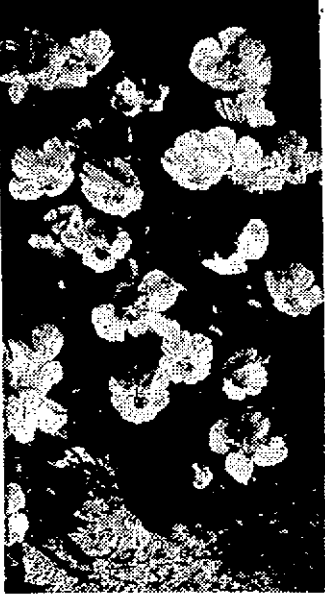

TWO California natives which will gracefully accommodate themselves to our cultivated gardens are Clarkia and California Poppy.

Clarkia elegans, the Mountain Garland, grows in slender spires about three feet tall, each stem lined with very double flowers in shades of yellow, orange, salmon, pink and red. A smaller form C. pulchella grows only to one foot.

The flowers are annual and last only a short time in the spring, but they are well worth planting for the bright mass of color which they bring. They make splendid cut flowers with their graceful stems; they last a long time indoors which is an added virtue. When grown for cutting, they do best when planted thickly in rows.

Eschscholtzia Californica, the California Poppy, growing to one foot in height makes an attractive edging for drives or will spread over a hillside where it will bloom in a sheet of brilliant color. Hybrids come in single and double forms with colors from cream to orange, red and some pastels. The satiny flowers are from two to three inches across and close at night. The blooming period lasts from spring on well into summer.

Both of these flowers are best grown from seed and in the spot where they are to bloom as they take not too kindly to transplanting. Seed may be planted either in spring or fall. These flowers will naturalize with others such as godetia, gillia and others and by self-sowing will come back year after year.

Photos by the Author

Many Long Beach gardeners have brought the poppy to their flower beds for its cheery springtime colors.

Any Time Is Picture Time

their picture taking activities by the summer sun. Particularly in the northern sections of the country, the camera comes out with the bathing suit and summer shorts. Then, when vacation is over and school starts, it is packed away with the summer clothes.

At this moment a country-wide campaign is being made to overcome that habit.

Obviously, the first thing necessary is to get the cameras off the shelves, out of drawers and boxes and into use. To start a mass movement for all these hidden cameras, the photo industry has come up with a slogan: "Any Time Is Picture Time."

I think an even better slogan is "Any Time Is Picture Time" and make it a year round effort.

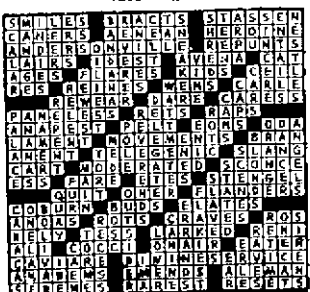

If this campaign catches fire, there are bound to be times when the casual snapshotter is going to run into problems. He may be using a new type of film and may not know the proper guide number of his flashbulb or the right filter factor.

His problems would be solved if he happened to have handy the new "Pocket Photo Data Book" compiled and published by Morgan & Morgan, N. Y. This collection of useful photo information has been carefully edited into loose-leaf notebook size, small enough to fit in a lady fan's handbag, a man's coat pocket or anyone's gadget bag.

IT INCLUDES the latest film speeds (as of February, 1958), guide numbers for floodlights and flash, color film data, filter factors, depth of field table and formulas for developers, toners, fixers, reducers and intensifiers. The film speeds are in ASA Exposure indexes and in Weston Speeds. A conversion table for other foreign systems is also added.

ATTENTION of all shutterbugs is called to a "concours d'elegance" to be held May 18 at the Hacienda in the Palos Verdes Hills above San Pedro. With a gorgeous marine view, golf course, swimming pool, attractive buildings and surroundings, lovely models and well-known personalities, plus a collection of glamorous motor cars, the event should prove stimulating to amateur and professional photographers alike. Frank Mason of the Long Beach MG Club is concours chairman.

BOAT TALK

Masters for Pay

By Bob Ruskauft

OFFHAND, it seems, if there were any job which a sea-fearing man could envy, it would be that held by the bulk of the members of the Yacht Masters and Engineers Club of Calif., Inc.

Why do we believe this?

"We were organized in 1934 with eight charter members," said Jack Johannessen, secretary for most of the years since that date. "Now we're 120, mostly captains with only five or six engineers."

"Mostly, we are a social organization though an objective is to help members obtain jobs."

So, who are these Masters for Pay and what are their jobs?

THEY ARE THE MEN who command the larger yachts; the elite of the vast Corinthian armada that make home port in Southland waters, but ply the seas and oceans of the world.

Theirs is a serious job, but they love it and their worry is purely professional.

If they get along with the wealthy owners ("and most of them are pretty fine and understanding people") their lot is certainly better than that of many in other fields.

Nothing fly-by-night, because Maritime Law specifies that yachts over a certain tonnage (we loaned our Lloyd's Register to a friend four years ago, but think it's over 200 tons) must carry a licensed officer both on deck and in the engine room.

SO THE JOB is pretty steady. Capt. Johannessen was for 12 years skipper of the late Don Lee's Melody. This palatial 145-foot Diesel cruiser, which did Coast Guard service during War II, is now the property of a Brazilian entrepreneur (a fancy word for big shot).

Roy Marlin of Naples, one of the younger members, is the licensed skipper aboard Harold Hecht's M-sloop Pursuit, now doing a beautiful job in offshore racing.

BUT MANY ARE old salts with 30 to 40 years' experience.

Earl Schtne commands Valor, big two-masted schooner which often lends glamour to Newport Harbor, her home port (right off Highway 101), but "she's now in the east much of the time; is presently in the Caribbean."

For Capt. Henry Angelsen of Puritan, another grand two-master, there's at least one voyage a year off Mexico and a deal of cruising in these waters.

There's responsibility to be sure in commanding these immaculate, costly floating homes — aye, palaces. Yet, if there were any job which . . .

BOAT HOOKS: On today's schedule of marine sport, the unlimited hydroplanes launch their 1958 high point season in finals of the Apple Cup regatta on Lake Chelan, Wash.; Newport Harbor and Balboa Yacht Clubs' joint spring regatta ends; the huge outboard fleet returns from a family cruise, Newport to Avalon and, at Blythe a stock outboard marathon is scheduled on the Colorado River.

PAT PATRICK
Irish? Sure

Caricature by Milt Reppert

SURE AN' there's a very good reason why the menus at Pat's restaurant, Woodruff and Carson St., are printed in green ink and owner Pat Patrick wears a shamrock tie clasp.

Sure an' it's because Pat is as Irish as County Cork and Newtownmountkennedy, a town on the east coast of the Auld Sod. Although born in San Diego, Pat acts like an Irishman, dresses like one and has decorated his good-looking dining room and cocktail lounge (called the Clover Room, natch) in light and dark greens.

With 16 years of restaurant experience behind him, Pat knows exactly what to serve his patrons to bring smiles to their lips and comments like: "Tis marvelous sea food ye be savin' here, Pat, me boy!" One of the house specialties is Sea Food Brochette, a dish combining shrimp, scallops and halibut broiled together on a skewer with mushrooms, onions and peppers (the latter are green, of course.) Complemented by a creamy special sauce, the Brochette is served for $1.75 on a meal which includes soup du jour or a giant salad with choice of dressing, chilled relishes, large fresh baked potato with cheese sauce and fluffy hot rolls.

PAT's charcoal-broiled steaks are also highly rayeworthy. They are the 12-ounce top sirloin, $2.65, 14-ounce New York Steak, $3.25, filet mignon, $3.25, and Spencer Steak, $2.75. All are served with the previously mentioned dinner items, plus onion rings and choice of beverage. Also featured are numerous other sea food items, pan fried chicken and an exotic Japanese dish, Tangiyaki Shishkaboh (cuts of top sirloin with herbs and mushrooms), $2.10.

Complete luncheons are served daily from $1 up, offering a variety of entrees. Open seven days a week, from 8 a.m. to 2 a.m., Pat's serves luncheons from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., dinners from 4 p.m. to 10 p.m., later on weekends. TEDD THOMAS

On Parade

We think we bring you a pretty fair little magazine every Sunday. So do a lot of people, to judge by the nice comments we get. Now another "vote of approval" has come PARADE's way: medical writer Robert P. Goldman has been named to the Committee on Education and Public Information of the American Heart Association.

The Association is America's top fund-raising and fact-spreading group in the all-out war on our worst killer, heart disease. The committee makes national policy on furthering this highly desirable work. On the committee are a number of noted medical men — and just one magazine representative, our man.

Goldman was chosen after producing scores of PARADE articles, many of which you surely have read. Today, he helped prepare the piece on pp. 26-27 by Dr. Paul Dudley White, heart consultant to the President.

Small complaint from the Buffalo Bill Museum in Cody, Wyo., one of the six great tourist attractions co-operating with PARADE in our special 1958 Turnpike Guidebook offer (see p. 17). Seems we placed the Museum on the highway "near" Cody when we described it in our April 20 issue; actually, it's right at the edge of town. We also said it contains Buffalo Bill's ranch house, when actually it's a faithful replica. Apologies to our friends at the Museum. Assurances that you'll enjoy it when you go there.

Intriguing letter from Ross Thomas, 9, of La Mesa, Calif.: "You mentioned (Mar. 16) a dog who is a vegetarian. We also have an unusual dog. He picks, peels and eats tangerines. But he does not pick up the peelings."

Naturally not, Ross. They don't appeal to him.

FAMILY FOURSOME: Author Lupino and husband Howard Duff, Mr. Adams and Eve (CBS-TV), share a quiet moment with daughter Bridget and pet dog.

How I fell in love with my man

by IDA LUPINO

Remember the radio program Sam Spade? A few years ago it was my favorite. "Favorite"? I was sappy about it. Nights it came on, I wouldn't make appointments or even answer the phone. I just wanted to sit and be wafted away in romantic dreams by the deep, wonderful voice of the man who played the title role.

A good friend of mine, the late producer-writer Mark Hellinger, knew of my infatuation with Sam Spade's voice. One day he offered to arrange a meeting.

"Nothing doing," I said. "Chances are he's a funny-looking old man with few teeth and lots of kids. I'd rather just keep my dream."

"Look," Mark said, "I'll bet you $15 that he can't be half that bad." Well, I took him on.

Several weeks later Mark asked me to his office. "I called you to settle a bet," he said. He opened the door to the next room and a man walked in. "Ida," Mark said, "I want you to meet Howard Duff, the chap who plays Sam Spade."

I took one look, opened my purse, paid the $15.

But I still was in for disillusionment. After that I met Howard at several Hollywood parties — and we didn't get along at all. Before long we weren't even speaking to each other. When I found that Howard and I actually were cast in the same movie, I refused to accept the role until I was faced down by a whole battery of studio lawyers.

Then, the first day on the set, Howard walked up to me and handed me a beautiful orchid. Along with it went his best smile. Right then is when I fell in love with Howard Duff — the man, not the voice.

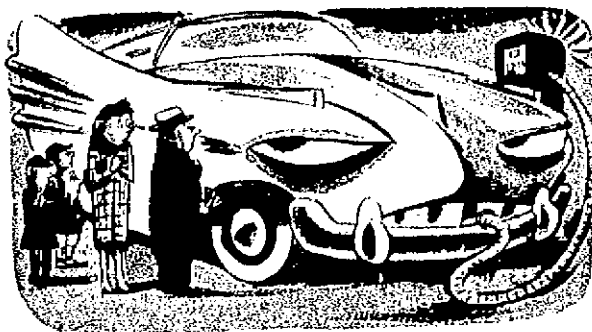

In my most queenly, gracious manner, I said, "Thank you very much," turned, and with all eyes on me, began to walk away. As an actress I knew I was carrying off the scene beautifully — until I tripped over a camera cord and sat solidly on the floor.

And right then, Howard says, is when he first fell in love with me.

Rambler Rescues Man From Monster by Chas Addams

This monster owned a man. The man didn't know this. He thought he owned the monster (which was really a big gas hog of a car), but it knew better.

It drank up the family's grocery money at gas pumps. It lived like a king, while the man and his family got thinner and thinner. Their clothes were threadbare.

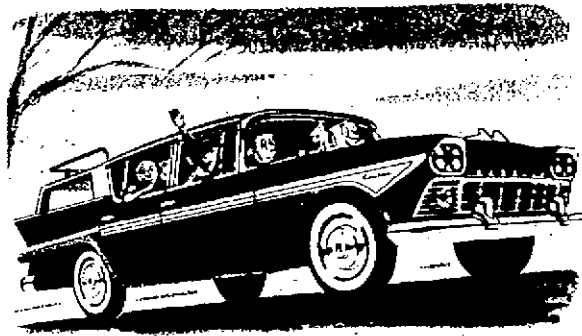

Finally, the man said: "I've had it. Let's swap for a little European car." "Sh-h-h," said his wife, "the monster might hear you. Besides, no room for the kids."

Then they saw a Rambler with big car room, small car economy, squeezed the monster into two parking spaces and ran to the Rambler dealer.

"Please rescue us from the monster," they said. So he showed them the Rambler Cross Country 6 that set the NASCAR record—1¢ a mile for gas, with overdrive.

They bought it. Soon they had plenty of money. The kids got fat and rosy-cheeked. If you own a monster, or it owns you, why not see your Rambler dealer?

① Get American big car room and comfort ② Get European small car economy, handling ease

Get the Best of Both—Go Rambler!

See why smart thousands every week are switching from gas-guzzling monsters to smart, thrifty, roomy Ramblers. Rambler's first in sales gains because it's first in economy, easiest of all to turn and park, tops the field in trade-in value. See the Rambler 6, Rambler Rebel V-8, luxurious Ambassador V-8 by Rambler and the brand-new 100-inch-wheelbase Rambler AMERICAN.

Sweet and sour notes

by PAUL STEINER

A farm wife of Bogart, Ga., reported that the only way she can bridle her husband's mule is to start singing when she enters the barn. The mule stands listening, open-mouthed.

A confused music-lover stole a ukelele from a home in Santa Monica, Calif.—plus a book entitled How to Play the Harmonica.

A sheriff in Dyersburg, Tenn., didn't mind hillbilly music in his jail until he investigated some persistent guitar-playing prisoners, caught three others who were keeping time with hacksaw blades on the bars of their cell.

A musician in Euclid, Ohio, complained he kept receiving police broadcasts on his electric guitar.

Thieves who stole a record player from a Lowell, Mass., home returned three days later, took an album of records.

Charged with setting fire to his family's home three times in one week, a youth in San Marino, Calif., flabbergasted firemen who found him each time quietly sitting in the living room playing classical records. Said he: "Beethoven thrills me."

A woman in Chicago won a divorce after testifying she helped her husband write four songs—which he subsequently dedicated to four other women.

Charged in a London court with playing in the streets for coins, a saxophonist won acquittal after telling the judge he did so because acoustics there were better than in the big concert halls.

In Los Angeles, a famous violinist stormed from the stage, complaining that a chirping cricket in a potted palm in the auditorium disturbed his performance.

A disgruntled Tennessee husband filed a cross-bill for divorce, charging his wife wrote a song describing their married life. The song's title: Thirty Months in Hell.

In a note to authorities, prisoners in a Swedish jail complained their nerves were being shattered by jazz music from a fairground just outside the walls. "This infernal noise," they wrote, "penetrates the closed doors and windows so that we cannot sleep. We were sentenced to hard labor, not torture."

A Cleveland woman was granted a divorce when she named a baby grand piano as "No. 1 co-respondent." She testified that "my husband's first love was that baby grand. He neglected his work to play it and was up all hours of the night with it."

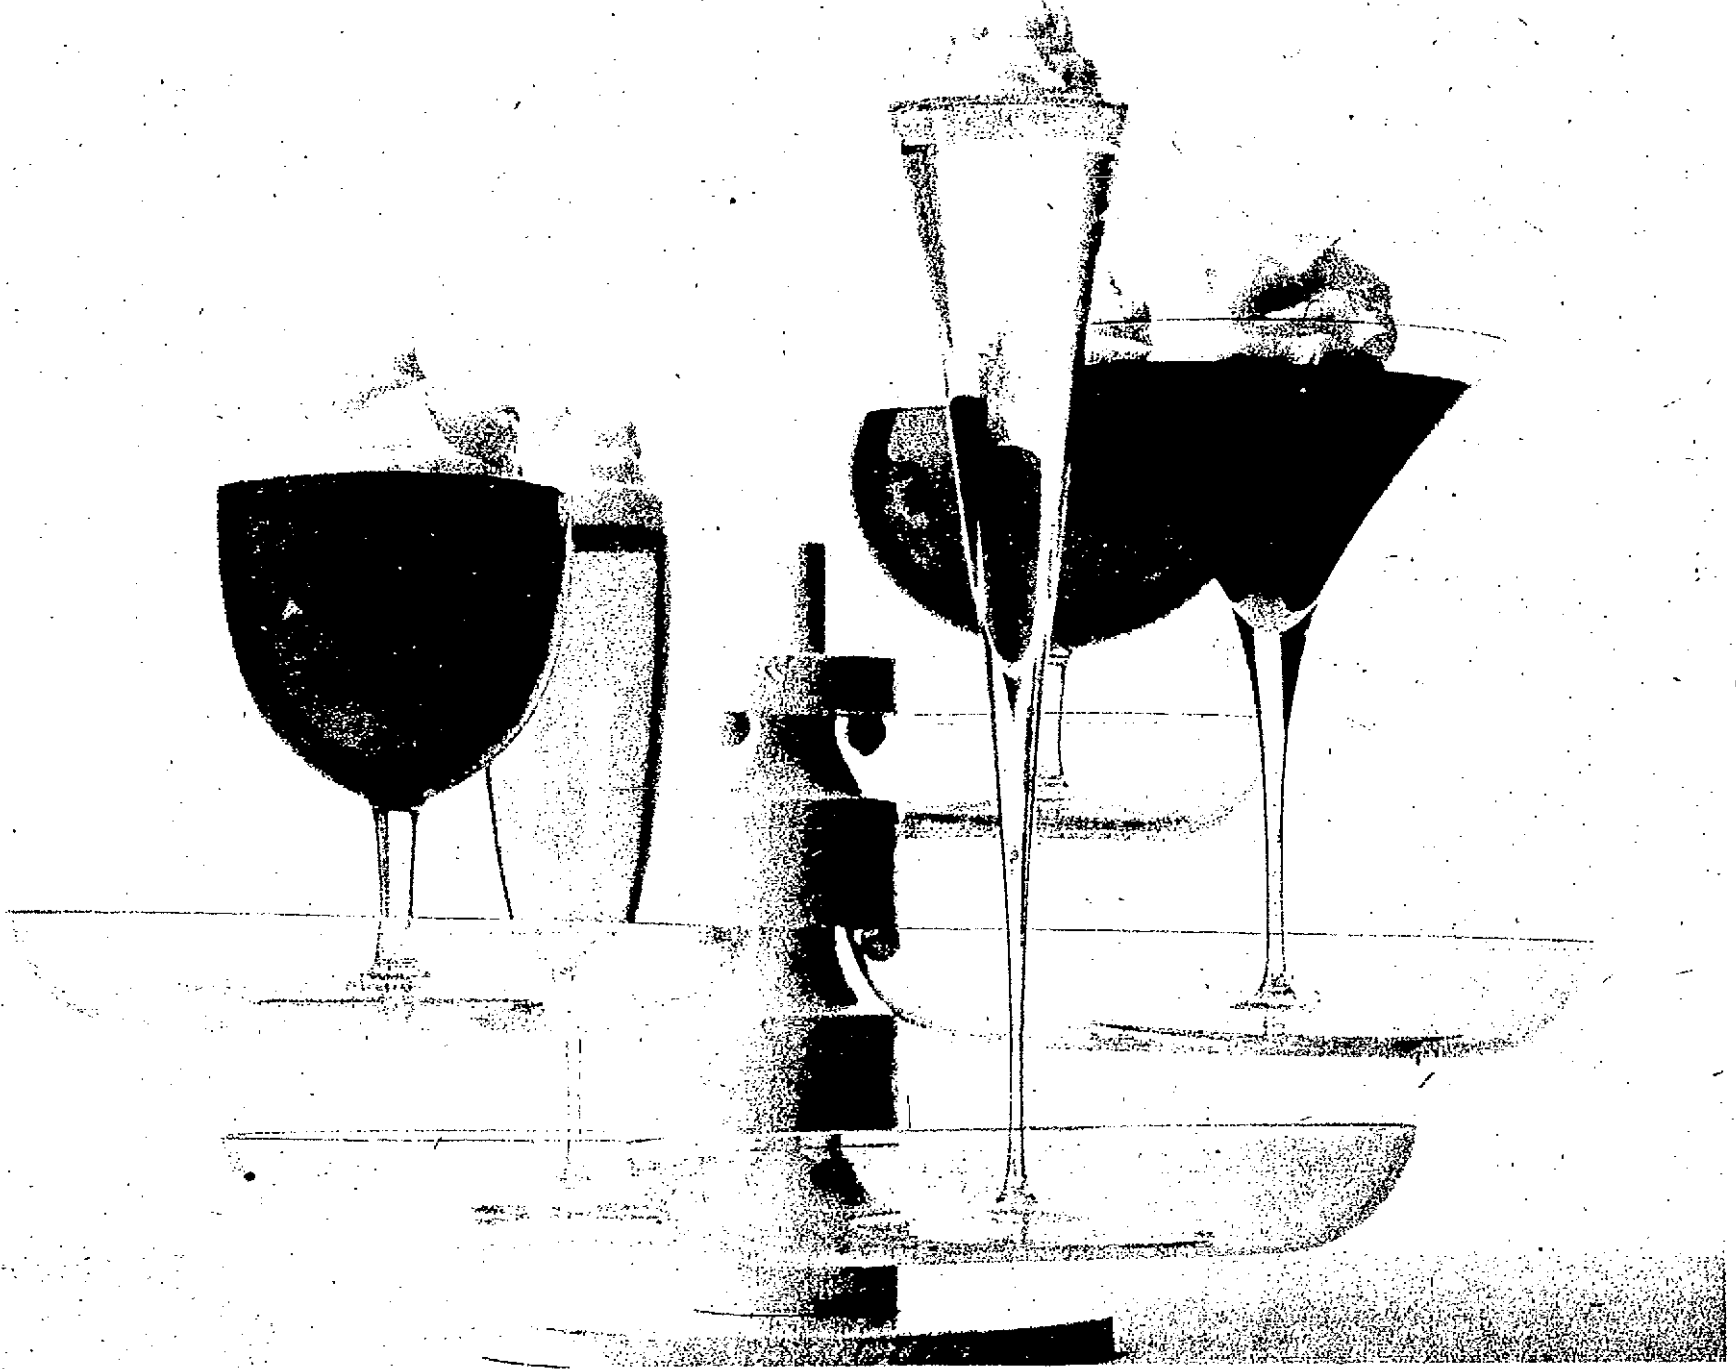

Similarly, a young wife complained in a Chicago court about a whistling teakettle. Her husband, she testified, kept it going on the fire continuously because "it was his symphony and he wanted it to play." When she removed it, she said, he hit her.

During a clean-up drive in Watertown, N. Y., rubbish-collection trucks were equipped with devices that played recorded music.

Tapping her toe in time to radio music in her car, a woman in Boonville, Mo., came down too hard on the accelerator, lost control of the car, hit another. Damage: $25.

A Salt Lake City restaurateur, a jazz fan all his life, directed in his will that he wanted a hot jazz beat at his funeral—no organ music or eulogies.

Charged with bopping his partner in an impromptu midnight duet and landing him in a hospital, a man in San Jose, Calif., explained: "That guy was singing out of tune."

Though this North African capital is a focus one fact is clear: officially, Tunisia leans toward the Western way of life. Recent proof is President Habib Bourguiba's decree rec-the younger generation is setting the example.

As these photos suggest, bare faces all over

COULD YOUR CHILD BECOME A DELINQUENT?

Here is a surprisingly simple way to answer a question raised by practically every parent. Already this yardstick has proved 80 to 90 per cent accurate

by JOSEPH KAHN

Could your child become a delinquent?

~~If you are an average American parent, you have~~ been shocked by the recurring headlines about troubled teenagers, the gang battles, the vandalism, the trials, the inevitable sentences—and the tragic waste of youthful promise. Probably you have asked yourself that ominous question.

Now there is a way to get the answer with remarkable accuracy. Presented here for the first time is a proved self-examination to measure your child's "delinquency potential" by measuring you—his parent.

The test on the opposite page, developed by PARADE, is based on a scientific yardstick devised by the New York City Youth Board. Using it for the past six years, the Board has predicted delinquent behavior months, even years before it occurs.

Among one group of 220 youngsters, Youth Board predictions of delinquency proved accurate in 195 cases. Overall the predictions have been 80 to 90 per cent accurate. Among children rated as potential non-delinquents, the predictions have been about 90 per cent accurate.

Above all, the Board has learned that if pre-delinquent symptoms can be spotted, something can be done about them.

Five Keys to Delinquency

The self-test offered here evolves from research launched more than a decade ago. Drs. Sheldon and Eleanor Glueck, of the Harvard University Law School, worked out the original formula.

Comparing 500 delinquent boys with 500 non-delinquents over a 10-year period, the Gluecks found that such factors as poverty, poor housing and broken homes were not necessarily crucial in producing delinquent youngsters.

They did find five factors which differentiated the two groups. They are: 1) discipline by father, 2) supervision by mother, 3) affection of father, 4) affection of mother and 5) cohesiveness of family.

In determining the delinquency potential of a given youngster, each of these qualities is graded and scored. Thus, according to the Gluecks and the Youth Board, parental attitudes and actions in themselves provide the key to delinquency.

An overstrict, harsh, unreasoning father—in contrast to a firm, kindly one—is scored low. A careless mother who allows her child to roam the streets is rated poor. Hostile, indifferent, rejecting parents get "no-passing" grades.

This formula has served as the basis of an eight-year experiment started by Ralph Whelan, energetic director of the Youth Board. Having worked with the Gluecks in Boston, Whelan figured that their findings could be used to predict potential delinquency. He and other Youth Board staffers then adapted the Glueck research to their own needs.

The Board has found that future delinquency best can be predicted when a boy (or girl) is between 4 and 7, the years when long-range behavior patterns begin to emerge. However, PARADE's self-test can be valuable to any parent and any child.

Are there actual pre-delinquent symptoms to watch for? The Youth Board says yes. They may include anxiety, fear, lying, stealing, even muscular ties. Note the word may. All these may indicate emotional disturbance, but they also may be routine among young children and soon outgrown. The key still seems to be: How do parents treat their children?

Delinquent behavior itself has various definitions, but authorities consulted by PARADE agreed on a simple working description. A child is delinquent, they said, if his actions repeatedly bring him to the attention of the police. This rules out most pranksters and practical jokers, most children saddled with excess nervous energy.

Delinquency is marked by repeated, active rebellion against authority. The child usually is extroverted and lacks remorse feelings. Often he is so defiant that he will not take discipline at home, in school or from outside agencies. He usually steers away from supervised activities, even athletics.

To collect data about a specific child, Youth Board interviewers see the child's parents. The child himself is never interviewed. Based solely on parental attitudes and actions, plus information from social agencies, the Youth Board rates the probability of delinquency.

Your Job As You See It

Success in making the predictions has been so stunning to date that Whelan believes that agencies which deal with problem children "might focus their major preventive programs on the family rather than on the child."

The test offered here gauges the major areas of a child's relationship with his parents, as seen through the parents' eyes. In taking the test, you can measure your effectiveness as a parent as well as learn what direction your child is heading.

The value of the test depends largely on how honest you are with yourself. You must answer the questions honestly, not as you think they should be answered, if you expect to wind up with accurate information.

If you have more than one child, test yourself separately for each one, since relationships differ between parents and individual children.

Remember, too, that this test measures "delinquency potential." If you get a low score, pay special attention to the section following the test. That will tell you what you can do to decrease your child's delinquency potential.

Either parent can answer Questions 1 through 23. However, the remaining questions are designed specifically for the father and mother.

AN 11-YEAR-OLD gets some advice. The boy's willingness to accept criticism now may steer him away from delinquency later.

Parents: answer these questions honestly

1. Do you know most of your child's friends? YES ☐ NO ☐
2. Are they welcome in your home? YES ☐ NO ☐
3. Are you active in encouraging your child's activities, interests, hobbies? YES ☐ NO ☐
4. Do you frequently arrange to spend short periods of time alone with your child? YES ☐ NO ☐
5. Do you offer to spend time answering your child's questions about school problems? YES ☐ NO ☐
6. Are you generous in praising your child for trying and accomplishing? YES ☐ NO ☐
7. Does your child carry out assigned household responsibilities? YES ☐ NO ☐
8. When you are not at home, do you provide responsible supervision for your child? YES ☐ NO ☐
9. Do you encourage your child to join in organized activities suited to his age? YES ☐ NO ☐
10. Are you careful not to favor one child over another? YES ☐ NO ☐
11. Do you really have confidence in the character and capabilities of your child? YES ☐ NO ☐
12. Do you show affection for your child by holding him, hugging him, kissing him good-night? YES ☐ NO ☐
13. Do you really enjoy your child's company for lengthy periods? YES ☐ NO ☐
14. Within reason, do you keep your promises to your child? YES ☐ NO ☐
15. Are you consistent in disciplining your child rather than harsh one moment and easygoing the next? YES ☐ NO ☐

16. When you punish your child, does he understand the reasons and think you are fair? YES ☐ NO ☐

17. Do you avoid dwelling on an unpleasant incident after it's over? YES ☐ NO ☐

18. Do you really try to understand your child's fears, tempers, letdowns so that you can help him work them out? YES ☐ NO ☐

19. Does your family do things together often — play games, plan parties, take trips, share hobbies? YES ☐ NO ☐

20. Does your family eat at least one meal a day together? YES ☐ NO ☐

21. Does your family attend religious services together? YES ☐ NO ☐

22. Do you plan ahead for your child's future education, vacations, etc.? YES ☐ NO ☐

23. Do you believe that your husband (wife) is setting a good example? YES ☐ NO ☐

For mothers only

24. Do you always know where your child is? YES ☐ NO ☐

25. Is there an established home routine for eating, bathing and bedtime? YES ☐ NO ☐

For fathers only

24. Do you share responsibility for discipline instead of leaving it all to mother? YES ☐ NO ☐

25. Do you arrange to get home from work early enough to spend some time with your child before he goes to bed? YES ☐ NO ☐

The scoring and meaning of your answers

The more questions you answered "Yes," the less chance your child has of becoming a delinquent. Each "Yes" answer rates 1 point. A score of 18 or above indicates that your child has a very low delinquency potential. That is, he is very unlikely to go astray.

A score of 13 to 17 means he has a better than average chance of turning into a good, wholesome citizen.

A score of 9 to 12 calls for some serious self-analysis on your part.

A score of 8 or less means that you would be wise to seek outside help in reshaping your attitudes toward child-rearing.

Don't let a few "No" answers alarm you. They turn up in just about every family. But do analyze your "No" answers. Talk them over with your spouse. Don't approach the subject with a chip on your shoulder. Admit your faults. Talk them out. Remember: Most "No's" can be changed with some effort, a revised attitude or routine.

Look at Question 4, for example. If household chores preclude "alone-time" with the child, reevaluate your routine. Something can be done. Children rarely need (or want) an hour or even a half-hour. A few minutes' extra attention can do the trick.

A "No" to Question 16 may require some investigation on your part. Why doesn't the child think you are fair? Are you too severe? If necessary, talk to the youngster himself. Does he feel that the only attention you give him involves punishment? Draw him out.

It is desirable — and logical — to give all the questions such thoughtful analysis. Further, the Youth Board advises:

If solutions cannot be found around the family table and you honestly believe you are doing everything possible, talk out your problems with other parents, school officials, your minister, doctor or family service agency. Don't be afraid to go to them. They stand ready to help.

Above all, don't be content to let a "No" answer stand. If you do, you are admitting failure — either your own or some other family member's. And failure can contribute to the very thing this article is designed to help avert — delinquency in your home. ■

The spy Russia couldn't catch

Now it can be told: the saga of
Col. Robert Throckmorton Lincoln

by WALTER WAGER

Various things may be on the agenda when President Eisenhower next meets Premier Khrushchev — but one item certain not to be discussed is Yankee super-spy Robert T. Lincoln.

Master marksman, ace pilot, code-buster, linguist and ladies' man, Lincoln first hit Asian headlines in 1948. It was then that Radio Moscow revealed he was being transferred from Turkey to Iran to work with the new American ambassador, John C. Wiley.

Soon the Soviet airwaves hummed with reports of Lincoln's bold anti-Russian campaign among the Kurdish tribes along Iran's sensitive northern frontier. This was serious: Iran was fighting for her life against Red infiltration and subversion. Pitted against an army of Communists was the small band led by Robert Throckmorton Lincoln.

The mystery man was tabbed as a former run-runner with piercing gray eyes and the manner of a Southern gentleman. It was rumored that he'd been born in Slippery Rock, Ark., on October 10, 1909, starred in football at the local State Teachers' College.

Exact information was lacking — until a senior official of the U.S. Embassy "accidentally" lost a brief case filled with Top Secret documents. Within a few days, agents of Russian, Iranian and British intelligence knew that the repeal of Prohibition had turned Lincoln in 1933 from rum-running to a career as a confidence man — and then, via the back door, to counterespionage.

Finally our operative was trapped—not by Reds, but by a noted U.S. newsman

While Teheran buzzed with Lincoln's exploits, Ambassador Wiley blandly shrugged off questions. Meanwhile Russian code teams were cracking message after message from Wiley to the then Major in a dozen frontier towns.

The man seemed to be everywhere. One Iranian reporter phoned his paper that Lincoln had landed at Tabriz in the U.S. military attaché's plane. Another Teheran daily learned that Lincoln had gone to Damascus to woo the shapely sister of Syrian dictator Shishleky. Soviet pursuers floundered in his wake.

Lincoln's romantic activities led to complications when it was learned that he had a wife in Springfield, Mass., two Kurdish sieghs and an exotically beautiful friend named Magda Obolensky Brown. The latter, the White Russian widow of an American airman, was whispered to be both courier and confidante of the incredible Major.

Soviet frustration over l'affaire Lincoln wasn't eased by the arrival in Iran of Maj. Gen. William J. ("Wild Bill") Donovan, wartime chief of the Office of Strategic Services. On March 31, 1949, Donovan sent Wiley the following coded wire from Northern Iran:

"For publicity purposes, my visit is pleasure; actually I am out to investigate Lincoln's activities. Reports of his excesses among the Kurdish women have reached the President, and while he's one of our best operators, he's got to get on the beam morally."

Enter Admiral Wrong

Apparently even spymaster Donovan couldn't overtake the elusive Major, for reports continued to pour in about Lincoln's political (and amatory) triumphs. Sparked by Russia's failure to quash one lone Yankee operative, the Iranian government began to take a stronger anti-Soviet position. And, by mid-1949, the Reds were further aggravated by the reported arrival of more U.S. agents—Col. Coleman B. Cole of Army Intelligence, Adm. Richard Wright Wrong of Naval Intelligence, Elmo C. Rover and Roy Chapman Andreyev of Central Intelligence.

Purpose of this high-powered group was to back up Lincoln's efforts—but some friction developed. By the time Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas reached Iran in 1950, the Major was in a state of wrath over being so heavily outranked and over the delays in paying his expense accounts. Douglas so informed Ambassador Wiley, who telegraphed back: "Promotion coming through very soon. Will send funds immediately. Assure Lincoln his work highly thought of here and in Washington."

In Teheran, Douglas asked John Wiley who this Lincoln fellow really was. Wiley opened his safe and took out a dossier... Back in Washington, Douglas smilingly told newsmen: "Lincoln was my constant companion on every one of my missions."

The end of Colonel Lincoln came abruptly in April, 1950. Ironically, his downfall was not at the hands of the Reds. He was exposed by a distinguished American journalist, C. L. Sulzberger of the New York Times. Visiting Wiley in Teheran, he asked some blunt questions. The gist of the interview, published on the front page of the Times, was this:

At Last the Truth

"The most successful, dramatic, spectacular and romantic secret intelligence agent ever employed by the United States Government" did not exist. There wasn't any Robert Throckmorton Lincoln. It was all a joke—one of diplomacy's great gags.

In fact, as former Ambassador Wiley recently revealed for the first time, the Russians had played the joke on themselves. Wiley explains that he was checking over translations of Soviet propaganda broadcasts shortly after his arrival at his Teheran post in 1948, when he noticed repeated mention of a mythical U.S. spy whom some bored Soviet propagandist had dubbed "Major Lincoln." Thus began a genial conspiracy between the Ambassador and a whole string of distinguished American visitors, all the way up to the Supreme Court.

Despite the apparent death of Lincoln at the respected hands of the Times, hints that he still lives have kept popping up. One observer told Wiley: "I saw him north of Maku (Northern India). He's running a line of agents over the Russian border."

Wiley himself won't concede that the Lincoln legend is over. "Bob Lincoln may be just as active as he ever was. He could turn up anywhere, any time," he says solemnly.

Should Robert Throckmorton Lincoln rise again, he will carry with him a weapon democracy may have underestimated in the battle for survival: a sense of humor. ■

PARADE VACATION

FASHION SHOW finds Dawn Weaver, 9, matching pedal pushers against clothes worn by students at Pennsylvania one-room school. The six belong to four different sects.

Are the legends about Pennsylvania's

WITCHCRAFT

by ED KIESTER

LANCASTER, PA.

A tightly knit band of Americans in this area has been the subject of one Broadway play, one hit musical and some of the most wildly exaggerated folklore ever spread. According to legend, Pennsylvania's "plain people" believe in bundling, witchcraft and such customs as painting gates blue to show a daughter is of marrying age.

None of these beliefs, as the Jim Weaver family learned on a recent visit here, is true. Jim, Sara and 9-year-old Dawn had heard of the "plain people"—just as you may have—and decided to include a two-day stopover here in their vacation travels. They came away with a valuable lesson about America, a nation where people can live according to their own beliefs.

They're Out of Step

By modern American standards, the "plain people" are out of step. Basically, the Weavers learned, there are three groups—Amish (pronounced "Umish" here), Mennonites and Dunkards, and each has its own splinter sects. (Contrary to notion, they are only a fraction of the Pennsylvania "Dutch," 90 per cent of whom are not plain.) By group and by sect, beliefs vary widely on such matters as dress, AMISH PATRIARCH wears typical garb: broad-brimmed hat, black suit, beard.

'plain people' true?

and BUNDLING

work, electricity, cars and telephones. The so-called "black bumper" Mennonites, for instance, drive cars but cover the chrome trim.

All agree on avoiding worldliness, which can mean keeping up with the Joneses. And probably the most conservative of all is the Old Order Amish. This is the sect which prohibits members from using autos, tractors, telephones or electricity. Men let their hair grow and raise beards, and wear broad-brimmed hats and 18th-century clothes without buttons. Women shun makeup and wear bonnets with pinafore-type black dresses.

But if the "plain people" shut out worldliness, they do not shut out the world. The Weavers found them warm, friendly and hospitable. Rarely did a horse-drawn Amish buggy or market wagon roll by without a cordial wave from driver and passengers.

In Intercourse, a small town east of Lancaster where Amish life centers, carriage-maker John Lapp took the family on a tour of his shop, explaining in detail how buggies are assembled and finished. (Twelve coats of lacquer are tediously applied by hand.)

Jacob and Mary Carper, of Manheim, a Mennonite couple, invited the Weavers to a chicken pot-pie dinner.

Mennonite children welcomed the family at Maple Grove school and played games with Dawn. An Amish farmer in a brilliant green shirt (Amish love bright colors) left his fields to chat about the tobacco crop.

Off the Beaten Track

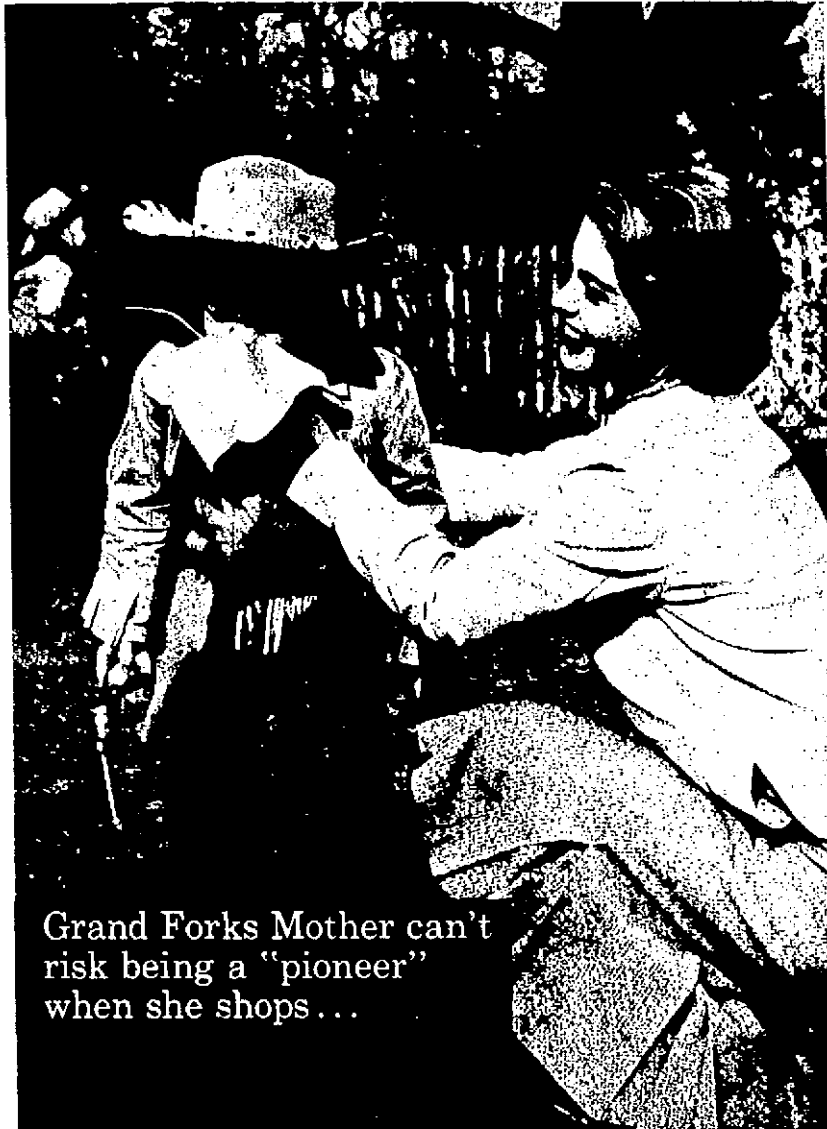

Getting close to the "plain people" took the Weavers off the beaten tourist track. Jim, a printer, is a tall, easy-going type with a quick grin and a knack for making friends. Sara smiles easily and their daughter is lively.

"We like this kind of vacation," Jim says. "We like to get out and meet people and find out what they're like. We want Dawn to meet people all over the country."

If you should want to follow in the Weavers' footsteps, you, too, should stick to back roads and ask questions. (A tip: Don't take your camera. Amish consider photos graven images.) A good starting place is Intercourse, on State Route 23. Zimmerman's store there is the Amish focal point.

If you wish, you can buy a guidebook of the area for 50¢. The Hotel Brunswick, in Lancaster, offers half-day tours (price: $4.90), week-end visits ($39.95, including tours, rooms and meals) and private guide service.

The Amish Farm and House (admission 65¢, children 25¢), on U.S. 30 east of here, is a real Amish household.

Each year on the July 4 week end, Pennsylvania Dutch both plain and "fancy" gather at Kutztown, 40 miles north of here, for the Pennsylvania Dutch Folk Festival. And you can get more information on the whole area by writing Pennsylvania Dutch Tourist Bureau, Chamber of Commerce Bldg., Lancaster, Pa.

Of course, as the Weavers found out, this area includes more than the "plain people." Lancaster County is steeped in history. Both the Conestoga wagon, which opened the Western prairies to settlers, and the so-called Kentucky rifle were born here. Originals of both are on exhibit at the Landis Valley Farm Museum, which the Weavers visited. The family also toured "Wheatlands," home of James Buchanan, our 15th President.

Shoo-fly Pie for Breakfast

There are quaint towns like Lititz, founded by Moravians, and Ephrata, home of a Seventh Day Baptist sect in the 1700s. The latter's settlement (see photo) has been restored.

And there's food, for which the Pennsylvania Dutch are justly famous. Although every housewife does not serve seven sweets and seven sourds at each meal (another bit of folklore), the Weavers found good food in quantity.

One of the days they enjoyed most, they agreed afterwards, was their visit to Lancaster's Central Market, where "plain people" and other farmers sell fresh farm produce. Visiting the market early on a Saturday, Jim sampled shoo-fly pie, the local dessert made of cake crumbs and molasses and baked in a pie shell. It's sticky but tasty.

But most of all the Weavers remembered the people. A Mennonite school teacher told them: "We're not much different from anyone else. All we want is to be able to live the way we want to. Isn't that what this country is all about?"

Amish wagons stand side by side at hitching rail provided by a department store. Amish, particularly boys, are proud of their horses. Here the Weavers make friends with two of them.

15 ways to save money on your vacation

This year most vacationers want to stretch their vacation budgets. Can you do it and still have a trip worth taking? Here are 15 tips that can help you cut costs and still enjoy yourself:

1 Plan carefully. Haphazard, "pot-luck" trips are the most costly. Make a vacation schedule, basing it on economical stops and attractions, and stick to it as closely as possible.

2 Try something different. One suggestion: a college town. Many are attractive, close to resorts. Example: Ithaca, site of Cornell U., on New York's Lake Cayuga.

3 Capitalize on free offerings. Your state capital often is rich in history. Industries offer free tours. National and state parks are top bargains.

4 Do some work yourself. "Housekeeping" cottages and cabins cut food bills — though Mom must prepare meals, tidy up. A good trick is to cook only breakfast, eat other meals out.

5 Try camping. Take gear from home — old utensils, blankets. Campsites seldom cost more than 50¢ a night.

6 Pack a picnic basket. You can do this every day — there are plenty of wayside parks. Even the first day's lunch, brought from home, can save a family of four $5 and up.

7 Have a car checkup. Breakdowns later can mean expensive towing fees or repair charges far from home.

8 Travel off-season if possible. June is the thrift month on Cape Cod, midsummer in Florida, early fall in many beach resorts. Shape your plans to take advantage of these bargains.

9 Stop early in the day. An hour's difference — a 3 p.m. stop instead of 4 — can mean your choice of motels, hotels and tourist homes.

10 Drive at a moderate speed. You don't have to be told this will lessen wear and tear on the car. And 50 mph instead of 70 saves about one gallon of gasoline in four.

11 Take advantage of the outdoors. Fishing licenses are cheap. A walk in the woods costs nothing. This can be your year to get in touch with Nature — a real bargain.

12 Pick commercial attractions carefully. Gardens, caves, historical shrines — they must be good to compete with free attractions. But watch out for free "gimmicks" — zoos, for example — that may have you spending money before you know it.

13 Budget your money. A family of four can figure an average of $29 daily, but you can cut that by planning. A daily record of spending will help.

14 Buy practical souvenirs. Cheap trinkets look enticing along the way, but you probably can get the same thing at home — for less.

15 Let Mom handle the money. If she can squeeze full value out of her grocery dollar, she can do it on the road — and guarantee a more economical, enjoyable trip for all of you.

WASHINGTON, D.C.

In addition to its art treasures, the National Gallery of Art here has a new attraction: an invisible guide. As shown in the photos on these pages, gallery-goers take advantage of it by listening to 10-minute tape-recorded lectures over vest-pocket radios that rent for 25¢ a day.

Ten rooms are wired for sound. When the visitor steps over the threshold of each, his radio picks up a lecture keyed to certain numbered pictures in that room. Lectures continue all day, each recommencing with Picture No. 1 as a series concludes.

The electronic guide has made a big hit with the public, and the Gallery's 200 radios are in constant demand. Art lovers, the Gallery finds, are honest folk. To date, nobody has walked off with a radio set.

RECEIVER can be clamped to ear or held. Brief talks, recorded by various experts, supplement regular art lectures.

A new springtime dessert

by BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

RHUBARB IS AT its very best this month and strawberries are here to keep it company. Together they offer incomparable flavor and beautiful color. Teamed in today's recipe for Strawberry-Rhubarb Roly-Poly, they make an old favorite new.

To save preparation time, you start with a mix — but add sour cream and a bit of baking soda to give the biscuit dough added richness and the crumbly texture of grandma's "saleratus" biscuits. And since old-fashioned cobblers were likely to be a bit soggy, this recipe keeps the sauce separate until serving time. Altogether, it's a dessert to be served with pride and pleasure.

In tune with the springtime theme, begin the menu with clear chicken broth. For the main course, serve shoulder lamb chops, creamy whipped potatoes, fresh asparagus and tomato aspici salad.

STRAWBERRY-RHUBARB ROLY-POLY

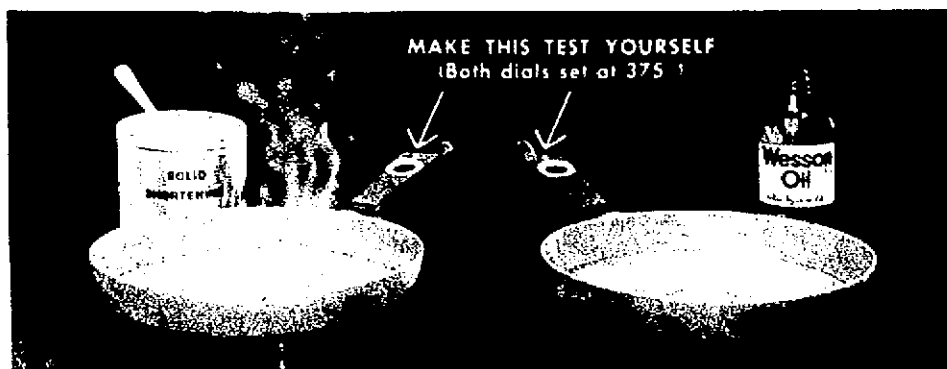

1 cup sugar	1 lb. rhubarb, cut in 1" pieces
½ cup water	½ teaspoon baking soda
2 cups strawberries	2 cups biscuit mix
	1 cup sour cream (about)

Combine sugar and water in saucepan; stir over low heat until sugar dissolves. Cook 5 minutes. Add 1 cup strawberries and half the rhubarb; simmer until fruit is soft. Drain well, saving sirup. Add baking soda to biscuit mix. Stir in enough sour cream to make a soft dough. Roll out in oblong shape ¼" thick on lightly floured board. Spread with drained fruit. Cut crosswise in slices 1½" to 2" thick. Bake on greased baking sheet or shallow pan in hot oven (425°) 20 minutes, or until golden brown. Meanwhile heat sirup; add remaining rhubarb; cook until rhubarb is tender. Remove from heat; add remaining strawberries. Serve with Roly-Poly. Makes six servings.

Wesson Oil

takes the smoke out of frying!

SOLID SHORTENINGS SMOKE BECAUSE they contain an emulsifier. This additive is good for baking, but smokes at frying heat. Shortening that smokes is breaking down, and that can hardly be good for you.

WESSON OIL DOES NOT SMOKE BECAUSE it is vegetable oil in its purest form—nothing added. So clear and delicate, you never taste it. No other oil as fresh, as pure and as light—or more highly rated for good nutrition.

Smoke's out! Flavor's in!

Enjoy cleaner frying with no clinging odor

Brighter flavor in foods—no greasy film even after they've cooled

Thrifty, too—you can use Wesson again and again

For good nutrition—Wesson is America's most readily available source of pure vegetable oil—unsaturated and unhydrogenated.

New Wesson Idea— Tropical Banana Sauté

Heat Wesson Oil in heavy skillet. Slowly brown firm banana halves on one side. Turn, sprinkle with brown sugar and lemon juice. Cook until done. Garnish with cherries. Delicious with ham steak, or as dessert.

Four great discoveries that saved a life

Here's how to gauge the real value of medical research

by PAUL DUDLEY WHITE, M. D.

BOSTON, MASS.

Despite all that is said and written about medical research, many people still fail to understand its importance. To some, its meaning is vague. To others, it is mysterious. To still others, the white-coated men and women laboring in laboratories seem remote, their work too complicated to follow.

True, years of research may uncover only a fragment of knowledge. In itself, this is unexciting. It does not make a good headline. Even when such fragments are put together and lives are saved, the part research played may get lost in the shuffle.

Yet I believe there is a simple way to pinpoint the importance of research — by showing what it has meant to one American now living. Let's call him Robert Morse. His life was saved, like those of countless others, by magnificent progress against heart and blood-vessel disease — the leading cause of death in the United States.

I first saw Robert Morse in the summer of 1940 when he was a boy of 14. Examination revealed heart murmurs, high blood pressure. More important, there was a narrowing of the aorta, the great artery through which blood is delivered from the heart to other parts of the body. When this defect is present, it occurs at birth, but may not be discovered for several years. Only since the 1930s has it been diagnosed with a high degree of accuracy.

In 1940, nothing could be done for this condition — although it was generally recognized as a hazardous one. For the next five years, Morse was examined regularly and little change was found in his overall health. Then, in 1946, doctors here in Boston and in Stockholm devised an operation to correct the arterial defect. Morse was later to profit from this discovery.

For three more years he went along without need for treatment. But one day he fell ill. He felt fatigue, chills, fever and pain. It was obvious that he had an infection which endangered his life. In previous years this infectious disease was almost invariably fatal.

Drugs — Then Surgery

However, research had turned up ways to combat the disease. Morse's life was saved by massive doses of penicillin and chloromycetin, two widely used antibiotic drugs.

Two years later surgical techniques and knowledge had improved. It became possible for Dr. Robert Gross, the eminent Boston surgeon, to attempt to repair the defect of Morse's aorta.

The surgery was extremely delicate, truly a formidable task. It took 10½ hours. Dr. Gross successfully inserted a blood-vessel graft about 6 inches long. This served to replace the narrowed area of the artery and also a good-sized aneurysm (a stretched, balloon-like area of the vessel) which had developed through the years. Use of the artery graft was made possible by improvement in tech-

DON'T LET CONSTIPATION ADD TO YOUR WORRIES!

As distressing as constipation can be in "normal" people without special conditions or illnesses, chronic irregularity can be extremely aggravating—even dangerous—in some cases. If you are on the list, you've probably been cautioned already by your own physician, to avoid harsh laxatives and purgatives. Your doctor may have indicated concern about the stress that goes with constipation (particularly in cardiac, high blood pressure, and similar cases), and he may already have recommended SARAKA. SARAKA works naturally, effectively, the way nature intended your system to work—gently, smoothly, without stress or harshness. SARAKA is easy and pleasant to take, after meals or before bed. At your drug store or drug counter. For generous free sample, write to SARAKA, Dept. P-2, Kendalworth, N. J.

In all the world, there is no better product available to the public than DOLCIN tablets for relieving the moderate pains and discomforts of arthritis, rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, whenever they occur. DOLCIN is not a "miracle drug"; there is no known "cure" for these ailments but DOLCIN is an honest product which has helped millions of people. In eleven years, more than 1,900,000,000 DOLCIN tablets have been used. DOLCIN® must be good! If pains persist, check with your doctor.

niques of storing vessel parts in blood-vessel "banks."

Robert Morse recovered rapidly and has returned to a fully normal life. In the years that have followed, he has been entirely well. He was married in 1955. When I last saw him, he showed me a photo of his 6-month-old baby. He is working full-time and pursues leisure activities—such as golf—without difficulties.

This dramatic story illustrates the particular value of medical research in the field of cardiovascular disease and surgery. For Robert Morse was saved by four great research accomplishments. The four are spread over the fields of diagnosis, medical treatment and surgery. Let's take them in order.

Remember the Robert Morses

First, his deformity was diagnosed as a result of research carried out in the 1930s.

Second, the cure for his infectious disease—which doctors know as subacute bacterial endocarditis and endarteritis—came as a result of research in the 1940s.

Third, the surgical approach to his arterial defect also was the end-product of painstaking research.

Fourth, the successful operation was made possible by the development of an adequate blood-vessel bank.

This case is unusual, of course. But it offers dramatic evidence of accomplishment through research. There are uncounted other patients who have benefited from these and similar findings of the medical researchers through the years.

So, the next time you wonder about the value of research, stop for a moment and remember Robert Morse. Remember, too, the others whose stories are similar. I think you'll agree that if only Robert Morse had benefited from heart-disease research, the result would be worth the effort.

THE AUTHOR: At 71, Dr. White probably is the nation's best-known physician, thanks partly to his service as President Eisenhower's special consultant following the President's heart attack. In practice almost 50 years, he is a founder and past president of the American Heart Association.

How can choosing this man mean greater security for you and your family?

This man is an independent, self-employed insurance specialist. He is free to select for you the best insurance policy for your car, home, or business out of hundreds offered by different, competing insurance companies. He gives you continuing service—advises you after you buy insurance as well as before. And you don't have to worry about red tape when you have a claim—he takes care of everything.

You can't get all of these advantages when you buy insurance directly from a casualty or fire insurance company. You must buy the policies that company offers, which may or may not be the right coverage for you. And when you have a loss, you may have to deal with the company—with people you probably have never met.

How can you be sure you are dealing with an independent insurance agent? Look for this seal before you buy insurance. Only an independent agent can display it.

Show business is becoming a man's world...

WHERE ARE THE GIRLS?

by LLOYD SHEARER

Parade West Coast correspondent

JAYNE MANSFIELD, shown here in her night-club act at Las Vegas, has physical appeal to men. Resistance of women audiences, however, limits her popularity.

Has America become anti-female? What's happened to the women entertainers in show business? Why are the girls no longer as popular as they used to be?

Three nation-wide polls reveal that, as entertainers, girls definitely are the weaker sex. According to the Nielsen Poll, no television series in the top 10 has a girl in the lead. The Motion Picture Herald survey shows that last year, for the first time in history, not one movie actress made the first 10 in box-office appeal. Of the 10 top-selling record albums in the nation, not one is by a woman. Nor has a girl singer had the best-selling single record in years.

Why? This is what show-business executives want to find out.

One answer is that female audiences today control in large degree the television dial and the entertainment dollar. Robert Sarnoff, president of NBC, recently acknowledged this. He added that, as a result, he is increasing the number of women in his network. "Right now," he points out, "we employ 5,400 people, 30 per cent of whom are women working as producers, writers, editors, directors, publicists and artists. We plan to hire as many as possible to give us the necessary woman's slant."

"The reason women entertainers are on the wane," says veteran film director Raoul Walsh, "is a simple numerical fact. In today's market, most moviegoers, record-buyers and TV-watchers are women or girls. They'd rather look at and listen to men. Why? Because they find men more fascinating, more interesting. It's the age-old theory of nature—opposites attract."

Yet years ago Greta Garbo, Betty Grable, Marilyn Monroe, Ingrid Bergman and other female stars were ranked in the first 10. The Andrews Sisters, Connie Boswell, Kate Smith and Doris Day sold records by the carload. What about that?

Not Enough Movies?

Mel Shavelson, Paramount producer, says, "They're just not making girls like they used to." Shavelson claims that girls in show business used to be more glamorous, industrious and talented. "Nowadays," he says, "it's a rarity when a genuinely talented actress comes along. Look at Audrey Hepburn. How many like her do you find? And even when you do, we're not making enough motion pictures to popularize her. In the 1930s and '40s, they'd take a girl like Jean Harlow and throw her into five or six pictures a year. Today that's almost half the total output of a major studio. It's difficult to build female stars with inadequate exposure."

Hollywood press agents declare in refutation that exposure isn't too important in making new stars. "Acceptability is the key," says NBC press executive Bill Stein. "Girls like Gisele Mackenzie, Jeannie Carson, Eve Arden, Polly Bergen, Joan Caulfield—they got all the exposure possible on television, yet their shows were canceled, or will be. I don't think television has made one female star in its 10 years of existence."

GIRLS continued

Today's audiences are mostly women
who like Elvis better than Ekberg

"There are two reasons. First, the TV audience is mostly female and doesn't like competing against women entertainers. Second, people today are more sophisticated than they were 10 or 20 years ago. Back then, you could take Greta Garbo and Betty Grable and promote them into tremendous attractions. Today, people won't buy that nonsense."

Other press agents point out that the public is now conditioned to view Hollywood claims with skepticism. "You can publicize girls like Jayne Mansfield, Anita Ekberg and Sophia Loren 24 hours a day," says one publicist, "and it means nothing at the box office. These girls come under the heading of freak attractions. Once you've seen their figures in a magazine, you've seen almost everything they have to offer."

Not Enough New Faces?

Hollywood executives are quick to point out that women in show business usually last as long as their beauty. Irene Dunne, Myrna Loy, Claudette Colbert, Paulette Goddard are all cases in point. "Hollywood's big fault," says producer Jerry Wald, "was in not finding replacements. When TV came along the studios panicked. They dropped their big-name actresses and didn't develop new ones. Now the name actresses are getting on in years, and we have to scrounge around for replacements. The shortage of top-flight female talent is just temporary."

Many show-business observers feel strongly, however, that female attractions will continue to decline in popularity as women become more powerful in the U.S. economy. A leading theatrical agent, who prefers to remain nameless because he handles many actresses, told PARADE: "Nowadays, more women are working than ever before. Fully one-third of all married women work. They control their own money. This includes the entertainment dollar. It's not the men who've raised Elvis Presley, Pat Boone, Tommy Sands and the other singers to popularity: It's the girls and women who think these boys are cute. And in this day and age, it's the women who make the stars."

What does it all boil down to? The late Louis B. Mayer, MGM mogul, used to say, "I hear so much about Greta Garbo and what a wonderful actress she was. The plain truth is that Mickey Rooney made more money for us at the box office. More women like men than women." Which about sums it up.

Who's Behind Propaganda from Box 27103?

By BEN ZINSER

From Post Office Box 27103, Hollywood 27, comes a flood of inflammatory leaflets dealing with local, state and national issues. Some of the mail is anti-Semitic.

Much of it is unsigned.

Pamphlets from Box 27103 have been received in Long Beach by members of the City Council, civic leaders and the citizens at large at times when controversial issues have been under discussion.

Such propaganda made its most recent appearance here when the council was considering establishment of mental health services under the Short-Doyle Act. Eight pages of arguments carried this message: A mental health program means Communist domination.

Who is behind P. O. Box 27103?

THE PERSON WHO SIGNED for the box is Mrs. Phyllis M. Seldon, a gray-haired woman who lives in a tiny apartment at the rear of 4936 Marathon St.—near the corner of Melrose and Vermont in Los Angeles.

Occupation: writer. Politics: registered member of the Constitution Party, an extreme rightist group. Registration number: M299667.

Mrs. Seldon also is a member of the Committee for the Preservation of the Constitution. This group uses P. O. Box 27103 as its mailing address.

Last August the Committee for the Preservation of the Constitution distributed a reprint of an article entitled "How Will the Right Wing Win?" Its author: Lt. Gen. Pedro A. Del Valle, USMC (ret.), an officer of the Defenders of the American Constitution.

Del Valle is extremely active in the anti-Semitism movement. Among other things he contends that the Marshall Plan was written by a Zionist.

Also last year P. O. Box 27103 distributed a piece of paper known as the Goff affidavit. It said in part:

"While a member of the Communist Party I attended a Communist underground training school. . . . We discussed thoroughly the fluoridation of water supplies and how we were using it in Russia as a tranquilizer in prison camps. . . . The leaders of our school felt that if it could be introduced into the American water supply it would bring about lethargy and keep the public docile during the encroachment of communism."

The anti-mental health literature currently going out of P. O. Box 27103 also quotes liberally from Goff.

And who is Goff?

He is Kenneth Goff, who distributes a booklet on "Brainwashing" from a box number in Englewood, Colo. In a recent column Drew Pearson had this to say about him:

"Goff is a joiner of extreme causes who jumped from the Communist Party to Gerald L. K. Smith's rabble-rousing 'Christian' Party."

Mrs. Seldon says P. O. Box 27103's campaign against mental health programs is her own and has nothing to do with the Committee for the Preservation of the Constitution.

Reporter: "Mrs. Seldon, who did the research for your pamphlet on mental health?"

Mrs. Seldon: "I and someone else."

Reporter: "Who is the other person?"

Mrs. Seldon: "I'm sorry, but I can't say."

She says she has mailed out about 20,000 pamphlets assailing mental health programs. The literature has been distributed throughout the nation, she adds. She and "friends" are footing the bill.

"We have no funds," she says.

"People write in for our literature," she continues. "I don't have a mailing list."

Reporter: "Do you feel that the Short-Doyle Act is Communist-inspired?"

Mrs. Seldon: "I didn't say that."

Kim Admits Dating Trujillo, Finds He Has Wife, 6 Tots

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Wide-eyed Kim Novak told of a budding romance with the gift-giving son of Dominican strong man Rafael Trujillo Saturday, then learned that the young man has a wife and six children.

"I am surprised," she admitted, "but I am sure the marriage is over. Why else would a man date me in public? I've been out socially with his sister and I've talked to his family on the telephone."

"No man in his right mind would do such things if he had a wife and six children."

THE WHOLE THING started when a Hollywood car dealer reported 29-year-old Rafael Trujillo Jr. had shelled out $28,300 for fancy foreign cars for Miss Novak, Zsa Zsa Gabor and himself. The big-spending Dominican lieutenant general has recently been a figure in Hollywood cafe society while on leave from the U.S. Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

In New York, Miss Gabor cheerfully confirmed that Trujillo had given her the car as a Christmas gift.

Asked about a possible romance, the talkative Hungarian replied: "He's a wonderful friend and I'm very, very fond of him."

IN SAN FRANCISCO for a movie premiere, lavender-tressed Miss Novak commented: "If it was a gift, I'll send it back."

She added: "I can afford my own car and I have a car—a Corvette. I don't have room in my garage; in fact, I don't even have a garage. I've got a car-pool and there's only room for my car and my maid's car." But even though she'll return the $8,700 Mercedes Benz, she admitted to a press conference that she is fond of Trujillo. Though he has rich tastes in automobiles, they have dined in drive-ins when on dates.

"He likes hamburgers and so do I," she commented.

SHE ADDED that her pet name for him is Ramfis, after the high priest in "Aida." Is it (Continued on Page A-2, Col. 1)

Reuther Offers to Arbitrate

DETROIT (AP) — United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther Saturday offered to submit 1958 auto-industry contract bargaining to arbitration.

Reuther said the 600,000 production workers at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler would work past the May 29 (GM) and June 1 (Ford-Chrysler) contract-termination dates.

HE SAID the union would subject to member approval take the present contract's annual wage improvement of 6 to 7 cents an hour on June 1 while the arbitrators were deciding a new contract.

There was no immediate reply from the Big Three on this offer.

Reuther made the offer in a letter sent to Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), and to the heads of the Big Three auto firms. Reuther charged the auto companies with waging "a cold war of propaganda."

10,000 Cheer Nixon at Quito Ball Game

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — Vice President Nixon rode through the streets of Quito Saturday and men took off their hats and bowed. Later 10,000 persons cheered "Viva Nixon" as he kicked off the first ball for a soccer game.

This was Nixon's second day in Ecuador and it was a far cry from the Communist-led University Saturday afternoon and was received with applause.

The vice president went to San Francisco Church, the first he has visited in South America, and afterward directed the chauffeur to drive to the university. University Rector Alfredo Perez Guerrero welcomed him with a recital of the university's need for medical training facilities.

Then Nixon sat down to a round-table with 23 students. Gilberto Contreras, a law student, said they had been surprised to hear that Nixon had canceled the school conference because of the Peruvian unpleasantness.

During the soccer match, Nixon was heard to remark "this is the best of all." He left the game after 45 minutes of the match between Aucas and Deportivo, two Quito teams.

Lockheed Workers Vote for Contract

Douglas Jets Refuel Aloft, Fly Atlantic

ALCONBURY, England (AP) — Eight Douglas B66B twin-jet light bombers flew the Atlantic nonstop Saturday from Hurlburt Air Force Base, Fla., to this U. S. 3rd Air Force Base in the English Midlands.

The swept-wing aircraft will join the 47th Bombardment Wing with headquarters at the Royal Air Force Station in Sculthorpe. Twenty more B66B Destroyers are to arrive today and Monday.

The eight jet bombers, capable of carrying nuclear weapons, were refueled twice over the Atlantic. They made the 4,500 miles in 10 hours and 20 minutes.

National Union Chiefs Opposed to Accepting

Brushing aside the pleas of their national union leaders, 8,000 Lockheed aircraft workers approved a new contract offer by the company Saturday and touched off a hot controversy among other negotiating union locals.

A count of secret ballots cast at a mass meeting of Lockheed employees in Hollywood Stadium showed 7,332 in favor of the two-year contract and 461 opposed.

A national representative of the International Association of Machinists immediately branded the contract as substandard and declared doubt that the offer will be accepted by aircraft workers at other companies now in negotiations.

Knowland, Brown Argue Labor Issue

By MALCOLM EPLEY

OJAI—California's governorship candidates engaged in a dramatic debate on labor issues here Saturday night in their only primary campaign appearance on the same platform.

Although it merely reiterated previously expressed views, the warm exchange between Republican Sen. William F. Knowland and Democratic Atty. Gen. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown clearly demonstrated that labor reform is the hottest issue in disagreement in the governorship contest.

In their appearance before the Southern California United Press Editors group, Knowland again declared his firm support of "Right to Work" legislation proposed for the November ballot, and Brown opposed it.

ALTHOUGH NUMEROUS other issues were brought up in a question-and-answer session before the large group of editors, only labor questions struck fire.

Knowland told the editors he not only expects to serve four urday won't be given by the national union until all Lockheed divisions are satisfied with it.

The same contract already has been rejected in Georgia, where 8,000 workers at the Marietta plant walked out on strike four days ago, McGraw said.

"We feel the negotiating committee was too anxious to take too little, too soon."

In addressing the crowd of union members before the vote, McGraw said:

"If you accept this proposal you will jeopardize our program to put maximum pressure on this industry, which is responsive only to pressure." The stormy meeting raged for two hours before the vote was called, and several hundred angry members of the machinists' union walked out without casting ballots.

Son of Red Skelton Dies From Leukemia

The youngster, Richard, who would have been 10 on May 20, died at the UCLA medical center.

At his bedside were Skelton and his wife, Georgia. They had taken a room near their son's when the boy was admitted to the hospital last week.

Last summer Skelton took his wife, their daughter, Valentina, 11, and Richard on a world tour. Skelton said he wanted his son to see all the things he had read about.

RICHARD'S ILLNESS shook Skelton considerably. He curtailed many of his professional appearances to spend time with the boy.

Richard's illness was diagnosed as leukemia, sometimes called cancer of the blood, in January of 1957. At the time, doctors gave the lad but a few months to live.

"There is always hope," said Skelton, and he packed his family off on the world tour. The Skeltons traveled to New York where Red pointed out to Richard the wonders of the Empire State Building and the Statue of Liberty.

They visited Washington and then left for Europe. There Skelton said the highlight of the trip was a personal audience in Rome with Pope Pius XII.

L.A.C. Says: Whose Property?

The local school system has suggested to the city that some 20 acres of the 885-acre El Dorado Park lands be used for a new junior high school for the area. Immediately city park commissioners charged it was a "give-away" program. The school system suggested that it would pay the city what the city paid for the land plus interest on the money so invested. Park commissioners and some city councilmen cried out that the land was now worth $20,000 an acre and the inference was there was something wrong with its being used by another local public body.

It raises the question as to just whose property is this? Is it not the property of the park commission or even the city councilmen. It is the property of the taxpayers of Long Beach and those are the same taxpayers who pay for all the city's school costs. It is estimated the school system will have to pay close to $300,000 for a site in that area—along the San Gabriel River south of Carson. If it cannot arrange to use presently owned public land it has no alternative but to go out and buy more land at present high prices.

This 20 acres from the El Dorado Park land would call for some redesigning of the new golf course and parking. But it would put to work land which is paid for and which otherwise is going to be developed into tax-costing park space of which there is an additional 865 acres available. This is more than twice as much as all other developed park lands in the city.

In the Landscaping Magazine is a featured article by the Long Beach director of parks. It is titled "Designing and Building El Dorado—A Park With a $5,000,000 Stake." It is a glowing picture of the development of this acreage—most of which is on the east side of the San Gabriel River bordering on Orange County. It verifies the estimate recently made that it would cost $500,000 a year for the next 10 years just to develop this park. That is equal to over 7 per cent of the total property tax now collected by Long Beach. From records of all parks operated by Los Angeles County the cost of maintaining such a park would be over $1 million a year. This is denied by park commissioners—they say it will be woodland park. But the over-all cost figures of the county have never been refuted—or even questioned.

It is unsound for one local government body to pay high prices for land when another local body has land in abundance. We realize no public body will ever admit it has anything in abundance. That refers to tax money, number of employees, equipment or power. But the fact is taxpayers are facing terrific increases in taxes for all levels of local government. Each subdivision of government goes merrily on its way buying property and incurring additional obligations without checking to see what the over-all total comes to.

Two facts are clear. The school system must have 20 acres in the South Lakewood area for the school. The city has this large acreage available, of which the school would need less than 3 per cent. If the land is not used for the school, taxpayers must pay out another $300,000 for more land. Since all this land belongs to the same taxpayers it seems only reasonable that some arrangement be made for its use and the saving to taxpayers of any more land purchases.—L.A.C.

Hearing the news, Miss Novak told The Associated Press she was "surprised but not shocked."

She added: "That won't affect our relationship together. I'm sure the marriage must be over. Besides, we have not gotten to a serious stage yet. So far we are just dating and having fun."

FROM TRUJILLO came nothing. He had retired to a Bel-Air mansion he is renting in Los Angeles, having just had his adenoids removed in a Santa Monica hospital.

His personal secretary, Victor Sued, said in Los Angeles that Trujillo "is rather surprised at all the commotion." He said Trujillo is one of the wealthiest young men in the world and think anyone "has the right to spend his money in any manner he sees fit."

Sued said, "It is ridiculous to believe that there is any connection whatsoever between money which he spends for his personal life and any foreign aid of any kind... given his country."

SUED SAID Trujillo had intended to surprise Miss Novak with the car and that she

was approved tentatively Tuesday by the local after four months of negotiations, was looked on by most aircraft industry workers as almost certain to be accepted.

John Snider, head of IAM's Lockheed Local 727, urged members to vote in favor of the contract, telling them:

"We don't think this is a good contract, but it's the best we can grind out at this time."

Earlier, the Lockheed contract had been suggested as the key to settlement of negotiations at both North American Aviation and Douglas Aircraft plants, where contracts expired Wednesday.

Lockheed's California Division officials said wage raises and benefits of the new contract will be effective Monday, and paychecks issued to workers on May 23 will be from $7.20 to $12 higher for a full week's work. Present wages range from $1.63 to $2.75 an hour.

Burt C. Monesmith, vice president and general manager of the division, said retroactive pay dating back to March 10 will be distributed as soon as checks can be processed. The new contract binds 15,000 workers at California Division plants.

The two-year contract provides wage increases ranging from 18 to 30 cents an hour, an additional three-per-cent raise next year, and a cost-of-living clause tied to the rise and fall of the price index.

Meanwhile, union negotiators representing 45,000 Douglas workers still are deadlocked with management.

Saturday's negotiating session before federal conciliator Harry Malcolm ended in Los Angeles at 8:30 p.m. with a report of "no progress." Management will meet again with machinists' union representatives—spokesmen for workers at the Santa Monica and El Segundo plants—at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday.

The company will meet with United Auto Workers union negotiators at 9:30 a.m. Monday in the Biltmore Hotel to argue over a contract for the 16,000 employees at Douglas' Long Beach plant.

No negotiating session is scheduled today.

A company statement released by Douglas Aircraft Co. following the Lockheed vote said:

"Today's action by the Lockheed Union rank-and-file membership speaks for itself. It serves to emphasize that our latest offer to Douglas workers, which is equal to, or even better than, the offer accepted by Lockheed employees, is fair and just and should lead to a speedy and satisfactory settlement. 'We believe our employees, as well as the community, will welcome industrial peace in the interest of the economic welfare of all concerned.'"

Douglas workers at an airframe plant in Bell called a wildcat strike of their own at midnight Friday, and 50 IAM pickets paraded in front of the building. The international union described the strike as "an unauthorized walkout."

"The men just got fed up and tired of waiting," union spokesman McGraw said. "Our members are getting difficult to control."

THE PICKETS, members of Lodge 1578 of the IAM, later cut their force to six. But at sunset they still were carrying placards in front of the company's gates. The plant is normally closed on Saturday. It employs 200.

North American Aviation workers continued negotiations at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles Saturday through UAW Local 887. The local represents 15,500 workers at five plants, including the North American Missile Division plant at Downey and the two Autonetics Division plants at Downey and Compton.

years as governor of the State of California, but he hopes to be re-elected at the end of his first term.

This was in answer to a question suggesting that he is running for governor as a prelude to a bid for the presidency of the United States.

Answering another question, Brown and Knowland flatly disagreed on the abolishment of cross filing in California primaries. Knowland says he favors retaining the system to give voters a freedom of choice, but Brown says he feels it requires unnecessarily costly campaigns.

Newsmen who covered the unique debate reluctant to attempt judging a winner. Both candidates were "fast on their feet" and drew repeated rounds of applause—and most observers called it a draw.

"I wholeheartedly oppose the proposed initiative to outlaw the union shop," Brown said. "I believe the rights and responsibilities of employees in a private economy like ours are best defined and protected by the give-and-take of collective bargaining."

900 Rioters Kill and Burn in Raid on U.S. Information Agency in Tripoli

Western Foes Given Blame for Violence

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Rioters burned a U.S. information agency library in Tripoli—a seaport city in North Lebanon—Saturday in an outburst of violence that left several persons dead.

The rioters, said to number about 900, were stirred up by opponents of Lebanon's pro-Western government. They turned stolen rifles on security forces when authorities rushed special units into the central district of the city to quell the disturbances.

Rioters and troops exchanged shots for an hour in a sharp street battle.

The number of persons killed was not announced officially. Reliable sources put the toll of 4 dead and 30 wounded. Other informants said more than a score of persons died and 100 were wounded, but there was no confirmation of that report.

AMBULANCES were sent to the scene from as far away as Beirut, 60 miles to the south.

American sources said from 7 to 15 persons were killed and more than a score were wounded.

No Americans were hurt. There are only a few American women teachers in Tripoli and the U.S. embassy said they were all safe. They are teaching in the Presbyterian Tripoli Women's College.

U.S. Ambassador Robert McClintock made a strong protest to the Lebanese government over the burning of the library. An embassy statement said Lebanon assured the ambassador that American property would be protected.

The current rioting was triggered by manifestations of mourning for a pro-Nasser oiler assassinated two days ago.

BUT TROUBLE has been fermenting for months. President Nasser's rise to power as head of the United Arab Republic of Egypt and Syria and his dream of a pan-Arab glory are two of the ingredients. Lebanon's acceptance of U.S. anti-Communist aid under the Eisenhower doctrine is another.

There also is an election coming up. President Camille Chamoun, and his followers who accepted the aid want to keep office. The opposition leaders, most of them partial to Nasserism, are out and want to get in.

In Lebanon, as in most other Middle Eastern countries, both sides often "go to the bazaars"—call out their supporters for street fights.

THE TRIPOLI street fight apparently went further than expected except that U.S. properties are a natural target for followers of those who denounce what they call western imperialism and include the United States in their denunciation.

A U.S. embassy official in Beirut said there was only one person, a Lebanese janitor, in the library at the time of the trouble and he was not hurt.

The demonstrators surged through the business section of Tripoli almost three hours before order was restored. The situation remained tense. A curfew was clamped on the city and residents were ordered to remain indoors.

The mob stormed the shuttered library, hauled stacks of books and furniture into the street and set them afire. Then they burned the building.

Death Takes 'Doc' Rood of Hollypark

C. M. Rood, prominent oil executive and sportsman, died early Saturday after a lingering illness at his home in Garden Grove.

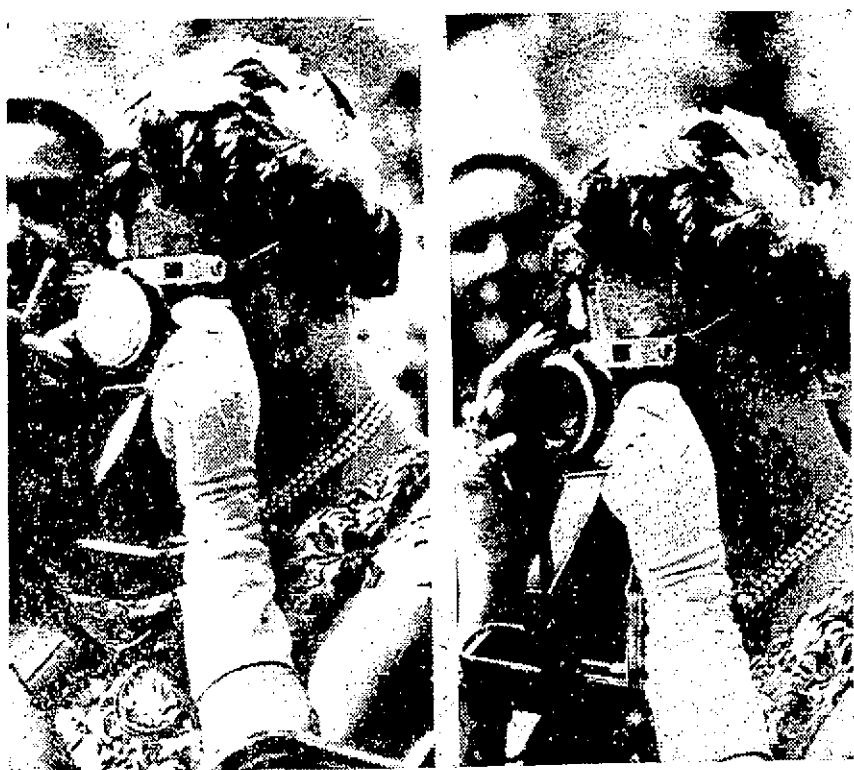

Rood, known to his friends as "Doc," was one of the original sponsors of the Hollywood Turf Club and had served as a member of its board of directors continuously since 1938, two years before it opened its first thoroughbred race meeting.

He had served terms as vice president and secretary, and retired from the latter position only last fall because of his failing health due to cancer.

BORN IN Meigs County, Ohio, Rood, who at the time of his death was president of McVicar-Rood in Huntington Beach, started in the oil business while in his early 20s, working in Texas and New York before permanently settling in California 31 years ago.

Rood is survived by his wife and one daughter, Mrs. Thelma L. Kelly of Los Angeles.

The Hollywood Park director was a member of the California Club, Petroleum Club, Balboa Bay Club and Irvine Coast Country Club.

POLICE DOUBLE GUARD

Photographer Hides in Jayne's Closet

CANNES, France (AP)—Shocked French police Saturday redoubled the guard at Jayne Mansfield's hotel after a man was found hiding in a clothes closet in her room.

The trespasser was discovered in his hiding place by Jayne's husband, professional strongman Mickey Hargitay. He was given the "bum's rush."

Police said the man was an Italian photographer who claimed he had invaded Miss Mansfield's suite in hopes of getting some "very exclusive" pictures of the bosomy Hollywood actress. He was not identified.

But police were no less alarmed than Hargitay, a former "Mr. America."

They doubled the guard around the hotel on a 24-hour basis and asked for one of France's tough Republican riot troopers to be stationed outside Miss Mansfield's door at all times.

Ike Receives New Letter From Nikita

WASHINGTON (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev sent President Eisenhower a new letter Saturday on Eisenhower's proposal to open technical studies on disarmament control.

Late last month, Khrushchev turned down the proposal on the ground that political agreements between the Soviet Union and the Western powers should precede technical studies. On April 28, Eisenhower appealed to the premier to "reconsider."

"The reply is now being translated," State Department press office said, "and until it is translated and studied there will be no comment."

PROPAGANDA MILL ON JOB

Who's Behind Box 27103?

Reporter: "What is your objection to mental health programs?"

Mrs. Seldon: "They are a long-range Communist plot to capture the American mind. There is a sinister power behind it all."

Reporter: "So?"

Mrs. Seldon: "Mental health means preparation for world citizenship. It is a changing of attitudes."

QUESTION: "Who is responsible for the Short-Doyle Act?"

Answer: "The Parent-Teachers Assn. and the State Department of Health. I don't want you to quote me but—"

Reporter: "I'd rather you'd not say anything you don't want to see in print."

Mrs. Seldon: "Well, I don't want you to quote me but you know, I'm sure, about all those foreign-born doctors in the Public Health Service."

Reporter: "You don't say."

Mrs. Seldon: "Yes, and as for the P.T.A., it's set up on an un-American and undemocratic plan. The members are forced to accept the P.T.A.'s national policy on any matter."

Reporter: "You said something about the Public Health Service."

Mrs. Seldon: "Yes, the public is led to believe that doctors favor mental health programs, but it is the Public Health Service that is pushing all this. Most doctors don't dare disagree, despite their personal convictions. Doctors are afraid to speak out unless they're retired or so famous that the AMA doesn't dare reprimand them."

Reporter: "Mrs. Seldon, were you responsible for much of the anti-fluoridation literature distributed in Long Beach last year?"

Mrs. Seldon: "Yes, I'm against the Salk vaccine, too. Any vaccine, for that matter. I've heard doctors say that vaccines are responsible for the big increase in heart trouble in the United States."

Question: "Who are the people working with you in distributing anti-mental health and anti-fluoridation literature?"

Mrs. Seldon: "I can't say. But it is a shifting and changing group, anyway."

IN HER PAMPHLET Mrs. Seldon attempts to link three mental-health advocates with subversive organizations. One of them is Dr. Wayne McMillen, professor in the University of Chicago School of Social Service Administration. McMillen, incidentally, will address the Long Beach Mental Health Assn. here Thursday.

A footnote in the pamphlet reads: "It is alleged that Wayne McMillen owes his appointment (to a mental health program) to Albert G. Feldman..."

Two other persons besides McMillen are attacked in the pamphlet. Both have Jewish names.

(McMillen has been the subject of a full field investigation and has been cleared by the U. S. Civil Service Commission regarding his loyalty. The clearance reads: "There is no reasonable doubt as to the loyalty of this person to the government of the United States.")

Reporter: "Are you distributing anti-Semitic literature?" Mrs. Seldon: "I am not. If any anti-Semitic pamphlets are enclosed with my literature, I know nothing of it. Anti-Semitic literature is a Communist device to divide the public."

Reporter: "Anti-Semitic literature attacking Dr. Jonas Salk and others has been reported enclosed with your pamphlets. This literature is unsigned."

"Mrs. Seldon: "I don't believe in not signing articles."

TRUE, MRS. SELDON DOES SIGN her literature—with

Ship Crews Flee in Fear of Bombing

SINGAPORE (UPI)—The crews of two ships scheduled to sail for Java ports walked off their vessels Saturday for fear of being bombed by the Indonesian rebel air force.

The 42-man Chinese crew of the 3,300-ton Panama-registered Shona left the ship shortly before it was due to sail for Surabaya with 5,000 tons of rice.

A spokesman for the charterers, South Pacific and Trading Co., said the men were frightened by recent bombings and rebel warnings of more attacks against Java.

The other ship affected was the 553-ton Singapore-registered Giang Seng which was to sail with a general cargo from Europe and America for Java ports. The 30-man crew of Chinese and Malays demanded a danger allowance of 50 per cent of their wages and left the ship when the owners, the Hoap Eng Moh Steamship Co., refused it.

"I'm going to buy some presents for Santa Claus and then he's going to buy some for mommy."

Shelly also is a great help around the house.

"I turn the stove on and stay away from it," she said. "I push the buttons on the toaster, but I don't touch it."

"She makes money," says the child.

She added:

"In the morning, I went into my mommy's bed."

Randy H., 3, would like to buy his mother a trailer.

"What you got to do with a trailer is live in them," he said. "I'm going to buy her a cation wagon and on the boat will be a trailer and there will be lots of keys—a treasure chest full of keys."

Japan Fetes Miss USA on 4-Day Visit

TOKYO (UPI)—Miss USA, Charlotte Sheffield, fresh from the Fiji Islands and New Zealand, arrived in Japan Saturday for four days of churchgoing and sightseeing.

"This started as a trip to California for a temple dedication," said the stunning Utah beauty queen, "and now I'm promoting the tourist trade."

The Pacific-hopping trip is sponsored by Tourist Associations of the Mormon Church and Pan American Airways. Miss Sheffield, 21, leaves May 14 for Honolulu and Los Angeles, and then will criss-cross the U. S., crowning state beauty queens.

She was met at the airport by last year's Miss Japan, Kyoko Otani, an old pal from the Miss Universe contest in California, who mapped out a fast tourist schedule for Tokyo.

Robinson Says Club Bars Him

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — Former baseball star Jackie Robinson said Saturday he could not join a country club here because the wives of eight members objected to him.

The statement brought an immediate denial from the manager of High Ridge Country Club. He said the Negro, a Stamford resident, "never applied for membership."

Robinson's statement was given to the Stamford Advocate from the former Brooklyn Dodgers star's New York office. The paper quoted Robinson as saying only eight of the 135 members of the club objected to his membership but "the minority was allowed to rule."

Club Manager Irving Krasser said Robinson "never applied for membership, so therefore was never considered by the membership committee, which passes on applicants."

Spaceman Normal After 29-Hr. Test

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Lt. of the intended goal. Neiman Cmdr. Jack Neiman Jr. moved already has broken the record for such simulated space flights.

Neiman said he would "try to ride through the night."

Hall said both Neiman and his new space suit are holding up well and have shown themselves to be "ahead of the aeronautical engineers" in that they have withstood all tests the engineers have subjected them to.

At 7:10 p.m., 29 hours after he entered the sealed decompression chamber, Neiman was pronounced "perfectly capable of piloting a space vehicle for this length of time."

Cmdr. A. L. Hall, officer in charge, said Neiman "could make an efficient landing. His efficiency has not been reduced enough to make him a risk as a craft controller."

Earlier Saturday, Neiman experienced several spells of nausea, but Hall said the spells had subsided.

Just before 7 p.m., Neiman was asked whether he wanted to carry the test on through the night, or come out at 8:10 p.m., 30 hours after he entered the chamber but 18 hours short

Animal Fair Winner Has 12 Exhibits

400 Pets Go on Display in Big Event

Gene Harvey, 12, went to the animal fair here Saturday.

In fact, he brought along a small fair of his own from his home at 9413 Elizabeth Ave., South Gate. Accompanying him in a truck were a squirrel, turtle, chipmunk, guinea pig, hamster, mice, etc.

So, after they counted noses at the annual Bixby Park Pet Show, Gene was awarded the sweepstakes trophy for exhibiting 12 kinds of animals.

ALL TOLD, about 400 animals, birds, fish and insects attended. They not only competed for prizes but also participated in the staging of the show.

For example, Bonzo the Ape presented some of the prizes. In turn, he was given an award for being the animal most like a human, a questionable honor.

The show was sponsored by the Long Beach Humane Society, the Recreation Dept. and the Long Beach Unified School District.

AWARD FOR the best-dressed pet and owner went to Mark Newton, 8, of 2265 Cota Ave., and his dog. They were attired in Western garb.

Most magnificent bird was a parrot owned by Tommy Klein, 7, of 219 Roycroft Ave.

Bobby Johnson, 12, of 6780 Rose Ave., displayed the world's greatest lovers—a Dalmatian dog followed constantly by a duck.

Meanest looking animal at the show was the English bulldog brought by Greg Palmer, 12, of 351 Santa Ana Ave.

THERE WERE some late entries. One of them won an award. In the category of "pets just borned today" the winner was a salamander, displayed by Douglas Transue, 49 Atlantic Ave.

The most unusual animal in the park was a fox, entered by Kay Keener, 9, of 1165 E. Pacific Coast Hwy.

Sometimes the show dragged; like when Eddie Reid, 10, of 7103 Metz St., presented his entry—a snail riding on a turtle's back.

One dog was given an award as "the dog that slept through it all."

"He's dog-tired," the owner apologized.

California Camp May Loft a Moon

By WALTER T. RIDDER, ROBERT E. LEE AND BILL BROOM
(Independent Press-Telegram Capital Bureau)

WASHINGTON—California will be the launching site for the United States' first moon vehicle—but only if a pair of knotty problems can be worked out.

As of the present, the armed services new missile training center at Camp Cooke is a possible site, not the probable launching point. Cape Canaveral, Fla., must still be considered front runner.

Technical problems are the comparative locations of the two bases and their relation to rotation of the earth, proximity to the equator and location of the 200-miles-per-hour jet stream winds, 35,000 to 50,000 feet overhead. Rotation, proximity and winds all affect the delicate mechanisms that aim the missile.

If, from the standpoint of location, Camp Cooke has advantages, it will get the call—despite the fact the California site lacks the comprehensive instrumentation which exists at Canaveral.

VICE PRESIDENT NIXON told a group of Bolivian students that in the United States, the office seeks the man rather than vice-versa. Maybe, but it's reminiscent of the late Veep Alben Barkley's story about the man in Kentucky who ran for office several times and was continually defeated. Told his defeats were due to the fact that the office seeks the man, he replied:

"Waal, if that's the case, just tell the office there'll be a man walkin' slowly down the street about this afternoon, and if it wants to seek him, I'll be available."

ley's other classic. Sen. Bob Taft of Ohio had written a book on his political philosophy. Barkley said he'd read the book, but didn't understand it. "It was like," said Barkley, "the old grandfather clock a friend of mine had down in Kentucky. He was the only one who could tell the time from it. The owner said it was really very simple. 'Why, when the hands show four and the clock strikes 10, you know it's 7 o'clock,' he said."

THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION is featuring a showing of Winston Churchill's paintings. Like his wartime friend, Ike, Winnie for years has found temporary surcease from the problems of world politics in oils and canvas.

Many art critics think his paintings are considerably better than Ike's, prompting the jingle now current among Democrats:

"Winston paints good, like Eisenhower should."

Ike Meets Latin Military Chiefs in Parley Monday

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will confer Monday with military chiefs from the 21 Latin-American republics who are planning a common defense for the Western Hemisphere.

The President will receive the chiefs and senior officers of the Interamerican Defense Board at the White House.

The Chief Executive began a quiet weekend in Washington Saturday by getting in 18 holes of golf at Burning Tree Club. He played in sunny, 70-degree weather. Mrs. Eisenhower was with her mother in Denver.

Peru Battle Nixon's First in 7 Trips

By JOHN SCALI
WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Nixon has won far more cheers than boos during his seven far-ranging foreign tours as President Eisenhower's good will ambassador.

His rock-throwing reception in Peru marks the only serious incident that has bobbed up during his 108,000 miles of travel into 52 countries during the past 4½ years.

Nixon has weathered skirmishes with Communist-led agitators before. In touring Burma, Japan, Australia and the Sudan, he met a few "go-home" signs, anti-American demonstrations and pamphlets.

But he never faced anything like the shower of stones, fruit, bread and insults hurled at him by a taunting mob outside San Marcos University in Lima Thursday.

Secret Service bodyguards have long feared such trouble—and even worse. Nixon has seemed to be courting danger with his determination to meet, not only with foreign leaders, but to mingle with the crowds, shaking hands, swapping greetings and sometimes kissing babies.

The Secret Service men's big worry always comes when Nixon, as he frequently does, halts the official motorcade which is whisking him to his next stop, gets out and greets the crowd on foot.

IN TUNIS, his four bodyguards, assisted by local police, braced themselves in a semi-circle behind him, straining to keep back thousands of excited Tunisians who nearly swallowed him up during his impromptu stroll.

In sophisticated Rome, Nixon astounded his Italian police escort by weaving through a crowd of some 1,000 well-wishers packed on the sidewalk outside his hotel.

Nixon's policy of practicing informal, people-to-people diplomacy while visiting foreign lands has been thought out in advance by the vice president, risky though it may be. His motives are:

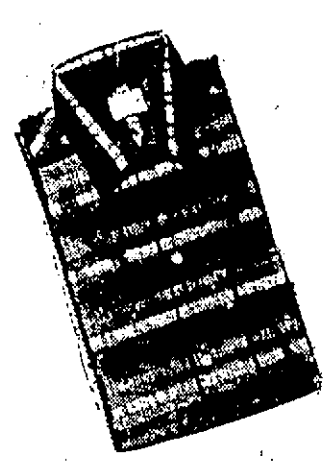

1. To dramatize the informal, unpretentious air of Americans generally, thereby winning good will for himself and the United States government, from amazed spectators more used to seeing foreign visitors speed by in heavily guarded limousines.

2. To demonstrate in spectacular fashion both at home and abroad that he is a man of physical courage as well as an effective goodwill ambassador.

Nixon's explanation for his refusal to be cowed by the Peruvian student demonstrators' matches almost word-for-word his reason for out-facing and out-talking a similar but lower-keyed Communist-led demonstration in Burma in 1953.

At that time, as he did in Lima, Nixon walked among the demonstrators, challenged them to a debate and turned it into a personal triumph of the kind he undoubtedly hoped to duplicate in Lima.

"I wanted to show them we are not afraid of them," Nixon told newsmen accompanying him after the Burma incident.

Sixth Fleet Boss Lauds
Reservists

By JAMES A. ALLEN
(I-P-T Military Reporter)

VALENCIA, Spain (Delayed)
—The boss of the U. S. 6th
Fleet—salty Vice Adm. Charles
R. (Cat) Brown—warmly
praised the work which a Los Alamos Naval Air Station reserve squadron is performing while on two weeks of active duty at Port Lyautey, Morocco.
The squadron—VR 773—has been transporting some of the personnel and their mountains
of cargo and mail going to the 50 ships under Adm. Brown's command in the Mediterranean.

"I have nothing but the highest praise for these reservists,"
he said.

THE ADMIRAL SAID: there was no doubt in his mind of the ability of reserve squadrons to move half way around the world and start operating with the regulars in short order.

"I think this reserve concept is wonderful," he said.

Adm. Brown was interviewed aboard his flagship, the heavy cruiser USS Des Moines, in port here by this reporter and three fellow newsmen who have accompanied VR 773 from Los Alamitos.

"My job is to be prepared for war," Adm. Brown said.
"But my primary mission is to preserve the peace. This great symbol of American power represented by the 6th Fleet encourages our friends and discourages our enemies."

HE QUOTED former Greek
foreign minister Panagiotis Pip-rellis, who said: "In the powerful gray diplomats of the 6th
Fleet we see the guarantee of
small peoples' independence."

Adm. Brown said he has another job—to win the respect and friendship of the peoples of the Mediterranean. He thinks the men under his command
are doing well in this job.
"There is a tremendous affection for us by most Mediterranean countries," Adm. Brown said.

Newsmen said this demonstrated one evening at a reception aboard the Des Moines for 250 of the leading citizens of Valencia and their ladies.

There were hors d'oeuvres
tastefully prepared by the Des Moines cooks and Adm. Brown punch, noted throughout the Mediterranean.

ALTHOUGH THE PUNCH
contains no alcohol—Navy regulations forbid this—the tasty
drink delighted the guests.

The ship's orchestra provided music for dancing. Later
a Marine color guard conducted the ceremony of furling the American and Spanish flags as the national anthem of each country was played.

The people of Valencia were visibly impressed.

And we visiting newsmen shared their feelings as we saw our Navy extend this hand of friendship in a troubled world.

Working Man on a 'Rich Man's Weekend'

By BAXTER OMOHUNDRO

TORRANCE—How do a working man and his family spend a "rich man's weekend?" The George Davises of 2456 W. 236th St. get a long weekend off every month and they spend it about as they do a regular weekend—only more so.

Davis is a sheet metal leadman at the Longren Aircraft Co. here and benefits by a company plan instituted this year that gives him one three-day weekend off each month. He works the following Saturday to compensate for the extra day.

"We do about the same things on the long weekends as we do on the two-day weekends," Davis said. "We do more of them."

THIS MONTH'S long weekend was typical.

On Saturday, Davis, his attractive wife, Mary, and their three children, Janice, 12; Jeffery, 8, and Julie, 5, shopped in the morning and caught up on household chores such as mowing the lawn in the afternoon.

After church on Sunday, they climbed into the family station wagon for a fishing expedition to Bixby Slough. Then there was a game of croquet followed by a barbecue in the backyard.

On Monday, the "extra day," Davis puttered around the house and took care of personal business while the older children were in school and his wife did the housework. That afternoon, they left again for a trip to the Los Angeles County Museum.

THAT EXTRA WEEK-DAY OFF each month means a lot to the curly-haired native of Louisiana.

"I can get a lot of things done that aren't possible on weekends when the banks and some other businesses are closed," he commented.

The Davises figure that this summer there will be more play and less work on the long weekends than there has been thus far.

"We figure to take a lot of three-day camping trips to the mountains," Davis said.

The long weekend plan, devised by Longren Vice President Christina Wentworth, benefits most of the firm's nearly 300 employees.

Mrs. Wentworth said the workers have expressed satisfaction with the arrangement during the five months it has been in operation. Absenteeism has dropped noticeably since the plan was adopted, she noted.

Message of Thanks Sent in Aid to Sick Seaman

NEW YORK (AP)—"Thank you kindly for assistance. God bless you all. God bless America."

That message was radioed Saturday to the American Navy transport ship by the Liberator-registered motor vessel Anna C. for an act of mercy 300 miles off Newfoundland.

The American ship put out a small boat in heavy seas, dense fog and snow flurries to take aboard a seriously ill Greek seaman from the motor vessel. He was suffering from peptic ulcers.

Then, while Navy doctors aboard the ship gave him emergency treatment, the transport changed course to take him to St. John's, Newfoundland, for hospital treatment. The ship was bound for Casablanca with 431 passengers.

The seaman's identity was not disclosed pending notification of his relatives.

She's Beautiful, NOT Dumb That's Our New Miss Welcome

Jacki Carter's Quietly Poised for Her Duties

THE TREND toward pastel shades around the home seems to have caught the fancy of some local sparrows.

Betsy O'Hara, who lives in the 1600 block on 64th St. in Long Beach, discovered the tiding of sparrows for sweet colors.

It seems that Mrs. O'Hara undertook to color a bunch of chicken feathers, to be used in some project at the school in which she is interested.

After dyeing the feathers pink and yellow, she put them behind the house to dry. The wind came up and blew them all over the yard. When she went out to sweep them up, she discovered several sparrows in the yard. The birds were picking up feathers, selecting the pink ones each time, and flying off with them.

Mrs. O'Hara presumes the pink feathers will be woven into nests, and she figures she has had a part in bringing to Long Beach the most colorful birds' nests in the country.

By GEORGE ERES

The new Miss Welcome to Long Beach, Jacqueline Rose Marie Carter, not only has the necessary proportions for winning beauty contests, but her head is screwed on right, too.

The 20-year-old miss is a shattering experience in the fallacy of generalizations like "beauty contestants are beautiful but dumb."

Miss Carter, a State College junior, brings to her role a quiet poise and unaffected assurance that complements youthful, natural enthusiasm and excitement at the prospects of representing Long Beach at the forthcoming Miss Universe Pageant.

"I have no steady date. My friends at school tell me that now I'll have to be chaperoned when I go on dates. I only have to check with Mr. Oscar Meinhardt, Pageant director, on official things. My dates are my private life. I don't have to clear them with Mr. Meinhardt. He gave me a little black book with a list of engagements. My first one is Wednesday at a luncheon of the Belmont Shore Business Men's Association at Hooley's."

WISH THAT CAME TRUE

State College Coed Jacki Carter, who wished for the title Miss Welcome to Long Beach and won it, is a striking "champagne blonde" who says her eyes are "usually blue." She doesn't feel that her measurements are pertinent to her job as Miss Welcome, but she ticks them off as 38-22-36. She's 125 pounds and is 5 feet 7 inches.—(Staff photo by Don Webster.)

COUNCILMAN D. PATRICK AHERN has been a consistent plugger for a policy of putting traffic signals on "flash" during hours of light traffic. So has this dept.

Last week, the city traffic engineer announced that 36 signals will be put on flash from 12 midnight to 6 a.m.

This was hailed as something of a victory in comment here, but Bro. Ahern isn't so enthusiastic. In fact, he voted no.

He points out that the order covers only a relatively few intersections, and it confines the flashing to a period when there is virtually no traffic. So, he says, it really doesn't help anybody.

Ahern contends the flash program should be applied more widely, and that the change to flash should come about 10 p.m. instead of midnight. He says you can drive all the way from downtown Los Angeles on flashing signals when you hit Long Beach, until you are held up at nearly every intersection by signals that run "stop and go" all the time.

I agree with D. Patrick that the order from the traffic engineer was a little reluctant and chintzy. Why not give this thing a chance to do some good?

AND while I'm in the crabby stage about patched pavements.

Probably many other motorists, like me, have a pet peeve about a certain pavement bump. So when I describe mine, I'm carrying the flag for a lot of other people.

The bump that irritates me, and puts me in a bad mood when I get home at night, is on East Third St. at Winnie. Somebody dug a hole in the paving there. It was later patched, but a lousy job was done, and the patching has sunk, and an eastbound car passing over there gets a hasty whack on the left hand tires.

Does anybody ever go back to inspect those patches and fix them up when they don't hold?

A KEY to the City of Long Beach will be carried to Boston by Terry Timmins and Lee Anderson, the local youths who plan a cross-country bicycle jaunt this summer.

Mayor Ray Keeler gave the high school boys a symbolic key Friday and told them to give it to the mayor of Boston when they get back there.

Incidentally, Timmins and Anderson are still looking for a sponsor. They want somebody to provide them with bikes.

Their bike trip will be east-bound, only. They plan to catch an auto ride back home.

SOME BURGLARS who tried to break into a safe in a local church tripped a burglar alarm and were caught red-handed by the police.

The presence of the burglar alarm hook-up in the church implies, alas, a distrust of the universal goodness of man. And alas again, the distrust was obviously justified.

That doesn't mean, however, that the church has failed. It just means that it has to work harder.

State Board Asks LBSC Firings Data

The State Board of Education Saturday ordered a full report on the firing of two Long Beach State College instructors.

The action came after a State College faculty committee made a precedent-setting visit to the board to protest "the unjust system . . . which has injured" the instructors.

Dr. George Körber, spokesman for the faculty group, hailed the board's order as "the first break we've had in this entire controversy."

William L. Blair, who presided at the board meeting at Fresno, called for the report after Roy E. Simpson, state supervisor of public instruction, had announced the matter was closed.

Dr. Simpson then announced Dr. J. Burton Vasche, chief of the division of state colleges, would meet with the faculty steering committee at 11 a.m. Wednesday.

VASCHE'S REPORT presumably will be made at the board's next regular meeting in July.

At issue are the dismissals of Frank Black and Dr. Clyde B. Martin, assistant professors in State's Division of Education and Psychology. And, in general, the faculty group charges there has been a breakdown in faculty-administration relations.

Dr. P. Victor Peterson, college president, has refused to cancel the dismissals. He maintains the issue is whether the college is to be run by "group rule or legal authority."

The delegation which called on the state board Saturday was headed by Dr. M. J. Garver. It was the first time in years faculty members had gone directly to the board to present an argument.

THE GROUP SUGGESTED the board set a policy on the role of faculty groups in administration of state colleges. Other studies in the past have been confined to management surveys, it said.

Dr. Peterson was present at the meeting. However, he did not make any statements on the case during the group's visit, Dr. Körber said.

Other members of the faculty group were V. A. Metzger and Drs. Richard Wilde, Henry Sehnman, George Appleton, Cramer Schultz, Kephas Kinsman, Robert Wylder and Blair Archer.

2,759 to March for City of Hope

A total of 2,759 volunteers will march June 8—Hoop Sunday—in Long Beach and Signal Hill for contributions for the City of Hope Medical Center in Duarte.

Proceeds from the house-to-house canvass will go to help further the City of Hope's program of patient care, research and postgraduate medical education in catastrophic diseases. Maladies in the facility's scope are cancer, leukemia, blood, chest and heart diseases.

Jacobson's Opinion Cautions Officials

By GEORGE WEEKS

City Councilmen, harbor commissioners and water commissioners can get into trouble with the law if they hold secret meetings.

Without using that blunt wording, such is the substance of an opinion on the effect of the Brown Act, delivered to members of the three city agencies by City Atty. Walfred Jacobson.

It was that piece of state legislation, enacted in 1953, which resulted in the hasty erasure of the words "Executive Chamber" from the door to the Council's smaller meeting room and the substitution of "Committee Room."

Councilmen recently revived their custom of meeting informally every Tuesday prior to the official sessions—but all meetings are open to the public.

IN A DECLARATION of public policy incorporated in the act, the Legislature said:

"Public commissions, boards and councils and the other public agencies in this state exist to aid in the conduct of the people's business. It is the intent of the law that their actions be taken openly and that their deliberations be conducted openly."

"The people of this state do not yield their sovereignty to the agencies which serve them. The people, in delegating authority, do not give their public servants the right to decide what is good for them to know. The people insist on remaining informed so that they may retain control over the instruments they have created."

The act then provides:

"All meetings of the legislative body of a local agency shall be open and public, and all persons shall be permitted to attend any meeting of the legislative body of a local agency, except as otherwise provided in this chapter."

"LOCAL AGENCY" is defined as "a county, city, city and county, town, school district, municipal corporation, district, political subdivision or any board, commission or agency thereof, or other local public agency."

"Legislative body" is given this definition: "The governing board, commission, directors or body of a local agency, or any board or commission thereof."

The only specified exception to the rule of open meetings is an executive session or sessions "to consider the appointment, employment or dismissal of a public officer or employee or to hear complaints or charges brought against such officer or employee by another public officer, person or employee unless such officer or employee requests a public hearing."

The legislative body also is authorized to exclude from any private or public meeting, during the examination of a witness, any or all other witnesses in the matter being investigated by the legislative body.

IN A SEVEN-PAGE OPINION, Deputy City Atty. Allice S. Arnold noted there have been only a few court decisions from which to interpret the effect of the act. But he reached these conclusions:

The law is applicable to charter cities such as Long Beach.

If the City Council or any board or commission of the city meets as a group or entity, whether formally or informally, for the purpose of taking formal legislative action on city business or discussing or deliberating on public matters or business, the provisions of the statute would apply.

However, if the Council or other municipal body meets merely for the purpose of viewing a particular situation—for example, certain real property or a public improvement—it would not constitute a meeting within the purview of the law.

The opinion added this implied warning:

"Admittedly . . . we incline to the conservative course. This is prompted in part by that provision of the State Government Code which states, in effect, that every willful omission to perform any duty enjoined by law upon any public officer, where no special provision is made for the punishment of such delinquency, is punishable as a misdemeanor."

THE ONLY KNOWN effect of the Brown Act—one that was never carried to final adjudication—ended in a memorandum opinion by Superior Judge Leon T. David suggesting that the law does strongly restrain secret meetings:

It occurred in Santa Monica, where a taxpayer alleged that the general public—but not the press—was excluded from four meetings attended by councilmen, one with the Chamber of Commerce at dinner, another with a representative of the League of California Cities, a third with the city manager to discuss budget requests and another to review the agenda.

In overruling the City Council's demurrer, Judge David expressed the view that all meetings of the Council or of the boards of the city at which public business is transacted or considered or deliberated are meetings at which all members of the public are entitled to hear and be heard.

The court said this necessarily follows from our circumstances of government even without the declaration made in the Brown Act.

Public Drive for YMCA Funds Opens This Week

Public solicitation in the YMCA's "million dollar plus" campaign to finance capital improvements is slated to begin this week with the opening of the Lakewood district drive, it was announced Saturday by Earl Fast, general campaign chairman.

The Lakewood kick-off will be Friday, John R. Hills, Lakewood district drive chairman, announced that he has a complete staff of volunteer workers ready for the campaign.

The Lakewood kick-off will be followed in order by the Downtown district solicitation, scheduled to begin May 20 and the North Long Beach district kick-off slated for May 22. Starting date for the Los Altos district campaign has not been announced.

DISTRICT CAMPAIGNS are part of a city-wide drive to finance the first YMCA capital improvements here since 1929, Fast said.

The Lakewood allocation is $132,447, which will meet the cost of a branch YMCA building which will be constructed at Centralia St. and Bellflower Blvd. The Lakewood facility will provide meeting, office and activity rooms as well as an outdoor swimming pool and recreation patio. Membership in the Lakewood branch totals 1,574.

Modernization and enlargement of the Downtown Y branch will cost $713,307. This includes addition of a wing, complete renovation of the existing structure and provision of a separate building to house a swimming pool.

NORTH LONG BEACH branch will be redecorated.

There will be additional locker rooms and a complete day camp to be located adjacent to the building. Cost of this improvement will be $54,135, bringing the total capital investment including the original structure to more than $125,000.

A new building is scheduled for Los Altos, to be located on a site donated by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd S. Whaley on the east side of Bellflower Blvd. south of Atherton St. The project will include an outdoor swimming pool with adjacent recreation patio. Total cost for the branch will be $271,169.

$2,000 'Campership' Fund Sought for L.B. Children

To enable underprivileged children in the Long Beach and Lakewood area to attend summer camp for a week, a campership fund drive seeks to raise $2,000.

The drive is sponsored by the Community Welfare Council. David H. Larson, campership committee chairman, reports that 285 needy children already have been registered by health and welfare agencies.

Youngsters in the program will be sent to camps operated by Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Catholic Youth Organizations, Boys' Clubs, Girls' Clubs, YMCA, YWCA, Salvation Army or the Boy Scouts.

LAKWOOD YMCA BRANCH Will Be Built at Centralia and Bellflower Blvd.

A NEW WING Will Be Added to Los Altos YMCA

LOS ALTOS BRANCH 'Y' Costing $271,000 Will Be Erected on Bellflower Blvd. South of Atherton St.

He Picked a Hobby That Builds Big Tower Out of Little Sticks

PHIL HARRIS... 24,000 Toothpicks

Question: When are toothpicks more than toothpicks?
Answer: When they're the Eiffel Tower.

"They may be toothpicks to you, but they're timber to me," says Phil Harris, retired cabinet maker of 1376-A Gaviota Ave., as he puts finishing touches on the last of over a dozen objects he is entering in the Hobby Show, May 16-19, at Municipal Auditorium.

From the tower, which stands seven feet high and took about 24,000 toothpicks, to the smallest, a ten-inch model, Phil says, "It's been good picking all the way!"

HE BUYS 100,000 toothpicks at a time and after much research at the Public Library, draws his careful plans and makes the models to exact scale. Also exhibited will be a five-foot bridge and a working duplicate of the double feris wheel on the Pike.

According to Lois De Lano, manager of the event for the Recreation Department, this year's exhibits include exotic orchids, tropical fish, magic shows, puppet shows and dancing.

Hours will be from noon to 10 p.m. and there is no admission charge.

City Hostess Has Beauty With Brains

It's not really extreme. I like it. I don't know as I would design this style myself. I design dramatic but simple things."

She explained that the "dramatic effect comes from the fabric and fit. The simplicity from the lines—no buttons or bows."

She swims, rides, golfs, plays tennis, works out at a gymnasium to keep in trim, and writes a column for the college paper on television and books.

One of her columns on television, dealing with commercials points out that "free TV is not really free. You pay for it by watching commercials."

This doesn't mean she's against commercials. On the contrary, she says "there are an ever increasing number of commercials that are indeed enjoyable."

There is a hint of special pleading here, possibly, because Jacki is going into television advertising as a career.

SHE WRITES a readable column and has a flair for a phrase, for example "the pudgy insouciance of Alfred Hitchcock, the gracious snobbery of Julia Mead, the simple winsomeness of Dinah Shore (the farmer's daughter, Dior-dressed)."

About that "gracious snobbery" of Julia Mead, she thinks on second reading that the phrase is perhaps "literary license."

"I don't think I would say a thing like that in talking," she referred to Françoise Sagan's works as "... petulant pastiche of passion that Miss Sagan has now marketed under three different titles" and confessing to no experience in the matter is nevertheless certain her criticism is valid on the basis of imagination and learning.

Her favorite author is Christopher Morely. "I wish I had a whole library of his books."

Her tastes in music run from the "favorite singer Frank Sinatra" to works by Richard Strauss.

Her current favorite is "My Fair Lady."

They were playing songs from "My Fair Lady" when she won the Miss Welcome title.

"I ALMOST DIDN'T get to the contest finals. My aunt and I were driving to the contest and we had a flat tire. There was only 10 minutes to get there so we took a cab. When I sat down in the cab, I tore my formal. My aunt pinned it up for me."

"I won on a pin and a prayer."

"I couldn't say much when I won. I wasn't really speechless. I just thought, 'My goodness, who will I thank first. I just couldn't find the word. Then they took pictures and I guess I lost control of my smile. It was too broad. I was just happy.'"

Jacki says she feels at ease with people, finds them exciting and stimulating.

She looks on her role as Miss Welcome as a job of making the Miss Universe contestants feel comfortable. "I think I'll understand what they feel."

Norbert Dean Selected Chest Budget Chairman

Appointment of Norbert W. Dean to head the United Neighbors Community Chest budget committee, was announced Saturday by James G. Craig Jr., president of the Chest board of directors.

Dean is chairman of the YCMA downtown board of management and is second vice president and member of the executive committee of the Chest board.

Named to head budget subcommittees were Mrs. Roger T. Huffman, past president of the Chest board and the Long Beach Girl Scout Council; Guy S. Balser, former president and currently treasurer of the Boys Clubs; Ernest E. Belcher, president of the Community Volunteer Office; Verne Morrill, Armed Services YMCA director.

Dean said agencies will submit budgets for the coming year to the 45-member budget committee which will recommend a minimum goal to Chest directors. Budget reviews start in June.

TEXAN GETS POSIES

Russ Maids Greet Stringbean Pianist

MOSCOW (AP) — Van Cliburn, the stringbean Texas pianist, returned from a concert road tour in Russia Saturday and got an armload of flowers from a group of Moscow maidens who greeted him at the railroad station.

He said he was bushed but happy and headed straight for bed. Cliburn looked thinner than when he left here after his triumph at the international piano competition.

He enjoyed himself so on the trip, he said, he plans to return here in August or September for a combination vacation-concert trip.

Of his last few days in the Soviet Union, he said:

"They've been rough and tough but lots of fun. I am so exhausted that sometimes on the trip I thought I would die — but it's a good way to die."

He leaves Moscow for New York Thursday. He will play a public concert here Wednesday and has a long recording session scheduled for today.

Cliburn said he was warmly received everywhere he went in Russia.

"They couldn't do enough for me," he said. "The only trouble was they wanted to know everything about me and about the United States."

Asked how much rest he expected to get when he comes back at the end of summer, he hugged one of the girl musicians and said:

"None at all. But when you have only one life you may as well burn it up."

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Major Crimes Up 10% in California

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Major crime in California increased by more than 10 per cent during 1957, a state law enforcement report showed Saturday.

The number of felony crimes reported increased by 12.8 per cent from 1956 to 1957, while the number of arrests on felony charges jumped 10.6 per cent, the number of felony complaints filed after arrest increased 11.9 per cent and the number of felonies prosecuted in court was up 13.7 per cent.

The report was a preliminary summary of the State Department of Justice's annual report on crime which will be issued sometime this summer.

Canada Pact Step Nearer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said Saturday the United States and Canada hope to announce "soon" formal joint plans for combating any Russian air attack on North America.

A spokesman said negotiations on formal arrangements for the North American Air Defense Command have been under way for some time and may be completed shortly.

Advisers Against Tax Cut

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Weeks said Saturday his business-advisors are opposed about 3-1 to tax reduction as a quick antidote to the recession.

Weeks also said a majority of the 100 major corporation heads serving on his Business Advisory Council favors the administration program for a five-year extension of the reciprocal trade agreements act. He predicted enactment of a "satisfactory" extension law despite strong opposition which has developed in Congress.

The commerce secretary said he made a personal, informal sampling of the BAC members conferring with him here.

No Comment from Mamie

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mamie Eisenhower ducked reporters' questions about the stoning of vice president Nixon in Peru as she passed through St. Louis Saturday with a "I wouldn't know anything about that."

She did say the President is in fine health. He and their grandchildren saw the first lady off on the train in Washington. Mrs. Eisenhower said it was the first time the grandchildren had ever been inside a train. She changed trains in St. Louis on her way to Denver, Colo., to visit her mother who will celebrate her 80th birthday Tuesday.

Navy Cancels L.B. Warship Missile Test

SURF, Calif. (AP) — Scheduled launching of a Navy Regulus I guided missile at ceremonies Saturday failed to come off because of suspected contamination, possibly from salt water.

The firing was to have been the lead-off highlight of formal commissioning ceremonies for the Point Arguello Naval Missile Facility. About 5,000 persons including Sen. William Knowland (R-Calif.) attended.

The Regulus I was to have been launched from the fantail of the heavy cruiser Los Angeles, on hand from its Long Beach base.

THE SHIP'S skipper, Capt. Harold Payson, radioed that technical difficulties due to suspected fuel contamination would prevent the firing. Persons onshore, listening to the count-down on the ship over a loudspeaker, heard someone involved in the process mention "salt water contamination."

There was no further explanation. The cruiser headed back to Long Beach.

The rest of the show went on. Two surface-to-air Tervior missiles shot a drone plane down in flames. A fighter plane fired an air-to-sea Bullpup missile into the ocean at a dye marker.

Sen. Knowland, in a speech, called the new facility "a symbol of the nation's progressive... programs to strengthen our world leadership and supremacy in military and peaceful applications of missile and space technology."

By the end of the next January the Navy hopes to be ready to handle launchings from the new training facility, located on 20,000 acres of green, rolling foothills near Santa Barbara, on a regular basis.

Faces Loss of Job on Documents

WASHINGTON (AP) — John W. Dukeminier, who said he walked out of the Library of Congress with 456 classified documents to show up weaknesses in the security system, has been recommended for dismissal from his library job for gross misconduct.

Dukeminier, 24-year-old microphotographer, said he took the papers from the Armed Services Technical Information Agency offices at the library. He gave the papers to Air Force agents.

"This man was not attempting to embarrass anyone or break any laws," said the attorney, John J. McBurney. "He acted as a citizen to try to show up security weaknesses that could endanger his country."

McBurney said the case will be taken to the courts if necessary.

ISLAND WHITE FOLK DENOUNCED

L.B. Fiji Visitors Rap Colonists

HONOLULU (AP) — Two young Californians returned from the Land of Never-Never, Saturday, feeling just about that way about going back.

Bearded, like beachcombers, the pair, Kent Shelby, 23, of Long Beach, and Douglas Howard, 27, of Norwalk, have been on the island of Avava in the British-owned Fiji group since February.

Shelby won the island in a worldwide limerick contest. He also won free transportation for two to and from Fiji, a grass hut, an outboard motorboat, an outrigger canoe and food and drink for two weeks.

The two ran into financial trouble from the start. When their money ran low the Fijians and Madras Indians taught them to fish and eat like natives.

"The hospitality of the Fijians and Indians is unbeatable," said Shelby. "He made more friends among the islanders in two and a half months than the white colonists have in their whole lives there."

"It was the small number of Europeans who ostracized us because we associated with the Fijians," said Shelby upon arriving here on the Orient Lines' Orsova. "They wouldn't even let us dig ditches when we looked for work because of this association."

He added, "There is more prejudice there against associating with the natives than anywhere in the world. We couldn't accept all the invitations from the Fijians to come and live with them, whereas, in all the time we were there, we got only two invitations from the Europeans. Sure, we were broke, but not entirely. We got money from our families. Later we got more money by selling our boat, engine and other belongings."

Shelby was particularly incensed at the Fiji Times, which described their adventure as a flop. The newspaper said they left a nasty taste in a lot of mouths in Fiji and that their behavior there was no credit to either.

"It's not true," Shelby commented upon reading the article. "It's a lie."

Prankish Sea Dog Speaks in French

By LEE CRAIG

The French Line freighter Washington docked at Los Angeles Harbor last week with a new mascot and a haggard captain.

The mascot is a nine-week-old animated mop which may grow up to be a poodle if its master, Capt. Jean Champy, can retain his self-control.

Champy got the pup—named Hugues, meaning huge—in Le Havre, France, at the beginning of the voyage. Since

CAPT. CHAMPY AND HUGHES
Mop May Grow Up to Be Poodle

then, Hugues' nightly concerts have kept Champy's eyes open and his teeth on edge.

CHAMPY GOT A BREAK once on the trip. A woman passenger, fondling Hugues one evening after dinner, expressed her desire for a dog.

"You now have one," Champy graciously said, and retired to his cabin where he enjoyed uninterrupted sleep for the first time in weeks.

He got the dog back in the morning.

HUGHES' MOTHER was Belgian; his father, German. "However, his mother had a French lover," Champy explained. "Hugues speaks only French. Say something in French, Hugues."

Hugues removed his teeth from the steward's leg. "Barque! Barque!" he said, obediently.

Champy is resigned to loss of sleep until the ship returns to France.

There, however, he will turn over the tiny terror to his wife at their home near Bordeaux.

Africa Tour Set by Ghana Chief

Clear Princess of Theft Count

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI)—A Kampala magistrate has dismissed a theft charge against Princess Mazzi, aunt of the ruler of Buganda Province. Some stolen corrugated iron sheets were found in her possession but the magistrate said there was no evidence she knew they were stolen.

Labor Council Honors Kennick

By BOB HOUSER
Joseph M. Kennick, Democratic candidate for State Assembly, 44th District (western Long Beach) has been presented the "Most Distinguished Citizen of 1958" award by the Long Beach Central Labor Council.

Michael R. (Mushy) Callahan made the presentation Friday night at Kennick's campaign headquarters opening at 2167 Pacific Ave. The award cited the Juvenile Bureau superintendent for "his work for and in behalf of Long Beach and organized labor and in recognition of his extraordinary efforts for his community."

On hand to greet Kennick and urge his election were State Sen. Richard Richards and Assemblymen Jesse Unruh, Carley Porter and William Munnell.

choice today on "Hotchkis" Californians rejoice in your sentiments about Congressman overwhelming victory in defeating the Central Arizona Project and through our association send you their profound gratitude.

HARRY S. MAY, 18th Congressional District (Long Beach-Lakewood-Signal Hill) Democratic candidate, told campaign workers "an enlightened generation of civil servants" would result from his proposal of a U.S. Academy for International Diplomacy in Washington.

Said May: "We must attract and train the finest of human material, dedicated to the concept of one-world interdependency, to the principles of international peace and human brotherhood. There must be an end to this era of striped-pants diplomacy which favors millionaire party contributors or upper-crust Washington society on sensitive posts... those whose sole qualifications are money, social prestige and a law degree."

"We actually live now under one roof, supershadowed by a potential atomic mushroom cloud that could destroy us all. This diplomatic academy, guided by social and political scientists, economists and historians would be a tool for the vital need to encourage young men and women to enter diplomatic service to master the intricacies of intrapeoples behaviorism."

"We have to make this critical leap toward political and international maturity."

HERBERT R. KLOCKSIEM, Republican incumbent, 44th Assembly District, made public a letter from Joseph Jensen, chairman of the Metropolitan Water District board of directors commending him and other legislators for their work in the recent special budget session battle over water rights.

Klocksiem had insisted no money be appropriated for construction of state water projects until the Southland and protected by a constitutional amendment on water rights.

CANDIDATES WERE devoting a lot of weekend talk to criticisms of billboards containing names of office-seekers from both parties.

Senatorial aspirant Cfair Engle said he didn't blame Gov. Knight "for trying to shoehorn his way into the middle of the Democratic ticket" by way of the Brown-Knight posters. "The fact remains, however, that despite Knight's attempts to join us, Pat Brown and I are still running in tandem as the Democratic team for governor and senator."

Pill to Help Sunbathers Tan Bared

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Times said Saturday a drug to protect against sunburn will be introduced commercially this summer by the Upjohn Co. of Kalamazoo.

Spokesmen for the Kalamazoo pharmaceutical firm declined comment.

The Times said the drug, which will be marketed under the trade name of "Meloxine," is methoxsalen or 8-methoxypsoralen. It is taken in capsule or tablet form and helps the skin build up rapid tolerance to sunlight.

The Times said the drug's effect is such that the skin tans more readily and retains the tan.

Jack Pickering, Times science writer, wrote that a couple of those who took the drug experimentally developed a tan from sunlight that filtered through window glass.

Dog Gives Fire Alarm, Dies

AUBURN, Maine (AP)—Three small children were rescued from a blazing farm home Saturday thanks to a dog's barking. The animal then scampered into the flaming building and perished.

The fire leveled the home and barn of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Oakes of North Auburn at a loss estimated by the owners at over $10,000. Cause of the blaze was undetermined.

The Oakes' daughter-in-law, Virginia, was alone in the house with her children sleeping upstairs when the one-year-old terrier drew her attention by barking wildly and scraping on a door.

Opening the door, she was met by a wall of flames which quickly spread to the entire house. She rushed upstairs through thick smoke and carried the children, 8 months to 5 years, to safety.

Nude Art Stirs Ire of Anita Ekberg

MADRID (UP)—Actress Anita Ekberg said Saturday that a "vulgar" nude painting of her being shown at the Cannes Film Festival "won't hang for long."

"I'm going to get my lawyers to do something right away," the voluptuous star said on learning that Italian painter Nino Guiffrida had included her in a series of "imaginative" nude paintings of film stars.

GUIFFRIDA, WHOSE paintings have set the never-too-staid French film festival on its ear, pictured the bosomy Ekberg as the central figure in a 20th-Century imitation of Titian's "Proserpine Love."

"My husband will probably knock that man's teeth down his throat if he has the chance," she said.

"There must be laws against that sort of thing. I don't know why people think that just because a person is an actress she can have no privacy."

"It would be different if I were a strip-teaser, like some people I know. Then I might like the publicity. But that isn't my way of making a living."

COMMENTING ON the three-million-franc ($7,140) price Guiffrida has placed on a nude of French film lovely

ANITA EKBERG
She's Infuriated

Brigitte Bardot — her own is tagged at two million ($4,760) — the infuriated Swede said:

"That makes no difference to me. Bardot is probably delighted."

"After all, that's what she is known for in the profession."

"What makes me mad is that this artist will probably become famous for this. He must be lousy or he wouldn't have to pull a dirty stunt like this or copy other painters."

Sees Defense by 'Energy Rays'

BONN, Germany (UP)—German space scientist Dr. Eugen Saenger predicts that "energy rays" will some day be developed to disintegrate attacking aircraft and missiles and form a perfect defense.

Saenger, wartime V2 missile expert who now heads his own missile research laboratory in Stuttgart, said in a speech that it would take only "a fraction of a second" to send the rays into the sky.

Burt Raush's Funeral Set for Tuesday

Funeral services for Burton Hugh Raush, veteran motorcycle racer who was killed Friday night in a spill at Gardena Stadium, will be at 11 a.m. Tuesday in Mottell's and Peek Chapel.

The 30-year-old dare devil was among the most highly-rated of Southern California's motorcycle racers. He was taking part in a race heat when he lost control of his bike.

A lifetime resident of Long Beach, Raush was a lead man at the Douglas Aircraft Co. plant here. He was a veteran of World War II.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Viola Glover, and grandmother, Mrs. Meta Kannaberg.

Nude Statue a Tribute to Motherhood

JALAPA, Mexico (UP)—A controversial nude statue to motherhood was unveiled here Saturday on Mexico's Mother's Day. The work was roundly applauded by those attending the ceremony.

A committee of the Mexican Catholic Women's Union had protested to state officials, saying they did not want such a statue to motherhood. They charged it was an offense to morals and culture.

The protest was ignored and Mrs. Lourdes Echeverria de Quirrasco, wife of the governor of Vera Cruz State, unveiled the statue.

Some of the protesting delegates even joined in the applause.

SCULPTOR SERGIO BESNIER had maintained the figure was not a vulgar nudity. He said he was fed up with the symbol of motherhood as something sad in which the woman appears ashamed. Motherhood, he declared, should represent happiness.

The figure shows a woman holding her child toward the sky. Besnier said it represented thankfulness for a strong child born of a healthy woman.

The state government commissioned Besnier to do the work.

Monsoon—Entry of Ravinder

Several hundred more frogs were expected here this week to compete in the international frog jumps held to commemorate the famous short story "The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County." The story was Mark Twain's first successful published effort.

NOW IN ITS 32nd year, the Jumping Frog Jubilee will be held at the Calaveras County Fair Grounds outside this Mother Lode town. Preliminaries are set for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with the finals on Sunday.

The amphibians are placed on the "launching pad," a piece of burlap cut in a circle and placed on a platform. The frogs make three jumps to record their official distance. The record is 16 feet, 10 inches, set in 1954 by a hometown frog named "Lucky."

More than $2,000 in prizes will be distributed, with $1,000 going to the frog that breaks the record set by "Lucky."

SOME OF THE entries already received include:

Rolli — brought here from Sweden by Bror W. Lander, but a doubtful starter in view of the discovery this week that it is about to lay its eggs.

O'Reilly I — substitute frog offered Lander by Turlock, Calif., restaurant man Frank McNeff.

Alas, Blonde Beauty Has Too Much Money

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Ever since Grace Kelly married her prince, Hollywood has been on the alert for another wealthy beauty who could act.

Twentieth Century-Fox has one under contract, but she can't get her bosses to take her career seriously—she's too rich.

Her name is Dina Merrill. She could buy 20th Century-

Fox and the princely of Monaco, too, if she got her family to help.

Look at this background. Dina's mother is Mrs. Meriwether Post, the cereal heiress; her father is E. F. Hutton, the Wall Street broker; her husband is Stanley Rumbough Jr., president of the American Totalisator Corp., which makes the pari-mutuel betting machines for racetracks.

And, for a little frosting, Rumbough is also the grandson of Gilbert Colgate, the toothpaste and soap magnate. Dina might have made it by now if the family background hadn't become known. The studio had seen her on a television play and signed her for "The Desk Set" and "A Nice Little Bank That Should Be Robbed."

HER BLONDE BEAUTY is such that she turns heads when she walks into a Hollywood party. Directors rate her as a highly professional actress.

But when she asks the studio front office for a choice role she says they tell her: "You really can't be serious about an acting career—not with all that money."

But serious she is. And with her husband's approval. She lives in New York, where she made her Broadway debut at the age of 18. Then after a few years on the stage she married Rumbough, had three children and settled down as a young society matron. But once an actress, always an actress. She resumed her career on TV—and now movies.

FOOTLOOSE

NEW YORK Polly Bergen said in her cool, calm way, "I don't think being a star in pictures is any bigger than being a star in television."

The chick from Circleville who snared an Emmy is about to vacation in Europe and will probably only do six or eight TV shows of her own next year... but she'll go to the mat with you any time about television stars-vs.-movie stars.

It annoys her extremely that some of her TV sisters don't get gussied up for TV functions as much as Hollywood stars do for movie parties.

"There are so many who take the attitude that they're only in TV until Hollywood discovers them," Polly complained to me recently at Toots Shor's. "The women at the Oscar party were in evening gowns looking gay and glamorous—but so many at the Emmy Awards wore cocktail dresses. You didn't feel it was as great an occasion. Well, it should be! I wore an evening gown because they want to see you as glamorous as they think you are!"

FURTHERMORE, Polly thinks her every-other-Saturday-night TV show following Perry Como (soon going off) was pretty good.

"I think some of them have not been great—a few were only fair... but I don't think any of them have been bad or unentertaining," Polly declared. "My sponsors have an option to renew which I hope they don't exercise. Following Perry Como was wonderful, yet I also don't think anybody can take that much music. That's why I leaned more on comedy. The last show I only did two songs."

Added Polly: "If they've got any brains they'll put an anthology or panel show in that spot next season."

You have to ask any star about ratings but I was brave. "I never got the Caesar, Sinatra, Munsell ratings... was never in serious trouble."

"One show recently we had everything going for us. Bob Hope always gets a big rating. I had my Emmy going for us. If we should ever get a 25... 'We got a 19. The answer? I don't know. Perry Como wasn't in front of us that week.'"

POLLY THINKS the alternate week setup hurt—"My producer's wife couldn't remember which week we were on"—still, she wouldn't want to work weekly or in another slot.

"It's bad enough to put your

POLLY BERGEN

head on the bloc once a month. You have to be completely wedded to show business—and I'm not."

Polly says all girl TV singers suffer Dinah Shore trouble—"Unfortunately we're all compared to her."

"Gisela is not Dinah. Clooney is not I'm not. Dinah spends $80,000 a show, has an hour, a big permanent staff. She's in color. The majority of the people don't have color TV but the majority of the critics do."

"We," she added gloomily, "have low budgets, whatever creative talent we can pick up, and find guest stars impossible to get." Polly laughed and added, "Blues."

HAVING TURNED DOWN a couple of fat offers for next year—including "Your Hit Parade"—Polly wants to do a musical series of her own creation: well-known songs woven into a modern story, done live from New York.

"I hope I have it sold to a sponsor—it would be similar to the arrangement that Bob Hope has."

Polly succeeded in breaking up Bob on the show they did together, flattering to any girl who aspires to comedy. While they were doing a dance, Bob said, "I hope Cyd Charisse is watching."

Just then the dance got badly fouled up, Polly looked at the audience and said, "I hope nobody's watching."

Should Ike Name His Successor?

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER told reporters the other day that he feels he has no responsibility to groom a successor.

The Republican party, he asserted, has a lot of "darn good men."

This statement that the field is wide open disappointed supporters of Vice President Nixon. He has served well, and naturally they feel he deserves some special consideration from the popular President with whom he has served.

ACTUALLY NIXON HAS received consideration beyond that given any other Vice President by his Chief, and in this sense he has, indeed, been groomed as a successor. He has borne significant responsibilities, and he has been accepted into the top executive circle as a respected advisor. All of this has kept Nixon in the public spotlight and offered him unique opportunities to build his prestige. Far from being the road to political oblivion, the vice presidency has carried Nixon to a high point of influence and popularity in his party.

But should the President deliberately seek to eliminate all the other potential candidates by formally designating Nixon as his choice of a successor?

Modestly, Ike points out that a Presidential endorsement is not an unmixed blessing and adds that Nixon hasn't, at this point, any strong opposition for the Republican nomination in 1960.

BUT WE LIKE HIS FIRST answer best. While Nixon is a dynamic, effective, and capable man, there are a lot of other darn good men in the party who deserve a chance to press their case on equal terms.

Let the potential candidates develop and make their bids. This is good advice for both parties. Vigorous intra-party competition, as well as strong competition between the parties, is a sign of political good health in a nation.

Family of 5 Paid $580 Property Tax Last Year

By EDWIN CAPPS

A FAMILY OF FIVE paid on the average of $580 in property taxes levied by cities, counties, school districts during 1957-58, the State Board of Equalization reported. Total levies amounted to $1,634,412,000, an increase of 15.4 per cent, or about $11 per person, over 1956-57. School district taxes, at $769,526,526, accounted for nearly half of the total.

cows produced 7,708,000,000 pounds of milk. Trends in modern tastes were reflected by huge gains in sale of sour cream and skim milk, with a drop in sales of sweet cream and only a slight gain in sales of flavored milk drink.

CALIFORNIA prisons are bulging at the seams with a record population total of 17,760, as many as were expected by May of next year. Richard A. McGee, state Director of Corrections, said the situation of overcrowding is not serious but "we're moving from a good position to a poorer one." Worst problem, McGee said, is that more than 1,500 able-bodied men are idle because there are no work assignments for them.

CALIFORNIA veterans purchasing homes under loans from the state Department of Veterans Affairs may not rent or lease their homes without express permission of the Department. The attorney general ruled the penalty for renting or leasing without consent could be forfeiture of the home or a requirement to pay off the loan balance at once.

MILLIONS of "casualties" resulted on paper May 5 as the 1958 version of "Operation Alert," the Office of Civil Defense mock nuclear attack, took place. The maneuver this year was marked by less participation in general, with no interruption of work by the public or interruption of radio broadcasting for Conelrad.

Communists Stepping Up Infiltration of Free World

WASHINGTON.—The Communists are stepping up their infiltration in all the countries of the free world. They feel cocky about their successes inside France, Italy and Great Britain. They are still hopeful that they can force a change in American policy, drive out their arch-enemy, Secretary Dulles, and give themselves also a mastery of the military situation by stopping our nuclear tests.

LAWRENCE

To conquer or dominate the world without firing a shot—this is the objective which the Communists are confident they can attain because of various weaknesses in the free world countries.

"Many Americans are still unconvinced that there is any Communist menace, and they are prone to believe that to stop nuclear testing, for instance, is merely a logical way to avoid a nuclear war. But the amount of organized propaganda behind this and other Communist drives indicates clearly that the agents and auxiliaries of the Moscow government are provocatively busy everywhere improving their own military position.

To them the fight is on in earnest, and lately it has been going the Communists' way almost by default. This is largely because there is a tendency, principally in the United States, to pooh-pooh the Communist conspiracy.

MEANWHILE, internal subversion in America is progressing rapidly, and any efforts by congressional committees to expose what's happening are reported to have been effectively squelched by the Democratic leadership, which evidently must be theorizing that the public will not mind if the Democratic party is again accused of becoming "soft on communism." While the background of some of the men who are in the forefront of the movement to disarm America and weaken her position on nuclear weapons cries out for exposure, the congressional committees have been told to keep their hands off. For they have done nothing about exposing the phony petitions and the devious methods by which organized propaganda against nuclear testing has been thriving lately.

There isn't as yet a general awareness of what hurts this country abroad. Thus the other day Sen. Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico, Democrat, in a spur-of-the-moment comment on a television broadcast—which he probably regretted the moment he made it—said that the United States military men want "dirty" bombs and are making "dirtier" H-bombs. The Atomic Energy Commission denied this categorically, but for the last few days the Soviet radio has been exultantly repeating in many languages throughout the world the comment by the Chairman of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy of both houses of Congress.

Then there is a new drive on to compel our Strategic Air Command to stop training for interception of a surprise attack. This, plus a ban on further testing of nuclear weapons, would give a military advantage of tremendous value to the Soviets.

Probe Ended Just as It Began to Hit Pay Dirt

(Editor's Note: While Drew Pearson is touring Italy his column is written by his associate, Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON.—Disturbing evidence has leaked out that Congressman Oren Harris, Arkansas Democrat, shut off the investigation of Mamie Eisenhower's brother-in-law, Col. Gordon Moore, just as it started to hit pay dirt.

Investigators were already checking on Moore's activities when Harris took charge of the congressional probe into the regulatory agencies. After a hasty hearing, he dismissed the case against Moore without issuing a single subpoena or following up the most promising leads.

PEARSON public didn't know was that Moore received a telegram before the hearings from one of Harris' political rivals, T. C. Short of Louisville, Ark.

"I got Harris' record and how he spent the $20,000 the government gave him for office here. Can't say more. If interested, see me," wired Short.

Whether out of gratitude or for some other reason, Harris suddenly lost his zeal for investigating Mamie's brother-in-law. Here is a sample of the facts which his investigators dug up but which Harris brushed aside:

BOB HOUSER

Lawyers' Tradition Violates Spirit of U.S. Constitution

CONTEMPT FOR PUBLIC mentality is the secret mainspring of many a politician and many a political group. Conference, caucus and convention are the accustomed tools of this passion. They are the smoke-filled rooms which select candidates down to the "desirable" few and then allow the public to make the final choice.

This contempt, which, strangely, the public has divined, breeds counter-contempt registered in low voter turnout. Low turnouts reinforce the contempt of political manipulators in this cyclic tragedy of modern democracy.

Within the past few weeks we have witnessed a piece of manipulation which is unique because it lacks any overt villainy. All the characters are presumably good guys with only the best interests of the community at heart. But their labor has been undemocratic.

It was the quiet engineering of the legal fraternity, or parts of it, to eliminate Robert M. Devitt as a serious contender for a Long Beach Municipal Judgeship.

The office is held by Percy Hight. Both men filed at the 11th hour. A few weeks later Devitt announced he would not actively campaign for the office, explaining he understood at the time of his filing that Judge Hight intended to retire.

WHEN IT BECAME APPARENT that Attorney Devitt was not alone in the contest, the response of the local legal profession was swift, sure and hardly secret.

Nature of the response: "It just isn't done. One just doesn't challenge an incumbent judge." There were no aspersions against Devitt, only tradition.

These comments are neither brief nor against either candidate. Nor do they impugn the motives of the tradition-minded attorneys. They do mourn the fall of the democratic process.

It is only fair to point out that the attorneys who issued strong advisories to Devitt probably thought the undemocratic angle was outweighed by a more hopeless eventualty—that of asking the electorate to make an intelligent determination on 80 or 90 county judgeships.

IT SEEMS THE DESIRABLE alternative is that judgeships should not be elective offices at all, but should be appointive. Recognizing the inability of achieving enlightened lay votes on legal qualifications, the legal profession has in most cases offered its best talent for consideration by the electorate. In this initiative the public has been well served.

★ ★ ★
Even the tradition of not challenging an incumbent—via the gentleman's agreement—has merit. It gives a competent judge reasonable assurance that he may keep office and exercise his judgment from day to day without fear of electoral eviction.

BUT SO LONG AS THE OFFICE is elective we feel there should be no arbitrary banishing of any candidate from the ballot. We must preserve the substance as well as the form of representative government.

The highly respected legal profession, singled for tribute this month by a presidentially-proclaimed Law Day, could use this respect as well as its powerful voice to promote the candidacy of an incumbent if it favors.

Its tribalistic barrier against lay voters seems not only unattractive but completely at odds with the spirit of the American Constitution which Britain's 19th Century prime minister William Gladstone called "the most wonderful work ever struck off at a given time by the brain and purpose of man."

League Auxiliary Head 'Inaccurate'

TO THE EDITOR:

Views of the Alpine Court Memorial League membership were misrepresented in last Sunday's I-P-T, through no fault of the paper, I hasten to add.

Miss Effie Camell, president of the league auxiliary, issued a statement alleging that both the league and auxiliary opposed the plan for a shoreline drive connecting Long Beach Freeway with Alamitos Ave.

It is true the auxiliary adopted a resolution that the hookup with Alamitos Ave. would lead some motorists to wander north on Alamitos, possibly continuing on out of town back where they came from.

HOWEVER, I was presiding when Miss Camell moved that we make that position a joint resolution. A majority of league members were opposed and the resolution lost 14 to 13 on a show of hands. Miss Camell is a fine public-spirited citizen and I am sure she failed to understand me when I ruled that the resolution had lost. No doubt from where she sat she could not accurately assess the show of hands, which I can do quickly since I am a retired cattle auctioneer.

Personally, I say if the shoreline drive hookup with Alamitos Ave. leads some motorists back where they came from, then let them go and Godspeed. If there is anything we do not need, it is more Sunday drivers.

Rachel Morton Reviews Praised

TO THE EDITOR:

It has been my intention for quite some time to add my voice to the choir singing

the praises of your music editor, Rachel Morton. In my opinion she is striving mightily in the behalf of culture in Southern California, and, in my opinion, she is succeeding.

The organization which I represent has recently completed a production of Cole Porter's "Kiss Me Kate," which she attended and reviewed as a part of her activity with your paper. Her comments about the show played a large part in its considerable success. Not that she found it perfect, which she did not, but that her opinions were expressed with professional knowledge, with enthusiasm, and most importantly, with honesty. I believe that people recognize and respect these qualities.

Pontoon Bridge Traffic Hazard

TO THE EDITOR:

As a subscriber to your popular paper, I feel I am entitled to say a word relative to something important to many of us. I refer to the new Pontoon Bridge, which, in my opinion, is a dangerous traffic hazard to anyone who might use it.

I have talked with several people who have crossed over this bridge, and they agreed with me. Some have ceased using it, as they would rather go via the Commodore Heim Bridge, even though it is a longer distance, than to risk an accident. I would certainly not be caught near this site, should it rain, as I know it might result in a serious accident. I might say as a taxpayer, now paying to the hilt, the amount of money spent since the first bridge in that area was installed could have given us one of the finest bridges and one which, in my sincere estimation, would be used with a feeling of safety.

Editorial Courage of I, P-T Lauded

TO THE EDITOR:

May I express my great pleasure at the sudden realization that after many years of being on both or neither side of most issues of great importance to our community, and to society as a whole, the editorial pages of our local newspaper seem to have become aware that neutrality, or an attempt to be liked by everyone can be as destructive as outright opposition when public health issues such as fluoridation and mental health legislation are defeated by anonymous manipulations of fear and hatred.

Editorial courage makes a great newspaper out of a common one. More power to your editorial staff for their recent forthright challenge of the forces of ignorance and bigotry.

LETTER OF THE WEEK

A Postman Apologizes

TO THE EDITOR:

Please accept the apologies of your postal workers for their failure to contribute to the "You Auto Buy Now" campaign. The approximately 1,500 postal people in the Long Beach-Lakewood area are acutely conscious that they have not lived up to their civic responsibilities by their inability to support this worthwhile campaign.

★ ★ ★
BECAUSE WE HAVE HAD only one small raise in seven years and no cost of living increase, we have known for a long, dreary time what a recession means. Three of our last four pay bills have suffered the fate of a veto, because it would contribute to inflation. Now, with all danger of that in the past, we pray that there will be no obstacle to keep us from a desperately needed pay raise. Perhaps we could then do our part to help in the economic battle of the community.

Please do your part by writing to your congressmen on our behalf.

NEW DISCOVERY FOR HARD OF HEARING

To all readers of the Independent, Press-Telegram the Diagnostic Office will give the first treatment for only $3.00.

According to the Diagnostic Office, it is now possible for many who are hard of hearing to regain all or part of their hearing loss.

So many have told us "We have tried everything and we are so discouraged that we are about to give up." Once they try this new and proved method they are overjoyed. Just like magic, in many cases they are able to hear without their hearing aid after the first treatment.

The treatment is simple. It consists of three steps, and takes about 45 minutes. If the hearing loss is due to a nerve condition a special treatment is given. If the loss is due to a different treatment is given. If it is a bone condition, the Tympanic Oscillations treatment is given.

According to Basic Diagnostic, 70% of all hard of hearing people will be helped by this method. We believe it is as great a discovery as insulin was for diabetes.

We are so sure that we can help you that we will give you the first treatment, including an ear examination for only $3.00 providing you bring in this ad within 10 days from today.

Nine Challenge Round Table in Millionaire Bid

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

AGUA CALIENTE — This colorful border race track here becomes the turf capital of the world today when it stages the $50,000 added Caliente Handicap — a mile and one-sixteenth race in which the great champion, Round Table, should become the third horse in history to push his earnings over the million-dollar mark.

Round Table will be opposed by nine horses, but nobody in Mexico nor any place north of here expects him to get beat. Round Table will be saddled with a feather impost (for him) of 126 pounds, spotting as much as 25 pounds to the field's lightweight, War Marshal.

INASMUCH AS THE SON of Princequillo has routed better horses in California with constant 132-pound loads, he should romp here even with two legs tied together. (Oh, yes, to cancel any doubts, incomparable Willie Shoemaker will be in the saddle.)

Round Table has earned $973,964 to date and with $30,000 guaranteed to the winner here, his lifetime figure will be hiked to $1,003,964. Only other horses to reach the "million" mark have been Nashua ($1,288,563) and Citation ($1,085,760).

The complete field: Moscoe, 105 (Cunnington); Round Table, 126 (Shoemaker); Redi-Racing, 102 (No Boy); River Clipper, 103 (Juarez); Straight A, 103 (Leon); Soldier Boy, 103 (Pierce); Predestinado, 106 (Taniguchi); Like Magic, 108 (Ferguson); Silver Eagle, 104 (Fairholm); War Marshal, 101 (Skuse).

Sports Merry-Go-Round

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

AGUA CALIENTE—Although their club is involved in a ding-dong Pacific Coast League battle—after one month's play only a handful of games separate the first and eighth place teams, San Diego baseball fans are talking heatedly (and constantly) about Commissioner Ford Frick's ruling against Bob Lemon.

Lemon, Long Beach's newest restaurateur, was placed on Cleveland's 30-day disabled list because his ailing right elbow still was not strong after extensive off-season surgery. The Indians then ordered Robert to join the San Diego Padres where he could work out and serve also as a pitching coach.

Frick mixed this assignment, informing Tribe boss Frank Lane that Lemon must either stay at home in Long Beach or be reinstated immediately to the Cleveland active list.

Believe me, San Diego fans are more vehement in their blasts at Frick than even Bob's many Long Beach rooters. Of course, the Padre boosters lost a pitching instructor for 30 days—we gained a restaurateur!

Padre general manager Ralph Kiner, who visited Lemon in Long Beach last Wednesday night when "Lem" and Virgil Heckelmann were hosts at an open house in their newly-purchased Ricart's Restaurant, 4365 Atlantic Ave., was in rare violent form about the situation.

"This is an insult to Bob," snapped Kiner. "He's given his best years to baseball and when he's merely trying to get his arm worked into playable shape again, the commissioner slaps him down."

Kiner admitted he had a dual reason for being irritated at Frick.

"In preventing Lemon from working out with our Padres," said Kiner, "Frick hindered the strengthening of Bob's arm and our pitching corps."

"Bob has helped out our San Diego pitchers in the last few weeks by his instruction during his disability leave, but he's afraid—and I don't blame him—to throw a baseball in our park. One throw and he's liable to get a stiff fine and even a suspension."

Kiner declared that Lemon had helped out San Diego's hottest pitching prospect, 21-year-old Gary Bell.

"Bell picked up some sound advice from Lemon and it has paid off," pointed out Kiner. "Gary has chucked a one-hitter and a two-hitter for us, plus a four-hitter—but he lost that heartbreaker, 1-0."

"When an experienced fellow like Lemon gives instruction to kids like Bell, the kids listen and it pays off. Too bad, though, for Bob—and us—that Frick had to stop him from throwing at all. The Lemon ruling just doesn't make sense to anyone in baseball."

Or out of it, either, Ralph.

LEMON, BY THE WAY, does not intend to pattern his restaurant career after the one of a former Cleveland-by-way-of-Indiana, Robert Kelley.

"This will be no Pump Room," laughed Lemon. "Let 'Old Kel' have all the celebrities, we'll just take the general public who comes in to eat good food."

Ricart's had its share of celebrities at the open house affair, however. Seated among the guests were actor Forrest Tucker, ex-Ram Tommy Fears, and baseballers Jerry Priddy, Vern Stephens, Chuck Stevens and Kiner.

SOMETHING-I-DIDN'T-KNOW-BEFORE DEPT.: C. Arnholt Smith, owner of San Diego's beautiful new PCL stadium, Westgate Park, which is the very last word in baseball construction, claimed that in a recent talk with Walter O'Malley, the much-maligned Dodger president expressed regret that some of the Coliseum's $3.50 box seats were so poor.

"We have come across a new situation in Southern California," O'Malley is reported to have said. "We've found people here want only the best reserved seats. There was a big demand for bleacher seats in Ebbets Field, but not here."

"And I realize more than anyone else that some of what we call box seats should be accompanied by a letter of apology."

See, The O'Malley does care!

THERE'S A FEELING IN SAN DIEGO that major league baseball is just around the corner there.

"Our new park is the stepping stone to the major leagues," one San Diego writer told me.

"The Westgate-California Tuna Packing Corporation wouldn't have sunk all this money into a modern baseball facility unless it had in mind a major league franchise soon," commented another newsmen. "The Coast League as it now stands is doomed—no matter how excellent the competition."

"Boston and Washington officials have given indications that they'd like to come to San Diego with their franchises," indicated another. Which makes some sense, because Red Sox and Nat leaders also have evinced interest in a possible Orange County site for their major league clubs!

CALIENTE officials did a neat job of eliminating stern competition for Round Table in his "Romp for the Million" today. On the nomination list of 18 steeds were six good runners from California which might have given "The Table" a run for his gold.

When the final entry list of 10 was drawn, not one of the six (Ekaba, Seunene, Mystic Eye, Carrier X, Swirling Abbey and Gold Cover) was included.

These people don't want anybody lousing up today's script, believe me!

SOUTHPAW MAYOR HURLS 'FIRST BALL' AT BLAIR FIELD

Long Beach Mayor Ray Kealer, a southpaw, winds up to throw traditional "first ball" in ceremonies dedicating Blair Field Saturday. He is flanked on left by Nelson Blair, son of the late Frank Blair whose memory is honored by the ballpark; and on the right by former major leaguer Chuck Stevens and Long Beach State College coach John McConnell. Old Pueblo Easy Winner

Sixth Win in Row, for Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves exploded for three runs in the seventh inning Saturday on homers by Del Crandall and Joe Adcock to beat Cincinnati 5-3 and extend their winning streak to six games.

Adcock's round-tripper tied the score and Crandall's 2-run blast, his first of the season and the Braves' first pinch homer of the year, provided Milwaukee's margin of victory.

Smoky Burgess' 3-run homer in the third off Braves' starter Bob Buhl gave the Redlegs a lead that stood up until Adcock teed off on one of loser Harvey Haddix' pitches in the seventh.

VERN STEPHENS
Ex-Red Sox Honored

BOSOX OWNER PAYS HONOR TO STEPHENS

Vern (Junior) Stephens, one of Long Beach's greatest contributions to professional baseball, will be one of 10 outstanding Boston Red Sox players, both past and present, who will be honored at a Boston civic banquet next Sunday.

The banquet will be in honor of Tom Yawkey's 25th anniversary as Red Sox owner. Yawkey was asked to select 10 Red Sox players to be his guests—and Stephens was one of those picked.

Among the other players also chosen are all-time greats Ted Williams, Lefty Grove, Jimmy Foxx and Dom DiMaggio.

Nabs Debonair Sprint in Impressive Romp

Old Pueblo took a giant stride toward winning back his ranking as the West's leading three-year-old when he ran away from five rivals to win the $27,100 Debonair Stakes at Hollywood Park Saturday.

It was the first trip postward for the strapping son of Windy City II since bowing to Silky Sullivan in the Santa Anita Derby over two months ago. Trainer Bob Wheeler had the brilliant colt razor sharp and he had little difficulty pinning a length setback on Aliwar and Hillsdale in 1:10 flat.

Prior to the Derby loss and a previous setback in an overnight race, Old Pueblo had won all eight of his starts and looked like the West's top hope for victory in the Kentucky Derby. However, the double loss vaulted Silky to the top of the division, a position Old Pueblo again appeared ready to challenge Saturday.

CARRYING 127 pounds, the highest weight of his career, Old Pueblo broke sluggishly as Radium Rays and Aliwar jumped for the lead. But Shoemaker had him rolling at the quarter pole and he easily got command from the latter. Shaking Aliwar, however, was another task and it wasn't easy.

It appeared momentarily that Old Pueblo was going to pull away handily in the early stretch when he opened up three lengths, but Aliwar came on again and closed the margin to a length at the wire. Hillsdale, making his first appearance since arriving early last week from Kentucky, also ran a very creditable race.

Ray York moved up strongly on the rail with the easterner but he hung slightly when he got within striking distance and failed by a half-length to grab the runner-up award. It was five more lengths back to Radium Rays in fourth place, and the other two, Sully's Boy and Sabredale, were never in the contest.

The opening Saturday crowd of 42,273, perhaps remembering Old Pueblo's three wins in as many tries at Hollywood last year, sent the Jellks and McBean colorbearer postward as an odds-on choice. He paid $3.30, $2.40 and $2.20 across the board. Aliwar returned $2.60 and $2.30 and Hillsdale $2.60 to show.

SHOEMAKER clicked with two other betting choices during the afternoon. The three wins added to a like total for the first two days put him back in a very familiar role atop the jockey standings. He won the companion feature, the $10,000 Bon Vivant purse, with Rex Ellsworth's Alrude.

FRESNO — A world record assault by 1,605 West Coast Relay athletes failed Saturday but Rink Babka, Parry O'Brien and the Occidental two-mile relay team provided meet records to the joy of 13,500 fans at Rialto Stadium.

SC won the meet for the 13th consecutive time but only after a battle down to the last event with Occidental. SC scored 52½ points. Oxy 49½, with UCLA third at 44.

Babka, SC's successor to Charles Atlas, broke the meet record with a throw of 186-0. The 6-5½, 232-pound Trojan co-captain, had successive spins of 171, 162, 179, 186, 179 and 180 feet. This marked the 10th week in a row that Babka has bettered 180 feet.

World champion O'Brien muscled the shot 61-3½ on his first two series and either would have been enough to beat his only serious challenger, Bill Nieder of the Army. O'Brien won at 61-3½, a new meet record, with Nieder second at 61-¼ and Bob Humphries of the Striders trimming Trojan star Dave Davis for the third time this year, finishing 58-9½ to 56-1¼ for Davis.

Drysdale Tries for Win No. 2 in TV Game Today

By GEORGE LEDERER

SAN FRANCISCO—Eight and two-thirds innings of fine mound work by Johnny Podres was offset by nine bad pitches in the ninth inning Saturday and resulted in a 3-2 victory by the Giants over the Dodgers.

Rookie outfielder Don Taussig's single with two out in the ninth enabled Orlando Cepeda to score from second base, and give the Giants their fourth straight victory and their sixth in eight starts against the Dodgers.

Taussig had entered the game as a pinch-hitter for Willie Kirkland in the eighth inning and scored the tying run on a pinch single by Ray Jablonski. His game-winning hit in the ninth was his first RBI of the year.

DON DRYSDALE (1-5) will face the Giants' Ruben Gomez, (2-2) in the third game to be televised this afternoon over KTTV (11) at 1:25 p.m.

Drysdale picked up his only win in relief and has been shelled in all five of his starts. Gomez beat Drysdale, 8-0, in the season opener. Gomez' other win also came at the expense of the Dodgers. It was an 11-4 route-going decision at the Coliseum, April 19.

Podres deserved a better fate, although he had only himself to blame for the Giants' winning rally.

After Willie Mays clouted his fourth homer of the year, and his third in two days in the first inning, Podres did not allow a hit until Jablonski singled in the eighth. Podres, the league leader in strikeouts with 28 in 34 innings, was seeking his fifth straight win, but instead wound up with his first loss.

The Giants collected only four hits and four walks and had only two base runners from the second through the seventh innings.

Home runs by Junior Gilliam and Gino Cimoli overcame Mays' first inning clout and gave Podres a 2-1 lead entering the eighth.

Taussig entered at that point and drew a walk to lead off the eighth. Danny O'Connell sacrificed Taussig to second from where he scored on Jablonski's smash to center to knot the score at 2-2.

Podres had no trouble in setting down Mays and Hank Sauer for the first two outs in the ninth. But, after being ahead of the hitters—most of the afternoon, Podres suddenly ran into a wild streak.

He couldn't find the plate on eight straight pitches to Cepeda and Bob Schmidt to put the winning run in scoring position. The ninth pitch was down the middle, but Taussig laced it through the hole in left to send Cepeda home as well as a near capacity crowd of 20,774 fans.

WHILE THE Dodgers fell 6½ games off Milwaukee's league leading pace, the Giants remained in second place and trail the World Champions only in the lost column. The Dodgers have lost three in a row and are only 1½ games in front of the cellar Cardinals.

The one-hour and 57-minute game was the shortest played by the Dodgers this year and, in Giants manager Bill Rigney.

Ford, Duren Blank Nats

NEW YORK (UP)—The New York Yankees halted the drive of the surprising Washington Senators for the second straight day Saturday 8-0 but Whitey Ford, their ace pitcher, had to leave the mound after seven innings after being hit on his throwing arm by a pitched ball.

Bob Wiesler had just taken the mound in the third, replacing loser Russ Kemmerer, when Ford was hit. Wiesler's first toss was a wild pitch. The second hit Ford in the arm.

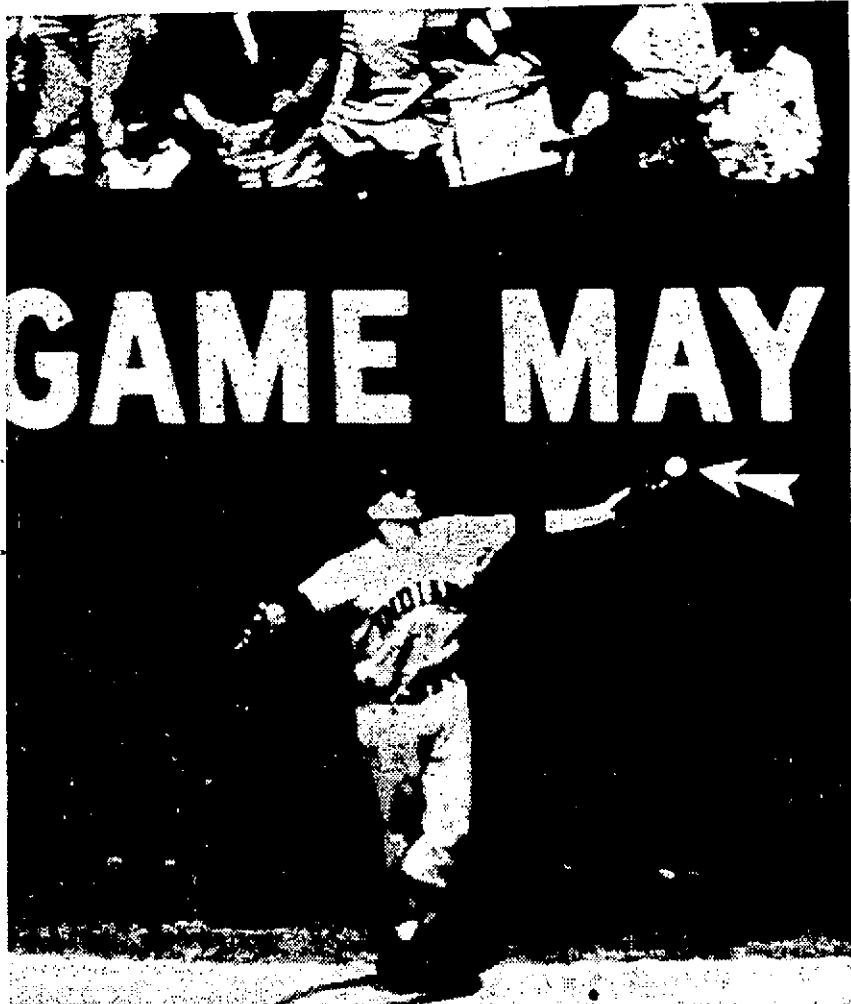

The chunky southpaw continued until the seventh, allowing only six hits and permitting only one base runner to reach third base. But the arm stiffened in the seventh and Casey Stengel sent Harry Simpson to bat for Ford. Rine Duren replaced him on the mound and struck out five in two innings. He struck out the side in the ninth.

It was the second straight triumph for the Yankees over Washington, now two-and-one-half games behind the leaders but still in second place.

Washington, New York
Pitcher: Whitey Ford, 7 1/2
Batter: Harry Simpson, 1 1/2
Total: 35 5 11 7

Yankees, New York
Pitcher: Rine Duren, 2 1/2
Batter: Casey Stengel, 1 1/2
Total: 35 5 11 7

Game summary: Yankees 8, Senators 0. Whitey Ford pitched 7 1/2 innings, allowing 6 hits and 1 run. Rine Duren pitched 2 1/2 innings, allowing 0 hits and 0 runs. Harry Simpson batted 1 1/2 times, hitting 1 home run and 1 RBI.

GAME MAY—END RIGHT HERE

Roger Maris, Cleveland right fielder, leaps for drive off bat of White Sox Ron Jackson just in front of sign which, indicating the Sox' next game, means here an apparent end to Saturday's game as Maris missed the ball by an inch and Al Smith and Sherm Lollar scored. White Sox went on to win, 5-4.

Once Over Lightly

POT POURRI:

Bing Crosby not only gained a new daughter-in-law the past week, but he decided to retain his holdings in the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Bing, of course, has held an option for the past several months to invest $300,000 in the Detroit Tigers, but revealed just the other day that he has decided not to pick up the option.

"I had to make a choice between the Pirates and Tigers because Commissioner Ford Fick has ruled that I cannot have substantial ownership in both clubs. I've decided to stick with the Pirates because I've been with them since 1947 and I really think they're going places in the National League," Bing explained.

"Another reason is that I now have an opportunity to have rooting interest in the Pirates since they will be playing 22 games on the Coast each year—11 in Los Angeles and 11 in San Francisco.

"I used to watch the Hollywood Stars maybe 20 to 25 times a year . . . and now I'm going to be a regular at the Coliseum when I'm in town. Until last week, I hadn't seen the Pirates since 1956 when I watched them in New York against the Giants."

Crosby's decision came as a surprise to Kenyon Brown, one of Bing's long-time business associates and president of the Los Angeles television station of which Bing is chairman of the board.

Brown, of course, controls one-third of the Tiger stock purchased from the Briggs family for $5,500,000 last year.

Brown had counted on Crosby to pick up options on one-sixth of his portion or one-eighth of the entire club.

Meanwhile, Bing's holdings at Pittsburgh are estimated at $250,000. He bears the title of vice president with the Pirates.

CUS D'AMATO is seriously considering throwing heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson in with another amateur for his "big fight" in 1958, according to the latest word along Cauliflower Alley.

Only thing that will stop it is Cus' fear of public opinion. D'Amato established a precedent a year ago when he matched Patterson with Pete Rademacher, the Olympic Games champion, who fought for the heavyweight title in his first professional start. Floyd knocked him out, but not before Pete had him on the deck in the third round.

The next amateur who might get a shot at Patterson's title in his very first pro start is Dan Hodge of Oklahoma, the Olympic wrestling champion who has turned boxer and recently won the National Golden Gloves title. His amateur record to date is 17 straight wins, 14 by knockout.

Hodge's sponsor, Art Freeman, a wealthy oil man from Wichita, Kansas, reportedly has offered D'Amato $250,000 for a bout with Patterson.

Meanwhile, two other possible opponents for Patterson this year are Roy Harris, who is back training in Cut-and-Shoot, Texas, following a reserve hitch in the Army, and Johnny Summerlin.

D'Amato has promised to talk with the Summerlin camp if Johnny beats Nino Valdes later this month.

FINAL returns on the second Sugar Ray Robinson-Carmen Basilio bout in Chicago shows that the closed-circuit telecast was the most successful yet staged.

Figures released by the Tele-Prom-Ter Corporation reveal that 364,876 fans saw the fight in 174 outlets in 140 cities . . . an overall increase over the first Basilio-Robinson bout of more than $100,000 paid admissions.

While no definite receipts were announced, it is estimated that the theater gross came to about $1,400,000. The IBC realized between $350,000 and $380,000 from the telecast, while Tele-Prom-Ter and the various theaters split the rest of the gross on a 50-50 basis.

Many of the theaters and arenas in which the telecast was shown rounded out the program by staging live bouts.

Several observers are predicting that if Basilio and Robinson get together for a "rubber match" will lure over 500,000 fans into the theaters.

THE RASH of "brush-off" pitches thrown during any Giant-Dodger series reminds Carl Erskine of the time that Charley Dressen, now a Dodger coach, but then manager of the club, ordered him to knock down a Giant hitter.

"Sal Maglie was pitching for the Giants and was low-bridging our guys pretty good," Erskine explains. Wes Westrum was coming up to start the next inning and Dressen said to me "if you get ahead of this guy, I want you to knock him down." Well, I got a strike on him and heard Dressen's whistle. I looked over to the dugout and heard Charley yelling "now, now!"

"I was ready to do it and looked for Roy Campanella to give me the fast ball sign, but he signaled for a pitchout instead. Alvin Dark was on first and Campy expected him to go. Anyway, I shook him off, but again he called for the pitchout. I looked over at Charley, and shook off Campy again.

A FULL DAY OF ACTIVITY is ahead for the 25,000 to 30,000 fans expected. Fourteen races are carded, three in the morning starting at 11 a.m. Both the morning and afternoon sessions will have a daily double and a quinella, while the popular "5-10" handicapping contest will be conducted as usual, on the fifth through tenth races in the p.m.

Director John Alessio, fearing a heavy minus pool, has dictated that only win and place wagering will be allowed. Incidentally, the minimum payoff in Mexico is $2.20, as contrasted with $2.10 in the U.S.

Also, no book betting will be held on the feature race, only mutual wagering. Which is a good thing, because this would have produced the greatest purge of books since "Forever Amber" was swept from Boston racks.

Wild 6th Nets Birds 5-2 Win

BALTIMORE (AP)—Three walks, a wild throw into center field by Boston pitcher Tom Brewer and two looping singles, all in the sixth inning, gave Baltimore a 5-2 win over the Red Sox Saturday.

Jack Harshman, who came to Baltimore in a deal with Chicago, allowed only five hits to win five games this season. He has an earned run average of 1.25 and has lost none.

Harshman, his back taped against disc trouble, didn't allow more than one Boston hit in any inning except the first, when Ted Williams and Dick Gernert singled. After that, he kept the door tightly shut.

Campy called time, and came running out to the mound. "Man," he said, "been catching a lot of years and had a lot of pitches shaken off, but this is the only time I ever had a pitcher refuse to throw a pitchout."

A's Goofs Aid Tiger Win, 3-2

DETROIT (AP)—Making two Kansas City, defensive lapses good for a pair of runs, the Detroit Tigers edged the Athletics Saturday 3-2 behind Billy Hoof's steady pitching.

Lapses by center fielder Woody Held and second baseman Mike Baxes cost right-hander Ralph Terry two tallies and he lost out in a pitching battle with the Tiger southpaw.

RAY BOONE cracked his second wrong-field home run in two days, the second in the third inning, and gave Hoof a 1-0 lead. In the third, Hoof played Hoof's one-hop single into a three-base hit and the Tiger pitcher scored on Frank Bolling's long fly.

With Harvey Kuenn on first by a single in the fourth inning, Charley Maxwell grounded to Baxes. The Kansas City second baseman started to tag Kuenn on the base paths, changed his mind and threw Maxwell out at first. Boone promptly singled Kuenn home.

STUART'S TWO HOME RUNS SPARK BEES

Dick Stuart, former Hollywood and Pittsburgh homer-striker ace, continued his torrid hitting pace Saturday by slamming out two more home runs in sparking the Salt Lake City Bees to a 9-5 victory over the Phoenix Giants in a Pacific Coast League game. Joe Amalfitano got a two-run homer for the Giants.

San Diego erupted for six runs in the first inning and went on to bury Sacramento, 10-3.

Connie Grob gave up a run in the first inning to Portland but was invincible thereafter as he pitched the Spokane Indians to a 3-1 victory over the Beavers.

In the remaining game on the schedule, last-place Seattle trimmed league-leading Vancouver, 4-1.

Red-Hot Pirates Club Phils, 14-4

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The rampaging Pittsburgh Pirates piled up their biggest single-game run total of the season Saturday for a 14-4 rout over the Philadelphia Phils and their 10th victory in their last 14 starts.

FIRST FOR DONOVAN

Fox, Jackson Hits Floor Tribe, 5-4

CHICAGO (AP)—Nellie Fox singled across the winning run in the eighth after towering Ron Jackson drove in three runs with a double and a homer to give Chicago's Dick Donovan his first triumph, 5-4 over the Cleveland Indians Saturday.

Cards Nip Cubs, Stan Blanked

ST. LOUIS (AP)—St. Louis' Vinegar Bend Mizell cracked the victory column Saturday with a 3-1 decision over the Chicago Cubs. Mizell needed ninth-inning relief help from Larry Jackson to break a three-game losing streak.

A single by Ernie Banks and a walk to Walt Moryn with none out in the ninth brought a call for Jackson.

Banks scored as Don Blasingame made an error trying for a double play. Jackson then retired pinch hitter Sammy Taylor and Paul Smith on infield taps.

STAN MUSIAL went hitless in three trips and left himself still seven base knocks shy of the exclusive 3,000-hit club. Musial, hitting .500 before Saturday's game, dropped to .490.

Jim Brosnan hurled seven innings and only allowed three hits, but took his third loss against two victories.

RAY BOONE cracked his second wrong-field home run in two days, the second in the third inning, and gave Hoof a 1-0 lead. In the third, Hoof played Hoof's one-hop single into a three-base hit and the Tiger pitcher scored on Frank Bolling's long fly.

FIRST FOR DONOVAN

Fox, Jackson Hits Floor Tribe, 5-4

CHICAGO (AP)—Nellie Fox singled across the winning run in the eighth after towering Ron Jackson drove in three runs with a double and a homer to give Chicago's Dick Donovan his first triumph, 5-4 over the Cleveland Indians Saturday.

Cards Nip Cubs, Stan Blanked

ST. LOUIS (AP)—St. Louis' Vinegar Bend Mizell cracked the victory column Saturday with a 3-1 decision over the Chicago Cubs. Mizell needed ninth-inning relief help from Larry Jackson to break a three-game losing streak.

A single by Ernie Banks and a walk to Walt Moryn with none out in the ninth brought a call for Jackson.

Banks scored as Don Blasingame made an error trying for a double play. Jackson then retired pinch hitter Sammy Taylor and Paul Smith on infield taps.

STAN MUSIAL went hitless in three trips and left himself still seven base knocks shy of the exclusive 3,000-hit club. Musial, hitting .500 before Saturday's game, dropped to .490.

Jim Brosnan hurled seven innings and only allowed three hits, but took his third loss against two victories.

RAY BOONE cracked his second wrong-field home run in two days, the second in the third inning, and gave Hoof a 1-0 lead. In the third, Hoof played Hoof's one-hop single into a three-base hit and the Tiger pitcher scored on Frank Bolling's long fly.

With Harvey Kuenn on first by a single in the fourth inning, Charley Maxwell grounded to Baxes. The Kansas City second baseman started to tag Kuenn on the base paths, changed his mind and threw Maxwell out at first. Boone promptly singled Kuenn home.

STUART'S TWO HOME RUNS SPARK BEES

Dick Stuart, former Hollywood and Pittsburgh homer-striker ace, continued his torrid hitting pace Saturday by slamming out two more home runs in sparking the Salt Lake City Bees to a 9-5 victory over the Phoenix Giants in a Pacific Coast League game. Joe Amalfitano got a two-run homer for the Giants.

San Diego erupted for six runs in the first inning and went on to bury Sacramento, 10-3.

Connie Grob gave up a run in the first inning to Portland but was invincible thereafter as he pitched the Spokane Indians to a 3-1 victory over the Beavers.

In the remaining game on the schedule, last-place Seattle trimmed league-leading Vancouver, 4-1.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

REDDING—Albert B. (Bert) McKee, of Arcadia, who admits that he is more interested in feathers than in fins, became California's outstanding sportsman here Friday night. He received the award from the Shasta-Cascade Wonderland Assn., a group that takes its water problems and fishing seriously.

Among the scores attending the banquet were 19 California newspaper and magazine outdoor writers, who named McKee for the honor.

McKee, a vice president of Ducks Unlimited in charge of the Pacific region, was the first Southern Californian to receive the award. It also was the first time that a man not primarily interested in fishing was called the state's greatest conservationist.

But 13-year-old Bobby Statthorn, of Redding, almost stole the show when he accepted the first annual award as the state's junior sportsman. Bobby was named principally because of two accomplishments:

He showed the state how to protect some fishing resources by better screening of irrigation canals and he taught dozens of Redding boys the art of successful fishing.

McKee was the fourth person to be so honored. Previous winners were Henry Cineschmidt, Redding; Dr. Paul R. Needham, Berkeley, and Don F. (King) Hunter, San Francisco. All of those men were chosen because of their fish conservation projects.

Stewart L. MacKenzie, Shasta-Cascade president, acclaimed McKee's selection because of the emphasis placed upon preserving and sustaining the wetlands so badly needed for migratory waterfowl, both in the United States and Canada.

Bert McKee is one of DU's staunchest supporters. He was a right-hand man to the late Will J. Reid, of Long Beach, when Reid was vice president of the Pacific region and later when he served two years as president of the national organization.

As early as 1931 he was interested in fish and game conservation. He served for many years as a director of the fish and game research work of the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce. When DU was organized in 1937 he became an active member.

A great deal of credit for the DU fund-raising campaigns in Southern California each year must go to McKee. He works hard in all DU campaigns, particularly the annual Duck Hunters' Night at the Shrine Auditorium, at which thousands of dollars are donated to development of ducks and geese.

Bobby Statthorn is a favorite in this area. Known for his neighborliness in helping other boys learn how to fish, Bobby, even at 13, knows that fish resources must be protected. It was his juvenile curiosity in investigating fish screens that led to the discovery that many young salmon and steelhead were being wasted in irrigation canals leading off northern rivers, particularly the Sacramento which flows through Redding.

Bobby is an honor student at a Redding elementary school, finds time to play basketball, baseball, football, in addition to fishing. He was selected on an all-star baseball team last year when he batted .480. He can catch, pitch or play second base (Dodger management, please note).

His father, Paul Statthorn, supervisor of Shasta-Trinity National Forest, put a fishing rod in Bobby's hands when he was two years old, and the youngster has been angling ever since.

Certainly, the Shasta-Cascade Assn. members who live in the seven northern counties are to be congratulated for adding a junior leader to the annual affair. Let's hope that there are more like Bobby who will start looking to future generations and thinking of others at such an early age.

FRIDAY NIGHT'S BANQUET was held at the Riverview Golf and Country Club with one of the north's witty and spirited legislators doing the MC chores. He was Sen. Edwin J. Regan of Weaverville.

Other representatives from the Legislature were there, as well as officials of the Fish and Game Commission, the Department of Fish and Game and the Wildlife Conservation Board.

Saturday was devoted to fishing, with most of the interest centered on Shasta Lake, 11 miles north of Redding, and this area's vacation wonderland. McKee, the outdoor scribe and dozens of local residents took part in a fishing party, scattering to the various arms of Shasta Lake and hoping for the big bass and kamloops trout which make it a fishing paradise.

JUST A FEW MILES from Redding are dozens of well-stocked streams and lakes, in addition to Shasta. Redding is the gateway to roads leading into the famed Trinity Alps, where pack-in trips take you away from the noise of traffic and give you a chance to fill your lungs with fresh, mountain air.

Almost every member of the Shasta Cascade group might well be called a preacher. Just stop one and ask questions about the northern wilderness and you'll find out what local residents think of a country that is blessed with high mountains, lots of water and scenery beyond comparison. "Just why do you think our mountains were named the Trinity Alps?" they'll ask.

As for Shasta Lake, it's a most delightful spot. If it could be a part of Los Angeles County, there probably would be a million fishermen, campers, picnickers, water-skiers and spectators lining its shores every weekend.

National Girls Week Has Special Significance Here

The observance of National Girls Week May 11 to 17 takes on special significance this year in Long Beach through the recent opening of new club facilities for Assistance League of Long Beach-sponsored West Long Beach Girls Club.

Open house is slated from 3 to 5 p. m. each day this week for persons interested in visiting the club, 2640 Santa Fe Ave. A special birthday party is planned at 4:30 p. m. Wednesday. At that time members of Girls Clubs around the nation also will be lighting candles. Miss Althea Maynihan, field director for National Girls Clubs of America, will attend.

DURING THE first week following opening of the new clubhouse, attendance increased 100 per cent, and averaged 150 girls a day. Classes are conducted in crafts, sewing, charm, grooming and cooking. Members of the Assistance League Girls Club committee are

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeature Writer

On a bright Sunday 50 years ago the sermons of almost every Philadelphia church concerned a single subject: motherhood.

It was the first formal, organized observance of Mothers Day, held on May 10, 1908. It now has grown into an important holiday, proclaimed annually by the President of the United States. It is an institution in more than 40 other countries as well.

Mothers Day is entirely the idea of a militant, sharp-tongued and sentimental spinster of 44, Anna M. Jarvis. Grieving extravagantly over the death of her own mother three years before, she was determined to establish a national holiday honoring the nation's mothers—particularly her own.

Paradoxically, the popular success of the idea turned Anna Jarvis into a bitter, eccentric recluse.

In the half century since

To express their gratitude for her fine leadership Nightingales presented the retiring president, Mrs. Jensen, with an inscribed gavel, and board members gave her a pearl-encrusted heart for her charm bracelet.

SILVER CHARM bracelets, inscribed with "N," were token "thank you's" given to graduating members, Mmes. Loeher Buck, Montie Magree, William Todd and Alfred Williams.

Provisionals and members are looking forward to their Cotton Dance at the Petroleum Club in June, a swimming party at the Bernard Wisney home in July, a luau at the J. Tyson Ellis home in August, and the fifth annual Nightingale Ball in October which will raise funds for their philanthropy.

working diligently to plan additional activities to take care of the large increase in membership.

Assisting Mrs. William Eastman, committee chairman, and Mrs. Maxine Goldsmith, Girls Club director, are Mmes. Harold G. Appleton, William Macrae, Gus A. Walker, Robert J. Ritzer, Calvert Strong, Lyman G. Berg, Carl Ward, Chris Conway, Homer Grant, Collins Cameron, Richard Browning, Marvin Clark, George Barker, Irving Smith Jr., Julius C. Molina, William Rhorer, Raymond Cary and Chester S. Yunker, incoming League president.

Mrs. Worden President of Ebell Juniors

Mrs. U. S. Worden, membership chairman of Ebell Juniors for the past club year, stepped up to the presidency at an election during the May luncheon meeting in the clubhouse. She succeeds Mrs. Roland L. Coltrane.

Other new officers are Mmes. John McCutcheon, first vice president; Thomas H. Epperson, second vice president; James J. Gardner, third vice president, and J. Malcolm Johnson, fourth vice president.

Also Mmes. Eugene J. Long, financial secretary; I. S. Runolfsson, treasurer; Fred D. Hesley, recording secretary; and Glen Anderson, corresponding secretary.

INSTALLATION will take place May 28 at a luncheon gathering in Disneyland Hotel.

During the meeting the pleasant assignment of presenting a corsage to each provisional member, thus welcoming them into the club as an active member, was taken by Mrs. Worden, who had guided their activities their first year.

Mothers Day first was observed by a few churches, it has grown into a holiday which the National Retail Merchants Assn. calls a "powerful sales-producing event ranking second only to Christmas."

The National Committee on the Observance of Mothers Day estimates that, when the books are closed on today's observance, it will have produced more than 975 million dollars in gift sales, with 55 million families spending an average of $16 each honoring mothers, grandmothers and mothers-in-law.

TO ANNA JARVIS, however, the nation's merchants turned Mothers Day into a bonanza, and she spent her own modest fortune trying to keep the day within the religious and idealistic bounds which she had set for it. As a result, when she died in 1948, she had been living on the charity of acquaintances in a sanitarium outside of Philadelphia. She was 84, deaf, blind — and convinced her crusade was a failure.

Perhaps the germ of the idea came from Anna Jarvis' mother — the mother whose memory Anna was so determined to honor. When the family lived in West Virginia at the end of the Civil War, Mrs. Jarvis was distressed at the way the conflict had split families. She organized a "Mothers' Friendly Day," inviting both Union and Confederate veterans to gather their families in ceremonies in Pruntyville in an effort to heal the scars.

Beginnings of the modern Mothers Day followed Mrs. Jarvis' death in Philadelphia in 1905. On May 9, 1907—the second anniversary of her mother's death—Anna held memorial services in her own home. Then this devoted daughter was off on a single-minded, lifelong crusade for a national and international holiday.

She was a born crusader and, before she found the ideal cause, had campaigned for suffrage, temperance and had done some welfare work. But her new idea obsessed her to the exclusion of all else.

THE FIRST few years were happy, and success was easy beyond her dreams. She wrote to and buttonholed a legion — clergymen, officials, politicians, Congressmen, educators, editors and even the White House. Within a year, Philadelphia's churches had fallen into line. Soon governors of various states were agreeing to an annual observance. Then Congress approved the idea of an annual Mothers Day—on the second Sunday in May, Miss Jarvis' choice of a date. In 1914, President Woodrow Wilson proclaimed the first official Mothers Day.

For a while, Anna was in control. She chose the official floral emblem, the carnation. It was her mother's favorite flower. Typically, however, she ignored the fact that carnations bloom outdoors in late summer, and was furious when, in the face of demand, florists raised the price of the greenhouse-forced flowers early in the year.

She ignored carnations then, and turned to celluloid badges, paying for them herself and distributing them to schools and churches.

Resolutely turning away from the fact that the public enjoyed giving gifts on Mothers Day, Miss Jarvis began to fight commercialization, and tried to take on the jewelers, the florists, the confectioners and the greeting card people who, she felt, were sully her project.

She incorporated herself as "The Mothers Day International Assn." (Although no one ever could find another member, she always spoke thereafter of "we") and firmly staked out the second Sunday in May as the association's own day.

IN 1923 New York's Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Sen. Royal S. Copeland and others planned a big Mothers Day celebration. Miss Jarvis, sensing some merchants' interest in the project, threatened to bring suit on a claimed violation of her copyright. The New Yorkers called the whole thing off.

A few years later, she tangled with Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, who had become associated with another mothers' organization which Miss Jarvis considered a rival.

Once she turned her guns on adult children who, she found, were sending cards to

New Club to Open Saturday

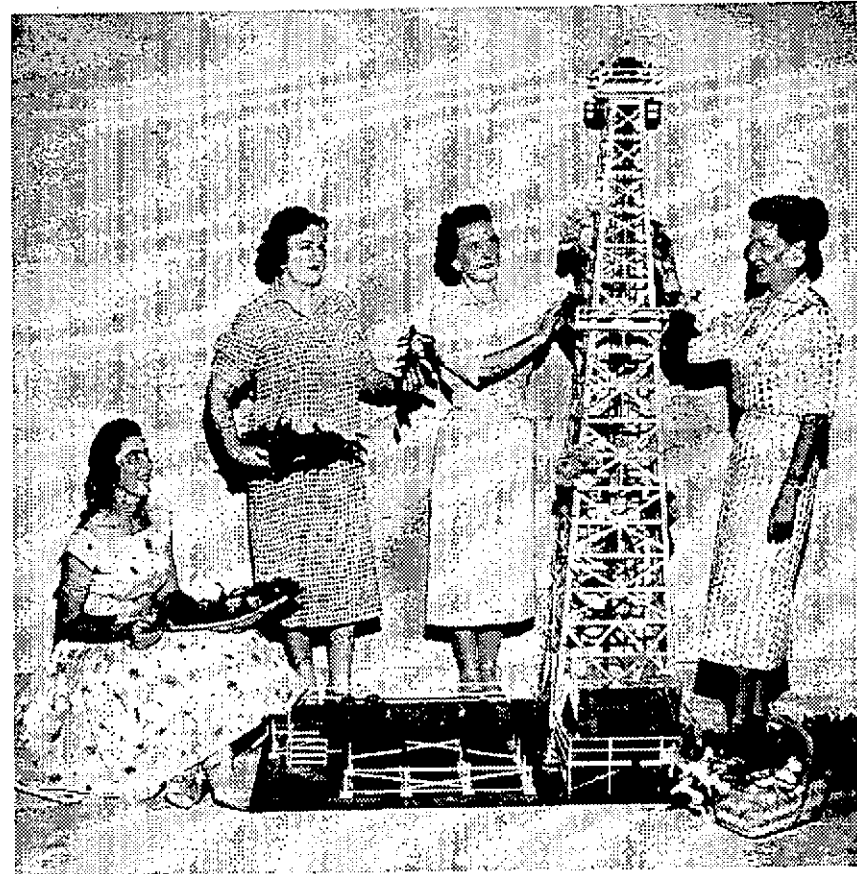

Months of planning and preparation have occupied the officers and directors of Petroleum Club of Long Beach in anticipation of the opening of their new club building at 36th St. and Locust Ave. With the help of the Wives Club, they will play host to the membership and guests at a dinner dance Saturday in celebration of the opening.

Rudy Vallee will serve as master of ceremonies to the formally attired gathering. Jimmy Talbert's Orchestra will play for dancing, featuring vocalist Kay Cee Jones. Also on the program will be a comedy vocal trio, the Happy Jesters, and The Albins, a dance team.

GUESTS will be presented mementoes of the occasion in the form of black laminated plastic ashtrays bearing an inlaid gold oil well showering gold dust over the Petroleum Club crest.

Mrs. W. T. Westergard, decorations chairman, and her committee have arranged table centerpieces of giant champagne glasses filled with fresh flowers from which will spring crystal bubbles.

Greeting guests as they arrive will be C. L. Fowler, president, Lee Foust, first vice president, and D. A. Boone, second vice president, with their wives.

PETROLEUM CLUB WIVES READY DECORATIONS

The Wild Waves Say

By IOLA MASTERSON

UP UNTIL yesterday it was known as Children's Benefit League. But new president Eunice Crail and her hospitable husband, Bill, changed all that—last night, at least—when they made it a league to benefit adults! And, boy, did they benefit!

Eunice and Bill entertained the league's board of directors and their husbands at a cocktail and buffet dinner party from 6 until 9 p. m. in their new home, 5630 El Parque. We doubt if there was anybody who didn't gain by at least three pounds thanks to the wonderful intake of high-calorie liquids and solids!

Assisting the hostess and the host were Dell and Ray Hosier and Kay and "Ev" Miller. Guests who studiously avoided thinking about the "moment of truth" they'd have to face this morning in an encounter with kill-joy weight machines, were Charlotte and Bruce Mitchell, Elsie and Bud Kerr, Dorothy and "Woody" Wilsey, Mickey and Cliff Halladay, Lucy and Erv Faber, Dorothy and George Watts, Amy and Ralph Thompson, Eloise and Dick Gripp and Katherine and Oliver Eaton.

Others not suffering from malnutrition today are Jean and Bob Hart, Madeleine and Joe Striegel, Anita and R. N. Frankel, Ruth and Merrill Austin, "Impy" and Bernie Pelton, Marian and John Henderson, Arlene and Clarence Klassen, Margaretta and George Johnstone, Sherry and Fred Long and Mary and Milt Jenkins.

THE LADY WHO is known as Lou—Mrs. Ray Peterson—is frequently thought of in the plural. Yep! She's considered a real lulu by her friends. Especially on days like tomorrow when she'll be hostess at a neighborhood party to welcome Los Cerritos newcomers Ferrel (Mrs. Richard) Schug and Eleanore (Mrs. Jim) Fosberg. (The Schugs are settled in their home on Devon Pl.—the Fosbergs will be moving into their new Country Club Dr. manse in a couple of weeks.)

Assisting tomorrow—it's to be a drop in brunch; a come when you can affair between 11 a. m. and 1—will be Lucille (Mrs. Cecil) Ridgway, Norma (Mrs. Fraser) Morrill, Natalie (Mrs. Edward) Stoll, Ann Harper, Ruth (Mrs. Kenneth) Sheller and Madeleine Frishman.

HERE IT IS only May and already we've got the darndest longing to hang a gone fishing sign on the door and follow the advice of that placard to the T. Meaning Tuna Club style! A merry mob of them flew down to Mazatlan for their annual six-day angling trip—and about half just forgot to come back! Mary and Dr. Julian Knutson, for instance, simply didn't reel in but put even heavier travel sinkers on their vacation lines and headed for Mexico City and Yucatan. Understand that Sybil and Al Beach did likewise with plans to meander through the streets of Mexico City and Acapulco. Geneva and Stan Weiss stayed on in Mazatlan to compete in a big tourney—an international one, we think.

Isadine and Ken McCall, the only ones who drove their car to Mazatlan (the others flew) stayed on to do some motor sight-seeing through scrape country. Others who fished, happily, and came home, reluctantly, were Ruby and Bart Kean, Phyllis and Dave Alcorn, Eve and Ed Harvey, Margaret and Marvin Davis, Marjory and Glenn Bracken, Myrtle and Herb Murphy, Katie and Harold Parks, Alice and Dr. Adrian Hubbell, Elaine and Dr. Mulford Smith, Nan and Roger Williams and Della and Bob Joy. Bob was chairman in charge of the local gang's arrangements and we were told he did such a good job the trip was really joyful!

BY NEXT FRIDAY afternoon Larry John's eyes should look like burned out coals in a deep bucket! He isn't going to get any sleep Thursday night. Not a wink. Larry, director of Community Players here, is responsible for the production and all the lighting effects of the Los Angeles annual Red Feather kick off luncheon program next Friday noon at the Statler Hotel—Angelville's combined charities drive. Thursday he'll work with the professional cast all through the night—the only time when they can get together to rehearse the variety show. This will be Larry's third year as producer of the big civic affair.

THERE'S A group of women bridge players in town who swear they were trouncing each other's aces before Culbertson had learned how to shuffle the cards! They were up to their old tricks and taking same Thursday as guests of member Fran Patch for luncheon and bidding at the Huntington Sheraton in Pasadena. Deck cutting partners were Lorraine Becker, Maude Pande, Kitty Cody, Irma Leebrecht, Opal Wilcox, Mary Underwood and Alta Williams.

SAN BERNARDINO has rocked with applause this week—and much of it has been for our own Millicent Rodgers who, in private life, is Mrs. Allen Graves of Garden Grove.

Just to "keep in practice" she took the part of Ruth in the musical comedy, "Plain and Fancy," spring production of the San Bernardino Civic Light Opera. Opening night (last Tuesday) she "stopped the show" four times as the audience cheered and clapped for her performance. Like Millicent, several cast members are professional songsters, and at least one was with the original New York troupe. Which makes Millicent's triumph that much more triumph! Practice? Hah! She needs it like Mary Martin!

LIKE freshly sharpened lawn mowers, Junior League President Dorothy Wiltse and co-delegate Jean Burdge haven't left a blade unturned as they cut a happy sightseeing swath through Washington, D. C., during their stay there at the J. L. national conference, which ended Friday. Both Dorothy's husband, Dr. Lee, and Jean's spouse, Jim, had good excuses to join their wives in the capital—Lee for some kind of a medical meeting and Jim on real estate business.

The local J.L.s have had tea with Ike in the White House; dinner with Pat and Dick in the Senate Chambers; they've looked J. Edgar Hoover straight in the eye (without flinching!); and have mingled with ambassadors, senators, State Dept. officials and the like morning, noon and night. Before they decide the grass really is greener on the other side of the fence we hope their mowers break!

WE THINK George and Bea Hart ought to re-christen their new boat, "The Joy," and from now on call it "The Pride and the Joy." It won the trophy for the L-36 class in the huge Ensenada sail boat race last weekend—the only Alamitos Bay Yacht Club craft to place among the winners! More of a feat than ever when you consider they had just launched it a few days before the race which gave captain and crew a mere finger snap's worth of time, in comparison, to learn the boat's idiosyncrasies before starting out on the long and competitive event. George waives all claim to any credit—says it belongs to good sailors Sid Exley, Dick Russell, Palmer Wentworth, Bill McCullough and his own young son, George, who formed the crew.

THE NICEST people are dummies sometimes. Like Iris Houssels guests Wednesday. Perfectly all right! They were playing bridge following luncheon!

DID YOU HEAR about the new slogan of engineers for a firm which builds outer space vehicles? "If it works it's obsolete!"

Mrs. Hubert J. Prichard

Mrs. Hubert J. Prichard accepted the gavel as chairman of the Long Beach Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Los Angeles County Medical Association Friday in a picturesque installation ceremony at Los Coyotes Country Club, preceding luncheon for members and their guests.

Serving with her will be Mmes. Maurice Rosenbaum, chairman-elect; Sidney Ellery, first vice chairman; Wayne Hanson, second vice chairman; Edward M. Platz, recording secretary; Clifford Cole, corresponding secretary, and Edward J. Wiater, treasurer.

Wife of a prominent Long Beach radiologist who is a former president of the Long Beach Branch of the Los Angeles County Medical Association, Mrs. Prichard has filled many offices in the auxiliary, and at present is a member of the advisory council for a professional nursing program.

The Choral Section of Woman's Music Club will present the Annual Spring Concert Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 in Ebel Auditorium, under direction of Arne Zahl, Mrs. Ross McPherson, accompanist.

The program will celebrate the club's golden anniversary and will include excerpts from the works of popular American composers produced within the past 50 years. The organ prelude will be played by Mrs. Robert P. West.

The Church Music Section meets in the morning at 11 o'clock in Room 1. For this final meeting Mrs. Rex Moon's topic is "The Life and Music of Wesley."

Luncheon at noon is in charge of the Galli Curci group, Mrs. C. B. Christopherson, chairman.

Red Cross Division Appointments Told

Mrs. Ernest Belcher, prominent in the social and civic life of Long Beach, has been named chairman of the Women's Division of the Long Beach Red Cross fund campaign for 1959 and assumed her new volunteer duties this month.

MRS. BELCHER SUCCEEDS Mrs. Frank Vessels, Jr., who is now terminating her work as chairman for 1958. Both are members of the Assistance League.

For many years a Red Cross campaign worker, Mrs. Belcher has served as a team captain and more recently as a colonel in the fund drive. Having served also as a colonel in the Community Chest drive, she is a veteran in this type of community endeavor.

Volunteer work is by no means new to the Belcher household. Ernest Belcher, member of the Long Beach Rotary Club, is president of the CVO and a member of both the local and state advisory boards for the Salvation Army.

Currently the Belchers are involved in wedding plans for their daughter, Patricia Joy, whose marriage to Douglas William Anderson of New York City will take place in July. She will receive her Master's degree in student guidance and counseling from Columbia University in June. Their son, Kerry, is in the Army Intelligence Service and presently is studying Russian at the Presidio in Monterey.

Story of Mothers Day

their mothers on Mothers Day. Anna felt they should write letters.

When she started on her crusade, she had a clerk's job with a Philadelphia insurance company. Soon she gave this up, and devoted her life to Mothers Day and to caring for a younger sister, Elsinore, who was blind. Soon the family home overflowed with her correspondence, and she bought the house next door to hold her files. One way or another, the small inheritance from her family was dissipated.

grew. Gradually she retreated from the world. She rarely left her home, her telephone number was unlisted. Her principal interests were her blind sister and tending her mother's grave.

ELSNORE died in 1944, and shortly afterwards it was found that Anna Jarvis herself was in desperate straits—blind, deaf and penniless. Acquaintances raised some money and had her moved to a sanitarium. She died on Nov. 24, 1948.

Mothers Day now is bigger than ever. It's ironic that Anna Jarvis, responsible for it all, died without sympathy for the whole affair.

As Mothers Day became bigger and more important, Miss Jarvis' disappointment

Molar Men, Wives 'Fill' Day With Fun

There was plenty of clowning around Wednesday when the molar men of town—the beuspud boys—and wives had their annual Dental Field Day at Lake-wood Country Club. We're told they had more fun than a three-ring circus.

Top this if you can. Bob McCoy, chairman of the day's shenanigans, played the first game of golf in his life—and WON Class C. Of course, he had a 32 handicap to trim his 122 gross score down to a 50.

The day wound up with a big, bountiful dinner and installation of new officers. Head tableites included Alberta and Eldor Sagehorn, new president and first lady, and Carolyn (wearing a yummy beige chiffon gown) and Jack Wooding, president-elect. Others spotted were Ruth and Eldon Bassett (she wore a dress in the most gorgeous shade of royal blue this side of Buckingham), Phyllis and B. M. Tylicki and the other golfing Tylicki, Jack and his wife, Martha, (in a stunning suit of rich silk woven in the Orient).

Eyes really swivelled when Billie and Bill Monfort came in and not because of Bill! She looked like a full page Vogue ad in motion—wearing a short, white, high style chemise and white shoes trimmed with red roses. Mary Soules, president of the women's auxiliary, was there with husband, Bob.

Add to the day-long party-mates: Jan and Joe Nolan, Udell and Gerald Green, Marian and Cal Garverick, Joan and Bill Dummitt, Mary and Bob Jensen, Jackie and Paul Ash, Ruth and Frank Blair, Ann and Earl Hershman, Marian and Len Hyman, Irene and Paul Hillinger and Gon and Phil Erdahl. And, of course, Joyce McCoy, Eve Harvey (chairman of the women's luncheon), and Freda Dunwoodie.

Most memorable moment: The look of pride, surprise and joy in Winifred Morris' expressive eyes when husband, Harold, was named the dentists' man of the year.

Paula Chace to Wed

Of special interest today to their many friends in the Southland is the formal announcement by Supervisor and Mrs. Burton W. Chace of the betrothal of their daughter, Paula Cathleen, to Ralph W. Irwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Irwin, 3830 Myrtle Ave. The prominent young people, both seniors at USC, plan to marry Sept. 7.

A Maytime tea was given last Sunday in the Chace home, 4160 Country Club Dr., when asked to call were girlhood friends and schoolmates of Paula and her sister, Coni (Mrs. V. Ray Townsend Jr.), and their mothers. This past week Paula told the romantic news to her Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority sisters on campus.

As guests arrived at the tea they were greeted and presented with a pair of silver wedding rings tied with white satin ribbon on which were inscribed "Ralph and Paula—Sept. 7, 1958." Passing out the announcements were Misses Susan Irwin, Pamela Chace, Susan Ward and Jeanne Graham.

MRS. RALPH IRWIN was presented to each guest by the hostess. Assisting hostesses during the afternoon were Misses T. R. Swenson, George Calderwood, E. J. Ballantyne, Edward F. Baker, William Dovey, Karl Ward, Morgan Stivers, Eugene Chace, Marjorie Solace and C. Kenyon Wells.

A beautiful antique silver service which belonged to the bride-elect's great-great grandmother, was placed at one end of the long dining room table. Covering the table was a four-layered white nylon net cloth gathered at the hem with blue satin ribbon; each bow was centered with a white blossom. The crystal chandelier above the table was wound with freesia and lilac and one of the sideboards held a bouquet of white peach blossoms from the Chace's garden, interspersed with syringa. Two Italian cherub statues in white and gold flanked another sideboard and the round mirror above it was framed with white nylon net encircled with white camellias.

A huge silver punchbowl in the fun room centered a round table covered with deeply ruffled pale yellow organdy cloth. Presiding there were Mrs. Don K. Wells, Misses Mary Calderwood, Judy Rupert, Lois Baker, Patsy Ziegler of Los Angeles and Barbara Tuckey of LaCanada.

Guests entered the garden from wide glass doors off this room and were seated at tables covered with yellow organdy and centered by ceramic gondolas and cupid gondollers. Inside each was a miniature bride and bridegroom. One gilded bird cage in the garden hid a loud speaker which carried soft music throughout the tea hours. On its top perched two doves. Other cages were interwoven with fresh green ivy on which bright birds, butterflies and bees rested.

OTHER DECOR throughout the home included white lilacs and syringa laced through the stairway railing. A white heart frame of tulle over the fireplace in the living room held the pictures of the young pair. White doves appeared to be holding the fringe in their beaks from the white satin streamers.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Polytechnic High School where she was a member of Scholarship Society and Phi Gamma Chi. At USC she is affiliated also with Zeta Phi Eta, speech fraternity, and treasurer of the YWCA.

Her fiancé is a graduate of Wilson High School where he played on the golf team for three years and on the winning CIF title team. He was named to the All-City Golf Team at USC and was winner of the Fraternity Golf Tournament. He is affiliated with Delta Tau Delta and is a member of Trojan Knight.

Other officers are Fern Tessiere, deputy grand lady; Marge Smickel, chancellor; June Duffy, advocate; Mary Lou Martinez, treasurer; Gloria Weitbrock, financial secretary; Elizabeth Dugan, recorder; Novella Schulte, Kathryn Gross and Kathryn Yancey, sentinels; Eleanor Zigan, Mona Dalpiat and Ruth Lubner, trustees.

Shower Opens Festivities for Joanne Wall

A miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Leo P. Glaab and Mrs. Lois Glaab, 2621 Spaulding St., and Mrs. John Glaab of Anaheim, initiated a series of pre-nuptial parties for Joanne Wall, who will become the bride of Arthur Smith May 24 in Wayfare's Chapel.

Guests entered a door adorned with a pink parasol filled with nosegays, and placed gifts around a tree of pink and white wedding bells.

Misses Joe Anthony, Lois Glaab, Bruce Waller, John Glaab and Lee Shuff modeled wedding gowns which dated from the Roaring 20s. The bridal fashion show was climaxed by a 1958 gown worn by Miss Suzanne Royer. Little Kathy Glaab was flower girl.

SPECIAL GUESTS were Mrs. Cliff Wall, mother of the bride-elect, and Mrs. Ann Smith, mother of the prospective bridegroom.

Red Cross Nursing Service to Receive Special Tribute

The American Red Cross Nursing Service came into being 53 years ago with the appointment of Jane Delano of New York's Bellevue Hospital as director of the program. This historic event will be commemorated at the annual meeting of the Long Beach Red Cross Nursing Service Thursday at 7:30 p.m. to be conducted at the Long Beach Red Cross Chapter House, 319 W. Broadway.

TO RECREATE the event local nursing service members will present a skit to underscore not only facts of the founding, but the subsequent value of the corps to this nation through the years. Miss Gean Mathwig, chairman of nurse enrollment, will introduce cast members Mrs. Charles Butler, Mrs. Ethel Finnigan and Miss Mary Forbes.

Miss Mabel Crossley, chairman of nursing services for Long Beach Red Cross, is in charge of the evening. Mrs. Earl Vertrees, chairman of volunteers, will make a major contribution to the program as she brings a message to the nurses from Dr. Malcolm Todd, chairman of the board of directors of the local RC chapter.

FIVE NURSES will be enrolled in the National Red Cross Nursing Service. All professional nurses who now offer their services as volunteers, those to be welcomed

L.B. Couple Observes 57th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hendryx Jackson were the honored guests at an open house and 57th wedding anniversary party May 4 in their new home at 3920 Lime Ave.

The combination housewarming-anniversary observance was given by their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Culbert Jackson, and their daughter, Miss Carolyn Jackson.

THE COUPLE'S grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald C. Jackson, and great-grandchildren, Cheri Marie and Scott Edward Jackson, assisted the hosts.

Gold carnations decorated the tea table adorned with a wedding cake and punchbowl.

The Jacksons were among the first young couples to be married in 1901 in First Methodist Church, then located at 5th St. and Pine Ave. Except for a three-month trip east in 1929, they have not left Long Beach for any length of time.

Jackson was graduated in pharmacy from Purdue University, Ind., and had the second drug store in Long Beach. It was located at 139 Pine Ave., and he paid $15 a month rent. Later the same location rented for $1,000 a month.

HE WAS living in Long Beach when the town was re-incorporated. At that time the population was about 500, he recalls.

Jackson is the only living charter member of the Sons of Veterans of the Civil War. He was commander here three years ago.

Mrs. Jackson is the only living charter member of Ebell of Long Beach. Her

Days of Forty-Niners

LONG BEACH STATE COLLEGE EVENTS

by PLACER MINER

Tuesday and Thursday seem to be the busiest days at Long Beach State College in the week ahead.

Tuesday noon, the El Camino JC Choir and Madrigal Singers will visit the campus for a concert in the Little Theater. An extremely varied program, ranging from an excerpt from Bach's "B-Minor Mass" to "Bye, Bye, Blues," is in the offing, and judging from the amount of interest exhibited so far, this concert will definitely hang out the SRO sign early.

At 2 p.m. Califias (women's honorary service group) will help open house in the Soroptimist House. Invitations have been mailed to all LBSC organizations who have coeds among them, and the open house will serve to orientate these potential members on such items as grade points, service hours, and activities pertinent to the group.

Califias currently has 24 girls, according to President Pat Tully, and wants to add "quite a few new members" to the list. Aggie Kronic and Phyllis Hankins are in charge of Tuesday's program.

CALIFIAS RECENTLY finished a project, suggested by Carolyn Poyet who is a volunteer worker at the Veterans Hospital, of making cartoon books for the hospitalized veterans just across the fence from Long Beach State.

On the calendar are two items: an exchange and pot luck dinner with their male counterparts in the honorary, service field—the Statesman, with time and place still undecided; and tapping new members at the AWS Brunch early in June.

Then, that same day at 6:30 p.m., the College Religious Council will host the several different religious clubs at State at a potluck dinner in the same Soroptimist House. About 60 persons are expected to be on hand, with the ensuing program centering around a "Panel of Americans" from UCLA. CRC moderator Bob Ennis, is handling the details.

THURSDAY NOON in Classroom 139 the last "This I Believe" lecture of the current school year will be given. The College Religious Council sponsors this series of talks wherein members of the faculty present their philosophy and beliefs. Dr. Arlene Roster of the educational staff is the speaker.

And a few hours later in the gymnasium, another last affair of the year: the final in the series of Co-Rec (Coeducational Recreation) Nights. Three hours of volleyball, badminton, ping-pong, and dancing will begin at 7:30 p.m. Admission is free, come stag or drag, and there will be free refreshments. Social Commissioners Nellie Bell (outgoing) and Bob Swansbrough (incoming) are handling the details of this one.

AND ON FRIDAY NIGHT, in the Recreation Park Club-house, there is the Associated Women Students' "Speak Easy Swing." Starts at 7:30, we are told in a little communique which goes on to say: "Be sure and wear a disguise in case of a raid."

Can't close without commenting on the seeming troubles of one of our coed readers. "If you ever write a column on

He belongs to Sigma Gamma Epsilon, honorary geology fraternity and was affiliated with Pi Kappa Phi at the University of California at Berkeley.

Flower Show Saturday by Garden Club

Lakewood Garden Club will stage its annual "Melody in Flowers" flower show, Saturday from 2 to 8 p.m. in Mayfair Park, Clark and South Sts.

A queen and princess will reign over the show and all ladies will be presented with orchids flown from Hawaii.

Entries, which are free and open to any amateur, will be received on the morning of the show from 8 to 11 a.m. Plants must have been in the owner's gardens at least three months prior to the show; exhibitors are requested to name plants, giving botanical names if possible. All garden clubs are especially invited to enter; commercial growers and hobbyists also are welcome but will be judged separately.

Entries may be made in these divisions: roses, cut flowers, arrangements, potted plants, tropicals, hobbyists and commercial, clubs, and corsages.

Long Beach Camp 3822, Royal Neighbors of America, will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. at 728 Elm Ave. with Sue Denkmann conducting the short business meeting. Gladys Bender is chairman of the social hour.

A white tree adorned with pink flowers and miniature kitchen utensils set the party theme. A pink and white cake, bearing the inscription, "For Kathy's Kitchen," was centered in front of a bouquet of white gladioli and pink roses on the dining table.

Complimenting the bride-to-be were Meses. Ivy Johnson, George Lake, V. L. King, Misses Virginia Vasey, Nancy Herts, Marlys Coon, Mary Tschernay, Mary Lou Drummond, Phyllis Holtz, Patricia Blacker, Sharon Dargavel, Mary K. Ryan and Shirley Endo.

Osteopathic Auxiliary Names Conclave Delegate

Carole Idris Fell to Marry Aug. 24 Dear Abby

Mr. and Mrs. Irwin D. Fell of Long Beach revealed news of the engagement of their daughter, Carole Idris, to Charles Barry Simmons, at an announcement party in the home of Mrs. William E. Fell, 5850 Barrios St., aunt of the bride-elect.

Table appointments, in keeping with the romantic theme, featured a heart centerpiece edged with white and light blue net, and a miniature bride and groom.

Miss Fell was a member of Thalia at Polytechnic High School; of Mahabharata, Kassai, AWS advisory board and a one-jewel award winner at Long Beach City College. She completed her education at UCLA. Miss Fell is a past honored queen of Job's Daughters, Bethel 6.

Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde W. Simmons of Seal Beach, was chosen Boys' State representative from Huntington Beach High School. He attended Long Beach City College and Long Beach State College, where he affiliated with Acacia fraternity. He is continuing his education on the Naval Shipyard program for future engineers and naval architects.

Bullfighting Is Taboo Here

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: When that young girl wrote you and asked if she should become a lady bull-fighter, I am glad you discouraged her.

Doesn't this girl know that while bull-fighters appear to be brave and glamorous in their costumes, they are cowards, fighting animals who have been tortured until they are mad and vicious? There is no real "sport" involved. There are many careers that offer glamour, excitement and adventure without the cruelty of torturing animals for the amusement of on-lookers. If you share my viewpoint, I hope to see this in print.—B.F.S.

considerate people anyone could imagine. They interrupt our conversations with wise cracks and once the missus broke in on me saying they had to have the line for an "emergency" call and then she called up her grocer. Another time they left the phone off the hook and we could hear the whole "Playhouse 90" program which took an hour and a half. Do you think if we complained to the telephone company they would do anything about it? My friends say they won't.—IMPOSED UPON

DEAR IMPOSED: Your friends are misinformed. Notify the telephone company.

DEAR MISS VAN BUREN: The "vet" who told you that people do not get diseases from dogs, but dogs get diseases from people had better go back to school. Dogs are reservoirs of: Leptospirosis, Canine, Leptospirosis, icterohemorrhagiae, Leishmania donovani, Echinococcus granulosum, Microsporidium canis (lanosum), Ctenocephalides canis and Dipylidium caninum, all of which cause diseases which can be transmitted from dog to man. Very truly yours.—ANOTHER "VET"

CONFIDENTIAL TO "GOING PLACES": Be nice to people on your way up—you'll probably meet them again—on your way down!

DEAR ABBY: I want to know if it is proper for a girl to ask a fellow where he intends to take her when he calls her up and asks for a date? I feel embarrassed to ask and then I start worrying about what to wear. I usually guess wrong and dress

Arthur Carah will lead the business meeting.

The club was founded in 1928 with a membership of 64. Thirteen charter members are still active.

DEAR B.F.S.: By American standards, bullfighting is considered inhumane, and is not permitted here. Of course I share your viewpoint, and I'm sure we have plenty of company.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with a man for three years. We aren't kids as I'm 46 and he's 50. He is the type who thinks everything over a long time and he doesn't like to be rushed. He told me he will marry me when the weather clears up. My friends tell me he is wasting my time. I am not getting any younger. How can I close this deal?—ANXIOUS

DEAR ANXIOUS: Don't stand on ceremonies. Tell him you have marriage in mind and ask him what's on his mind.

tion picture industry, the new exhibition follows "Arts of Southern California I—Architecture" in the Museum last June and "II—Painting" last January.

Set designs, models, watercolors, drawings, costume sketches and plastic models show the work of illustrators, designers and sculptors at MGM, 20th Century Fox and UFA studios.

Included are David Hall illustrations for "Ben Hur"; 9-foot tall backings of Seurat's "La Grande Jatte"; set models for "South Pacific"; set models for "A Certain Smile"; and drawing sequences for the animated cartoon "Love Comes to Mr. Magoo."

"Art in Film" will tour leading museums and art galleries of the nation.

The Bettina Brendel exhibition represents the seventh in a series of one-man shows presented at the museum since last September. Other artists whose works have been seen are Ben Messick, Lucille Brown Greene, William McEnroe, Nels Y. Nelson, Frode Dann and J. Patrick MacLean.

Miss Brendel, trained in Hamburg and Munich, has exhibited in the Esther Robles Gallery, the National Orange Show, Chaffey Invitational Exhibition and in the Los Angeles County Museum. Her work is represented in the Long Beach Museum of Art collection.

The four exhibitions will be on display through June 1. The museum is open daily Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Friday evenings 7:30 to 10, and Sunday 1 to 5 p.m. Admission is free.

"METAMORPHOSIS," oil and encaustic by Fran Solini, 5611 E. Ocean Blvd., has been accepted for the 1958 annual exhibition. Artists of Los Angeles and vicinity May 21-June 29 in the Los Angeles County Museum, Exposition Park, 900 Exposition Blvd., Los Angeles.

The painting is a horizontal panel in soft iridescent grays shading to brown. The free form suggests the evolution of fish. Museum critics said the painting reminds them of old Egyptian fresco.

LELA SARNOW-ADAMS has a one-man show in the Hacienda Hotel, 301 S. Western St., San Pedro, through May. The show is sponsored by the San Pedro Art Assn. Mrs. Adams has been a student of the Long Beach Academy of Art four years and has participated in numerous local exhibitions.

A BLUE STAR SAPHIRE Madonna presented to the Pasadena Art Museum last week, will remain on display during the May Festival at the museum, 45 N. Los Robles Ave., Pasadena. Reception, lectures, art films, and music make up the festival program.

Heretofore I have told of the great singers, conductors and instrumentalists I have met and known. Today I want to tell about a great composer with whom I spent a happy afternoon recently. His name is Dr. Richard Hageman and he lives in a charming house in Beverly Hills.

I suppose there is not a concert singer today who has not included on his program at least one Hageman song. The ones I love the best and have used the most are "Do Not Go My Love," "At the Well," "Music I Heard With You" and "Miranda."

They are beautiful songs and will live forever. Although Dr. Hageman is 76 years old he is still writing lovely songs. He showed me four just back from G. Schirmer, publisher. They are entitled "The City," "Beggar's Love," "At Heaven's Door" and "Oh, Lovely World."

IN WHO'S WHO, Dr. Hageman is listed as composer, pianist. This gifted gentleman was born in Holland on July 9, 1882. His father was the director of the Amsterdam Conservatory and when Richard was just a little boy of six the father would have him play the piano two hours every evening, reading everything available and oftentimes accompanying his father who was a fine violinist. In fact, his father as a young man in Amsterdam had won a first prize in piano and violin all in the same year at the Conservatory.

So, with such a background, it is not so astonishing to see young Richard a pupil at the Brussels Conservatory at the age of 10, where he remained for four years. And at 15 he was an assistant conductor at the Royal Opera of Amsterdam.

Most "oaks from little acorns grow," but with Richard Hageman the great oaks of success seem never to have

THE ARTIST AND HIS WORK

Ron Adkins, 18-year-old Jordan High School senior, puts the finishing touches to his cubistic tempera painting of "The Last Supper," displayed in the Jordan art exhibit.

Jordan High Mural Arousing Comment

"The Last Supper," painted in abstract, cubistic form by Ron Adkins, 18, Jordan senior, attracted considerable attention at the second annual art exhibit in the Jordan High School library.

Taking the advice of his mother to produce an abstract with a religious subject, Ron worked with the original Da Vinci masterpiece in mind. Ron has painted three "Last Supper" murals. The first was accidentally destroyed. The second won a $100 scholarship in competition at the California Federation of Women's Clubs convention in Sacramento. The third, in orange, gray, black and brown tempera tones appeared in the art show.

AWARE OF the controversy concerning the mural, Ron explains: "The theme is sincere in its attempt to hold the spirit of God within its structure, while reaching into a vast new field of theories and form in art. The form combines with the dynamic subject matter to excite deep human emotions."

Ron, 5373 Rose Ave., intends to follow art as a career. He has been responsible for many decorations, sets and scenes used in Jordan presentations.

The Jordan art exhibit also included Jim Chandler's Swedish modern chair, which won fourth place in the Ford Motor Co. industrial arts competition in Detroit; miniature houses by Ken Short and Bill Royce; paintings, sketches, fashion illustrations, furniture interiors, photographs, cartoons, ceramics and tile portraits.

SOMETHING FOR THE BOYS

Mind Your Manners South of the Border!

By TED KREC

Vacation time is coming up fast, and soon John Q. Tourist and family will be hitting the road for the annual journey. Mary will head south of the border, and I'd like to say a few words about this today.

Three years ago my wife and I drove to Mexico City. I came back with a new appreciation for our Latin neighbors and a rather painful opinion of American tourists.

To begin with, the Mexican people have certain taboos on clothing. They do not like to see women wearing shorts or slacks in public places. There is a certain formality about dress in Mexico, and our neighbors to the south are quite sensitive about it.

They will go all-out to be friendly and helpful, but they take a dim view of the proceedings when their social standards are violated.

BUT LET'S get down to cases. My wife and I found a charming little restaurant near Los Mochis and were enjoying our lunch thoroughly. The waiter was a wonderful little guy who knew just enough English to be delightful. He wore a wide smile beneath his full mustache, and we were having a fine time. Then disaster struck.

A bus pulled up outside—full of American tourists. In they came, bringing their astrology and comic books with them. The women were dressed sloppily — many in shorts and slacks — and I didn't see one man in a coat. They just took over the place — shouting at our little friend as though he were some sort of uncomprehending animal. One big fat slob with a flowered sport shirt outside of his trousers finally wound it up.

He started calling the waiter "Senor Spaghetti", and suddenly there was no more fun in the place for me. "Let's go," I said to my wife, "before I hit that big dumb codd right in the nose!" So we left.

Why do they do this? That's easy. Take a man going to Mexico with $200 spending money. When he gets there he finds that, due to the rate of exchange, his money has purchasing power of $2,400 in Mexico. The people in Mexico have very little — so our friend feels most superior. He looks with scorn on these "backward" people (who have been in America since before Columbus).

"After all," the American tourist will tell you, "we're AMERICANS! We do things differently." In other words, Americans are SUPERMEN (Adolf Hitler please note, wherever you may be). Americans can do no wrong. That's why the women wear shorts and slacks and the men go coatless despite the Mexican taboos. That's why they go into fashionable Mexico City restaurants wearing garish attire and browbeat-ing the help. They're Americans — so that excuses it.

In my opinion nothing excuses bad manners. If someone came to your house, wiped his greasy hands on your draperies and threw trash on the floor, you'd be annoyed — even if the person told you he always did that at home.

YET MANY tourists from the United States do practically the same thing when they go to Mexico. By violating the Mexican clothing codes and traditions they are, indeed, mighty poor guests.

Another case in point—the Mexicans are very religious and their shrines and cathedrals are sacred to them. They ask that women cover their heads. Few American women do, despite the fact that all they have to do is don a scarf. They're too busy telling their husbands (dressed like tasteless hoboes) to "snap another picture of the altar! That's purty!"

I'd better wind this up before I get really violent—but I'd just like to say that if some of these weirdly dressed, loud-mouthed rubes would just open their eyes to things besides their own creature comforts, they would note that Mexican businessmen are gentlemen and they ALWAYS wear coats in public.

And now maybe you'll understand why Americans' manners occasionally land them in Mexican jails. I don't feel sorry for them—I feel sorry for the Mexicans who are insulted so roundly and I admire their perseverance for bearing such a heavy load for so long.

Southland Ballet at Ebell Meet

After long hoping for a ballet company to appear on its program, Ebell of Long Beach will realize its ambition Monday when the curtains open on the exciting new Southern California Ballet Co.

The company is directed by Joseph Rickard, who has produced many dancers for leading ballet companies. His imagination, intensity and power of choreography have received critics' plaudits.

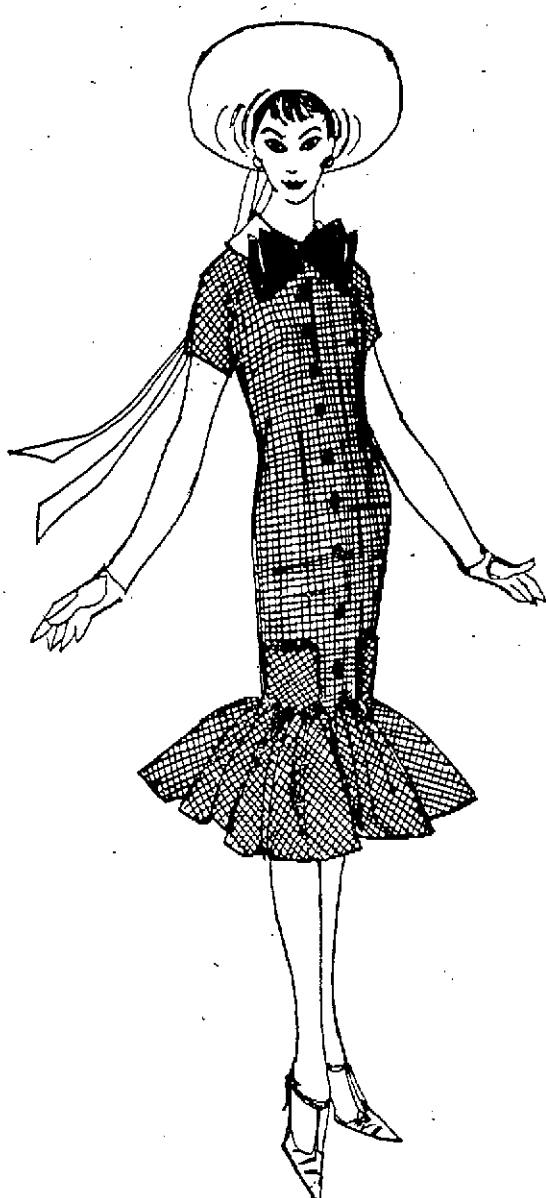

While dancers in the company are all now residents of Southern California, their talents have been displayed as far as Broadway, the New York City Ballet and San Francisco Ballet. They have appeared in the Southland's theaters and bowls, motion pictures and television.

BEAUTIFUL costumes and effective lighting will add to the effectiveness of "Beauty and the Beast," "The Sea," and "Brahms Rhapsody" which will be danced Monday in the club auditorium after a 1:30 meeting led by Mrs. Arthur F. Bonzer, president. Rickard and his dancers will be introduced by Mrs. Arthur A. Knoll, program chairman.

Noon luncheon will be served by Group JJ, Mrs. B. J. Quinn, chairman. Members of the ways and means committee, as well as group chairmen will be presented at the business gathering.

The evening program at 7 p. m. will feature readings by the Chaparral Verse Choir and a play written by Eugene Lundholm and his assistants. All three sessions are open to the public.

The next day will be devoted to committee meetings and sightseeing in the Long Beach area. The federation has chartered the Shearwater for the harbor cruise Sunday.

Percent Play Keeps Loss to Minimum

In today's hand, Marshall Miles covers an interesting duplicate situation.

You are South and have made a sound non-vulnerable overcall. You now find yourself in four spades doubled. You are sure from the bidding that the ace of diamonds is held by East so you count two diamond and three club losers. If you also lose a trump trick you will be down 500 for a very bad duplicate score.

You also note that East and West will play some heart contract at most other tables and will be unable to make four hearts if each one holds two spades. Hence, the only chance to get a decent duplicate score is to go down only two tricks against an uneven break in trumps.

If any one is going to hold three trumps it will be East. Then what is the best percentage play to keep from losing a trump trick?

The play is to get to dummy by ruffing a heart and to lead the spade jack. If this loses to a singleton queen you look like an idiot. If West's singleton is any one of the other three spades you lose no spade trick. You may have to go back to dummy again but there is another heart to ruff and you have plenty of time.

Instructor Will Speak

John Gartner, writer and journalism instructor at Long Beach City College, will discuss writing and marketing stories and articles as well as other problems confronting a writer at a meeting Wednesday of the Long Beach area group of Theta Sigma Phi, national fraternity for women in journalism.

The gathering will take place at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Glenn A. Wintermute, 5757 Deborah St. The hostess, a former pupil of Gartner's, will introduce him to members and their guests.

Neighbor 'Annexes' Hubby

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have a neighbor, a close friend of mine (or was), who truly is getting under my skin. Lately her husband has been away quite often on business trips—so she virtually has annexed my husband.

She'll wait until she sees his car pull into the drive, then over she'll dash with some excuse that she wants his advice. Or will he come over and help her fix a fuse, or what would we say to a cozy threesome for the movies tonight?

If I say I don't have a babysitter, or it's too late to get one, then she'll chirp, "Well, what about your taking me, Charles?"

And Charles, being the typical male, falls for it and fawns on her. I told him the other day if he didn't start putting her in her place, I would, and right now I'm just spoiling for a fracas!

What do you advise me to do?

ANGRY ANNE

DEAR ANGRY ANNE:

For one thing, I'd lay down the law to hubby that no movies alone with this neighbor gal is the order of the day. And, if he pays no heed, I'd lay down the law to her, and in front of her husband, too.

Secondly, I'd spoil this grasping female's blandishment by interrupting her act right in the middle. As often as seemed feasible I'd plead, "Sorry, you'll have to excuse us, WE'RE busy right now," or some such. I've seen examples of what these fawning, overly-friendly females can do that would make your hair stand on end. There's certainly no point in letting this one take advantage of Charles' "typical maleness!"—M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

What would you do with a 16-year-old daughter who flirts with every elderly gentleman her father brings to the house?

We have scolded her repeatedly about this, and she just laughs and says she's practicing her "wiles" on the old codgers, and that it's simply to keep in practice, or polish her technique. You can imagine how embarrassing this is to her father and me, for some of these older gentlemen seem to take the child seriously.

I do hate to see them made such fools of.

LAVONA

DEAR LAVONA:

Why that little she-devil! She ought to be plunked across Papa's knee and paddled.

But maybe it would be better to make her feel ridiculous. If you remarked casually at intervals how atrociously silly she seems to the guests, and infer that this act brands her as a real stupid sweet 16, she might begin to feel that her tactics are not so smart, after all.

Sixteensters cannot stand to be ridiculed, you know. M.M.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

Pat Horgan Lives a Very Busy Life!

By MILDRED K. FLANARY

Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

His theory is that a man should look as if he had been assembled casually—not added up on purpose. For instance... Chef of the Week Patrick M. (Pat) Horgan can't be too bothered if there's a bit of a clash between the necktie and the sock. They're worn on opposite ends, says he.

This lapse in color does not apply to his brand new trailer, however. It was green and his car was blue, which jarred his esthetic taste no little. The trailer now is a soft, smooth, elegant blue.

Pat is a native Californian. He started out in Concord, moved to Oxnard at the age of 7, and to Wilmington in 1922. He attended Banning High School and USC School of Pharmacy, from which he was graduated with a degree. To make his four years at college even more interesting, he "slung" hash for his lunch—served as house manager for his lodging; and for incidentals, he worked in a drug store nights and Saturdays. He made it, though, and with flying colors.

FOLLOWING graduation he did his pharmacy apprenticeship with a local drug store before going on the road for a large drug firm. This venture was interrupted by World War II, and for the next four years he wore the Navy blues—serving with an underwater demolition outfit. His underwater experiences were many, varied and hazardous, but they merited him a Silver Star, presented to him by Adm. Nimitz.

With his discharge came the awareness that it was time to become his own boss. He bought his own store, and ever since emblazoned above the new and modern building at 14th St. and Cherry Ave. are the words, "Horgan's Pharmacy."

Horgan finds time to be engaged actively in the doings of the Long Beach Drug Assn., the Knights of Columbus, the Catholic Welfare and the Newman Club. He also belongs to the Signal Hill Lions Club, and serves as secretary of the DDD (doctors, druggists and dentists group.)

His son and daughter, 7 and 12, respectively—his golf clubs and his fishing pole all vie for his stolen moments. Oh, yes, his trailer comes in for much attention, too. It provides an outlet for his puttering propensities—none of which he ever had evidenced before.

Our "chef" leads a busy, yet interesting life, with at least a dozen irons in the fire at one time. Mrs. Horgan usually is standing by to accept a hot one, should several become "hot-up" at one time. His recipe is for spaghetti — "the best you've ever eaten."

ITALIAN SPAGHETTI
Cook long, bulk type spaghetti (about 1 lb.) in extra large kettle, separating with fork as it cooks. When tender, add a little cold water to the kettle, and then drain.

SPAGHETTI SAUCE (mild)

1 can tomato sauce
1 large can solid pack tomatoes (put tomatoes thru sieve and discard pulp)
1 large onion
2 tblsp. olive oil
Salt and coarsely ground pepper

Saute onion in olive oil. Add tomatoes and tomato sauce, salt and generous amount of pepper. Simmer four to five hours. Ground meat or meat balls may be simmered in sauce. Serve over cooked spaghetti and sprinkle with (home grated) Parmesan cheese.

Long Beach Navy Wives Club 1 will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Savannah Gardens Clubhouse. Mrs. Harold Koch will preside. All Navy wives are invited to attend.

Work To Start Soon On Big Harbor Building

Real Estate and BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Independent-Press-Telegram

SUNDAY, MAY 11, 1958

SECTION R

To Erect 7-Story Structure

Construction of the seven-story Long Beach Harbor Department administration building on the easterly extension of Pier A will get under way late this month, Noble Millie and Severson Contractors, announced Saturday. The firm will build the $3,000,000 office building as a joint venture with C. L. Peck, Los Angeles contractor.

Huge trucks are now making a fill in the area, hauling in tons of earth, and when completed the ground breaking ceremony will be staged and work will be launched.

Inadequate to house the huge growth in Harbor Department personnel necessitated by the expansion and big increase in business of the harbor, the familiar old Mediterranean style building at 1331 El Embarcadero will be abandoned for the towering new structure in efficient contemporary styling.

By late next year the country's most modern port will have its most modern administration building.

Months of collaboration with Harbor Department officials and commissioners enabled Architects Warren Dedrick and James R. Friend to prepare drawings to house all of the departments' requirements in a compact, highly workable structure.

OVER THE YEARS the harbor area has been mute host to many unusual and major construction projects. The erection of the Administration building will be no exception to that tradition in that it will be the largest office type building in the vicinity.

A 10-acre site was reserved for the project even though the building proper will occupy but a small area. Considerable space has been allocated for parking. A network of secondary, service-type roads will surround the lot for safe traffic patterns. Unpaved portions of the site will be landscaped, hundreds of trees and plants will add a green, park like atmosphere to the otherwise stark, dock type surroundings.

APPROACH TO THE principal entrance will be across a broad esplanade more than 100 feet square, simply treated with colored, exposed pebble paving and a few benches and planting areas.

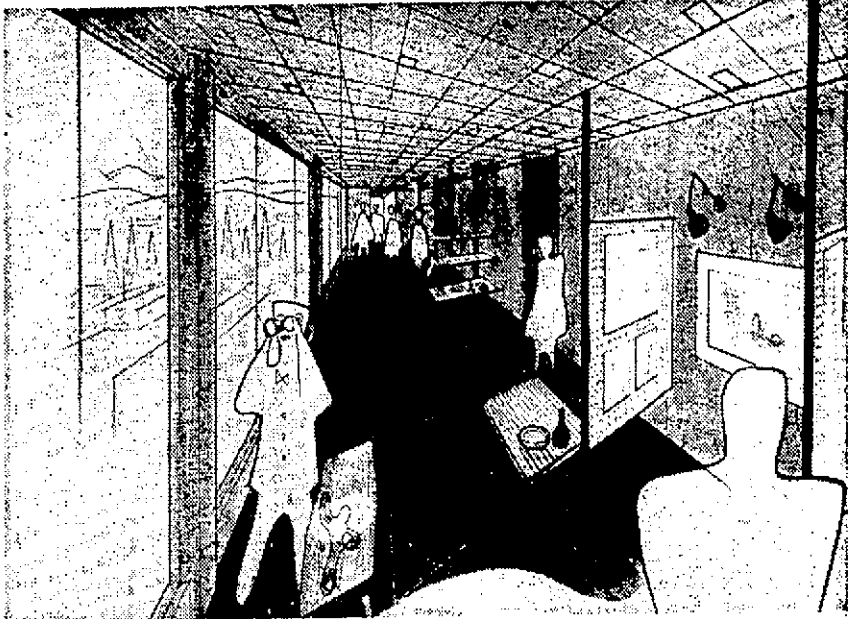

At the end of the esplanade will be a 17 feet by 75 feet tile mural, the image of which will be reflected in an adjacent shallow pool. Nearly 500 large size pieces of clay tile will be hand painted, then fired in ovens to permanently reproduce in brilliant color a mural that is intended to tell at a glance the major history of the Long Beach Harbor.

The mural wall will be illuminated at night by lights secreted in the bottom of the reflecting pool.

A SPLIT ENTRANCE will bring visitors around either side of the reflecting pool into the building lobby and directly to the elevators. Other portions of the ground floor will house the utility and service requirements as well as a garage.

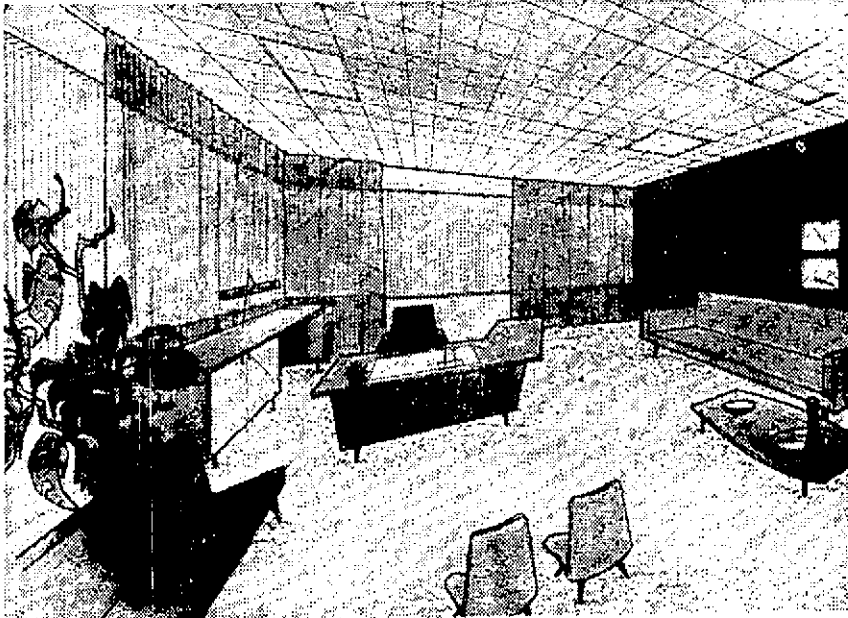

INCORPORATED WITHIN are facilities to suit the principal divisions of the Harbor Department including administrative, engineering, petroleum, and accounting sections. A single floor is given over to the Long Beach Oil Development Co. that directs much oil activity in the area. Three high speed elevators will whisk passengers to the various floors.

The sixth floor board room will be the scene of public functions.

VIEWING GALLERY FEATURED

One outstanding feature of the new Harbor Department building will be the glass enclosed viewing gallery. From it visitors can see all over the harbor. There also will be displays of foreign imports in the gallery. It will be on the sixth floor.

GENERAL MANAGER'S OFFICE

Showing the spaciousness of the big building, this will be the office of the general manager of the port. It will be on the sixth floor of the seven-story structure.

To insure ideal hearing and sight all walls of the 40 by 90 room will be slightly curved, and a high acoustically treated ceiling provided.

Adjacent to the Board Room will be a 100 foot long exhibition gallery, providing a view of the entire harbor area. The gallery will also be used to display various imports and exports together with other items of general interest.

THE BUILDING will be of steel frame construction. The exterior will have a skin of ceramic tile set on a pre-cast concrete backing. The smooth tile face will give a colorful, faceproof finish that will repel dust and grime. All windows high will be incorporated in the ceiling areas.

To put nearly 3 1/2 acres of total floor area under one roof will require enough flooring for 75 average houses; tile enough for 110 shower stalls; five tent size areas of glass. A stack of acoustical tile a mile long will be incorporated in the ceiling areas.

Larry Miller, president of the Long Beach Board of Realtors, announced that Lewis Hanscom, program chairman has engaged Norman Woest, community relations director for Title Insurance and Trust Co., Los Angeles, to present his Silver Dollar Quiz at the Tuesday "Early-Bird" Breakfast meeting of Realtors.

The meeting is scheduled for 7:15 a.m. at the Lafayette Hotel in the Supper Room.

Quizmaster Woest will award silver dollars to those who answer correctly his questions based on practical problems relating to real estate procedure.

Woest will be assisted in the program by Steve Birch, the company's customer relations representative for the Long Beach area.

INCORPORATED WITHIN are facilities to suit the principal divisions of the Harbor Department including administrative, engineering, petroleum, and accounting sections. A single floor is given over to the Long Beach Oil Development Co. that directs much oil activity in the area. Three high speed elevators will whisk passengers to the various floors.

FHA Says Southland Economy Healthy as Home Sales Gain

By KEN CHILCOTE
Independent Press-Telegram Business Editor

Stressing that home-owning and home-building activity indicate the economic health of a community, Director Norman Lyon of the Los Angeles office of the Federal Housing Administration, says there has been no sign of falling or leveling off of such real estate activity in Southern Californians the past four months.

PROCESSING OF CASES an increase of nearly 100 per cent was shown over the like month last year—April 1957—2708 cases in April 1958, as compared with 2570 in March 1958. Here again, Lyon noted, the Los Angeles office continues to lead the nation by a large margin in the applications received and still is ahead on the commitments issued.

"There were 63,718 cases received by the FHA in all of its 65 offices in the United States in March 1958, he added. If this figure would hold substantially for April, with the Los Angeles office receipts of 4487, we would appear to be doing better than 7 per cent of the entire business of the FHA, as far as receipts are concerned. "This is a notable record and bespeaks the activity of this progressive area as regards real estate building and financing. As funds appear to be available for FHA insured loans, it now may be a good time for the homeowner or builder to make use of this service, either by financing new construction, refinancing present loans, or consolidating where there is more than one loan on a property. FHA is an insuring agency for loans made by financial institutions and therefore any inquiry on FHA insured loans should be made to a local lending institution participating in the FHA program," he said.

ONLY $179 COSTS ASKED

Here is one of the many luxury, low-priced homes of Park Westminster available to veterans for none down, and only $179 total costs and impounds to non-vets on FHA terms.

Park Westminster Asking None Down From Veterans

"Veterans can avail themselves of the no down payment GI privilege at Park Westminster, convenient home development in Westminster, paying only $179 total costs and impounds to move right in on the new government-insured terms," it was announced by James Young, Vice president of Brighton-Bilt Homes.

"These quality-built, moderately-priced homes are located in the heart of the Southland's resort area, offering both vets and non-vets real California living at prices they can afford," Young stated.

"The response to this opportunity has been more than encouraging, particularly as the summer season gets underway," Young concluded.

VETERANS NEED PAY only 4% per cent interest on their VA loans, and $66 per month (including principal and interest). Non-vets or vets who have used their GI privileges require only 3 per cent down (plus 1/2 per cent mortgage insurance), and 5% per cent interest on FHA terms. There are no hidden charges, no second trust deeds or balloon payments, and all buyers receive a grant deed.

The homes are priced as low as $12,495. The spacious floor plans feature three bedrooms and two baths. An imaginative range of exterior stylings is introduced, offering either two-car garages or car ports. Many quality "extras" have been added, including Roper built-in ranges and ovens, disposals, confetti kitchen flooring, large linen closets, weather-stripped exterior doors, all natural ma-

Continue Preview of Homes

Preview showing continues this weekend at Imperial Estates' new Unit No. 17, according to Frank Chandler of Key Land Co., sales agents for Emblem Homes, Inc., builders of the community at Norwalk Blvd. and Centralia Ave. in the Norwalk area.

Emblem Homes, Chandler noted, have built over 2,000 homes in the Norwalk area, most of which were sold even before completion.

"Public response to the homes was gratifying," Chandler said, "particularly in regard to the favorable VA loan financing. Veterans can purchase at 4% per cent interest on homes priced at $12,750, $12,950 and $13,000 with monthly payments as low as $66.88, including principal and interest, and no down payments except the usual costs and impounds."

ATTRACTIVELY STYLED homes are offered in a wide variety of flexible plans with 3 bedrooms or 2 bedrooms and a den. There is also a choice of front or rear living rooms. Convenience zoned kitchens are planned for work-saving efficiency and all have a separate service porch.

From Long Beach, drive east on Carson which becomes Lincoln. Turn left (north) on Pioneer to Centralia, then right to Norwalk Blvd.

Hunt Foods' Fullerton Plant Safest in Nation

Competing for the first time in the National Safety Council's contest, the Hunt Foods Fullerton plant won the first place safety plaque for compiling the outstanding safety record among national food-packing firms during 1957.

At a special meeting of plant personnel in the Foremen's Club Room, Carl Kalbfleisch, Hunt executive vice president, presented C. E. Cassidy, Fullerton plant superintendent, with the National Safety Council plaque. Cassidy accepted the award in behalf of all personnel of the plant and paid tribute to the people who by their cooperation and safety-consciousness made the award-winning record possible.

Hunt's accident frequency rate was one-half an accident per million man-hours worked, in comparison with the canned food division's over-all accident frequency rate of 10.65 accidents per million man-hours.

Studebaker to Produce Small Cars

DETROIT (AP)—Studebaker-Packard Corp. will bid for deeper penetration of the new car market next year with what it calls a new and different type of car.

The corporation has not described the car nor its probable price. It can be said, however, that the new vehicle, to be built in South Bend, will be in the smaller wheelbase class—smaller than the present Scotsman economy model. It can be said, too, that its price tag will put it into competition with many of the smaller foreign-built cars and with American Motors' Rambler models.

Harold E. Churchill, Studebaker-Packard president, announced plans for the new car at a stockholders' meeting. He did not disclose styling details or possible price tags.

Mesa Verde Asking None Down of Vets

No down payment for non-vets and GI terms for vets, plus a fun packed playground for children, has accelerated interest and sales in the fast selling planned community of Mesa Verde, according to Walter Gaynor, spokesman for the new community.

Of interest to the golf enthusiast is the nearing completion of the Mesa Verde Country Club Golf Course... John Plumbly, the club pro says that the sports course will be variable in length, from 6200 to 6800 yards; well trapped and with several interest provoking water holes.

THE NEW DEVELOPMENT is thoroughly planned, with lots and schools laid out on a large traffic controlled street pattern. Nearby industry, schools, churches, shopping and ocean recreations make this an ideal location for raising families.

Gaynor states, that the homes include such luxury features as oversized kitchens and bathrooms, open-air plans, built-in ovens and ranges, garbage disposals, forced air heating, aluminum windows.

Furnished models and children's playground are open daily, and may be reached by taking the Santa Ana Freeway to Harbor Blvd., then south to the sign of the golfer. Mesa Verde is reached from beach areas by following the Coast Hwy. to the Costa Mesa Turn off.

SHOWING OF CADILLACS

Here is the Cadillac Eldorado Brougham, one of several custom-built Cadillacs which will be shown at a special display at Ridings Motors, 15th and American Ave. The salon showing at the local dealership will be presented May 15 through 17.

WORLD OF WHEELS

Ridings to Present Big Cadillac Show

By ART STEPHAN
I. P. T. Automotive Editor

A special salon display of the 1958 Cadillac will be presented by Ridings Motors, 1501 American Ave., Thursday through Saturday, according to H. E. Ridings Jr.

The showing will be highlighted by the presentation of the Eldorado Biarritz, the Eldorado Brougham, the Fleetwood 60 Special Sedan, and the Series 75 Limousine.

This salon display is designed to further acquaint the public with the 1958 Cadillac and to offer the opportunity to examine and test drive the automobiles.

THE ELDORADO BIARRITZ is a custom-built convertible with a silhouette apart from the rest of the line. From the front grille to the rear wrap-around bumpers the Biarritz has distinctive styling features. The top prestige model of the Cadillac line is the Eldorado Brougham, a four-door hardtop sedan with a brushed stainless steel roof. Produced in a limited number, the Brougham is the only American automobile to incorporate air suspension as standard equipment.

THE FLEETWOOD 60 Special Sedan is distinguishable from the remainder of the Cadillac line by its extruded aluminum shield across the rear quarter panel and its wide stainless steel rocker sill molding. The 60 Special is built on a 133-inch wheelbase.

Long recognized as the finest of limousines is the Fleetwood Series 75. With a wheelbase of 149.8 inches, the 75 Limousine is a four-door, nine-passenger sedan with two retractable seats in the rear seating compartment. JOHN R. BERRY has been notified that he has won the regional new-car sales championship in a recently concluded five-month De Soto Golden Opportunity Jamboree national contest.

In a letter of congratulations from J. B. Wagstaff, De Soto general manager, Berry was advised that he outperformed all De Soto dealers in his class in a region covering three states.

The De Soto contest was based upon individual performance of dealers of comparable sales potential.

LEE F. DESMOND, Dodge vice president, has announced that the demand for economy six-cylinder engines cars during the month of February almost tripled over the corresponding period last year.

In February, 1957, the demand for the Dodge six was 4.4 per cent of production as opposed to a hefty 12.2 per cent for February, 1956.

January, 1957, was 3.6 per cent, whereas January of this year was almost twice as much—6.5 per cent.

"Although many manufacturers seem to have forgotten and discontinued the six-cylinder models, the public seems to be more interested in these cars than they have been in some years," Desmond commented.

"People seem to appreciate the lower initial price and the operating economy of the six-cylinder models. And, our recently-announced Coronet six-cylinder Lancer model is finding a ready market, particularly among our eastern custom-

OUR COVER

If you haven't already had the pleasure, meet Marlene Willis, who at 16, is moving up fast on the Hollywood scene. Her marked talent for music, especially singing, since she was old enough to toddle, has made the difference. At 14, she toured the country with Horace Heidt's band and has since appeared in concerts and with various bands, has been on TV, radio and stage, and has made two pictures—"Rockabilly Baby" in which she sings the main part, and "Fantastic Puppet People" in which she turns into a puppet. While she can pick up and carry any tune, she is averse to noises. She cannot, for instance, eat lettuce; says its crunching hurts her ears! But Marlene never hurt anyone's eyes. She's pretty from her toes to the top of her head; especially so in a bathing suit, don't you think?

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the origin of the surname GRANT.—D.G., Long Beach.

D.G.: GRANT was the first spelling of the word "grand" meaning "large, stout man" over 900 years ago in France. This word was assimilated into the English language after the 11th century French conquest of Britain. The Grant family were first recorded in Warwickshire, England, but descendants migrated to Scotland where they became a famous clan. Their coat-of-arms has three gold crowns on a red shield, with the motto "Stand firm." Our famous President Ulysses Grant was a descendant of Matthew Grant who settled in Dorchester, Mass., in 1630.

DEAR MISS RULE: I would appreciate information on the name THAYER.—Mrs. H. H. Bellflower; Z. T., Westminster.

H. H., Z. T.: THAYER, an English name, was taken from the early German given-name Theodoric meaning "ruler of the people." Theodoric was changed to Thierry in France; then brought to England in the 1100s where it became Thirry and Thayer. The coat-of-arms of the Thayers of Essex, England, consists of three hunting dog heads on an ermine-covered shield. Thomas Thayer of Gloucestershire, England, was the 17th century ancestor of many of the Thayers of America.

DEAR MISS RULE: I would like information about MATTHIEN from Denmark.—J. M., Palos Verdes.

J. M.: The Biblical baptismal name Matthew was the source of many surnames in western European nations. The Danish surname MATTHIEN meaning "son of Matthew" is synonymous with the English names Matthewson and Matheson. Saint Matthew's name had the ancient Hebrew connotation "Gift of God." The Matthiesen lineage of Denmark were granted a coat-of-arms in the German city of Hamburg, two narrow silver stripes flanking a wide blue stripe across a red shield. On the blue stripe are three silver dog heads.

DEAR MISS RULE: Could you give genealogy on REEVES and REAVES.—N.M., P.T., Long Beach.

N.M., P.T.: A "Reeve" was bailiff or steward of an early English manorial estate. The surnames REEVES and REAVES represent "son of the reeve." William Le Reveson lived in Somerset, England, in 1327. The elaborate Reeves coat-of-arms has a portcullis (castle gate) between two silver crosses and three pelicans on a blue shield. Above and below these emblems are narrow gold chevrons.

DEAR MISS RULE: We would like brief history on our name BOOK.—MRS. L. B., Long Beach.

MRS. L. B.: BOOK is an American re-spelling of the German surname BUCH. The name began as Buch meaning beech-tree, which was an ancestral property landmark. In modern German "Buch" represents "book," but occupations such as book-seller or book-printer did not give rise to surnames, as printing was not invented until long after the surname-adoption period. The Buch lineage of

Sunday, May 11, 1958

By Bob Whearley

UP OVER SIGNAL HILL comes a helicopter, the stubby blood-red cross of mercy painted on its thin, tapering fuselage.

Its blades chopping rhythmically, it slows as it descends over the south slope of the hill.

Down below, at the side of a huge, pale blue, cross-shaped building, white-jacketed attendants wheel a stretcher onto a concrete ramp.

A minute later, the 'copter settles down on the ramp with a gentle little bounce. Its engine dies, and it is still.

Quickly, the waiting attendants unstrap the man who lies in a lightweight, basket-shaped litter on the side of the helicopter. They transfer him to the stretcher and head for surgery.

It is a case when seconds can mean the difference between life and death.

The hospital, and the 800 persons who staff it, stand ready to tip the scales in favor of life. . . .

AT THE MOMENT, this is pure crystal gazing. But it's only a matter of a couple of years before this new Memorial Hospital—and its unique emergency ramp for aerial ambulances—will be in actual operation.

The heliport will be just one of the many features of the new hospital—a $10,800,000 monument to life itself.

Early in 1960, or possibly late in 1959, the staff of Senses Memorial Hospital will move out of their present quarters at W. 14th St. and Chestnut Ave.—where some of the buildings date back almost a half-century—to the new 400-bed facility on a 21-acre site bounded by Columbia and E. 27th Sts. and Atlantic Ave. and Long Beach Blvd.

Ground-breaking for the building is set for May 18. Construction is being financed by a bond issue, with the City of Long Beach leasing the property to the hospital board. Equipment will be purchased with funds raised through public donations.

Let's skip ahead to 1960 and see what it will be like.

VISITORS WILL ENTER the hospital grounds on a tree-lined avenue which will be named Memorial Dr., which will run through the grounds from the southwest to the northeast.

Turning off Memorial Dr., you'll enter the main building directly from a portico over an entrance drive. Your chauffeur (a crystal gazer's license, you understand) can park your Cadillac at one of several parking lots which will provide space for more than 1,000 cars.

In time, the grounds will be lushly landscaped—muting traffic noises from nearby busy streets and blocking the ugly forest of oil rigs that jut skyward from Signal Hill.

The building itself will be in the shape of a cross. It will have a special type of porcelain facing, light blue in color, which is expected to retain its quality of newness through the years.

As you step inside the lobby, you'll see a spacious area featuring extensive use of glass and restful coordination of colors.

THIS IS WHERE the information desk will be located.

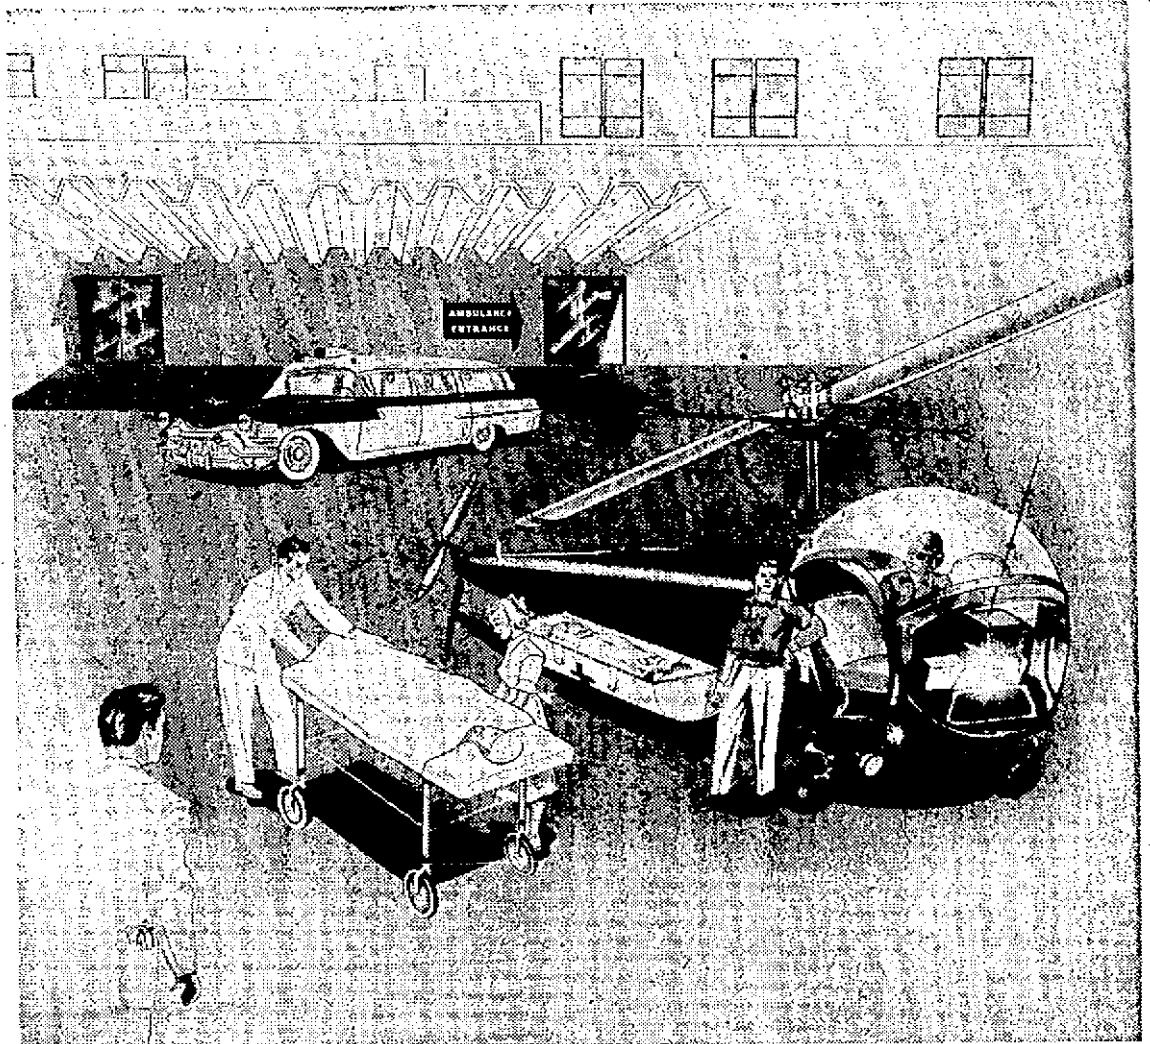

To the right will be a modernistic chapel, private rooms for families, personnel offices and the social service office.

On the left side of the lobby will be administrative offices, and snack bar, gift shop, medical library and medical records library. A doctors' lounge and admitting offices also will be located in this area.

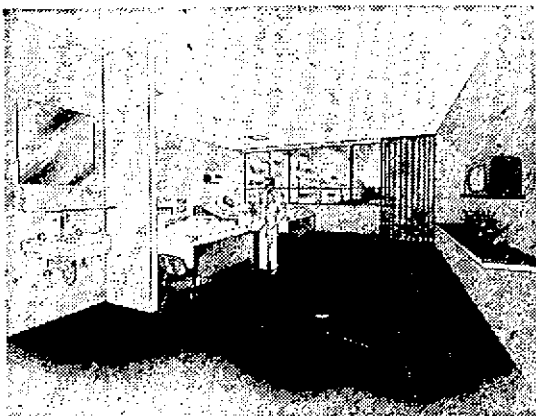

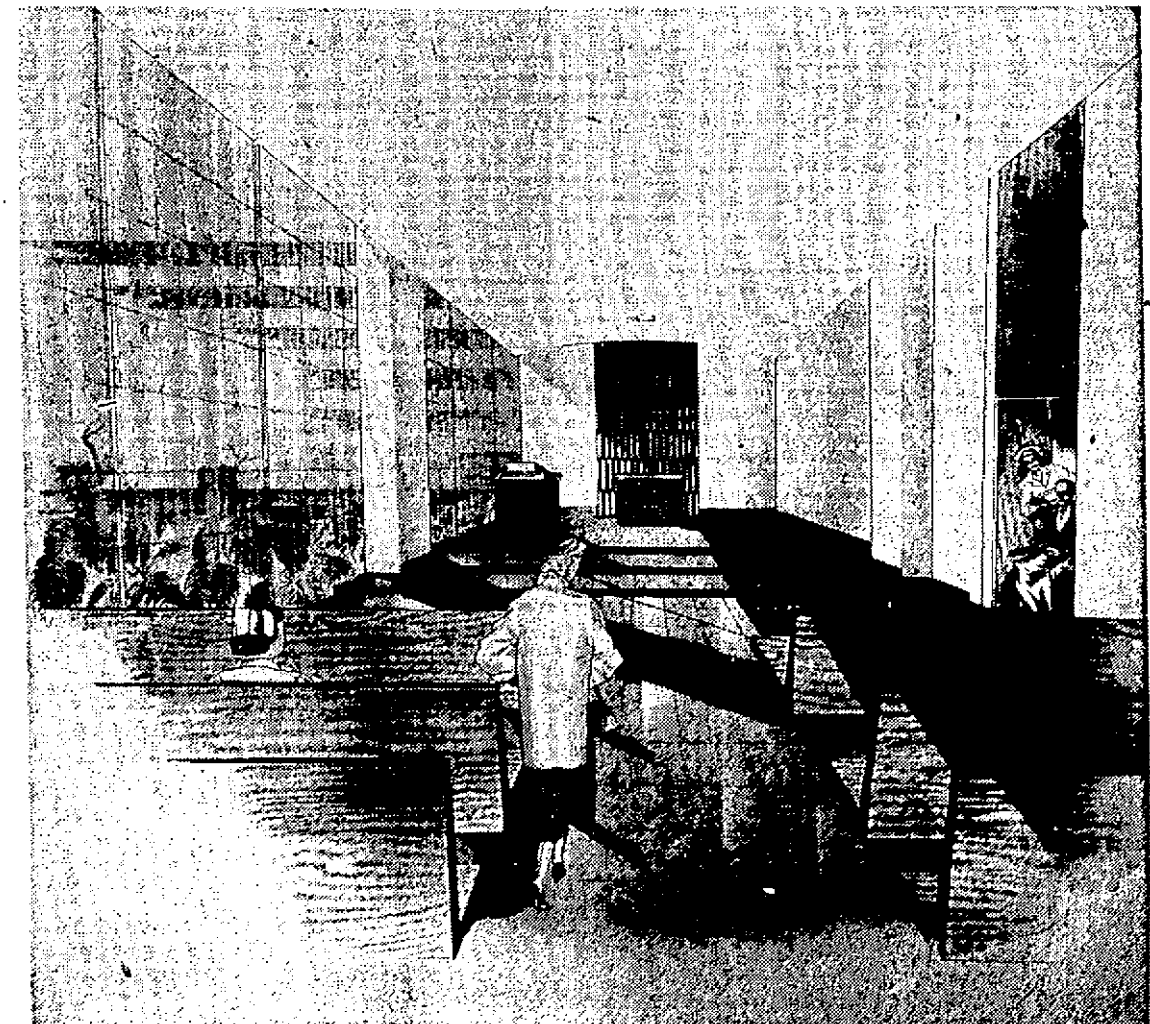

The first floor also will have the emergency department, and beyond that will be X-ray facilities and 12 operating rooms.

Embodying a new concept, the hospital will group all supporting services for the surgeries and emergency

A heliport will be one of many 20th century innovations at Long Beach's new Memorial Hospital, for which groundbreaking ceremonies will be held May 18.

Patients' rooms will be comfortable, airy, decorated in pleasing colors.

Another unique feature will be a modernistic chapel. There will also be private rooms for families, a doctors' lounge. Hospital will open on Columbia St.

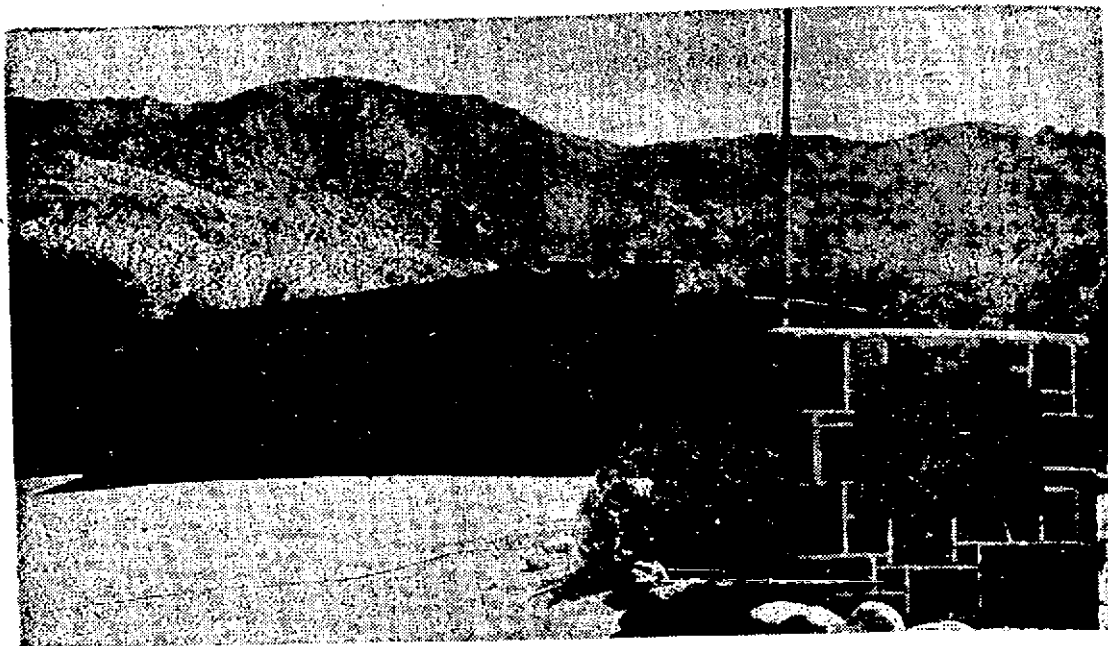

WHAT DID THAT SIGN SAY?

California's Historic Landmarks

Photos by the Author

Phineas Banning home in Wilmington now is a public park and open to visitors.

In the taming of the West, this Overland Mail stage station at Vallecito was a focal point on southern immigrant trail. It's now one of California's interesting landmarks.

By Robert Signor

HOW MANY TIMES have you resolved that some day you would stop to read those Historical Landmarkers posted along most highways? Maybe you've had a passenger ask:

"What did that sign say? You went by so fast I didn't get a chance to read it."

If you are like most of us who whiz by these things, you are missing a lot of interesting facts about California's early days.

For instance, how many people know that gold was discovered here in Southern California six years before Marshall's famous discovery in 1849 at Sutter's Mill? Or that a fort near Bakersfield had a United States Army Camel Corps made up of 28 camels; that the California Star Oil Works was the forerunner of the Standard Oil Co., and that their first refinery still stands today, not far off a main highway?

Historical landmarks are put up by various museums and historical societies all over the world in the interest of preserving the memory of history-making events and the sites where they took place. In many cases the markers are erected to preserve an actual remnant of a by-gone day, or one that has been restored. A lot of study and research goes into establishing just what, where and when certain things happened. It might be an old house made of adobe left over from California's rancho days, or a battleground where the only casualties were a few mules. Battleground or adobe house, they all played a part in making the fascinating history of early California.

Many years and resolutions later, we decided that the day had finally come. With no other purpose in mind, we set out, determined to see what these Historical Landmarkers had to say.

The first marker we found led us to Placeritas Canyon near San Fernando, where in 1842, Francisco Lopez found gold under an old oak tree. Today the tree is called the Oak of the Golden Dream. Lopez was out rounding up stolen cattle when he sat down to rest under the tree and with his knife uprooted some wild onions. Attached to the roots of one was a nugget of gold. His find started a minor-scale gold rush which lasted for several years but ended before the great gold rush of forty-nine. Some of the diggings left by the miners can still be seen in Placeritas Canyon.

Not far away, another marker leads us to Pico Canyon, where the first oil was found in Southern

Site of the Battle of El Rio San Gabriel in 1847 when American forces engaged Californians under Gen. Flores.

California. In 1875, the Star Oil Co., predecessor of the Standard Oil Co., drilled its first well in Pico Canyon. This first well had a capacity of 100 barrels a day. The following year, with the addition of more wells, California's first oil refinery was built in Railroad Canyon one-half mile from the town of Newhall. It was constructed in 1876 as the California Star Oil Works and was the scene of much activity in the early days.

The huge iron stills used in the refinery were brought around the Horn from Pennsylvania by sailing ship and hauled from the docks at San Pedro by horse and wagon. When the refinery was in operation, the crude oil from the wells in Pico Canyon was hauled to storage tanks on the hills behind the refinery and gravity-fed to the stills. The main products, benzine and kerosene, were sold locally in Ventura and Santa Barbara, any excess was sent to San Francisco by steam and sailing vessels.

This old refinery can be seen today, restored to its original condition as an historical landmark on Standard Oil Co. property in Newhall - an interesting contrast with the huge refineries found in Southern California today.

Most anywhere on our highways one can find history of some sort depicted on markers. On Hwy. 6, north of San Fernando, is a marker telling of Fremont Pass and Beale's Cut. The old pass is still there and so is the cut. If you stay in your car to read the marker, however, you'll not see either one. Just below the marker is an old wagon road used by Gen. Fremont and named in his honor. The trail was later used by the Butterfield Overland Mail on its run from St. Louis, Mo., to San Francisco, from 1858 to 1864.

At the top of Fremont Pass, but not visible from the marker, is Beale's Cut, named in honor of Gen. E. F. Beale who established Fort Tejon. The cut, about 30 feet deep, but not more than six feet wide, was made by soldiers from Fort Tejon to permit the stage-coaches and wagons to go through. Marks made by the men's picks can still be seen on the walls of the cut.

Once the main house on the vast Rancho San Pedro, the Dominguez home is another of the state's landmarks, now used by the Claretian Order.

Forerunner of California's huge refineries, the Star Oil Works near Newhall was a scene of activity in 1870s; now restored as landmark.

If your daughter acts like this, think (and say) nothing of it. Be kind to her and she'll be all right.

Don't laugh at a boy when he's going through this stage. His feelings can be hurt easily. Give him strong, wise and kind guidance and be sympathetic.

NO, HARRIED PARENTS—

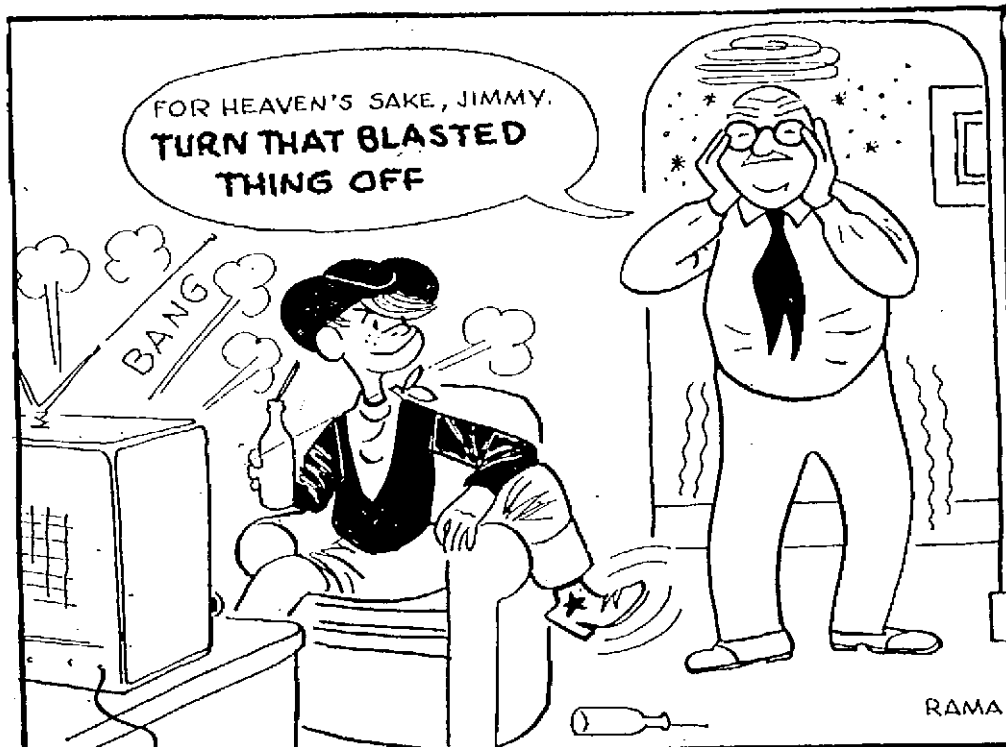

Teenagers Aren't Really Crazy!

TEENAGERS aren't "tetched." It's just that they are growing up and their development isn't all in the physical phase; there are emotional growing pains, too. One day a teenager is a docile, affectionate, constantly babbling son or daughter and the next he or she is an intractable, withdrawn, sullen adolescent.

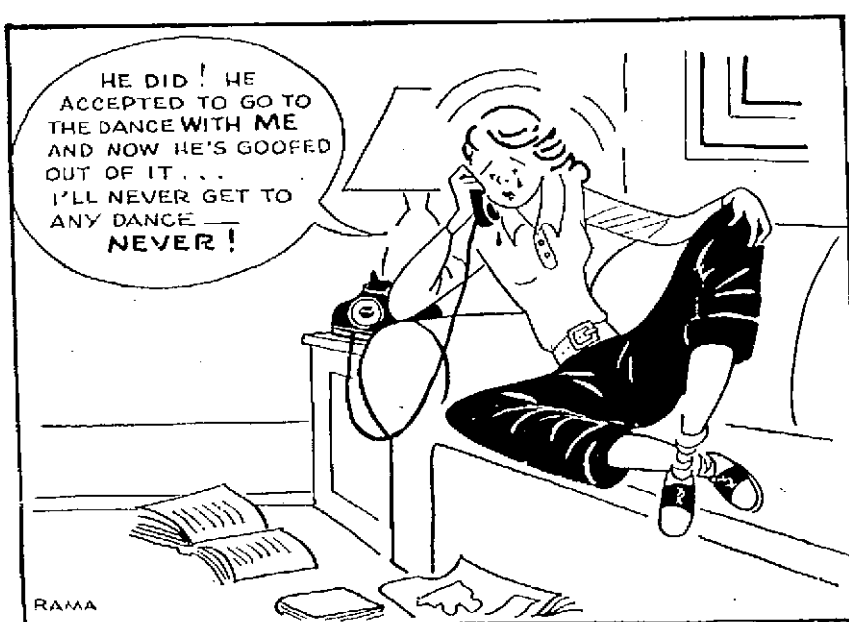

Teenagers may be a challenge to their parents but not the kind of problem that can be written off as being due to temporary mental unbalance; trusting that the passing of the years will give them back some sense. Parents must give their boys and girls kindness, respect and firmness during the difficult teen period. If the father and mother have some knowledge of what to expect, and how to cope with it (and how not, too!) the situation can be helped. Puzzled parents can get much assistance from teachers, clergymen and doctors.

Some teen situations and some hints as to what not to do about them are given in the accompanying cartoons and captions.

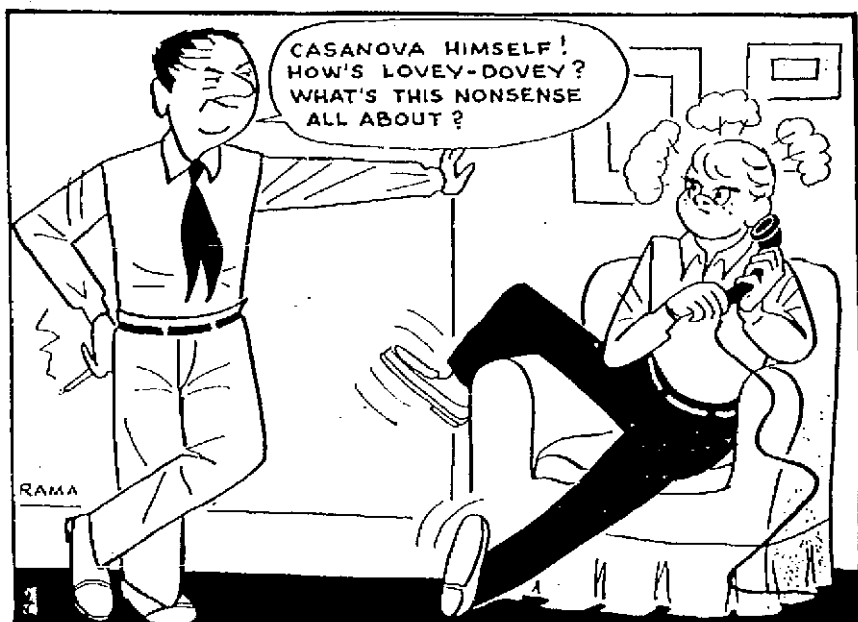

"Growing Pains," the booklet from which these drawings were taken, may be obtained free by writing to Dr. Henry B. Rollins, vice president and medical director, Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company, Hartford 15, Conn. The booklet was written by Ellis Gluskin.

Jimmy and Grandpa should respect each other, understanding irritating little habits. Needs at different ages vary; understanding makes happier homes.

Don't poke fun, this is a tragic moment. Teenagers feel deeply. Certainly she will go to more dances, even look back to this and smile.

Wait a minute, Dad, how can you forget so quickly? You're not so old you've forgotten your first date. Remember how you suffered in love?

It's Personal and It's Practical

Photos by Joe Hisinger

Acting as room divider, this handsome walnut cabinet defines entry area of the Jack Crippens' home. The cabinet was designed and made by Crippen.

EIGHT YEARS AGO the Jack Crippens moved into their highly individual, extremely livable, 2,000-square-foot house at 4014 Chestnut Ave. In every sense of the word this is their own very personal home. From the day they bought the lot until the time the blueprints were distributed to the sub-contractors, they injected ideas and superintended many details of the planning. Every feature of the architecture, floor plan and elevation was detailed by Mr. Crippen—an accountant by profession—who succeeded in surprising everyone (including himself) with his acumen in design.

The plan was envisioned to perform with the greatest possible practicality, flexible enough to accommodate the Crippens' son and daughter as they grow and presenting itself as an inviting place to entertain. Above all, the home is calculated to retain, through the years, its free and happy attitude on living.

Now, eight years later, the Crippens have completed re-decorating the home that they have grown to love so thoroughly. Thus, it emerges present-perfect in every detail and, in many ways, better than ever!

A shallow-pitched, white-rock roof defines the low lines of the house that are accentuated with the use of heavy horizontal redwood siding. A flagstone walk curves through lawn and ivy beds to the covered porch.

AN ENTRY AREA, as such, is established just inside the front door by means of a long, low walnut cabinet that acts as a very handsome partition between the entry and the family room located ahead and to the right. To the immediate right of the entry is the living room.

All three areas are singularly carried out in a monochromatic champagne tone—a restful, neutral hue that certainly provides an ideal background for the contemporary furnishings.

A champagne-blend tweed carpet covers the entry, family and living room areas. The wall to the left of the entry is surfaced with an exquisite champagne silk-and-linen wallcloth. The entry's drop ceiling terminates over the walnut cabinet thereby effecting a sort of soffit in which have been installed flush lights. At this juncture, the family room ceiling pitches dramatically upward. The interesting interplay of planes and angles thus achieved is testimony to Crippen's surprising design technique. It demonstrates a far greater than average imagination—as well as ability to perceive on paper the exciting results that can be gained with a little daring.

A LONG CABINET of walnut takes the place of an obscure glass wall that was part of the original interior scheme. When the wall was removed and the cabinet put in its stead, the family room "grew" the width of the former hall. From the family room, the cabinet's sliding, cane-paneled doors open to reveal Hi-Fi components, a television, record and periodical storage. The cabinet is beautifully scaled and elegantly crafted for this spot. And when Mrs.

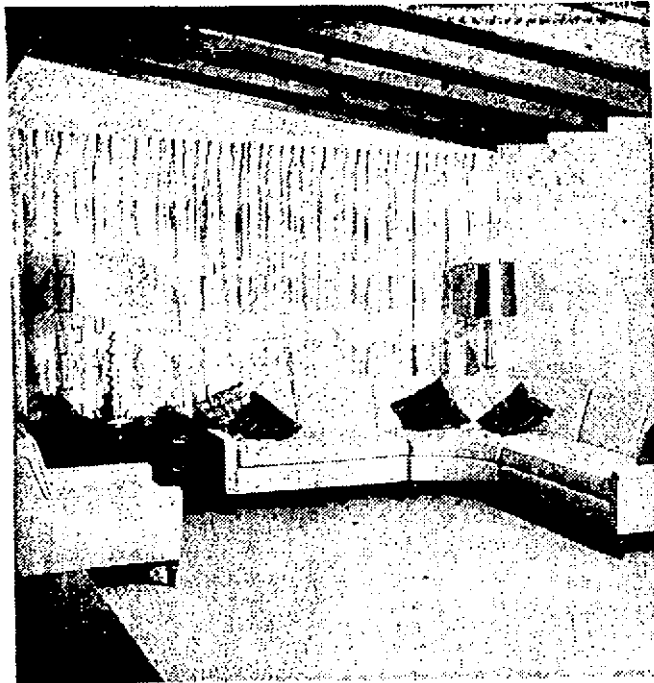

Crippen tells with pride that her husband designed, made and finished it himself, it draws nothing but praise. Jack Crippen, accountant, thus is revealed to be an accomplished "jack of all trades!"

An extensive contemporary sofa, standing against the far wall, turns into the room at a right angle. Designed along simple, contemporary lines, the multi-sectioned sofa is backed with nine foam pillows upholstered in a handsome black and cinnamon striped wool fabric.

The wall against which the sofa stands achieves the dramatic—not only for its spectacular height—but for its unusual block paneling of natural Philippine mahogany.

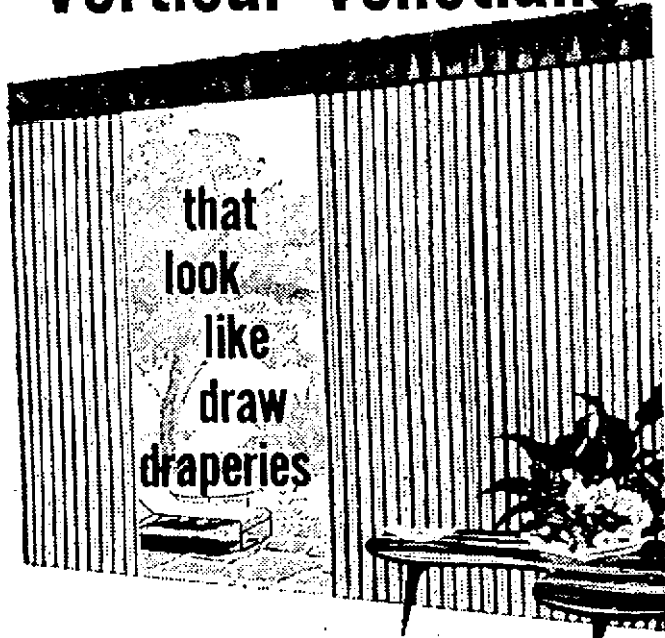

THE WALL OPPOSITE separates the family and living areas. Preponderantly composed of masonry, it presents a raised barbecue-fireplace to the family area and an interesting corner fireplace to the living room. In both rooms, open bookshelves flank the fireplaces.

Furniture in the family room includes a handsome natural walnut chair imported from Denmark, its upholstery a bright blue wool patterned with small geometric squares of turquoise. In the barbecue area is space designated for dining and furnished with a round contemporary table and four cane-back chairs, their seats upholstered in turquoise. Glass doors ex-

See the Heavenly New Vertical venetians

Revolutionary New "DOUBLE ARC" Slats Make All the Difference

Now you can have vertical venetians that look and operate just like draw draperies . . . with all the advantages of venetians, besides! With the new double-arc slats, Eastern's Star has a flowing "one-piece" appearance when closed . . . looks for all the world like the luxurious folds of fine draperies. It opens and closes as a unit, too.

What's more, Eastern's Star verticals are so sturdy they don't need tapes or bottom tracks. And to add to their "drapery-like look," they feature a magnificent textured finish and are available in a galaxy of lovely colors.

Plus all these advantages!

★ Complete control of ventilation, light, view and privacy. Perfected mechanism of turn cord assures even turning of slats. When they are wide open, you have a far clearer view through fewer, wider, stronger slats.

★ Full closure of slats in either direction. The double arc slats don't just overlap . . . they interlock to lock out light, and to give wall-like privacy when used as room dividers.

Dramatic ceiling and wall treatment are interesting notes in the Crippens' family room. Note long sofa.

tend across one side of the room and slide open to a spacious outdoor lanai when desired.

In the living room, that merges with the family area through a soffit-arch (extending from the fireplace wall) the tempo is slightly less relaxed, somewhat more formal; yet, the composition, for all its exquisite beauty, is one of deep comfort. Walls, carpet and upholstery are of pale champagne tone. Two handsome lounge chairs and a curved sofa are covered in off-white silk and rayon damask woven in an interesting "quilted" effect. Case furniture is hand-oiled walnut embellished with beautiful pewter hardware. The bland color scheme is carried out in draperies for the back wall of glass; here, fabric is thin, opaque white dacron patterned delicately with a wheat motif in gold. The same fabric has been used in an interesting treatment for the front window. It has been installed with small, hinged, shoji-like panels in which the fabric has been stretched taut.

FOR A SUTILE TOUCH of color, the ceiling, between the beams, is turquoise insulating material. Brought down to the level of the room, the same color is employed for velveteen pads used for the low benches that stand before the fireplace's raised hearth on two sides.

The kitchen, large enough to accommodate a spacious dinette area at one end, is attractively composed of matched golden birch cabinets, gold-and-butter-scotch contemporary paper and a modern birch breakfast set. Turquoise cafe curtains installed on brass rings dress wide windows that overlook the lanai and the back garden. Work counters are of golden plastic flecked with cocoa; cocoa vinyl tile, and a wall-type refrigerator are other features of note.

John Crippen, aged 12, has a room paneled in birch and carried out in a husky red and hunter's green combination. Christie, aged 9, enjoys the same hunter's green carpet; but her room color is predominantly ice turquoise. Her ornately scrolled brass bed is spread with a snowy white heirloom coverlet.

The master bedroom, dressing area and bath is all to itself, located toward the front of the house. Here is the same soft wheat-and-oyster white carpet used throughout the living areas. Champagne colored walls form the background for a king-sized bed of walnut with quilted spread and duster of pale turquoise antique satin. Champagne, persimmon and brown throw pillows accessorize the bed and contribute sparkling notes of color to the room.

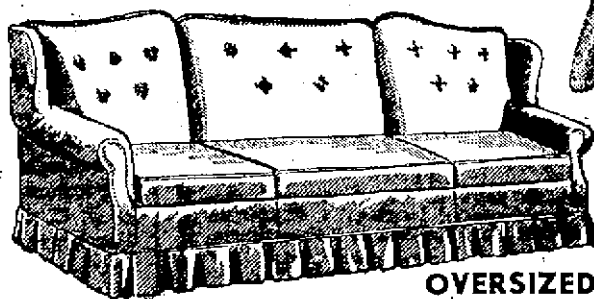

Plantings now soften the exterior of the Crippen home which has low lines accented with horizontal siding.

Fat Boy of the Silent Films

By Rhuna Emery

SSOLID CITIZENS from young rascals grow.

Substantial proof of this is Dale C. Southwick of Long Beach whose "rascal" days go way back to when he was "Fatty" in Hal Roach's "Our Gang" comedies, now popular re-runs on TV.

"One of the Fatties," corrects Southwick, who now lectures for Cambridge Institute International which expounds the educational method of learning while you sleep. "So many people think I'm every Fatty they see. But the first 'Our Gang' comedy was made in 1920, the last about 1937, so there were several fat boys and I was about the third in the silent versions."

Getting into "Our Gang" was accidental, recalls Kansas-born Southwick. "I was visiting Hollywood relatives who lived next door to the late Ben Turpin, the goofy-eyed comedian. My 'baby blimp' proportions led him to introduce me to Roach, who needed another Fatty for the series.

"We had a lot of fun making those short comedies. Roach called us 'his rascals' but we referred to ourselves as 'Our Gang' and that name stuck. Sometimes the director would get us to think up ideas for the movie by giving us a quarter for every idea he could use."

TODAY, SOUTHWICK, a bass-voiced, jovial big man (6' 2"-276 lbs.) is still associated with a "gang," a very fine one made up of the boys and girls of the Lakewood Church of Religious Science where he is director of the "Youth In Truth" group and chairman of trustees. "Youth must learn that the right way to do things is more fun than the wrong," says Rev. Cy Stevens, "and Dale's amusing, cheerful approach to things have made him a great asset in our efforts to reach our young people."

Southwick frequently emcees or helps out otherwise at P.T.A. activities. "It's just as much the father's responsibility to take an interest in school and P.T.A. as the mother's," he believes. "The children after all belong to both parents."

Southwick has two special teenagers of his own—his two lovely daughters, Daline, president of Jordan High School Drama Club and winner of the "best actress" award in 1957 at Lindbergh Junior High, and Lesli Jean, who attends Lindbergh and at present plans to be a teacher. Of their father's performances on TV, they say, "We can't believe Dad was ever that young!"

Petite, 5-foot-two Adeline who married the roly poly boy 17 years ago says, "We've acquired another 'Our Gang' alumnus. My niece just married Richard Southwick as he appears today. He's still associated with a "gang," boys and girls of church youth group.

Russell who's in the more recent series."

MOST OF OUR GANG turned out very well, Southwick says. Some, like Jackie Cooper, Nanette Fabray, Eddie Bracken, Mitz Green and Darla Hood have climbed pretty high on the show-biz ladder. The last word from "Baby Jean" Darling was that she had the lead in a radio serial. Spanky McFarland is a salesman in Texas.

Didn't the lure of show business ever bother Southwick after his stint in "Our Gang"? It certainly did. He says:

Tree of Another Age

By Fanny Leasure

STANDING in the southern-most section of Bixby Park is one lone Torrey pine. This tree ranks beside the Sequoias and the Monterey pine as distinctively Californian. No where else in the world was Pinus Torreyana to be found when in 1850 Dr. Parry came upon a group of these "relics of a former age" at the mouth of the Soledad River near where La Jolla now stands.

To residents of Long Beach this representative of its species means more than just another native tree, for these pines have certain characteristics that make them unique in their field.

ON SEEING Torrey pines for the first time, the visitor is certain to exclaim over the enormous size of the five-in-a-bundle needles. On some trees they may reach a length of 13 inches.

Exceptionally coarse they were admirably suited to the use of the Indian basket maker. Local hobbyists today whose skill includes basketry also find them suited to their needs.

The Torrey pine also has the largest edible seed of any American pine. Seeds of this species are said to approach in size those of the pines of the Himalayan Mountains. This fact explains why Torrey is sometimes called the "nut pine" and why the Indians and Mexicans of early Southern California found it to be a source of food.

TORREY PINES seem reluctant to take up residence elsewhere, preferring the temperate atmosphere of the Southern California coast, although recently it has been grown as far north as San Francisco. Seeds have been sent to European countries but there is no record of their having been successfully grown in these regions. Others of California's "relic" trees are less restricted in their growth areas but Torrey clings tenaciously to the ancestral habit.

THIS TREE also has a trait that is characteristic of America. To a greater degree than other trees, the Torrey is an individualist, developing according to no preconceived plan. Some grow gnarled with a peculiar flat top, some are more like a vine as they cling to cliffs and others are erect in normal tree fashion, as the one in Bixby Park. Science knows the answer lies in wind, weather, site and soil.

Establishment recently of the Torrey Pines State Park near San Diego assures preservation of these trees which otherwise might have shared the fate of the dodo and the dinosaur.

"Really nothing to worry about—just a good case of nerves! Incidentally, how are your five daughters these days?"

They Guard Park-and-Shoppers

By Caroline Coleman

WITH the opening of large shopping centers comes the problem of protecting those who patronize them. The acres of parking lots provide a fertile field for car thefts, looting and stripping. While the bright lights, shops and restaurants attract people from all the surrounding communities, it is a sad fact that all of those attracted are not paying customers.

The large modern Lakewood Shopping Center in the city of Lakewood was one of those plagued with an influx of undesirable characters until two young veterans came up with a system of their own for patrolling the 154 acres with a small force of men.

Lee Chandler and Bill Richerson were buddies when they attended Wilson High School in Long Beach. Soon after graduation, they served with the Marine Corps in the Korean War. Upon returning to civilian life they worked as civilian employees at the Long Beach Air Force Base. But they saw the need for additional police protection in the city of Lakewood where they had bought homes.

LAKESWOOD WAS a very young city and had no police department. The county sheriff's office gave what protection it could, but the shopping center required more men than could be provided. Lee and Bill decided to organize a patrol.

They took a course in police science at Los Angeles Junior College in Wilmington on the GI plan. In 1954, a young lawyer, Don Jones, was taken into partnership, and they opened an office at Lakewood Center, offering their services to the merchants at a nominal fee.

Soon it became necessary to train and employ more men as more demands were made upon the patrol. Mrs. Chandler and Mrs. Richerson took over the office work, but with all the men the business could support, and all the men the sheriff's department could provide, it was impossible to have a patrolman where one was needed at all times. A better system was necessary, and Lee and Bill came up with one. They devised their Lookout System, which since has been adopted in many other localities.

PARK-AND-SHOPPER GUARDS

Another angle of the system is the element of surprise. The men on the Lakewood Patrol wear uniforms and carry guns and nightsticks, but they drive unmarked cars, and they change cars as often as possible. No one ever knows where a patrolman will pop up next.

Statistics show that their system has reduced loss and disturbance materially.

Table With Two Legs

THREE LEGS used to be considered the absolute minimum in furniture making, for obvious reasons. But now comes Harvey L. Triggs of Santa Ana with a practical two-legged table.

equilibrium is a base rigidly attached to the legs to form a standard. The twin legs are mounted at right angles to each other and slant forward from the bottom to complete the gravity-defying illusion.

By Herb Shannon

can be built in about eight hours' spare time without power tools for a cost of about $3 if the materials used are fir plywood and white pine.

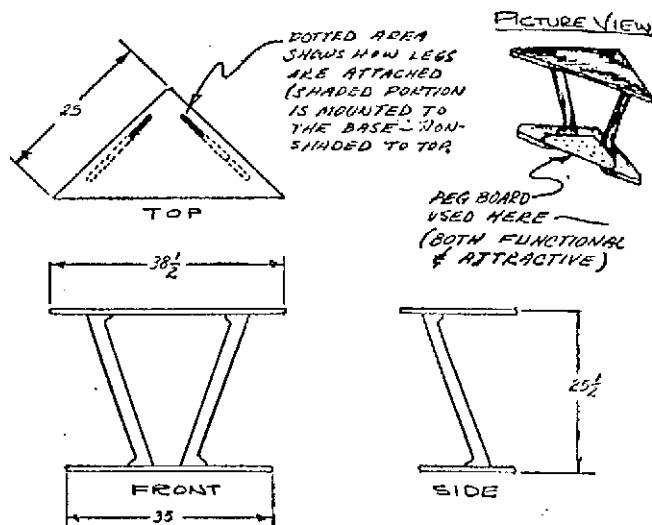

DESIGNED TO FIT the corner of a room, the table top and base are the same triangular shape, and are of half-inch plywood. The base plate may be notched out or trimmed back in front if desired, as shown in the diagram.

The legs are cut from one-inch white pine and are attached with screws or dowels to the plywood parts as indicated. If screws are used on the top, they must be countersunk and filled.

One other piece shown in the photographs, a pegboard panel covering part of the base, is purely decorative and may be omitted if desired.

WITH ALL EDGES rounded off via the rasp and sandpaper route and a coat of sealer and paint applied, the table becomes a genuine conversation piece for that empty corner of the room.

But don't lean on it!

For guidance of the do-it-yourselfer, here are several views of two-legged table, showing how it is assembled.

Here is the 2-legged table in use in corner of a room.

Smoky Links and Pineapple

Smoky sausage links and broiled pineapple are a tasty "side" for poached eggs, muffins for a Sunday brunch.

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

SPRING IS Nature's time for new things—green foliage and brilliant flowers. It's a good time to re-gear your menu planning, too; patio time is at hand with outdoor meals and entertaining. Like a brunch, for instance.

For the menu on the party side, for a leisurely brunch or breakfast, try this one: Begin with tall glasses of fruit juice or a fruit cup. To top it off, serve smoky links with golden pineapple slices, poached eggs on English muffins and slices of coffee cake, if desired. Here are easy-to-follow directions for making the conversation piece of your brunch menu.

Smoky Links, Pineapple
1 pound smoky link sausages
6 English muffins
Butter
6 eggs
Salt, pepper, paprika
1 can (No. 2½) pineapple slices
2 tablespoons brown sugar

Cook smoky link sausages slowly in heavy frying pan until heated through and browned. Remove to warm platter. Meanwhile split and toast English muffins. Spread with butter. Poach eggs and sprinkle with salt, pepper and paprika. Put about 1 tablespoon butter in sausage pan with a little of the drippings. Add pineapple; sprinkle with brown sugar. Brown lightly on both sides. Place pineapple on sausages. Add a tablespoon pineapple syrup to pan, let bubble up and thicken slightly; pour over the pineapple to glaze. Serve with the poached eggs on English muffins. Serve the extra toasted muffin tops in a napkin-lined basket. Serves 6.

Another tempting suggestion for special brunch is this:

Ham and Fruit Grill

1 thick slice of ham to serve 4
4 slices of canned pineapple, drained
2 firm bananas, cut in half, lengthwise
Melted butter or margarine

Slash ham at 2-inch intervals to prevent curling. Place ham on broiler rack. Broil about 6 inches from heat for 7 minutes or until lightly browned. Turn ham. Arrange pineapple slices and bananas, cut side up, around ham. Brush fruit with melted butter. Return to broiler and continue cooking for 5 to 6 minutes. Serves 4.

Accompany the Ham and Fruit Grill with scrambled eggs and toast or hot rolls.

Belgian Cookery

"A BELGIAN COOKBOOK" by Juliette Elkion (Farrar, Straus & Cudahy, $3.95): Most people know little about Belgian cookery, often confusing it with that of the French. However, there is very little similarity. Belgian cookery has a delicious, distinctive flavor of its own and in this book are assembled scores of regional Belgian dishes, some now almost legend among the natives.

If you'd like to try true Belgian dishes—from mushroom canapés and cheese torte to Fontainebleau dessert and sweetbreads with Scotch whisky sauce—then this book is for you.

Hors D'Oeuvres

"THE COMPLETE HORS D'OEUVRES COOKBOOK" by Alice Schryver and Francilla Wallace (Coward-McCann, $3.95): Hors d'oeuvres are playing an increasingly important role in American living—served with fruit or vegetable juice at lunch, tea in the afternoon, soft drinks in evening—yet most general cookbooks contain only a small section on the appetizers. This one packs in 1,000 kitchen tested recipes for them, with variations. In addition, there is a section about them which tells how and when to serve what, what hors d'oeuvres are made of, equipment needed to make them, and tips on decorating and serving. Those who entertain will find the book a dream come true.

ONCE the habitat of flying marsupials—better known as pelicans—Alcatraz Island is now a focal point of interest to tens of thousands of tourists who visit the Redwood Empire annually.

On the island, only a mile or so off San Francisco but an insurmountable distance for inmates, is notorious Alcatraz Prison, a maximum security Federal penitentiary, known in some circles as "The Rock," for the nation's toughest criminals.

The first sea-going tourist to see the island jutting from San Francisco Bay to the east of the Golden Gate Bridge was Don Juan Manuel de Ayala. His sailing ship, the San Carlos, billowed through the Golden Gate on Aug. 5, 1775.

Situated in mid-stream, and washed by rushing tides, the island has been used as a prison

Grim old Alcatraz Prison is an object of never-ending awe to the throngs of California tourists.

site dating back to Spanish domination of California. Prisoners of Spain were confined to dungeons burrowed far into the earth. Later it became a place of incarceration for the apprehended "big shots" of the underworld.

HUNDREDS of thousands of tourists have viewed Alcatraz Island in the wake of the Spanish explorer. Vantage points for travelers are numerous. An excellent view may be obtained from the north shore of San Francisco Bay, from Fisherman's Wharf to the Golden Gate Bridge. In between these two points, on the Marina, there are permanently installed telescopes which provide a close-up of the prison. At the northern end of Golden Gate Bridge is another vantage point with accommodations for hundreds of automobiles.

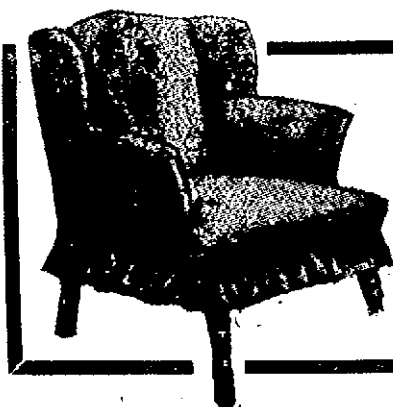

No Wonder!

OUR YOUNG library patron was an avid western fan. He raced through all the Zane Grey books, eagerly seizing each new one that came out. (Although Grey died in 1939, he left a tremendous backlog of material which is still being published.) Apparently our patron had reached the saturation point without realizing it, because he became increasingly critical of the books he returned.

One day he started out: "Someone ought to tell that Zane Grey—"

"You can't," the librarian told him "Didn't you know he's been dead for almost 20 years?"

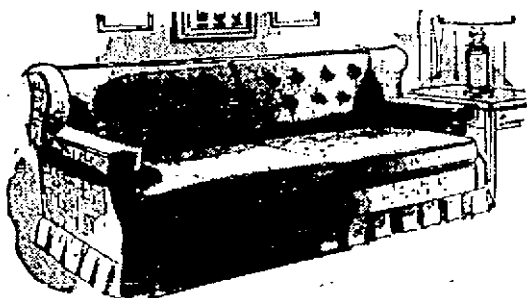

The young fellow thought this over. "Well," he said, "I'll tell you one thing. He sure wrote better when he was alive."—ROBERT LEAR.

Will your new home be electrically obsolete the day you move in?

Astonishingly enough, two out of three homes being built today do not provide the modern electric appliances people want most. Worse than that, in most cases no wiring provision is made for their eventual installation. These "new homes" are electrically obsolete the day you buy them. Yet it costs so very little to enjoy the enormous convenience these labor-saving appliances bring you — especially when they're provided for when the house is being planned.

Now — a new service has been inaugurated that tells you whether the home you're about to buy is truly modern. Electric utility experts work with leading builders when their homes are still in the planning stage — to assure you that you will be able to enjoy modern electric living the day you move in.

Then, and only then, are these homes awarded the nationally famous "Medallion Home" Award. Look for it when you buy your new home. It's your guide to better value.

Here's what the "Medallion Home" Award tells you about the home you're about to buy:

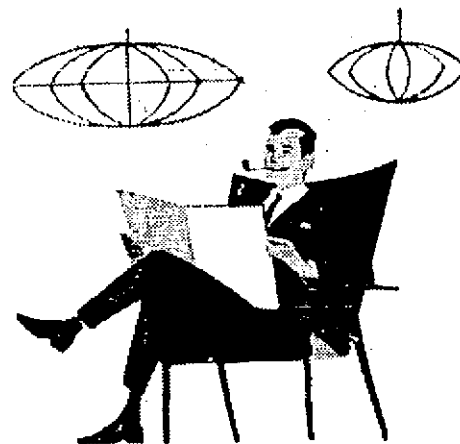

1. Your most-needed electric appliances will be already installed!

"Medallion Homes" come equipped with an ultra-modern electric range built-in — as well as at least three other major appliances. They are not afterthoughts — they go with the plan of the house, conveniently located to save you time and labor. What's more, wiring for future needs is in and paid for.

2. The home is properly wired for "Full Housepower"

Only one out of three new homes is equipped for modern electric living... but every "Medallion Home" is. It has plenty of outlets and switches in convenient locations. It has enough separate circuits for proper and efficient power distribution — and provision for the extra circuits you may need later on.

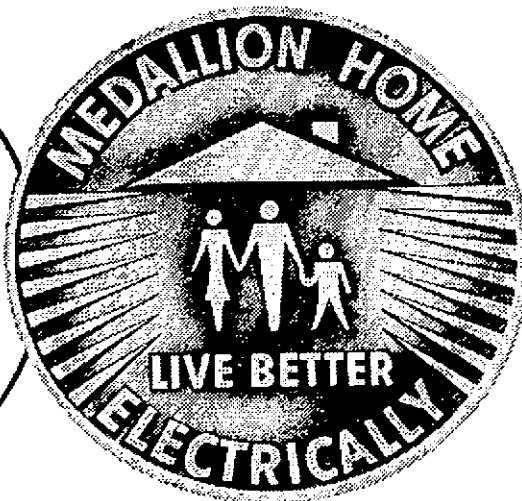

3. The home has "light for living"

Provisions have been made in every "Medallion Home" for proper lighting which will beautify and decorate as well as illuminate the home. Special fixtures light such important, but often neglected, areas as the kitchen sink, bathroom shower and mirror, and outside each entry to the home.

Look for the nationally known
"Medallion Home" Award

It's your guarantee that the home meets the rigid standards of the 1958 Live Better Electrically Medallion Home Program to let you live better electrically, today and tomorrow!

TOKYO
"We are planning a trip to Hawaii in August and our friends advise us we should have an air-conditioned room. We are staying at the Hawaiian Village."

YOUR friends have the wrong hot flash. The trade winds cool Hawaii naturally. I don't think the Hawaiian Village even has air-conditioned rooms. Low 70 is average, day and night. Best of all climates.

"I am a bachelor and hope to stop over in Tokyo this spring. Would like to visit the bathhouses. I am told the Green Dragon is best. What do you say?"

I AM IN SO MUCH hot water in my own hotel in Tokyo, I wouldn't go near a bathhouse. So I don't know the Green Dragon. But if you will look in the English-language newspapers, like Mainichi, you will find many ads.

"... a few of the best restaurants in Honolulu?"

I am partial to the Tahitian Lanai at the Waikikian. Open grass hut decor. Overlooks a lagoon. Excellent food. The Tahitian raw fish cocktail is great and does NOT taste raw.

The Gourmet on Kalakaua boulevard for French type. The Queen's surf is under the coco palms, outdoors beside the sea. Good music. Canlis for the steaks and the house salad.

"With no knowledge of French, will we have difficulty traveling on French railroads?"

IF YOU HAVE many transfers, I think you will. On a straight run, no. Get your train tickets from one of the travel agencies where they speak English. Or just ask the concierge at your hotel to get them.

Get the name of the station — in Paris there are several. Find out what time the train gets to your town. They call it off at the last minute and the porters WON'T COME ABOARD FOR YOUR BAGGAGE. You have it ready and throw it through the window. Fast.

Mountain of Mystery

Typical of the towering formations that have made Zion National Park a long-time favorite of vacationers is the Mountain of Mystery, seen here through the Narrows. The placid appearing stream is the Virgin River whose relentless erosion carved Zion Canyon. Zion National Park is reached easily from Cedar City, Utah.

Destinations and train numbers and time of departure are listed on boards at the head of each track. There are two sides of the ramp. Be sure you get on the train on the correct side.

Dining cars run in two shifts usually. You'll be asked en route which you want. No menu problem since meals are standard.

Your mailed questions will be answered (no phone calls). Send stamped and addressed envelope to Stan Delaplane, Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, Sixth and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Landmarks

Another Historical Landmarker points to Fort Tejon, one of California's outstanding landmarks. In the official register it is known merely as No. 129. The old fort is the foremost remaining evidence in Southern California of the early American occupation period. Tejon is a Spanish and Indian word meaning badger, and was the name given to the original Mexican land grant on which the fort stands, by its owner, Ignacio del Valle.

Fort Tejon was established by the United States Army in 1854, not to protect the white man from the Indians, but to protect the friendly Indians of the southern San Joaquin Valley from the white man. Located in Grapevine Canyon, near Bakersfield, the fort was under the command of Gen. Beale. The area picked for the fort was also considered advantageous because it controlled an important pass through which stolen cattle and horses were driven from the San Joaquin Valley to markets in the southwest. It served for a time as a stage station for the Butterfield Overland Mail.

Although the fort was in operation only 10 years, it was the chief military, social and political center between Miller-ton and Los Angeles. It served also as the regimental headquarters for the First Dragoons, whose activities carried them over much of western America. In 1857, the U. S. Army Camel Corps was stationed at the fort at the direction of Secretary of War Jefferson Davis. The Army planned to use its 28 camels in transporting supplies to isolated outposts in the arid southwest, and for patrol use in controlling hostile Indians. With the outbreak of the Civil War and the subsequent construction of transcontinental railroads, the camels were discontinued by the Army, and in 1864, the fort itself was abandoned.

So the next time you're out Sunday driving and you see a sign beside the highway bearing the legend, "Historical Landmark 500 Feet Ahead," slow down. Around the next curve may be a new adventure in learning and a way to spend a pleasant Sunday afternoon.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the background of the names KERN and KEIRNS.—O. M., O. C., Long Beach; E. K., North Long Beach.

O. M., O. C., E. K.: KERN and KEIRNS have several origins. In Germany KERN was from "korn" meaning "grain," indicating grain-growing ancestors. The German Kern coat-of-arms has a gold cross and two gold stars on a blue shield. In England Kern may have the same meaning as in Germany, or it may be from the ancient Welsh word "karn," a landmark description for a mound of stones over a prehistoric burial mound. In Ireland, both Keirns and Kerns came from the Gaelic word "Ciarr" meaning "dark one."

One Man's Year in Paradise

RALPH VARADAY got a break that many men dream of getting but which never comes their way: He spent a year in Paradise — in the South Seas, all expenses paid — and he tells what happened during that never-to-be-forgotten time in "Many Lagoons" (Morrow, $5).

Varaday's chance came when a friend asked him how he would like to go down to Moorea, an island 11 miles off Tahiti, to see what could be done to improve an 18-acre property — build a house, get the rats out of the coconut trees, declare war on the land crabs, keep an eye on the production of copra, and have fun.

The native Polynesians were friendly from the start and in no time at all they had helped him build his house. He eradicated the rats and reduced the population of land crabs, and then divided his attention on copra and having the time of his life.

Moorea, and all of French Oceania, for that matter, became Varaday's stomping ground. Roaming leisurely from island to island he became infatuated with the Polynesians and their easy-going life. The natives taught him how to take food from the sea and from the trees, the secrets of the pearl divers, their language and their customs. Before he knew it he had grown to love the breezes that blow only over these tropical islands, the cool, clear water of the lagoons, the remoteness and the quiet, and the companionship of the people (he had been on Moorea only a short time when an entire village conspired to supply him with a woman).

Varaday even grew to like the food and he says that raw fish, the Polynesians' main dish, is really not so bad as it sounds. And like he explains everything else, he tells the common method of preparing this food: "Filet the fish thoroughly and cut into dice-size pieces. Put these into a bowl and add the fresh juice of limes until covered. Leave this for two hours and then draw off whatever lime juice that has not soaked into the meat. Add a few slices of tomato, a few raw onion rings and maybe a dash of sliced bell pepper. Do not mash these into the marinated fish, but fold gently. To this, you add coconut cream, made of freshly grated coconut, of course. Now your raw fish is ready to be eaten."

In Tahiti, he learned the history of the islands, became acquainted with rugged schooner captains who by dead reckoning guide their ships through the dangerous coral reefs and remote atolls. Back on Moorea he got his woman. But, like all things too good to be true, his

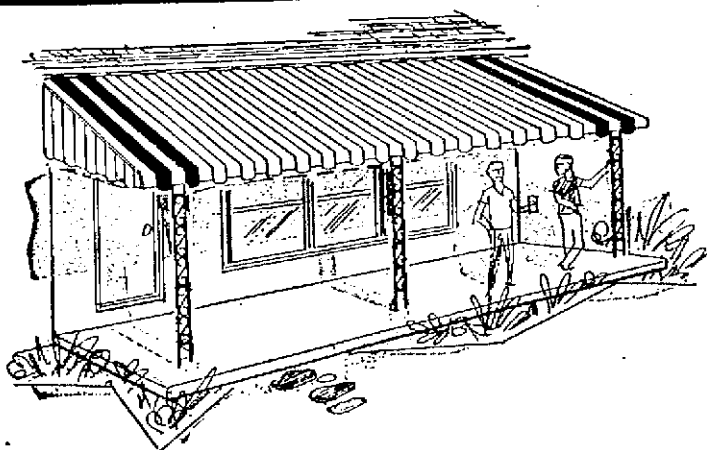

year in paradise was gone before he knew it.

Home again in Los Angeles, Varaday got caught in traffic snarls and the rush-rush of humanity in the big stores. He was unnerved. He drove through Skid Row and was revolted. The caress of the tradewinds was on his cheeks, the whiff of drying vanilla was in his nostrils, the roar of the breakers against beautiful Moorea was in his ears. So what happened? As he wrote the final paragraph of his book, Varaday was 2,000 miles from Southern California — aboard a ship carrying him back to his paradise in the tropics.

"THE NEW DOCTOR" by Elizabeth Seifert (Dodd, Mead, $3.50): Mrs. Seifert was thwarted in her ambition to become a doctor, but she did study some phases of medicine and the anatomy, and later worked as a clinical secretary in a hospital. From this background of training and experience she has written 30-odd novels portraying love and conflict among doctors and their families. The chief protagonist in this story is the son of a beloved man of medicine who comes to a small town as a practicing physician, falls in love with the pretty young administrator of a clinic. She marries him, only to discover he is not dedicated to his profession but a sadist who enjoys seeing his patients die. Suspense races to the dramatic conclusion of a story hard to forget.

"ALL ABOUT MEN" by Joseph H. Peck, M.D. (Prentice, Hall, $3.50): In the preface the author says, "The male child is born sightless, toothless, and with sore genital organs, and all he can do to express his displeasure is kick and yell. Seventy-five years later we find him in the same fix, sans eyes, teeth, and prostate gland, once again unhappy about his situation." Between these pages of

Junior Says What He Thinks

MY 5-YEAR-OLD grand-nephew came home from his Catholic kindergarten.

"I don't think Sister can hear me very well."

"Why not, Charles? Don't you speak loud enough?"

"I think," he said gravely, "Sister could hear better if she took her shirt off her head."—OLIVE V. MARSH, 3833 E. 1st St., Long Beach 3.

MY NIECE Gretchen went to the Catholic Church for the first time. The priest came out followed by the altar boys carrying the train of his robe. In a loud voice she asked, "Mama, is that GOD?"—MARIAN F. DAVIS, 1838 E. 2nd St.,

Long Beach 2.
CHERRYEL, 5, had been taught by her grandmother to salute the Flag. When she saw me she shouted, "I salute the Flag of the United States and the Republicans for which it stands . . ."—MRS. DEEDIE NORTON, 334 W. 4th St., Long Beach.

Where Winged Mercy Will Land

will be here as will be employees locker rooms, lounges and health service facilities.

The hospital is being so constructed that an additional 200 beds can be added at some future date by adding two additional floors at a fraction of the cost involved if the foundations were not especially prepared for this. The service areas also will be capable of expansion to handle an additional 200 patients.

FROM THE GROUND floor or the main floor you may take one of the six elevators to the patient floors.

On the patient floors a new concept has been applied. The hospital will be built primarily with flexibility as its keynote to adapt itself to the many changing conditions.

Nurses stations are constructed with the realization that a hospital is radically different in the night from daytime patient needs.

In the daytime, nurses for each of the three wings on a patient floor will work from a central nursing station, under a director of the floor, with their principal working areas in the patient wings.

At night all nurses will be consolidated in one group working from the central nursing station.

New mothers will leave the elevator at the second floor where the fourth wing will be devoted to the delivery suite. Here there will be four delivery rooms and several labor rooms. However the labor rooms will be a part of the delivery suite, completely equipped so that they could be used for delivery rooms in an emergency.

ONE WING WILL be devoted to the new-born nursery. Gone are the days of the one big nursery with all babies in together. These nurseries will have no more than eight little newcomers in each one.

The remainder of the floor will be devoted to maternity. However, with private lavatories in each room, the flexibility is apparent and one wing might be maternity and one wing surgery cases if this were the need at the moment.

The third floor will be the medical floor with the fourth wing devoted to an intensive medical therapy unit where patients who are critical medical patients will receive the same special care for their illness as the post-operative surgery patient receives in the surgical recovery room. Patient wings will be devoted to medical cases.

THE FOURTH FLOOR will be the pediatric floor with one wing devoted to the pediatric nursery for small children. A gaily decorated playroom will be located here along with the most modern medical equipment for the care of children.

The top floor has three wings with one devoted to a unit to provide care for nervous and mental patients. Here they will have a special nurses' station in the wing, a special lounge and recreation room. However, there will be four rooms especially equipped so that disturbed patients cannot injure themselves.

The central core of all the patient floors will be identical. There will be approximately 100 patients to a floor, which will be staffed and equipped almost like a hospital of that size. The central core will include a medications room, treatment room, visitors lounge, classrooms, housekeeping station, social service facilities, clean and soiled utility areas and a pantry and serving area.

The walls and ceilings, say hospital officials, will be treated with special acoustic material to materially reduce noise and each room will be decorated in soft, pleasing colors.

Hummingbird Haven

By Dr. C. A. Hill

FORTY-FIVE miles due east of Long Beach winds historic Modjeska Canyon. Turning from Santiago Rd. past Cook's Corner, a tree-shaded road winds along the scenic beauty of the Saddleback mountains to one of the most fascinating bird sanctuaries in the United States. This bird refuge is a gift from one of Long Beach's citizens, B. F. Tucker, a former banker, merchant and a philanthropist.

Early in 1916, Tucker purchased a number of acres in Modjeska Canyon. He realized that this was ideal as a location for a bird sanctuary where his developed what is now known as "Tiny Tuckers," hummingbird feeders which are still used. At the end of the first year, one hummingbird and her two young remained. As time passed, hummingbird numbers increased and now, after 15 years, thousands of these birds are fed yearly.

SIX TYPES of these little creatures have been identified, the only permanent residents being the species known as the Anna, The Allan and the Callope are migrants. It is interesting to know that when a hummingbird is pausing for food, its wings beat from 55 to 75 times per second. Their average flight is 80 miles per hour. By a strange coincidence, the hummingbirds that are migrants come to the sanctuary on the same day that the swallows arrive at the Mission of Capistrano and leave at the same time the swallows do, arriving the second day of March and leaving in the second week in October.

Just past the entrance gate, a rustic bridge crosses a clear mountain stream in the approach to the sanctuary. Growing along the stream are many types of protective vegetation, such as the flowering cacti and various types of bush berries, which serve as food for the many birds that make their home around the refuge. The patio adjacent to the house is shaded by numerous overhanging trees on which are attached bird houses of various beautiful designs. At the entrance to the house from a patio, a screened porch with benches offers a resting place where visitors may sit and watch the many bird activities outside the screen. Hanging high outside the porch are many Tiny Tuckers filled with colored water and sugar, and visitors may watch the hummingbirds feeding.

ON THE GROUND, in front of the Observation Porch as it is called, are many feed troughs containing seeds and foods of different varieties, sunflower seeds, barley, corn and mash, as food for the 140 different types of birds that have been identified there.

In the canyon which bears her name, Miss Modjeska, the famous Polish actress, built her home in 1888, now located by an historical marker. There many famous guests, including Sienkiewicz, the author of Quo Vadis; Paderewski, Edwin Booth, Longfellow, and Sarah Bernhardt were entertained. Some of California's exciting early history centered around the Tucker Sanctuary. Modjeska Canyon has been called the "Canyon of Romance and Tragedy." Juan Flores, the bandit, used it as a hideout, silver was discovered nearby, the last grizzly bear killed in California is said to have been shot there.

wife, Dorothy May, a great lover of bird life, could pursue her hobby. A small house was built on the property.

The Tuckers next task was to build feed troughs and bird houses. Noticing that the hummingbirds left after the spring flowers were gone, they experimented by placing cactus flowers in test tubes filled with sugar and water. Later they

his life are many summits to climb, side trips and detours.
This book deals with some of these pitfalls and how Mr. Average Man can avoid them, or make his fall less disastrous. It has its share of philosophy, coupled with good sense and welcome humor.

"BRIGHT HORIZONS" by Helen Lowrie Marshall ($1.50):
This group of poems, authored by a niece of Rex B. Barr, pastor of the Temple of Christian Comradeship at 10th St. and Locust Ave. in Long Beach, are often religious, always inspirational, and they have grace and rhythm. In the basement of her home in Denver, with the help of a brother, Helen Marshall printed and bound the book—beautifully.

"THE WILL TO LIVE" by Arnold A. Hutchnicker, M.D.
(Prentice, Hall, $4.95): Is life worthwhile? In this revised edition of an immensely popular work Dr. Hutchnicker points out that the mind and body are one, and then outlines a simple plan for greater health which, in turn, heightens the zest for life.

"JOURNEY TO JAVA" by Harold Nicolson (Doubleday, $5): On the eve of his 70th birthday friends presented Sir Harold, writer and BBC broadcaster, with a sizable check which he spent on a voyage to Java with his wife. This is an account of that happy time by a man who loves life with a great devotion, who believes like Montaigne that "I try to delay the velocity of its (life's) flight by the velocity with which I grasp it," and along the way finds time for some very worthwhile philosophy. It's a book that's hard to lay down.

"THE WHEEL OF EARTH"
by Helga Sandburg (McDowell, Obolensky, $4.95): So deeply infused was Ellen Gaddy's love of farm ways that neither poverty nor the cruelty of nature could lead her to give in to the blandishments of a well-to-do uncle and an easy life in the big city. Her tyrannical father drove her at her chores.
A fleeting love affair left her with an illegitimate son. Another love affair ended in death and destruction all about her.
Yet her love of the soil and what it would grow and the animals it would nurture never grew dim. The daughter of the poet Carl Sandburg has written a novel about people whose lives are bound to the earth which will be read with excitement and remembered.

In the World of Dogs

By Eleanor Avery Price

THEME OF the Hobby Show to be held in the Municipal Auditorium Thursday through Sunday is "Hobbies From All Over the World." Those who pause to look and to talk at the first booth inside the entrance—and that will include just about all visitors—will decide that, with such fine people as Mr. and Mrs. Leland Schenck, 35 Savona Walk, pressing for better understanding and care of canines, it's a pretty wonderful world for dogs.

The Schencks have studied and worked for 12 years toward a goal of making and keeping Japanese spaniel a beautiful, sturdy and delightful toy dog. They have also searched constantly for new ideas in dog care, thus helping many hundreds of pet owners, here and abroad, with problems. For this reason they have been asked again to display their dogs and to answer questions on dog care at the hobby show. This will be their seventh year of participation in this event.

ONE VERY important point gleaned by the Schencks is that a little different approach is needed in obedience training of sensitive, yearning-to-please toy breeds, most of whom were originated in the first place to be pampered darlings of royalty. Too severe regimentation is not for them, and sometimes the toys, although anxious to make their owners proud of them, find that clipping along in a military-like manner is very foreign to their natural inclinations.

Also, being gentle as a rule and small, the toy dogs should be placed in the class only near mild-mannered canines. Observation has shown that toys sometimes tremble pitifully around dogs with aggressive tendencies, but, because they want only to please their owners, they seldom fight the lead.

So, undoubtedly the Schencks know whereof they speak when they suggest that professional trainers or owner-trainers deal very cautiously with toy breeds and in no way break their merry, scampering inclinations.

ONE SHOULD never, however, think of toy dogs as sissies. Many of them have earned obedience points with as much ease as larger breeds. And they make excellent pals, even for the menfolk.

There is the case of two young men, Allan K. Ahlander and Richard DeLong, both of Portuguese Bend, who yearned for pets but felt that since no one was at home during the day they should forego this pleasure. The young bachelors met the Schencks at a Hobby Show and learned from them how to keep pets happy during their absence, and now they own not only Siamese cats but also Japanese spaniels which they enjoy entering in dog shows.

HOW TO Clean and Restore Dried Paint Brush

1. SOAK BRUSH in paint remover or commercial cleaner for 10 minutes or so. If brush is really caked with paint, you may have to soak it longer to give solution time to soften the dried paint—especially in the heel. So solvent has chance to act; part bristles with putty knife from time to time. For brushes hardened with water-based paints, soak in warm, soapy water.

2. COMB OUT all softened paint you can. Then resoil the bristles, wash them in turpentine, and comb out residue until the bristles are "squeaky" clean. For best results, separate bristles and clean out paint "well" at base of ferrule. Putty knife does fast job on caked paint. You can buy paintbrush combs.

3. WASH BRUSH with soap and water. A cup of turpentine to about a quart of water aids the washing process. Wash brush until ALL traces of paint have disappeared from bristles and at base of ferrule. Then rinse in clean water and comb out any snarls. Wedge of hardened paint at base of ferrule will cause brush to bulge at top and flare out at bottom like a cheap whiskbroom.

4. CLEAN DRIED PAINT from the handle, around the the brush. Use wire brush teamed with putty knife to get off paint completely. If you can't remove all paint from outer bristles next to heel, try going over them VERY LIGHTLY with tip end of your wire brush. Paint remover sometimes helps.

5. STRAY BRISTLES — the ones that don't hang with the rest — should be plucked out with edge of putty knife or scraper. Slip bristle over edge of tool, as shown, and snap it off against edge of ferrule. Or cut it off with pocket knife.

6. TO RESHAPE BRUSH that's warped, clean and soak it thoroughly in linseed oil. Then wrap brush tightly in several thicknesses of waxed paper or aluminum foil, forming it into its original wedge shape. Let brush set for at least 48 hours and remove linseed-oil residue with turpentine. To hold wrapping paper on, use several rubber bands around lower part of ferrule and handle.

Colorful Bonus Shrub

By Gladys Diesing

POMEGRANATE, Punica granatum, is a flowering shrub with a bonus of fruit in the fall. During the summer it carries a continual display of orange-red flowers with petals like crinkled tissue paper. As summer wanes the bases of the flowers swell into fruit, each still retaining the flower calyx in a circle of leathery points. As fall comes, the fruits gradually take on a reddish hue and climax as scarlet globes hanging from the branches now covered with a golden cloak of leaves. They persist for some time on the tree; finally, if not picked, they break open to display juicy red seeds inside.

Brought indoors the fruits make a colorful centerpiece. The multitude of seeds inside the heavy rind are covered with a juicy pulp which is the edible portion of the fruit. This juice finds culinary use in drinks and sherbets and the seeds, picked from the fruit by small fingers, are beloved by children. In fact, the fruit makes something different for "Trick-or-Treat," ripening as it does just at Halloween.

The pomegranate grows as a many-stemmed shrub 10-15 feet (Continued on Page 40.)

Tipping down the long branches, scarlet fruit appears on the pomegranate in autumn. Shrub blooms all summer.

Tips on Gardening

GARDEN TIPS for the week . . . Chrysanthemum cuttings that are started now require an open exposure and lots of water. It is advisable to keep them pinched back until about July, thus preventing their becoming woody before flowering time.

Hawaiian tree ferns will add a cooling effect to your garden.

It is advisable, when watering African violets, to have the temperature of the water the same temperature as that of the room. Otherwise, the plant may be badly shocked.

high and 8-12 feet in diameter. It may be kept to a more tree-like form if the suckers spreading out from the base are removed, leaving only a few stems to form the plant.

SHOULD THERE NOT be room for such a large shrub, the pomegranate also comes in a dwarf form, P.g. nana, growing only to three feet. The flowers and fruit appear while the plant is still very young, often on a plant only 12 inches high. The fruit, though, is dry and cannot be eaten. This plant is almost evergreen in the Long Beach climate. It makes a trim little plant for container growing.

The pomegranate is not a temperamental plant, growing in almost any soil and with ordinary watering. Neither is it an especial prey for insects. Plenty of sunshine and summer heat are most conducive of abundant flowers and fruit.

Tip on Primroses

Primroses may be divided and replanted after they have bloomed. Many varieties of primroses are finishing their spring bloom now and others will do so in the next month.

Check local nurseries now for bedding plants of perennials for your garden. Carnations, geraniums and Shasta daisies are among the lovely flowers available.

Bit of screen in bottom of pot acts as pest barrier.

HERE'S AN IDEA!

Plant Protection

INSECTS sometimes enter the drainage hole of flower pots, and damage plants. This is especially true if pots rest on the ground or on concrete. Keep bugs out by putting a piece of screen over the hole before filling it with drainage material and soil. Pests will then have to go elsewhere for their dinners!—ALAN W. FARRANT.

Whenever you plant vegetables, remember the soil is important to the quality of the food. It's a good thing to disinfect the soil in which you plant them with a copper-ether material which doesn't sterilize the soil or injure the plants. Then a little later, fortify that soil with some good mineral elements which will add food value to the crop and make the plants sturdy all through the season. I have a bulletin on vegetables and a bulletin on tomatoes, both free on request. Write direct to Dorothy Johnson, 208 W. California St., Pasadena, Calif.

There is a material on the market in a beautiful handy dust gun that you can use to dust your vegetables all through the season without leaving a residue that spoils the flavor or without making the food unfit for human consumption.

One word of caution . . . Don't plant tomatoes too early. Wait until we have warm nights as well as warm days. They'll grow all the faster under proper growing conditions.

Natives in the Garden

By Betty DeWeese

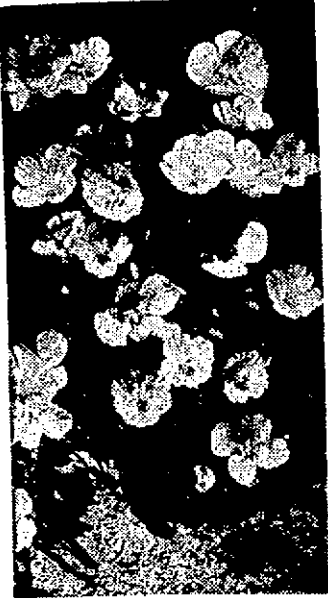

TWO California natives which will gracefully accommodate themselves to our cultivated gardens are Clarkia and California Poppy.

Clarkia elegans, the Mountain Garland, grows in slender spikes about three feet tall, each stem lined with very double flowers in shades of yellow, orange, salmon, pink and red. A smaller form C. pulchella grows only to one foot.

The flowers are annual and last only a short time in the spring, but they are well worth planting for the bright mass of color which they bring. They make splendid cut flowers with their graceful stems; they last a long time indoors which is an added virtue. When grown for cutting, they do best when planted thickly in rows.

Eschscholtzia Californica, the California Poppy, growing to one foot in height makes an attractive edging for drives or will spread over a hillside where it will bloom in a sheet of brilliant color. Hybrids come in single and double forms with colors from cream to orange, red and some pastels. The satiny flowers are from two to three inches across and close at night. The blooming period lasts from spring on well into summer.

Both of these flowers are best grown from seed and in the spot where they are to bloom as they take not too kindly to transplanting. Seed may be planted either in spring or fall. These flowers will naturalize with others such as godetia, gillia and others and by self-sowing will come back year after year.

Photos by the Author

Many Long Beach gardeners have brought the poppy to their flower beds for its cheery springtime colors.

Any Time Is Picture Time

their picture taking activities by the summer sun. Particularly in the northern sections of the country, the camera comes out with the bathing suit and summer shorts. Then, when vacation is over and school starts, it is packed away with the summer clothes.

At this moment a country-wide campaign is being made to overcome that habit.

Obviously, the first thing necessary is to get the cameras off the shelves, out of drawers and boxes and into use. To start a mass movement for all these hidden cameras, the photo industry has come up with a slogan: "May Time is Picture Time."

I think an even better slogan is "Any Time is Picture Time" and make it a year round effort.

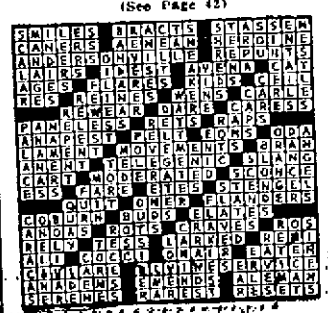

If this campaign catches fire, there are bound to be times when the casual snapshotter is going to run into problems. He may be using a new type of film and may not know the proper guide number of his flashbulb or the right filter factor.

His problems would be solved if he happened to have handy the new "Pocket Photo Data Book" compiled and published by Morgan & Morgan, N. Y. This collection of useful photo information has been carefully edited into loose-leaf notebook size, small enough to fit in a lady fan's handbag, a man's coat pocket or anyone's gadget bag.

IT INCLUDES the latest film speeds (as of February, 1958), guide numbers for floodlights and flash, color film data, filter factors, depth of field table and formulas for developers, toners, fixers, reducers and intensifiers. The film speeds are in ASA Exposure indexes and in Weston Speeds. A conversion table for other foreign systems is also added.

ATTENTION of all shutterbugs is called to a "concours d'elegance" to be held May 18 at the Hacienda in the Palos Verdes Hills above San Pedro. With a gorgeous marine view, golf course, swimming pool, attractive buildings and surroundings, lovely models and well-known personalities, plus a collection of glamorous motor cars, the event should prove stimulating to amateur and professional photographers alike. Frank Mason of the Long Beach MG Club is concours chairman.

BOAT TALK

Masters for Pay

By Bob Ruskau

OFFHAND, it seems, if there were any job which a sea-faring man could envy, it would be that held by the bulk of the members of the Yacht Masters and Engineers Club of Calif., Inc.

Why do we believe this?

"We were organized in 1934 with eight charter members," said Jack Johannessen, secretary for most of the years since that date. "Now we're 120, mostly captains with only five or six engineers."

"Mostly, we are a social organization though an objective is to help members obtain jobs."

So, who are these Masters for Pay and what are their jobs?

THEY ARE THE MEN who command the larger yachts; the elite of the vast Corinthian armada that make home port in Southland waters, but ply the seas and oceans of the world.

Theirs is a serious job, but they love it and their worry is purely professional.

If they get along with the wealthy owners ("and most of them are pretty fine and understanding people") their lot is certainly better than that of many in other fields.

Nothing fly-by-night, because Maritime Law specifies that yachts over a certain tonnage (we loaned our Lloyd's Register to a friend four years ago, but think it's over 200 tons) must carry a licensed officer both on deck and in the engine room.

SO THE JOB is pretty steady. Capt. Johannessen was for 12 years skipper of the late Don Lee's Melody. This palatial 145-foot Diesel cruiser, which did Coast Guard service during War II, is now the property of a Brazilian entrepreneur (a fancy word for big shot).

Roy Martin of Naples, one of the younger members, is the licensed skipper aboard Harold Hecht's M-sloop Pursuit, now doing a beautiful job in off-shore racing.

BUT MANY ARE old salts with 30 to 40 years' experience.

Earl Schine commands Valor, big two-masted schooner which often lends glamour to Newport Harbor, her home port (right off Highway 101), but "she's now in the east much of the time; is presently in the Caribbean."

For Capt. Henry Angelsen of Puritan, another grand two-master, there's at least one voyage a year off Mexico and a deal of cruising in these waters.

Capt. William B. Studley takes his trips abroad the big Diesel cruiser, Caronia.

There's responsibility to be sure in commanding these immaculate, costly floating homes — aye, palaces. Yet, if there were any job which . . .

BOAT HOOKS: On today's schedule of marine sport, the unlimited hydroplanes launch their 1958 high point season in finals of the Apple Cup regatta on Lake Chelan, Wash.; Newport Harbor and Balboa Yacht Clubs' joint spring regatta ends; the huge outboard fleet returns from a family cruise, Newport to Avalon and, at Blythe a stock outboard marathon is scheduled on the Colorado River.

PAT PATRICK
Irish? Sure

Caricature by Milt Reppert

SURE AN' there's a very good reason why the menus at Pat's restaurant, Woodruff and Carson St., are printed in green ink and owner Pat Patrick wears a shamrock tie clasp.

Sure an' it's because Pat is as Irish as County Cork and Newtownmountkenedy, a town on the east coast of the Auld Sod. Although born in San Diego, Pat acts like an Irishman, dresses like one and has decorated his good-looking dining room and cocktail lounge (called the Clover Room, hatch) in light and dark greens.

With 16 years of restaurant experience behind him, Pat knows exactly what to serve his patrons to bring smiles to their lips and comments like: "Tis marvelous sea food ye be sarvin' here, Pat, me boy!" One of the house specialties is Sea Food Brochette, a dish combining shrimp, scallops and halibut broiled together on a skewer with mushrooms, onions and peppers (the latter are green, of course.) Complemented by a creamy special sauce, the Brochette is served for $1.75 on a meal which includes soup du jour or a giant salad with choice of dressing, chilled relishes, large fresh baked potato with cheese sauce and fluffy hot rolls.

PAT'S charcoal-broiled steaks are also highly raveworthy. They are the 12-ounce top sirloin, $2.85, 14-ounce New York Steak, $3.25, filet mignon, $3.25, and Spencer Steak, $2.75. All are served with the previously mentioned dinner items; plus onion rings and choice of beverage. Also featured are numerous other sea food items, pan fried chicken and an exotic Japanese dish, Tangiyaki Shishkabob (cuts of top sirloin with herbs and mushrooms), $2.10.

Complete luncheons are served daily from $1 up, offering a variety of entrees. Open seven days a week, from 8 a.m. to 3 a.m., Pat's serves luncheons from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., dinners from 4 to 10 p.m., later on weekends.

FAMILY FOURSOME: Author Lupino and husband Howard Duff, Mr. Adams and Eve (CBS-TV), share a quiet moment with daughter Bridget and pet dog.

How I fell in love with my man

by IDA LUPINO

Remember the radio program Sam Spade? A few years ago it was my favorite. "Favorite"? I was sappy about it. Nights it came on, I wouldn't make appointments or even answer the phone. I just wanted to sit and be wafted away in romantic dreams by the deep, wonderful voice of the man who played the title role.

A good friend of mine, the late producer-writer Mark Hellinger, knew of my infatuation with Sam Spade's voice. One day he offered to arrange a meeting.

"Nothing doing," I said. "Chances are he's a funny-looking old man with few teeth and lots of kids. I'd rather just keep my dream."

"Look," Mark said, "I'll bet you $15 that he can't be half that bad." Well, I took him on.

Several weeks later Mark asked me to his office. "I called you to settle a bet," he said. He opened the door to the next room and a man walked in. "Ida," Mark said, "I want you to meet Howard Duff, the chap who plays Sam Spade."

I took one look, opened my purse, paid the $15.

But I still was in for disillusionment. After that I met Howard at several Hollywood parties — and we didn't get along at all. Before long we weren't even speaking to each other. When I found that Howard and I actually were cast in the same movie, I refused to accept the role until I was faced down by a whole battery of studio lawyers.

Then, the first day on the set, Howard walked up to me and handed me a beautiful orchid. Along with it went his best smile. Right then is when I fell in love with Howard Duff — the man, not the voice.

In my most queenly, gracious manner, I said, "Thank you very much," turned, and with all eyes on me, began to walk away. As an actress I knew I was carrying off the scene beautifully — until I tripped over a camera cord and sat solidly on the floor.

And right then, Howard says, is when he first fell in love with me.

On Parade

We think we bring you a pretty fair little magazine every Sunday. So do a lot of people, to judge by the nice comments we get. Now another "vote of approval" has come PARADE's way: medical writer Robert P. Goldman has been named to the Committee on Education and Public Information of the American Heart Association.

The Association is America's top fund-raising and fact-spreading group in the all-out war on our worst killer, heart disease. The committee makes national policy on furthering this highly desirable work. On the committee are a number of noted medical men — and just one magazine representative, our man.

Goldman was chosen after producing scores of PARADE articles, many of which you surely have read. Today, he helped prepare the piece on pp. 26-27 by Dr. Paul Dudley White, heart consultant to the President.

Small complaint from the Buffalo Bill Museum in Cody, Wyo., one of the six great tourist attractions co-operating with PARADE in our special 1958 Turnpike Guidebook offer (see p. 17). Seems we placed the Museum on the highway "near" Cody when we described it in our April 20 issue; actually, it's right at the edge of town. We also said it contains Buffalo Bill's ranch house, when actually it's a faithful replica. Apologies to our friends at the Museum. Assurances that you'll enjoy it when you go there.

Intriguing letter from Ross Thomas, 9, of La Mesa, Calif.: "You mentioned [Mar. 16] a dog who is a vegetarian. We also have an unusual dog. He picks, peels and eats tangerines. But he does not pick up the peelings."

Naturally not, Ross. They don't appeal to him.

Rambler Rescues Man From Monster by Chas Addams

This monster owned a man. The man didn't know this. He thought he owned the monster (which was really a big gas hog of a car), but it knew better.

It drank up the family's grocery money at gas pumps. It lived like a king, while the man and his family got thinner and thinner. Their clothes were threadbare.

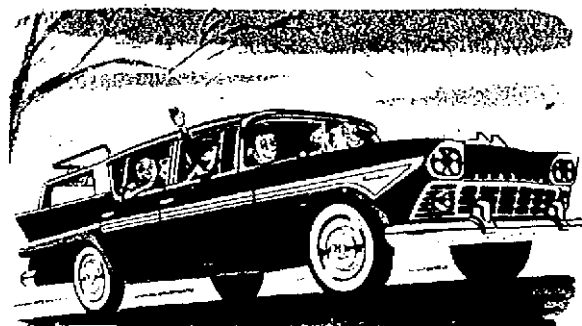

Finally, the man said: "I've had it. Let's swap for a little European car." "Sh-h-h," said his wife, "the monster might hear you. Besides, no room for the kids."

Then they saw a Rambler with big car room, small car economy, squeezed the monster into two parking spaces and ran to the Rambler dealer.

"Please rescue us from the monster," they said. So he showed them the Rambler Cross Country 6 that set the NASCAR record—14 a mile for gas, with overdrive.

They bought it. Soon they had plenty of money. The kids got fat and rosy-cheeked. If you own a monster, or it owns you, why not see your Rambler dealer?

Sweet and sour notes

by PAUL STEINER

A farm wife of Bogart, Ga., reported that the only way she can bridle her husband's mule is to start singing when she enters the barn. The mule stands listening, open-mouthed.

A disgruntled Tennessee husband filed a cross-bill for divorce, charging his wife wrote a song describing their married life. The song's title: Thirty Months in Hell.

A confused music-lover stole a ukelele from a home in Santa Monica, Calif.—plus a book entitled How to Play the Harmonica.

In a note to authorities, prisoners in a Swedish jail complained their nerves were being shattered by jazz music from a fairground just outside the walls. "This infernal noise," they wrote, "penetrates the closed doors and windows so that we cannot sleep. We were sentenced to hard labor, not torture."

A sheriff in Dyersburg, Tenn., didn't mind hillbilly music in his jail until he investigated some persistent guitar-playing prisoners, caught three others who were keeping time with hacksaw blades on the bars of their cell.

A Cleveland woman was granted a divorce when she named a baby grand piano as "No. 1 co-respondent." She testified that "my husband's first love was that baby grand. He neglected his work to play it and was up all hours of the night with it."

A musician in Euclid, Ohio, complained he kept receiving police broadcasts on his electric guitar.

Thieves who stole a record player from a Lowell, Mass., home returned three days later, took an album of records.

Similarly, a young wife complained in a Chicago court about a whistling teakettle. Her husband, she testified, kept it going on the fire continuously because "it was his symphony and he wanted it to play." When she removed it, she said, he hit her.

Charged with setting fire to his family's home three times in one week, a youth in San Marino, Calif., flabbergasted firemen who found him each time quietly sitting in the living room playing classical records. Said he: "Beethoven thrills me."

During a clean-up drive in Watertown, N. Y., rubbish-collection trucks were equipped with devices that played recorded music.

A woman in Chicago won a divorce after testifying she helped her husband write four songs—which he subsequently dedicated to four other women.

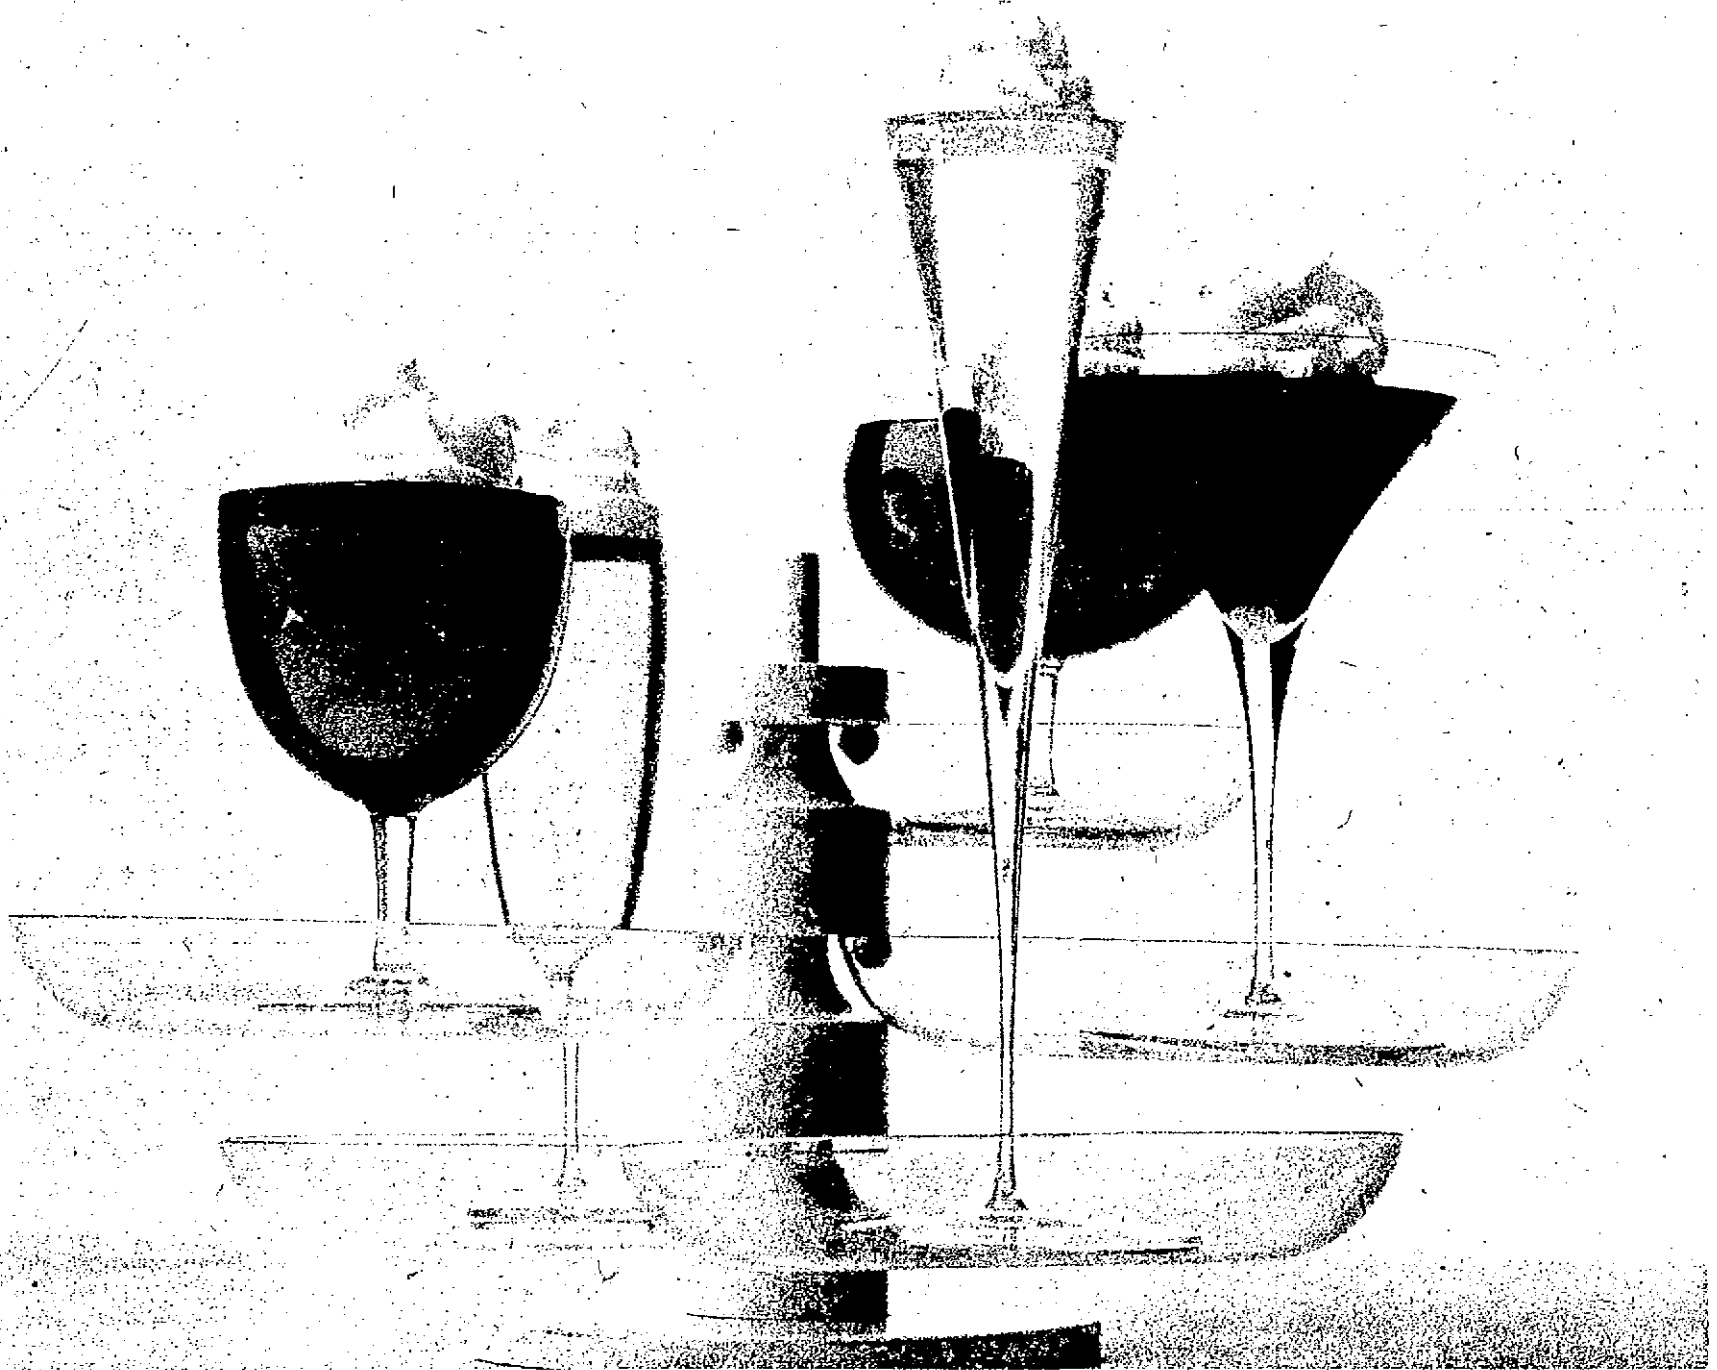

Tapping her toe in time to radio music in her car, a woman in Boonville, Mo., came down too hard on the accelerator, lost control of the car, hit another. Damage: $25.

Charged in a London court with playing in the streets for coins, a saxophonist won acquittal after telling the judge he did so because acoustics there were better than in the big concert halls.

A Salt Lake City restaurateur, a jazz fan all his life, directed in his will that he wanted a hot jazz beat at his funeral—no organ music or eulogies.

In Los Angeles, a famous violinist stormed from the stage, complaining that a chirping cricket in a potted palm in the auditorium disturbed his performance.

Charged with bopping his partner in an impromptu midnight duet and landing him in a hospital, a man in San Jose, Calif., explained: "That guy was singing out of tune."

New CURAD® with non-sticking Telfa® pad won't hurt when you take it off...won't reopen healing wounds

Not this!

Bandage with ordinary gauze pad sometimes pulls off scab, reopens wound, causes bleeding.

Now this!

CURAD Bandage with Telfa pad, free of scab, peels off without sticking to wound, doesn't hurt.

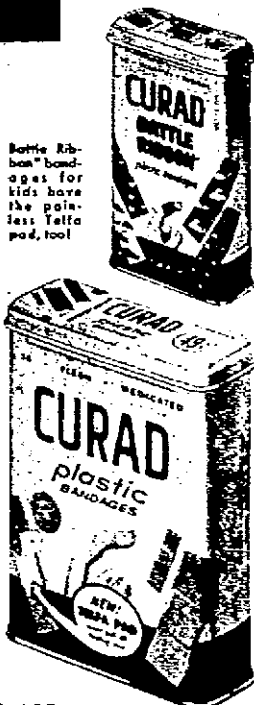

Here's why: The pad in the Curad adhesive bandage is the exclusive new Telfa.

Telfa is "the mercy dressing" that the nation's leading hospitals are using to prevent damage to healing skin tissue... speed wound recovery.

It has a plastic surface with scores of tiny holes in it that does the trick—allows wound to drain, but doesn't stick to the scab. So when you take it off, it won't reopen the cut.

Don't take a chance on hurting your children. Get a new Curad (the waterproof plastic bandage with germ-fighting medication right in the pad, too).

OLD LOOK, snapped on a Tunis street, covers everything but hands, part of feet. Veils help identify Arab groups: Berbers wear white or black, Bedouins red or blue.

The veil comes off

TUNIS, TUNISIA. Though this North African capital is a focus in the struggle between French and Arabs, one fact is clear: officially, Tunisia leans toward the Western way of life. Recent proof is President Habib Bourguiba's decree recommending that women give up the traditional Moslem veil. The women are cautious, particularly in the provinces. But even there the younger generation is setting the example. As these photos suggest, bare faces all over Tunisia now seem only a matter of time. ■

NEW LOOK, seen at a political rally, shows veils dropped (foreground), discarded (left). A new Bourguiba law ends another old Moslem custom: polygamy.

COULD YOUR CHILD BECOME A DELINQUENT?

Here is a surprisingly simple way to answer a question raised by practically every parent. Already this yardstick has proved 80 to 90 per cent accurate

by JOSEPH KAHN

Could your child become a delinquent?

If you are an average American parent, you have been shocked by the recurring headlines about troubled teenagers, the gang battles, the vandalism, the trials, the inevitable sentences — and the tragic waste of youthful promise. Probably you have asked yourself that ominous question.

Now there is a way to get the answer with remarkable accuracy. Presented here for the first time is a proved self-examination to measure your child's "delinquency potential" by measuring you — his parent.

The test on the opposite page, developed by PARADE, is based on a scientific yardstick devised by the New York City Youth Board. Using it for the past six years, the Board has predicted delinquent behavior months, even years before it occurs.

Among one group of 220 youngsters, Youth Board predictions of delinquency proved accurate in 195 cases. Overall the predictions have been 80 to 90 per cent accurate. Among children rated as potential non-delinquents, the predictions have been about 90 per cent accurate.

Above all, the Board has learned that if pre-delinquent symptoms can be spotted, something can be done about them.

Five Keys to Delinquency

The self-test offered here evolves from research launched more than a decade ago. Drs. Sheldon and Eleanor Glueck, of the Harvard University Law School, worked out the original formula.

Comparing 500 delinquent boys with 500 non-delinquents over a 10-year period, the Gluecks found that such factors as poverty, poor housing and broken homes were not necessarily crucial in producing delinquent youngsters.

They did find five factors which differentiated the two groups. They are: 1) discipline by father, 2) supervision by mother, 3) affection of father, 4) affection of mother and 5) cohesiveness of family.

In determining the delinquency potential of a given youngster, each of these qualities is graded and scored. Thus, according to the Gluecks and the Youth Board, parental attitudes and actions in themselves provide the key to delinquency.

An overstrict, harsh, unreasoning father — in contrast to a firm, kindly one — is scored low. A careless mother who allows her child to roam the streets is rated poor. Hostile, indifferent, rejecting parents get "no-passing" grades.

This formula has served as the basis of an eight-year experiment started by Ralph Whelan, energetic director of the Youth Board. Having worked with the Gluecks in Boston, Whelan figured that their findings could be used to predict potential delinquency. He and other Youth Board staffers then adapted the Glueck research to their own needs.

The Board has found that future delinquency best can be predicted when a boy (or girl) is between 4 and 7, the years when long-range behavior patterns begin to emerge. However, PARADE's self-test can be valuable to any parent and any child.

Are there actual pre-delinquent symptoms to watch for? The Youth Board says yes. They may include anxiety, fear, lying, stealing, even muscular tics. Note the word may. All these may indicate emotional disturbance, but they also may be routine among young children and soon outgrown. The key still seems to be: How do parents treat their children?

Delinquent behavior itself has various definitions, but authorities consulted by PARADE agreed on a simple working description. A child is delinquent, they said, if his actions repeatedly bring him to the attention of the police. This rules out most pranksters and practical jokers, most children saddled with excess nervous energy.

Delinquency is marked by repeated, active rebellion against authority. The child usually is extroverted and lacks remorse feelings. Often he is so defiant that he will not take discipline at home, in school or from outside agencies. He usually steers away from supervised activities, even athletics.

To collect data about a specific child, Youth Board interviewers see the child's parents. The child himself is never interviewed. Based solely on parental attitudes and actions, plus information from social agencies, the Youth Board rates the probability of delinquency.

Your Job As You See It

Success in making the predictions has been so stunning to date that Whelan believes that agencies which deal with problem children "might focus their major preventive programs on the family rather than on the child."

The test offered here gauges the major areas of a child's relationship with his parents, as seen through the parents' eyes. In taking the test, you can measure your effectiveness as a parent as well as learn what direction your child is heading.

The value of the test depends largely on how honest you are with yourself. You must answer the questions honestly, not as you think they should be answered, if you expect to wind up with accurate information.

If you have more than one child, test yourself separately for each one, since relationships differ between parents and individual children.

Remember, too, that this test measures "delinquency potential." If you get a low score, pay special attention to the section following the test. That will tell you what you can do to decrease your child's delinquency potential.

Either parent can answer Questions 1 through 23. However, the remaining questions are designed specifically for the father and mother.

AN 11-YEAR-OLD gets some advice. The advice is, in part, to accept authority now, and sleep it away from delinquency later.

Parents: answer these questions honestly

- 1 Do you know most of your child's friends? YES ☐ NO ☐
- 2 Are they welcome in your home? YES ☐ NO ☐
- 3 Are you active in encouraging your child's activities, interests, hobbies? YES ☐ NO ☐

The scoring and meaning of your answers

The more questions you answered "Yes," the less chance your child has of becoming a delinquent. Each "Yes" answer rates 1 point. A score of 18 or above indicates that your child has a very low delinquency potential. That is, he is very unlikely to go astray.

A score of 13 to 17 means he has a better than average chance of turning into a good, wholesome citizen.

A score of 9 to 12 calls for some serious self-analysis on your part.

A score of 8 or less means that you would be wise to seek outside help in reshaping your attitudes toward child-rearing.

Don't let a few "No" answers alarm you. They turn up in just about every family. But do analyze your "No" answers. Talk them over with your spouse. Don't approach the subject with a chip on your shoulder. Admit your faults. Talk them out. Remember: Most "No's" can be changed with some effort, a revised attitude or routine.

Look at Question 4, for example. If household chores preclude "alone-time" with the child, reevaluate your routine. Something can be done. Children rarely need (or want) an hour or even a half-hour. A few minutes' extra attention can do the trick.

A "No" to Question 16 may require some investigation on your part. Why doesn't the child think you are fair? Are you too severe? If necessary, talk to the youngster himself. Does he feel that the only attention you give him involves punishment? Draw him out.

It is desirable — and logical — to give all the questions such thoughtful analysis. Further, the Youth Board advises:

If solutions cannot be found around the family table and you honestly believe you are doing everything possible, talk out your problems with other parents, school officials, your minister, doctor or family service agency. Don't be afraid to go to them. They stand ready to help.

Above all, don't be content to let a "No" answer stand. If you do, you are admitting failure — either your own or some other family member's. And failure can contribute to the very thing this article is designed to help avert — delinquency in your home. ■

Now it can be told: the saga of
Col. Robert Throckmorton Lincoln

by WALTER WAGER

Various things may be on the agenda when President Eisenhower next meets Premier Khrushchev — but one item certain not to be discussed is Yankee super-spy Robert T. Lincoln.

Master marksman, ace pilot, code-buster, linguist and ladies' man, Lincoln first hit Asian headlines in 1948. It was then that Radio Moscow revealed he was being transferred from Turkey to Iran to work with the new American ambassador, John C. Wiley.

Soon the Soviet airwaves hummed with reports of Lincoln's bold anti-Russian campaign among the Kurdish tribes along Iran's sensitive northern frontier. This was serious: Iran was fighting for her life against Red infiltration and subversion. Pitted against an army of Communists was the small band led by Robert Throckmorton Lincoln.

The mystery man was tabbed as a former rum-runner with piercing gray eyes and the manner of a Southern gentleman. It was rumored that he'd been born in Slippery Rock, Ark., on October 10, 1909, starred in football at the local State Teachers' College.

Exact information was lacking — until a senior official of the U.S. Embassy "accidentally" lost a brief case filled with Top Secret documents. Within a few days, agents of Russian, Iranian and British intelligence knew that the repeal of Prohibition had turned Lincoln in 1933 from rum-running to a career as a confidence man — and then, via the back door, to counterespionage.

Where there's Life...there's Bud®

Budweiser®

ASK THE MAN BEHIND THE BAR if he knows of any other beer whose ingredients are printed on the label. On bottles, cans... yes, and on every barrel of Budweiser draught.

Finally our operative was trapped—not by Reds, but by a noted U.S. newsman

While Teheran buzzed with Lincoln's exploits, Ambassador Wiley blandly shrugged off questions. Meanwhile Russian code teams were cracking message after message from Wiley to the then Major in a dozen frontier towns.

The man seemed to be everywhere. One Iranian reporter phoned his paper that Lincoln had landed at Tabriz in the U.S. military attaché's plane. Another Teheran daily learned that Lincoln had gone to Damascus to woo the shapely sister of Syrian dictator Shishkeky. Soviet pursuers floundered in his wake.

Lincoln's romantic activities led to complications when it was learned that he had a wife in Springfield, Mass., two Kurdish sighs and an exotically beautiful friend named Magda Obolensky Brown. The latter, the White Russian widow of an American airman, was whispered to be both courier and confidante of the incredible Major.

Soviet frustration over l'affaire Lincoln wasn't eased by the arrival in Iran of Maj. Gen. William J. ("Wild Bill") Donovan, wartime chief of the Office of Strategic Services. On March 31, 1949, Donovan sent Wiley the following coded wire from Northern Iran:

"For publicity purposes, my visit is pleasure; actually I am out to investigate Lincoln's activities. Reports of his excesses among the Kurdish women have reached the President, and while he's one of our best operators, he's got to get on the beam morally."

Enter Admiral Wrong

Apparently even spymaster Donovan couldn't overtake the elusive Major, for reports continued to pour in about Lincoln's political (and amatory) triumphs. Sparked by Russia's failure to quash one lone Yankee operative, the Iranian government began to take a stronger anti-Soviet position. And, by mid-1949, the Reds were further aggravated by the reported arrival of more U.S. agents—Col. Coleman B. Cole of Army Intelligence, Adm. Richard Wright Wrong of Naval Intelligence, Elmo C. Rover and Roy Chapman Andreyev of Central Intelligence.

Purpose of this high-powered group was to back up Lincoln's efforts—but some friction developed. By the time Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas reached Iran in 1950, the Major was in a state of wrath over being so heavily outranked and over the delays in paying his expense accounts. Douglas so informed Ambassador Wiley, who telegraphed back: "Promotion coming through very soon. Will send funds immediately. Assure Lincoln his work highly thought of here and in Washington."

PUCKISH Justice Douglas: He furthered Lincoln's career during Iranian visit and later in U.S.

In Teheran, Douglas asked John Wiley who this Lincoln fellow really was. Wiley opened his safe and took out a dossier... Back in Washington, Douglas smilingly told newsmen: "Lincoln was my constant companion on every one of my missions."

The end of Colonel Lincoln came abruptly in April, 1950. Ironically, his downfall was not at the hands of the Reds. He was exposed by a distinguished American journalist, C. L. Sulzberger of the New York Times. Visiting Wiley in Teheran, he asked some blunt questions. The gist of the interview, published on the front page of the Times, was this:

At Last the Truth

"The most successful, dramatic, spectacular and romantic secret intelligence agent ever employed by the United States Government" did not exist. There wasn't any Robert Throckmorton Lincoln. It was all a joke—one of diplomacy's great gags.

In fact, as former Ambassador Wiley recently revealed for the first time, the Russians had played the joke on themselves. Wiley explains that he was checking over translations of Soviet propaganda broadcasts shortly after his arrival at his Teheran post in 1948, when he noticed repeated mention of a mythical U.S. spy whom some bored Soviet propagandist had dubbed "Major Lincoln." Thus began a genial conspiracy between the Ambassador and a whole string of distinguished American visitors, all the way up to the Supreme Court.

Despite the apparent death of Lincoln at the respected hands of the Times, hints that he still lives have kept popping up. One observer told Wiley: "I saw him north of Maku (Northern India). He's running a line of agents over the Russian border."

Wiley himself won't concede that the Lincoln legend is over. "Bob Lincoln may be just as active as he ever was. He could turn up anywhere, any time," he says solemnly.

Should Robert Throckmorton Lincoln rise again, he will carry with him a weapon democracy may have underestimated in the battle for survival: a sense of humor.

PARADE VACATION

FASHION SHOW finds Dawn Weaver, 9, matching pedal pushers against clothes worn by students at Pennsylvania one-room school. The six belong to four different sects.

Are the legends about Pennsylvania's

WITCHCRAFT

by ED KIESTER

LANCASTER, PA.

A tightly knit band of Americans in this area has been the subject of one Broadway play, one hit musical and some of the most wildly exaggerated folklore ever spread. According to legend, Pennsylvania's "plain people" believe in bundling, witchcraft and such customs as painting gates blue to show a daughter is of marrying age.

None of these beliefs, as the Jim Weaver family learned on a recent visit here, is true. Jim, Sara and 9-year-old Dawn had heard of the "plain people" — just as you may have — and decided to include a two-day stopover here in their vacation travels. They came away with a valuable lesson about America, a nation where people can live according to their own beliefs.

They're Out of Step

By modern American standards, the "plain people" are out of step. Basically, the Weavers learned, there are three groups — Amish (pronounced "Umish" here), Mennonites and Dunkards, and each has its own splinter sects. (Contrary to notion, they are only a fraction of the Pennsylvania "Dutch," 90 per cent of whom are not plain.) By group and by sect, beliefs vary widely on such matters as dress, AMISH PATRIARCH wears typical garb: broad-brimmed hat, black suit, beard.

STEEP ROOFS mark restored buildings of Ephrata Cloister, home of an 18th-century communal religious colony, being visited above by Dawn Weaver and parents, Jim and Sara.

'plain people' true?

and BUNDLING

work, electricity, cars and telephones. The so-called "black bumper" Mennonites, for instance, drive cars but cover the chrome trim.

All agree on avoiding worldliness, which can mean keeping up with the Joneses. And probably the most conservative of all is the Old Order Amish. This is the sect which prohibits members from using autos, tractors, telephones or electricity. Men let their hair grow and raise beards, and wear broad-brimmed hats and 18th-century clothes without buttons. Women shun makeup and wear bonnets with pinafore-type black dresses.

But if the "plain people" shut out worldliness, they do not shut out the world. The Weavers found them warm, friendly and hospitable. Rarely did a horse-drawn Amish buggy or market wagon roll by without a cordial wave from driver and passengers.

In Intercourse, a small town east of Lancaster where Amish life centers, carriage-maker John Lapp took the family on a tour of his shop, explaining in detail how buggies are assembled and finished. (Twelve coats of lacquer are tediously applied by hand.)

Jacob and Mary Carper, of Manheim, a Mennonite couple, invited the Weavers to a chicken pot-pie dinner.

Mennonite children welcomed the family at Maple Grove school and played games with Dawn. An Amish farmer in a brilliant green shirt (Amish love bright colors) left his fields to chat about the tobacco crop.

Off the Beaten Track

Getting close to the "plain people" took the Weavers off the beaten tourist track. Jim, a printer, is a tall, easy-going type with a quick grin and a knack for making friends. Sara smiles easily and their daughter is lively.

"We like this kind of vacation," Jim says. "We like to get out and meet people and find out what they're like. We want Dawn to meet people all over the country."

If you should want to follow in the Weavers' footsteps, you, too, should stick to back roads and ask questions. (A tip: Don't take your camera. Amish consider photos graven images.) A good starting place is Intercourse, on State Route 23. Zimmerman's store there is the Amish focal point.

If you wish, you can buy a guidebook of the area for 50¢. The Hotel Brunswick, in Lancaster, offers half-day tours (price: $4.90), week-end visits ($39.95, including tours, rooms and meals) and private guide service.

"I SOLD IT... recommended it because the name it has made for itself tells me it's one of the best, most up-to-date products in its field. In fact, a good brand name is the best guarantee my customers can have when they buy. And for me, too... I know they'll buy it again."

"I BOUGHT IT... because it's an advertised brand I can trust completely. I just won't risk my family's welfare on some product I don't know anything about—even when they say it's 'just as good.' I feel safer, somehow, when I stick to a brand I know I can depend on."

Spiking tobacco, a whole Amish family pitches in to help in the fields.

"Plain" playmate leapfrogs Dawn (second from l.) during visit to one-room school. Building houses 30 students in grades one through six.

VACATION continued

The Amish Farm and House (admission 65¢, children 25¢), on U.S. 30 east of here, is a real Amish household.

Each year on the July 4 week end, Pennsylvania Dutch both plain and "fancy" gather at Kutztown, 40 miles north of here, for the Pennsylvania Dutch Folk Festival. And you can get more information on the whole area by writing Pennsylvania Dutch Tourist Bureau, Chamber of Commerce Bldg., Lancaster, Pa.

Of course, as the Weavers found out, this area includes more than the "plain people." Lancaster County is steeped in history. Both the Conestoga wagon, which opened the Western prairies to settlers, and the so-called Kentucky rifle were born here. Originals of both are on exhibit at the Landis Valley Farm Museum, which the Weavers visited. The family also toured "Wheatlands," home of James Buchanan, our 15th President.

Shoo-fly Pie for Breakfast

There are quaint towns like Lititz, founded by Moravians, and Ephrata, home of a Seventh Day Baptist sect in the 1700s. The latter's settlement (see photo) has been restored.

And there's the food, for which the Pennsylvania Dutch are justly famous. Although every housewife does not serve seven sweets and seven sours at each meal (another bit of folklore), the Weavers found good food in quantity.

One of the days they enjoyed most, they agreed afterwards, was their visit to Lancaster's Central Market, where "plain people" and other farmers sell fresh farm produce. Visiting the market early on a Saturday, Jim sampled shoo-fly pie, the local dessert made of cake crumbs and molasses and baked in a pie shell. It's sticky but tasty.

But most of all the Weavers remembered the people. A Mennonite school teacher told them: "We're not much different from anyone else. All we want is to be able to live the way we want to. Isn't that what this country is all about?"

Amish wagons stand side by side at hitching rail provided by a department store. Amish, particularly boys, are proud of their horses. Here the Weavers make friends with two of them.

15 ways to save money on your vacation

This year most vacationers want to stretch their vacation budgets. Can you do it and still have a trip worth taking? Here are 15 tips that can help you cut costs and still enjoy yourself:

1 Plan carefully. Haphazard, "pot-luck" trips are the most costly. Make a vacation schedule, basing it on economical stops and attractions, and stick to it as closely as possible.

2 Try something different. One suggestion: a college town. Many are attractive, close to resorts. Example: Ithaca, site of Cornell U., on New York's Lake Cayuga.

3 Capitalize on free offerings. Your state capital often is rich in history. Industries offer free tours. National and state parks are top bargains.

4 Do some work yourself. "Housekeeping" cottages and cabins cut food bills — though Mom must prepare meals, tidy up. A good trick is to cook only breakfast, eat other meals out.

5 Try camping. Take gear from home — old utensils, blankets. Campsites seldom cost more than 50¢ a night.

6 Pack a picnic basket. You can do this every day — there are plenty of wayside parks. Even the first day's lunch, brought from home, can save a family of four $5 and up.

7 Have a car checkup. Breakdowns later can mean expensive towing fees or repair charges far from home.

8 Travel off-season if possible. June is the thrift month on Cape Cod, midsummer in Florida, early fall in many beach resorts. Shape your plans to take advantage of these bargains.

9 Stop early in the day. An hour's difference — a 3 p.m. stop instead of 4 — can mean your choice of motels, hotels and tourist homes.

10 Drive at a moderate speed. You don't have to be told this will lessen wear and tear on the car. And 50 mph instead of 70 saves about one gallon of gasoline in four.

11 Take advantage of the outdoors. Fishing licenses are cheap. A walk in the woods costs nothing. This can be your year to get in touch with Nature — a real bargain.

12 Pick commercial attractions carefully. Gardens, caves, historical shrines — they must be good to compete with free attractions. But watch out for free "gimmicks" — zoos, for example — that may have you spending money before you know it.

13 Budget your money. A family of four can figure an average of $29 daily, but you can cut that by planning. A daily record of spending will help.

14 Buy practical souvenirs. Cheap trinkets look enticing along the way, but you probably can get the same thing at home — for less.

15 Let Mom handle the money. If she can squeeze full value out of her grocery dollar, she can do it on the road — and guarantee a more economical, enjoyable trip for all of you.

WASHINGTON, D.C.

In addition to its art treasures, the National Gallery of Art here has a new attraction: an invisible guide. As shown in the photos on these pages, gallery-goers take advantage of it by listening to 10-minute tape-recorded lectures over vest-pocket radios that rent for 25¢ a day.

Ten rooms are wired for sound. When the visitor steps over the threshold of each, his radio picks up a lecture keyed to certain numbered pictures in that room. Lectures continue all day, each recommencing with Picture No. 1 as a series concludes.

The electronic guide has made a big hit with the public, and the Gallery's 200 radios are in constant demand. Art lovers, the Gallery finds, are honest folk. To date, nobody has walked off with a radio set.

RECEIVER can be clamped to ear or held. Brief talks, recorded by various experts, supplement regular art lectures.

A new springtime dessert

by BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

RHUBARB IS AT its very best this month and strawberries are here to keep it company. Together they offer incomparable flavor and beautiful color. Teamed in today's recipe for Strawberry-Rhubarb Roly-Poly, they make an old favorite new.

To save preparation time, you start with a mix—but add sour cream and a bit of baking soda to give the biscuit dough added richness and the crumbly texture of grandma's "saleratus" biscuits. And since old-fashioned cobblers were likely to be a bit soggy, this recipe keeps the sauce separate until serving time. Altogether, it's a dessert to be served with pride and pleasure.

In tune with the springtime theme, begin the menu with clear chicken broth. For the main course, serve shoulder lamb chops, creamy whipped potatoes, fresh asparagus and tomato aspic salad.

- | | |
|---------------------|---------------------------------|
| 1 cup sugar | 1 lb. rhubarb, cut in 1" pieces |
| ½ cup water | ½ teaspoon baking soda |
| 2 cups strawberries | 2 cups biscuit mix |
| | 1 cup sour cream (about) |

Combine sugar and water in saucepan; stir over low heat until sugar dissolves. Cook 5 minutes. Add 1 cup strawberries and half the rhubarb; simmer until fruit is soft. Drain well, saving sirup. Add baking soda to biscuit mix. Stir in enough sour cream to make a soft dough. Roll out in oblong shape ¼" thick on lightly floured board. Spread with drained fruit. Cut crosswise in slices 1½" to 2" thick. Bake on greased baking sheet or shallow pan in hot oven (425°) 20 minutes, or until golden brown. Meanwhile heat sirup; add remaining rhubarb; cook until rhubarb is tender. Remove from heat; add remaining strawberries. Serve with Roly-Poly. Makes six servings.

Four great discoveries that saved a life

Here's how to gauge the real value of medical research

by PAUL DUDLEY WHITE, M. D.

BOSTON, MASS.

Despite all that is said and written about medical research, many people still fail to understand its importance. To some, its meaning is vague. To others, it is mysterious. To still others, the white-coated men and women laboring in laboratories seem remote, their work too complicated to follow.

True, years of research may uncover only a fragment of knowledge. In itself, this is unexciting. It does not make a good headline. Even when such fragments are put together and lives are saved, the part research played may get lost in the shuffle.

Yet I believe there is a simple way to pinpoint the importance of research — by showing what it has meant to one American now living. Let's call him Robert Morse. His life was saved, like those of countless others, by magnificent progress against heart and blood-vessel disease — the leading cause of death in the United States.

I first saw Robert Morse in the summer of 1940 when he was a boy of 14. Examination revealed heart murmurs, high blood pressure. More important, there was a narrowing of the aorta, the great artery through which blood is delivered from the heart to other parts of the body. When this defect is present, it occurs at birth, but may not be discovered for several years. Only since the 1930s has it been diagnosed with a high degree of accuracy.

In 1940, nothing could be done for this condition — although it was generally recognized as a hazardous one. For the next five years, Morse was examined regularly and little change was found in his overall health. Then, in 1946, doctors here in Boston and in Stockholm devised an operation to correct the arterial defect. Morse was later to profit from this discovery.

For three more years he went along without need for treatment. But one day he fell ill. He felt fatigue, chills, fever and pain. It was obvious that he had an infection which endangered his life. In previous years this infectious disease was almost invariably fatal.

Drugs — Then Surgery

However, research had turned up ways to combat the disease. Morse's life was saved by massive doses of penicillin and chloromycetin, two widely used antibiotic drugs.

Two years later surgical techniques and knowledge had improved. It became possible for Dr. Robert Gross, the eminent Boston surgeon, to attempt to repair the defect of Morse's aorta.

The surgery was extremely delicate, truly a formidable task. It took 10½ hours. Dr. Gross successfully inserted a blood-vessel graft about 6 inches long. This served to replace the narrowed area of the artery and also a good-sized aneurysm (a stretched, balloon-like area of the vessel) which had developed through the years. Use of the artery graft was made possible by improvement in tech-

DON'T LET CONSTIPATION ADD TO YOUR WORRIES!

As distressing as constipation can be in "normal" people without special conditions or illnesses, chronic irregularity can be extremely aggravating—even dangerous—in some cases. If you are on the list, you've probably been cautioned already by your own physician, to avoid harsh laxatives and purgatives. Your doctor may have indicated concern about the stress that goes with constipation (particularly in cardiac, high blood pressure, and similar cases), and he may already have recommended SARAKA. SARAKA works naturally, effectively, the way nature intended your system to work—gently, smoothly, without stress or harshness. SARAKA is easy and pleasant to take, after meals or before bed. In eleven years, more than 1,900,000,000 DOLCIN tablets have been used. DOLCIN® must be good! If pains persist, check with your doctor.

niques of storing vessel parts in blood-vessel "banks."

Robert Morse recovered rapidly and has returned to a fully normal life. In the years that have followed, he has been entirely well. He was married in 1955. When I last saw him, he showed me a photo of his 6-month-old baby. He is working full-time and pursues leisure activities—such as golf—without difficulties.

This dramatic story illustrates the particular value of medical research in the field of cardiovascular disease and surgery. For Robert Morse was saved by four great research accomplishments. The four are spread over the fields of diagnosis, medical treatment and surgery. Let's take them in order.

Remember the Robert Morses

First, his deformity was diagnosed as a result of research carried out in the 1930s.

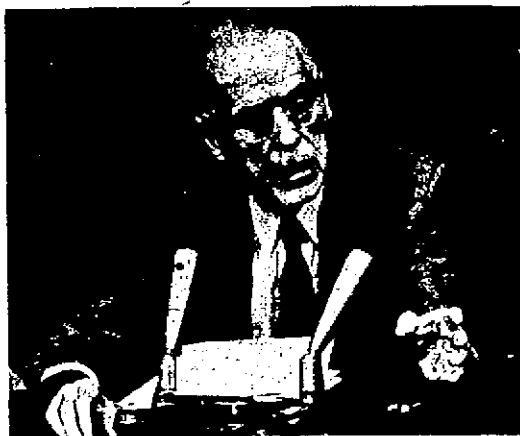

Second, the cure for his infectious disease—which doctors know as subacute bacterial endocarditis and endarteritis—came as a result of research in the 1940s.

Third, the surgical approach to his arterial defect also was the end-product of painstaking research.

Fourth, the successful operation was made possible by the development of an adequate blood-vessel bank.

This case is unusual, of course. But it offers dramatic evidence of accomplishment through research. There are uncounted other patients who have benefited from these and similar findings of the medical researchers through the years.

So, the next time you wonder about the value of research, stop for a moment and remember Robert Morse. Remember, too, the others whose stories are similar. I think you'll agree that if only Robert Morse had benefited from heart-disease research, the result would be worth the effort.

THE AUTHOR: At 71, Dr. White probably is the nation's best-known physician, thanks partly to his service as President Eisenhower's special consultant following the President's heart attack. In practice almost 50 years, he is a founder and past president of the American Heart Association.

How can choosing this man mean greater security for you and your family?

This man is an independent, self-employed insurance specialist. He is free to select for you the best insurance policy for your car, home, or business out of hundreds offered by different, competing insurance companies. He gives you continuing service—advises you after you buy insurance as well as before. And you don't have to worry about red tape when you have a claim—he takes care of everything.

You can't get all of these advantages when you buy insurance directly from a casualty or fire insurance company. You must buy the policies that company offers, which may or may not be the right coverage for you. And when you have a loss, you may have to deal with the company—with people you probably have never met.

How can you be sure you are dealing with an independent insurance agent? Look for this seal before you buy insurance. Only an independent agent can display it.

Show business is becoming a man's world...

WHERE ARE THE GIRLS?

by LLOYD SHEARER

HOLLYWOOD.

Has America become anti-female? What's happened to the women entertainers in show business? Why are the girls no longer as popular as they used to be?

Three nation-wide polls reveal that, as entertainers, girls definitely are the weaker sex. According to the Nielsen Poll, no television series in the top 10 has a girl in the lead. The Motion Picture Herald survey shows that last year, for the first time in history, not one movie actress made the first 10 in box-office appeal. Of the 10 top-selling record albums in the nation, not one is by a woman. Nor has a girl singer had the best-selling single record in years.

Why? This is what show-business executives want to find out.

One answer is that female audiences today control in large degree the television dial and the entertainment dollar. Robert Sarnoff, president of NBC, recently acknowledged this. He added that, as a result, he is increasing the number of women in his network. "Right now," he points out, "we employ 5,400 people, 30 per cent of whom are women working as producers, writers, editors, directors, publicists and artists. We plan to hire as many as possible to give us the necessary woman's slant."

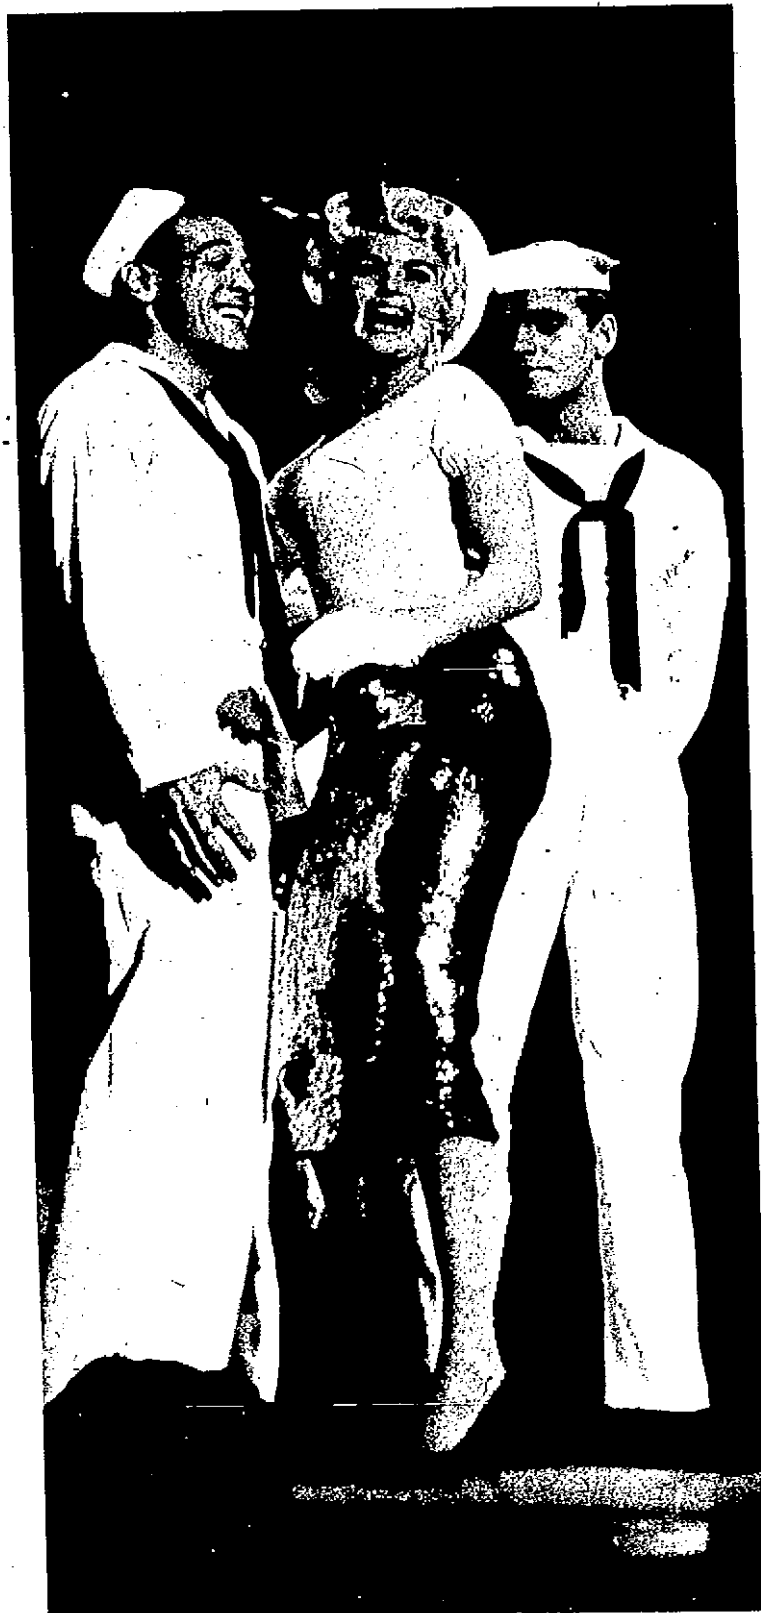

"The reason women entertainers are on the wane," says veteran film director Raoul Walsh, "is a simple numerical fact. In today's market, most moviegoers, record-buyers and TV-watchers are women or girls. They'd rather look at and listen to men. Why? Because they find men more fascinating, more interesting. It's the age-old theory of nature — opposites attract."

Yet years ago Greta Garbo, Betty Grable, Marilyn Monroe, Ingrid Bergman and other female stars were ranked in the first 10. The Andrews Sisters, Connie Boswell, Kate Smith and Doris Day sold records by the carload. What about that?

Not Enough Movies?

Mel Shavelson, Paramount producer, says, "They're just not making girls like they used to." Shavelson claims that girls in show business used to be more glamorous, industrious and talented. "Nowadays," he says, "it's a rarity when a genuinely talented actress comes along. Look at Audrey Hepburn. How many like her do you find? And even when you do, we're not making enough motion pictures to popularize her. In the 1930s and '40s, they'd take a girl like Jean Harlow and throw her into five or six pictures a year. Today that's almost half the total output of a major studio. It's difficult to build female stars with inadequate exposure."

Hollywood press agents declare in refutation that exposure isn't too important in making new stars. "Acceptability is the key," says NBC press executive Bill Stein. "Girls like Gisele Mackenzie, Jeannie Carson, Eve Arden, Polly Bergen, Joan Caulfield — they got all the exposure possible on television, yet their shows were canceled, or will be. I don't think television has made one female star in its 10 years of existence."

JAYNE MANSFIELD, shown here in her night-club act at Las Vegas, has physical appeal to men. Resistance of women audiences, however, limits her popularity.

GIRLS continued

Today's audiences are mostly women
who like Elvis better than Ekberg

"There are two reasons. First, the TV audience is mostly female and doesn't like competing against women entertainers. Second, people today are more sophisticated than they were 10 or 20 years ago. Back then, you could take Greta Garbo and Betty Grable and promote them into tremendous attractions. Today, people won't buy that nonsense."

Other press agents point out that the public is now conditioned to view Hollywood claims with skepticism. "You can publicize girls like Jayne Mansfield, Anita Ekberg and Sophia Loren 24 hours a day," says one publicist, "and it means nothing at the box office. These girls come under the heading of freak attractions. Once you've seen their figures in a magazine, you've seen almost everything they have to offer."

Not Enough New Faces?

Hollywood executives are quick to point out that women in show business usually last as long as their beauty. Irene Dunne, Myrna Loy, Claudette Colbert, Paulette Goddard are all cases in point. "Hollywood's big fault," says producer Jerry Wald, "was in not finding replacements. When TV came along the studios panicked. They dropped their big-name actresses and didn't develop new ones. Now the name actresses are getting on in years, and we have to scrounge around for replacements. The shortage of top-flight female talent is just temporary."

Many show-business observers feel strongly, however, that female attractions will continue to decline in popularity as women become more powerful in the U.S. economy. A leading theatrical agent, who prefers to remain nameless because he handles many actresses, told PARADE: "Nowadays, more women are working than ever before. Fully one-third of all married women work. They control their own money. This includes the entertainment dollar. It's not the men who've raised Elvis Presley, Pat Boone, Tommy Sands and the other singers to popularity. It's the girls and women who think these boys are cute. And in this day and age, it's the women who make the stars."

What does it all boil down to? The late Louis B. Mayer, MGM mogul, used to say, "I hear so much about Greta Garbo and what a wonderful actress she was. The plain truth is that Mickey Rooney made more money for us at the box office. More women like men than women." Which about sums it up.

THE OJIBWAY INDIANS, FOR INSTANCE, SAY THAT THE BIRD IS A SPY FOR THE DREADED WENDIGO, A MYTHICAL MONSTER, WHO LIES IN WAIT FOR LONE HUNTERS

BUT TO THE EARLY LOGGERS THE "WHISKEY JACK" AS THEY CALLED HIM, WAS THE REINCARNATED SOUL OF SOME DEAD LUMBERMAN

THE JAY HIMSELF, HOWEVER, UNAWARE OF HIS REPUTATION AMONG MEN, IS MERELY A PANHANDLER...
